One of the greatest characters in all human history comes before us today in the person of Abraham. He is venerated by Christian, Jew, and Mohammedan alike. His personal history is replete with interest and instruction. But his claim to an outstanding place in history is broader than any of these things, for he was the one by whom God called out a nation for himself and began his dealings in sovereign grace which continue to our day. In choosing Abraham God began the history of the Jewish people, his chosen nation. They were called by him to be not only a national witness to the one true God, but also to be the repository for his truth (the Holy Scriptures) in the earth, and, above all, to be the channel for the coming of the Redeemer to the earth.

Our lesson, however, centers on the faith of Abraham. As the Golden Text (Heb. 11:8) indicates, it was by faith that Abraham responded to the call of God. That call came to him in his father's house in Mesopotamia (Acts 7:2, 3). His partial obedience brought delay at Haran (Gen. 11:31), and wasted years, but in Genesis 12 we find his complete obedience and resultant blessing.

The study of faith is always fascinating. Faith is the thing in man that pleases God. He is quick to honor our trust in Him. Unbelief shuts the door not only to blessing, but also to usefulness.

I. Faith Calls for Separation, Obedience, and Worship.

1. Separation (Gen. 12:1). "Get thee out" was God's command to Abraham. It is his command to his followers today. "Come out from among them and be ye separate, saith the Lord" (II Cor. 6:17). This is the crying need of the church in our day. Instead of the church's being in the world seeking to win it for Christ, the world has come into the church and destroyed much of its vital testimony.

2. Obedience (Gen. 12:4,5). "So Abram departed, as the Lord had spoken." Faith obeys God, without question, without hesitation, and without reservation. We need a revival of obedience in the home, in society, and in our relation to God.

3. Worship (Gen. 12:7, 13-18). "There builded he an altar unto the Lord." Faith in God is far more than the psychologist's preachment of self-confidence. It results in fellowship with God, reliance upon him, not on one's own strength of personality. Faith worships God.

II. Faith Results in Blessing, Protection, and Liberty.

1. Blessing (12:2,3). "I will bless," said God. "The Lord's commands are rarely accompanied with reasons, but they are always accompanied with promises, either expressed or understood."

In the case of Abraham the promise was not only to him, and to the nation of which he was the father, but to "all families of the earth." That promise was fulfilled in the coming of Christ to earth to be our Redeemer (Matt. 1:1).

2. Protection (12:3). "I will . . . curse him that curseth thee." That promise to the seed of Abraham is still true. The nations have forgotten it in their hatred of the Jew, but God has not forgotten. The promise is equally true in the case of those who follow Christ, "the son of Abraham." His protecting hand is over us even in the dark hour when it looks as though the hosts of Satan had conquered.

3. Liberty (13:14-17). "All the land. . . will I give." After many and varied experiences in which Abraham proves God's grace and power, he comes out into a place of unlimited liberty.

The man who boasts of his "personal liberty," who feels that he is free from the "bondage of religion," is in fact a slave to the enemy of his soul. And the man who becomes "the bondslave of Jesus Christ," he alone is free. None is more fettered than he who shouts "I am the captain of my fate. I am the master of my soul." And none is so free as he who can say, "Christ is the Captain of my fate, the Master of my soul."

Deciding What Not to Do

Men must decide on what they will not do, and then they are able to act with vigor in what they ought to do.—Mencius.

God's Way

God can act where we cannot even think, out of resources that we know nothing about.

Strength of Character

He who is firm and resolute in will moulds the world to himself. —Goethe.

The Crittenden Kiwanis club is sponsoring the growing of strawberries by high school students. A business man furnished 1,000 plants to a boy, and is to receive as pay a crate of No. 1 berries. Twenty-five men are supporting the project.

The Northern Kentucky Rural Letter Carriers Association and the Ladies' Auxiliary will meet in the Y. M. C. A. building in Covington, Saturday, May 1st at 7:30 p. m. (E. S. T.)

WORK ON FAIR GROUND PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

Anyone who viewed The Dearborn County Fair Grounds after the flood and visited the same now can hardly believe even after seeing, the progress that has been made. With the roofing this week of The Poultry Building, the three Exhibit Buildings have been completed. The Art Hall has been enlarged, now measuring 30 by 80 feet. A new floor has been layed suitablefordancing.

Erection has been started on the Auto Shed in its new location. The forms for the first of four 26 stall horse stables have been poured. Following the completion of these projects, attention will be given to the stock sheds.

Hundreds of visitors from three States have visited the grounds and all were loud in their praise of the new arrangements of the buildingss, which will make when completed one of the finest midways of any County Fair. All indications point to one of the biggest and best fairs in the history of The Legion-operated Fair.

Kirtley; vice presidnt, Mrs. Orin Edwards; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Noel Walton; Publicity Chairman, Mrs. Ruben Kirtley.

DIET SPECIALISTS TO MEET APRIL 2-3

Dietetians of the State will come together April 2-3 at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture for the annual meeting of the Kentucky Dietetic Association. With Miss Florence Imlay, foods Specialist for the agricultural college, in charge, the program will consist of demonstrations, exhibits, and talks by nutrition experts and physicians.

Out-of-state speakers will include Miss Lute Troutt, Bloomington, Ind., president of the American Dietetic Association, who will discuss phases of the work of the national association; Dr. Marietta Eichelberger, Chicago, famous nutrition expert, who will talk of recent trends in the field; Miss Inez Wilson, Chicago, who will discuss meat buying, and Dr. Chi Chi Wang, Cincinnati, who will tell of studies relating to child health.

During the past year, work has been conducted in the fields of administration, diet therapy, community education and professional education by committees headed by Mrs. Nellie Bandeen, Louisville, Kentucky Baptist Hospital; Mrs. Marie Wiggington, Louisville, Norton Infirmary; Miss Edith Grundmeier, Lexington, of the University of Kentucky home economics department, and Dr. Statie E. Erikson, Lexington, head of the university home economics department.

Students of Pikeville College in Pike county planted 30 shade tree slips as a demonstration unit.

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB NEWS

club member, has joined the ranks of fine tobacco growers by a production of 1,560 pounds on one acre of land. The sale price was $925. Total costs, including land, rent, labor, etc., were slightly less than 7 cents per pound.

Todd County boys who carried the baby beef project last year seemed to make the best club members, and as a result, the most money. Twenty-two bought beef cows for $70 or less each, in comparison with only 7 who owned cows last year.

James Pinson, of Pike county, bought 200 baby chicks at a rate made especially low for 4-H club members. Pike county expects to have not less than 1,000 club members when the sign-up is completed, and to organize several new clubs.

Forty Angus calves, weighing a total of 18,880 pounds, were bought by Hart county club members at 9 cents per pound, or $1,699. Seventeen members bought the calves which were imported recently from Mexico.

Hatching quail in cooperation with the county game organization will be a project of Gallatin county Utopia club members. How to secure and hatch quail was explained to them by Lem Bledsoe, Jr., president of the local game organization.

A popcorn project has been started by Breathitt county members, with every boy who selects the project raising ¼ acre. Another project arousing special interest is that of purebred pigs, with Morris Fork boys leading in the number bought.

Farm records to be kept by club members, as well as adults, have attracted 15 Garrard county boys. The International Harvester Company is sponsoring a contest in record keeping, and already inventories have bee ntaken by those participating.

Bobby Fuson, of Noetown club, Bell county, was the county's champion corn grower last year, producing 71½ bushels on an acre. In 1934 he grew 127 bushels on an acre, one of the largest yields on record in the state.

VARIED ROOF TYPES FOR MODERN HOMES

The roof is a very important part of the house both in regard to architectural beauty and to maintenance expense. There are many types of roofing, ranging from wood shingle to heavy tile.

Certain types of shingles offer many years of usage and require virtually no upkeep as regards painting or repairs. Some of these materials are available. Some of materials are available for exterior walls.

A house with a flat roof should be constructed so that it may be used, if desired, as a sun deck or roof terrace. The Federal Housing Administration program provides for the insurance of home mortgages.

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB NEWS

J. W. Whitehouse, Kentucky state 4-H club leader, has been notified by W. J. Wright, club leader in New York, that club members in that state have poultry and other livestock to give to Kentucky boys and girls who lost stock in the flood.

The cow and calf project will receive increased attention among Todd county club members. Already 21 boys own cows and will develop breeding herds. The soundness of this type of livestock raising is attracting county-wide attention.

Caldwell county livestock projects include sending stock to the annual lamb show and sale at Evansville, Ind., in June and swine show and sale in August, to the State Fair at Louisville in September and to the fat cattle show at the Bourbon Stock ards in November.

Several water reservoirs are under construction in Nicholas county.

ANNOUNCES
SPECIAL CLINIC
MAY 3RD TO MAY 8TH INCLUSIVE
I am installing in my office the latest development in diagnosis known as the Radioclast or Human Radio. A special Technician from the Research Laboratories will assist me during this clinic.
Owing to the time required, only a limited number can be accommodated. We therefore urge you to telephone or write early for your appointment.
This modern invention is the result of fourteen years of development and research. It is a precision instrument accurately calibrated, designed for the purpose of measuring the electrical balance of the organs and glands of the body. It is based upon the principle that the human body is an electro-chemical phenomena, and that each tissue has a characteristic vibratory rate. Health results as long as each tissue maintains its normal vibratory rate, while the slightest change sooner or later leads to disease. The Radioclast is so sensitive that it detects any change occurring in the tissue, and thus locates disease, even in its earliest stage.

RED CARNATION
The Belgian stallion, Red Carnation, will stand at the stable of J. M. Eddins in Burlington, for eight weeks beginning April 21.
Red Carnation is a sure breeder and a proven sire. His colts are here to show, look them over. The beautiful sorrel color with white face and feet, is hard to beat. Red is himself an excellent work horse, a fine prerequisite for a sire of work horses. Anytime he is out of the stud come and see him in harness.
HE WILL STAND AT $10.00
To insure a living foal. Season due when colt is foaled or mare parted with. Care will be taken to prevent accidents, but not responsible should any occur. Call or see J. M. Eddins for dates.

THE FARM AND HOME

(Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station)

One way to increase the use of vegetables by members of the family is to grow more kinds in the home garden. While the average garden contains only a half-dozen vegetables, it should include at least a dozen, and many more kinds could be grown.

Pillows can be washed without removing the feathers. Souse them in lukewarm suds, or put them in a washing machine. After rinsing several times in warm water, hang them on a line in the sun and wind. It is better to remove feathers from beds, before washing.

Care is needed in giving salt to any animal, especially if it has not had salt regularly. Special care is required in the case of hogs, which are reather easily killed with pure salt, brine or other substances highly salted.

For vegetables, most fertilizers give best results when applied at each side of the row, or around each plant, as in the case of tomatoes. Care is needed to prevent over-use of fertilizer in this method, and it should be placed at least 2 inches from the plants.

Unpainted buildings are usually given two coats of paint, the first being mostly oil and the second regular paint. Two thin coats are better than one thick coat or even two thick coats. Cracked, blistered or peeling paint should be brushed or scraped from old surfaces.

Black rot and mildew, two of the most troublesome diseases of grapes, may be controlled by spraying with Bordeaux mixture. The first spray is put on when the new growth is about an inch long, another about two weeks later, and a third when the bloom is nearly complete.

When the grocer's boy shows up at your back door loaded down with tempting, out-of-season vegetables, fine quality canned goods, fresh meats and other delicacies—ten to one you never dream that your neighbor, the L & N has a hand in the delivery.

Actually, though, back of every food delivery to millions of people, there's the high speed, safe and sure L & N freight service. Thousands of cars iced up to keep green goods crisp and garden-fresh—thousands more packed to capacity with all manner of good things—flash across the country 24 hours a day. Thousands of alert, fast-working, careful employees bring order out of the maze of shipments—to make sure that your food arrives on time—in perfect condition.

Delivering groceries is just one of the hundred ways in which the L & N works to be of service—and that's being a good neighbor, don't you think?

AUDITOR SHANNON ORDERED TO JAIL

Frankfort, Ky., April 27—State Auditor Ernest Shannon was committed to jail today by Circuit Judge William B. Ardery for failure to honor a $750 fund request submitted by Kelly C. Smither, Franklin Circuit Court clerk. Judge Ardery did not allow Mr. Shannon an opportunity to submit any defense. Mr. Shannon was committed to jail until 12 o'clock, when he will be returned to Judge Ardery's court.

The contempt rule against Mr. Shannon grew out of the auditor's failure to advance Smither additional funds until proper settlements of pass advancements had been made. When asked by Judge Ardery why he had not paid Mr. Smither's claim, Mr. Shannon said the attorney general says "I don't have to pay in such circumstances."

Judge Ardery replied: "The attorney general does not pass upon my official rulings. The Court of Appeals does that and my decision is the law in this case."

Thereupon he ordered Mr. Shannon to jail until noon.

LAST OF SECOND SERIES OF ACP MEETINGS HELD IN BURLINGTON SATURDAY

The last of the second series of ACP meeting to explain the 1937 farm program was held last Saturday night at Burlington Court House, according to David Colville, Assistant County Agent.

These meeting were for the purpose of explaining the class 2 payments or allowance and how it may be earned.

As a result of these meeting 198 farmers have ordered 158 tons of 43% triple superphosphate for application on legumes and grasses.

The only cash outlay to farmers is for the freight and handling charges at the car. Next fall deductions will be made from their soil building allowance at the rate of $32.25 per ton. Any farmer who is interested in sowing phosphate is urged to call at the County Agent's office as soon as possible and order this fertilizer.

Farmers expecting to use phosphate this spring or fall should file their orders immediately. There is a possibility of a shortage and deliveries are being made much slower than when orders were first received.

HEBRON TO GIVE PLAY

Following the precedent of last year's class which gave a literary play, the Hebron class of '37 will present the evenings of May 6 and 7, "Tom Sawyer," taken from the well-known book by Mark Twain.

On those evenings, Tom Sawyer, Huck Finn, Aunt Polly and all the other familiar characters will come to life again.

200 PASTORS ATTEND STATE SHORT COURSE

Two hundred pastors from 48 counties and representing 11 denominations attended the annual short course for town and country pastors and lay leaders at the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

Many of them attended on scholarships furnished by state and national denominational boards; others were sent by their own churches, and in other instances city churches provided for the expenses of one or more country pastors.

Guest lecturers for the week were Dr. Leonard Riggleman, president of Morris Harvey College, Charleston, W. Va., and Dr. B. L. Hummel, Virginia sociologist. Prominent Kentucky pastors, educators and leaders also spoke during the week, discussing many phases of the country church and its relation to community welfare.

A committee of Western Kentucky pastors petitioned the College of Agriculture to hold a two-day course at the Western Kentucky Experiment Substation, and pastors from the eastern counties asked for a similar course to be held in that section of the state.

The short course was sponsored by the Kentucky Rural Church Council, of which Dr. W. V. Cropper, Lexington, is president, and the College of Agriculture, through its department of farm economics, headed by Dr. W. D. Nicholls.

MAY 2 TO BE OBSERVED AS RURAL LIFE SUNDAY

Rural Life Sunday this year falls on May 2, and will be observed throughout Kentucky and the nation, with special programs in town and country churches and some city churches. In Kentucky observance of Rural Life Sunday is sponsored by the Rural Church Council, the state organization working in behalf of better town and country churches.

From the Memorial Building on the campus of the University of Kentucky at Lexington will be broadcast a special radio program from 8:30 to 9 a. m., central time. The speaker will be the Hon. Frederick A. Wallis of Paris, state commissioner of public welfare. Special music for the occasion will be furnished by the University of Kentucky Choristers directed by Miss Mildred Lewis. The radio program may be heard over WHAS.

This will be the eight year that Rural Life Sunday has been observed in Kentucky.

4,000,000th FORD V-8 BUILT AT ROUGE PLANT

Another million mark was passed recently by the Ford Motor Company when the 4,000,000th Ford V-8 engine was produced at the Rouge Plant.

This represents the building of 1,000,000 V-8's, both 60 and 85-horsepower, since May 29, 1936, only a little more than 10 months ago.

When the first Ford V-8 was produced on March 9, 1932, it introduced the V-type engine to the low-priced automobile field. Introduction of the 60-horsepower economy V-8 engine last fall provided still lanother innovation in the U. S. Motor world.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

J. H. Gibson of Little Cowan community, Letcher county, has been following a limestone and phosphate program for several years. Last winter he used 2,300 pounds of superphosphate on pasture land, and is planning to apply 1,000 pounds to five acres of alfalfa.

H. H. Winters of Boyd county, who is laying several thousand feet of drainage tile this spring, estimates tile increases land value as much as $75 an acre. Several other Boyd county farmers are planning to drain highly fertile bottom land.

Twelve Powell county farmers sowed alfalfa in March. H. C. Skidmore of Lombard community sowed nine acres, using six tons of limestone and 200 pounds of 44 per cent superphosphate to the acre. Korean lespedeza also was sowed this spring by several farmers.

Burned lime and marl are being substiuted for ground limestone in Casey county. Several beds of high testing marl have been found by County Agent M. H. Sasser, and some farmers burned two lime stacks during the winter.

Island of Malta Really Made Up of Five Islands

The Island of Malta, forming as it does the most strategic naval base in the Mediterranean and Britain's most formidable station on the short route to India, in reality consists of five islands, four of which could be contained in the largest, which gives the group its name and which has an area of slightly less than 100 square miles. Two are mere rocky pinnacles which are used for target practice by the British fleet. The others are inhabited and have been likened to the Three Bears with Malta on one side, Gozo, the middle-sized Bear on the other and Comino, the Little Bear in between.

Archealogically the islands present a pageant of western civilization from the dolmens of the Stone age to the most modern of naval bases; and the patois of the native Maltese is said to be the only remnant of the language of the Phoenicians, albeit it contains admixtures from the tongues of the Greeks, Romans, Saracens, Normans, Spaniards, French and English, who at various times have been the overlords. The remains of three temples built of great stone slabs attest the existence of pre-historic races, as do parallel tracks which have never been satisfactorily explained, but in solid rock and extending down into the sea. Gozo has been identified as the scene of Homer's legend of Ulysses and Calypso.

From tombs and other structures built by them it is estimated that the Phoenicians settled in Malta about 1000 B. C., supplanting a civilization comparable in some respects to the Minoan of ancient Crete, and later the islands were used as one of their bases by the Carthagenians in their disastrous wars with Rome.

"Commodity Dollar" Was Invented Many Years Ago

The "commodity dollar" was actually in use in Hingham a century ago, states a writer in the Boston Globe.

Manuscripts uncovered in the Watertown Public Library by the Federal Historical Sources Survey show that Hingham paid its minister on a commodity dollar basis in 1803. The minister was Rev. Henry Ware, afterward the first Hollis professor of divinity at Harvard.

Rev. Henry Ware went to Hingham in 1787 and the inference is that his salary was $500 a year, enough and plenty in a period of low prices. But during the late seventeen-nineties there had been a "very great demand and high prices for all the necessaries of life" and the minister was at his wits' end to make both ends meet, for his salary remained stationary.

The remedy adopted by the parish was to adjust his pay on the basis of the average prices of the great staples between 1787 and 1803, and this settlement of the problem was accepted by the minister.

Florence Nightingale Pledge

The wording of the Florence Nightingale pledge follows: "I solemnly pledge myself before God and in the presence of this assembly, to pass my life in purity, and to practice my profession faithfully. I will abstain from whatever is deleterious and mischievous, and will not take or knowingly administer any harmful drugs. I will do all in my power to elevate the standard of my profession, and I will hold in confidence all personal matters committed to my keeping, and all family affairs coming to my knowledge in the practice of my calling. With loyalty will I endeavor to aid the physician in his work and devote myself to the welfare of those committed to my care."

Happiness

The happiness of today is as important as the happiness of tomorrow. You cannot postpone your enjoyments and lump them in one mass to take them after you have gained a certain position or won a fortune. You must take them, if you take them at all, as you go along. The capacity to enjoy is not a constant element in human life. There comes a time when desire fails. A man may deliberately sacrifice his enjoyments and reap thereby great moral advantage, but he cannot postpone them.

Lavender Favorite Perfume

Lavender is one of the favorite perfumes the world over and enormous quantities of the dried flowers are used annually to make the perfume and other lavender products. The yield of oil varies from year to year depending on the weather and the age of the bushes. The plants are very tender to any frost. The oil has to be stored from three to five years before it is sufficiently matured for use in the perfumery and other trades.

Wasting Time

To learn never to waste your time is perhaps one of the most difficult virtues to acquire. A well-spent day is a source of pleasure. To be constantly employed and never asking, "What shall I do?" is the secret of much goodness and happiness. Begin, then, with promptitude, act decisively, persevere; if interrupted, be unruffled, finish it carefully—these will be the signs of a virtuous soul.

Gus and William Kalb of Lewisburg community, Mason county, terraced 40 acres of land in March, including two fields to be used to demonstrate the value of terraces. They are the first Mason county farmers to terrace on a large scale.

OLDHAM FARMERS SOW MORE ALFALFA

With nearly 7 percent of their crop land already in alfalfa, Oldham county farmers added large acreages this spring, says County Agent William B Howell. Several farmers sowed 20 to 40 acres each. Mr. Howell believes the county should have three times as much alfalfa as it now has, although it is one of the largest orchard grass counties in the state.

MAKES PIGS BIG IN SHORT TIME

Twelve hogs that averaged 206 pounds when sold at the age of 168 days, is the record made by Eugene Shuffett, a Green county farmer. County Agent H. H. Dickerson points out that they were raised on clean ground. The ration for the first two-thirds of the feeding period consisted of corn, wheat middlings and skimmilk. During the latter part of the period tankage was substiuted for milk.

HOMEMAKERS SPONSOR CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

Under the leadership of their home demonstration agent, Mary Lou Jackson ,members of homemakers' clubs in Ballard county have sponsored cleaning up 140 home grounds, the fertilizing of 50 lawns and the establishment of five demonstration rose gardens. Each demonstration garden will have at least five kinds of roses. Parent-teacher associations and homemakers clubs are cooperating in the landscaping of school grounds, and plan eventually to beautify all public grounds and roadsides in the county.

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB NEWS

Twenty calves and 29 sows are among livestock being raised by Breckinridge county club boys and girls this year. The calves were selected from 50 Angus animals brought in from Texas, and the sows brought within the state.

Owsley county boys will finish their first beef calves, plans including the purchase of at least 15 head. It is expected that the calves will not only return profits but demonstrate to farmers the value of good livestock.

Niagara club in Henderson county won a spelling bee, in competition with Indiana club teams, in a contest at Evansville. Activities in Henderson county include feeding three carloads of Hereford calves and several Angus calves.

The Mt. Vernon Commercial Club purchased 20 bushels of Johnson County White seed corn for Rockcastle county club members. Each boy will grow an acre using the best known methods, make exhibits of corn at a county fair, and continue in the project next year.

Admitting he had three wives, John Dikaus, of Sheffield, Eng., said he had been unable to work and needed support of some form.

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER

ESTABLISHED 1875

VOLUME 61 — BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, MAY 6, 1937 — NUMBER 51

WEATHER FORECAST
May 6 fair; May 7th fair and warmer; May 8th fair May 9 unsettled.

POOL WOOL TO SELL JUNE 8TH

ALL WOOL MUST BE LISTED WITH PRECINCT COMMITTEEMAN OR SECRETARY NOT LATER THAN MAY 27.

The Boone County Wool Pool will offer the county wool clip of approximately 50,000 pounds for sale on Tuesday, June 8th, according to H. E. White, president and Lillard Scott, secretary. All wool to be sold thru the pool must be listed with either the precinct committeeman or secretary not later than Thursday, May 27th to be included in the pool sale.

Growers met at the courthouse in Burlington on court day, Monday, May 3rd to set the date for the sale and complete plans for the sign-up. Most optimistic growers expressed hopes of 50 cents per pound or better this year which will be the highest price in many years. They reported wool, this year, of excellent quality as sheep came thru the winter in splendid shape. Committeemen present reported an approximate 100 percent sign-up in their communities.

Boone County wool nearly always brings a decided premium over the regular market price because of the excellent quality produced and the careful way growers handle their fleeces, keeping them as fre as possible from burs, tags, straw and trash when shearing. The following suggestions are offered growers desireous of producing the best quality of wool.

1. Pick burs, tags and trash out of wool at shearing time.

2. Use only paper strings to tie fleeces with. Hemp binder twine gets mixed in with the wool and lowers it value.

3. Shear only whn wool is dry.

4. Keep grey, black and dead fleeces separated. The price of these wools seldom runs more than five cents per pound less than the clear wool.

5. List your wool immediately with your committeeman. A list lows: Chas. Stevens, Petersburg; of your committeemen are as fol-Clint Riddell, Bullittsville; Lloyd D. McGlasson, Constance; C. F. Blankenbeker, Florence; Ezra Blankenbeker, Union; John W. Conley, Beaver; O. K. Powers, of Verona; B. W. Franks, Walton; O. Y. Kelly, Carlton; H. E. White, of Burlington; Lillard Scott, Grant.

6. Sell your wool side by side with your fellow farmers through your Boone County Wool Pool, deliver it with your neighbor's at one of three convenient points in the county and receive the highest possible spot cash price. The Boone County Pool is approximately 32 years old and has been one of the most successful in the state.

EARLY WOOL CLIP GRADED

FIRST DELIVERIES OF GOOD QUALITY, ADAIR REPORTS—TOP ADVANCE PRICE IS 30 CENTS.

Grading of the first wool clip of the 1937 season was started at the warehouse of the Kentucky Wool Growers Co-operative association Monday with a top advance of 30 cents a pound.

T. K. Riley, a government licensed grader representing the National Wool Marketing Corporation of Boston, was in charge of the grading, and Julian Adair assistant secretary and treasurer of the co-operative, reported early deliveries good.

Advances of 30 cents were being made for three-eights and one-quarter staple, with advances for one-half clothing and one-quarter low at 23 cents. Eighty-five per cent of the Kentucky wools grade in the top brackets. These prices, Mr. Adair explained, are merely advances and do not indicate what the final prices will be. They represent 65 per cent of the present Boston market. After the wool is sold, final distribution will be made to members of the pool.

During the last six years, Mr. Adair said, government figures showed members of the co-operative had averaged 26.2 cents for their wool as compared with an average of 21.8 for non-members. Last year's price to members was 40 cents as compared with an average of 31.8 cents paid to non-members, Mr. Adair said.

You can say this much for poverty. It never prompts a man to make a fool of himself.

ANDERSON GADD

Anderson (Ance) Gadd, aged 69 years, passed away Tuesday at Booth Hospital, Covington, after an illness of several weeks. The remains were removed to the Taliaferro Funeral Home for preparation.

Mr. Gadd is survived by one sister, Mrs. Mary Baker, Kenton Station, Ky., and one brother, Henry Gadd, Decoursey, Ky.

Funeral was from his home near Union, Ky., with services at the Big Bone Baptist Church, of which he was a member, Thursday at two o'clock, by the Rev. Roy Johnson, his pastor. Interment followed in the nearby cemetery.

The pall bearers were George Horton, Kenneth Aylor, Sanford Bristow, Russell Garrison, Harry Sheets and B. Clifton..

Funeral director Philip Taliaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

FLORENCE BOY HONORED AT UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

Lexington, Ky.—Paul Tanner, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Tanner, Florence, senior in the College of Commerce at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, recently was awarded a 1937 Kentuckian for winning a campus intelligence test conducted by the Committee of 240, University publicity committee at its recent meeting.

Mr. Tanner is a member of the Committee of 240, the Democratic Club and Beta Gamma Sigma, national honorary commerce scholarship fraternity.

BURLINGTON WINS OPENER

OVER BELLEVIEW SATURDAY AFTERNOON BY SCORE OF 4 TO 2—PLAYERS SHOW VERY GOOD FORM.

In the opening game of the season, Burlington trounced the Belleview nine to the tune of 4 to 2 last Saturday afternoon. The game was very interesting, with both teams displaying fair form considering the amount of practice they have had.

Donald Kirkpatrick started on the mound for the Burlington team with Roscoe Akins finishing. Both boys seemed to have good control with some very fancy curves. Britch Stephens was on the receiving end for the Burlington Boys. Bill Rogers and Jay Ryle were on the mound for the losers and Bob Dennison and Pete Brady were on the receiving end.

Much interest has been shown in the organization of the Boone County Baseball Association and it is expected that some first class baseball teams will be the result. Fans have also become interested and promise to support their teams.

Next Saturday Burlington will meet the strong Bob and Gene team at the local park.

ROAD AWARDS ARE MADE AT FRANKFORT

Frankfort, Ky., May 3—Fourteen contracts totaling $531,137.83 were let by Highway Commissioner Robert Humphrey today. The largest was for overhead structure and approaches for the viaduct at Maysville.

A contract was let to Robert Gwinn, Danville for roadside construction in Boone County a distance of 15.4 miles on Highway 42, at $2,789.50.

NEW PATTERNS CREATED FOR FILM MUSICAL

One way of getting something different in the way of musical screen fare is the procedure Twentieth Century-Fox adopted on its new Irving Berlin musical, "On the Avenue," starring Dick Powell and Madeline Carroll, which will be at the Gayety Theater, Erlanger Sunday and Monday.

Each of the six songs written by Irving Berlin for the picture is an "idea" number. That is, they are not just love songs which a boy would sing to a girl, or vice versa, but have definite ideas in them which are carried out in the production.

In addition to Dick Powell and Madeline Carroll, the stars, "On the Avenue" features Alice Faye, The Ritz Brothers and George Barbier.

MIDWAY NINE MEET VERONA

The Midway baseball team will meet the Verona nine at Midway park Sunday, May 9th. The game will be called at 2:30 fast time. You are invited to see this game, and support your home team.

Mart Williamsown was spending a few days with Manley Ryle recently.

J. W. GRANT, CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF OF BOONE COUNTY

Well known man of Burlington precinct announces as candidate for office of Sheriff of Boone County subject to action of Democratic Primary, August 7, 1937.

Mr. Grant was born on a farm near Petersburg, Ky., attended school at that place and later High school in Aurora, Indiana.

He spent his earlier life on the farm. In the year 1911, he engaged in the General Merchandise business in Bullittsville, Ky., and was in business there 13 years, selling out in 1924. Since that time he has engaged in farming, with the exception of four years. That time he was district manager for M. W. of A., largest Fraternal Insurance Company in existence. He is a member of this lodge and also I. O. O. F. Lodge. He is married and, at present, living in Burlington.

Mr. Grant is Vice President of Farmers Bank at Petersburg, Ky., and has been a director in this bank for fifteen years. He is known as one of the County's prominent Democrats, both in State and County politics. Last year he was selected as Roosevelt's campaign manager in this county, and through his good management Boone County gave the entire Democratic ticket a handsome majority.

He is a man with an excellent personality, and during his campaign four years ago, for the same office, made many friends. He was defeated at that time by a few votes. If elected to this office, will take care of the duties in the same honest and efficient manner, in which he has in past looked after other business matters engaged in.

He earnestly solicits the cooperation of citizens of the County in aiding him in securing the nomination on August 7, 1937, and says he will be seeing you soon.

COURT SNUBS TOBACCO PLEA

SUPREME BENCH REFUSES RULING IN KENTUCKIAN'S SHORT CUT TO TEST KERR-SMITH CONTROL ACT.

Washington, May 3—The Supreme Court declined to pass on unusual litigation to test the constitutionality of the Kerr-Smith Tobacco Production Control Act, repealed February 10, 1936, after the similar Agriculture Adjustment Act was invalidated.

A final decision was sought by C. H. Smith, a Fayette County, Ky., tobacco growers, who won in the Western Kentucky Federal District Court in a suit to recover from the Government $607 of taxes, paid on tobacco sales during the crop year 1934-1935.

Usually the litigant, who loses in the lower court, files the appeal to the Supreme Court. Smith, however, asked a decision by the high tribunal without waiting for a ruling by the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, the customary procedure.

He hold the Supreme Court that collections under the act aggregated $4,260,805 to February 1, 1936, and that all claims for refund are barred unless suit is filed within two year after the claim is rejected by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

In reply the Government said the "circumstances do not justify resort to this extraordinary procedure." Solicitor-General Stanley Reed explained that legislation was pending in Congress to authorize the refund of collections under the act, and that "if such legislation is adopted it will render unnecessary any further consideration of the question involved in this case."

The measure, by Senator Richard B. Russell, Jr., Democrat, of Georgia, is pending before the Senate Finance Committee.

WALTON TO HEAR RUTH BEST SING MAY 7TH

Ruth Best, noted Soprano, of Cincinnati, O., will entertain residents of Walton and vicinity Friday night, May 7th at 7:30 Central Standard Time at the Walton Methodist Church. Miss Best will be accompanied by Mrs. J. B. Johnson at the Hammond Organ.

No admission will be charged at this entertainment, but a free will offering may be made at the close of the entertainment. All proceeds will go toward paying the debt against the Hammond Organ of the church.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend, and to help a worthy cause.

NOTE

In last week's issue of The Recorder, we stated that Edwin Gaines had passed away and that the details would appear in this week's issue. We have been unable to secure and further information rgarding his death, as nothing but a telegram has been received by his relatives here.

As soon as the details can be obtained, we will publish same promptly.

RIVER REPORT

The Ohio River is falling slowly at all points above U. S. Dam 38 at the present time, the crest at Dam 38 reaching approximately 42.3 feet.

The fall at the various dams ranged from .1 to .2 feet per hour, while Dam 38 reports only one-half tenth fall per hour. The stage late Tuesday afternoon being 42.2.

According to all weather reports, there is still cloudy and unsettled weather ahead and probably scattered thunder showers over this area.

This information was received late Tuesday afternoon from E. E. Newman, lockmaster.

BURLINGTON COMMENCEMENT

EXERCISES INCLUDE "PLEASED TO MEETCHA" AN INTERESTING PLAY TO BE STAGED FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 7.

Commencement activities of the Burlington School other than the Senior banquet which was given in honor of the graduating class, include the senior play, "Pleased to Meetcha," Baccalaureate Service and the Commencement exercises proper.

The play will be presented Friday evening, May 7th in the school auditorium. This a mystery comedy with quick movement and bright bits of humor. The hour for the play is 8:00 p. m. (Central time which will be the hour for all other programs. Seats may be reserved by calling the school for this performance.

The Class Sermon will be delivered this year by Rev. Raymond Smith, pastor of the Belleview Baptist Church. Many will recall some five years ago when Bro. Smith consented to serve the graduating class in a similar capacity. He is well-known in our community and really feels that many of the graduates belong to him. A special music program is being planned by Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Yelton. It is hoped that members of all the local choirs in Burlington and Belleview will help make the music program the best possible.

The speaker for Commencement is Mr. Bart Peak, student Y. M. C. A. secretary for the University of Kentucky, Dexington, Ky. Mr. Peak has become a noted speaker for occasions of this kind. He is an enthusiastic worker with young people as well as old, and has a sympathetic understand of the problems of youth. All who possibly can, should hear him deliver his message to the class of '37 and to our community.

Music for commencement will be under the direction of Miss Lillian Faber, a teacher of music in the Burlington School. Miss Faber will have her orchestra which will be strengthened by vocal specialties. The Burlington school takes pride in being able to announce a commencement program of the type which will be presented this year. The date for Commencement is Thursday, May 13.

Diplomas will be awarded to ten graduates of the high school May 13. In addition to this graduation exercise, certificates of promotion will be awarded to the students who are successful in passing from the eighth grade from both the Burlington and Belleview schools.

FOUR-H CAMPS RECEIVE TRIPS

TO BIG CAMP—COOPER ANNOUNCES SELECTION OF 4 MEMBERS TO REPRESENT STATE.

Dean Thomas P. Cooper of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture announces the selection of four 4-H club members to represent Kentucky at the National 4-H Camp in Washington in June.

Miss Joyce Cotton, of Madison county, one of the two girls, was named an all-state club girl, at Junior Week last year, has taken part in many club events, won gold, silver and bronze medals, and represented the state in a national 4-H club radio broadcast.

Haskel Dalton is an outstanding stock raiser of Wayne county, having finished calves which brought him $1,682. He was a member of the state champion 4-H stock judging team, chairman of his county's cattle show committee, and in other ways an outstanding farm boy.

Miscs Alma Seaton of McCracken county was state champion judge of canned foods, represented the state at a national 4-H congress in club work.

In addition to owning the champion lamb in the state, Elwood O'Neal of Gallatin county has shown himself to be expert with hogs, poultry and dairy cattle. He also knows how to grow tobacco, corn, potatoes and vegetables. His 4-H club work has brought him $1,777. He is president of the Kentucky Association of 4-H Clubs.

The regular monthly meeting of the Young Men's Democratic Club will be held Monday night, May 10th, 1937 at "Wayside Plaza," Beaver Lick, Route 42. A good time is assured all who attend.

DR. EDGAR D. JONES WILL DELIVER COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS AT HEBRON

Dr. Edgar D. Jones, President of the American Federation of Churches, and one of the outstanding ministers in the United States, will deliver the commencement address at the Hebron high school auditorium, Wednesday evening, May 12th.

Dr. Jones was educated at Transylvania and the College of the Bible at Lexington, and while a student was the minister of several churches in Boone County where he met his wife Fannie Willis, a sister of Eunie and Albert Willis.

Dr. Jones is always glad to come back to Boone County and visit his friends here, about whom he wrote the book "Fair Hope." He is a very busy man, but on account of his nephew Maurice Earl Willis being in this class he has arranged to be present.

All members and everyone interested in this project are urged to attend.

YELTON FARM TO BE SOLD

FOUR HUNDRED AND TWENTY-ACRES IN TWO TRACTS WILL BE SOLD AT AUCTION MAY 15 GUY DOWNS IN CHARGE.

Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Yelton, Burlington, have recently signed a Guy Downs contract to sell their fine farm and entire farming equipment, on the Burlington-Belleview pike, 3½ miles west of Burlington, to the highest bidder, on Saturday, May 15th at 10:00 a. m. (Central Standard Time).

This 428 acre farm lies in one of the finest farming sections in Boone County, and has almost every modern convenience available, including electricity, milk truck and school bus to door, excellent market, fine neighborhood and only twenty minutes from Cincinnati.

The farm will be divided into two tracts, the first consisting of 262.97 acres, long frontage on two roads, six-room house with modern conveniences, and all necessary outbuildings; including three barns and tenant house. Tract No. 2 will consist of 165.70 acres, long frontage and beautiful building site on State Highway 18, has new small house, orchard and tobacco barn.

Both tracts of land are well improved, strong and productive. Water supply comes from ponds, springs, pools and cisterns. All the buildings have just recently been painted and repaired and are now in first class condition. This is a real tobacco and stock farm, and is now ready to make money.

Al Schild's band will be present to supply a bit of amusement, and $50.00 in cash will be given away absolutely free. Lunch will be served on the grounds by the members of the Burlington P.-T. A.

This is undoubtedly the largest sale of its kind to be held in Boone County in recent years, and a complete description of the sale appears in an advertisement on another page of this issue of The Recorder. Read their advertisement for further details.

DEMONSTRATIONS DISCUSSED AT GRANT 4-H CLUB

At the Grant True Blue 4-H club meeting last Tuesday the members decided definitely what demonstration teams they would have Rally Day.

Our project captains reported that all the members have a good start in their various projects.

We are to have our summer tour on Wednesday, June 30th.

Mrs. Edith Caudill, our club leader, and our officers have been at each meeting.

FIFTY-TWO LOCAL STUDENTS AIDED

BY NATIONAL YOUTH ADMINISTRATION SINCE BEGINNING OF PROGRAM—THIRTY WERE HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS.

Louisville, Ky., May 4—Part-time employment provided by the National Youth Administration since the beginning of its program in June 1935, has enabled 52 young men and women residing in Boone County to remain in school and continue their education, Robert K. Salyers, Deputy State NYA Director, announced today.

Of this number 30 were high school students and 22 received aid under the NYA college aid program.

In the state 39,323 young people have been employed by NYA—16,516 under the high school aid program, 4,715 through college aid, and 18,065 on work projects for out-of-school youth.

The NYA educational aid program is designed to enable deserving high school and college students, who otherwise might not be able to remain in school, to continue their education. High school pupils earn up to $6.00 monthly, and college students are paid up to a $15.00 monthly average. Local school officials are responsible for the selection of the students to be aided and for determining the types of work to which they are assigned.

The National Youth Administration also sponsors a vocational guidance and placement program through which it serves all youth, those in school and young people who have left school.

MOTHER'S DAY

In all our long list of holidays none carries a sweeter sentiment and none should be more generally observed than the one which falls this year on May 9—Mother's Day.

Unlike some of them, here is one the celebration of which carries no thought of military glory, no harsh reminder of marching men and bloodsoaked battlefields. Peace with far more victories than war can ever claim, is the spirit of this, the sweetest of all our more recent holidays—peace and the mother-love which passeth understanding. Patience and self-sacrifice are other virtues that stand forth as we enter again into the celebration of Mother's Day, virtues that are the very soul of motherhood and that help to make the foundation on which this old world rests. You may overlook or ignore most holidays and be none the worse for doing so. But it is different with Mother's Day, just as mothers differ from all others whose affections we enjoy. Mother never forgets; mother-love never falters; the mother heart is always loyal to those who drew their life blood from it.

And so as we come again to the observance of this sweetest of holidays let it be said that ever heart in Boone County was mindful of it and paid its silent memorial to her. A word of cheer, a letter of greeting, a flower in the lapel or a little bloom placed upon her last resting place—these will serve as your tribute to one whose goodness mankind has not yet been able to measure. Pay that tribute this Mother's Day, and as you pay it hope in your heart to always be worthy of her.

THE IDEAL WIFE

What kind of wives do farm boys want? That is the question recently asked of students attending the University of Iowa, and the answers they gave would also probably apply to the average young man living in Boone County. In the first place the boys insisted that their wives should come from the farms or the small towns; that they do not smoke; that they be "not bad looking;" that they be able to dance and, that they be good pals. And according to the returns, they prefer brunettes to blondes. Those are the requirements of a large majority of the students filling in the answer blanks, so the girls who may have been doing a little wondering along the same line can now go right ahead and make their future plans accordingly. Meeting any of the requirements should not be difficult—not even to the last one. This day in time changing over from a blonde to a brunette is only a matter of hours, even though they might be a lot of work attached to keeping up the deception.

POOR SPELLERS

Taken as a whole, our school system may be far more efficient than it was a half-century ago, but in one respect it is sadly lacking. The present generation of spellers is the poorest this nation has ever known. Grandpa may have been lacking in many of the things which now go to make up a general education, but the generation to which he belonged could outspell the present one both ways against the middle.

This is not said with any desire to cast a reflection on school methods now employed in our county, because it is nation-wide in scope. The ration of poor spellers among those of high school age is no higher here than elsewhere, nor is it any lower. Back in the old days, before pupils had the wide variety of studies now embraced in a common school course, the three R's claimed the whole attention of the scholar. He learned to read, and write, and he learned mathematics and, having but these three studies he learned them thoroughly. In those days being a poor speller was looked upon as more or less of a disgrace. Today is seems to be viewed by the average high school boy or girl as an accomplishment.

In recent years there has been a tendency throughout the country to revive the old-fashioned "spelling bee." Even the radio stations are finding them a source of entertainment. It is an idea worth encouraging, since it seems to be about the only means left of improving that fast-declining accomplishment. The old-fashioned "spelling bee" helped make the older generations good spellers. It ought to likewise prove of value to the present generation, the poorest generation of spellers this country has possibly ever produced.

OBSERVATIONS

Our Former Allies

Sometime the actions of our so-called friends show us what they think of our intelligence. It is that way now as our former allies come, hat in hand very humbly, to borrow money from us again, while not having paid anything on their last borrowings for some time.

Senator Johnson justified his entire career when he forced thru the bill which bears his name and which forbids the U. S. Government to make any loans to governments now in default. Thus, we are saved alike from our impractical idealists and our international financiers who would make capital of bloodshed, agony, and the aching tears of wartime motherhood.

All that stands between us and the idiot laughter of the war God Mars is that self same bill. Of all the countries in the world, this is the only one who is right now in a position to finance a War. Lack of finance is the only thing that restrains Maniac Mussolini from twisting the tail of the British Lion even more than he did in the Abyssinian affair. Lack of funds is the only thing keeping Britian from stepping into the Mediterranean and settling once and for all who is mistress of the waves. The same financial uncertainty is all that keeps France and Britian acting together from moving to stop that other fit candidate for padded cell—Hitler.

The nations of Europe are like chained dogs possessed with the obsession of the rabies—plunging and straining at their bounds, frothing to rip and tear and maim—only awaiting the slipping of the leash to accomplish their object.

A Prophecy Fulfilled

Some fifteen years ago this observer sat as a college junior listening to the words of a College Professor of Psychology. He was saying something like the following:

"It is my considered opinion, young ladies and gentlemen, that the torch of Civilization such as we have known it has definitely passed out of the hands of Europe and into the hands of the nations of the Western Hemisphere."

"The reason for this phenomenon is purely a matter of biology. I will ask you, for the moment, to remember what you have observed about stock breeding, the planting of seeds, etc. You will remember that every time a seed or sire is selected for propagation it is always the best available, in order that certain desirable characteristics are strengthened in the offspring.

Desirable characteristics in cattle is either quality and quantity of milk yield or production of beef at low feed cost.

Desirable characteristics in human beings, given a serviceable body, are brains."

"Ladies and gentlemen, in Europe for generations they have been exactly reversing the natural biological laws. Whereas, in primitive warfare with club and sword, only the biggest brawniest and brainest survived to pass on their superior qualities to their children. In modern warfare the weak are kept at home by the draft boards and our fairest and finest go forth to scatter their dismembered bodies over the battlefields. Their seed, mark you, which would have benefited the world, is forever lost to mankind. But the seed of the weakling, left at home, survives to find the widow or sweetheart of the dead hero."

"Thus it is that civilizations fail. Thus it was that ancient Babylon, Rome and Modern Spain fell from positions of world dominence. Theirs were Empires of military conquest. Theirs was a superior people at first which became inferior by the killing off of the most fit generation, robbing their people of brain power even as the soil can be robbed of fertility by continuous cropping."

How tragically right this professor was.

Hate

It was this same far seeing professor who once pointed out to his classes that two of the world's worse beligerents, France and Germany, were at once time one race and, insofar as they had nations at that time, one nation under Charlemagne; that this great man had two sons, who, like so many sons of great men, had none of their father's genius. In this case, however, they had something that to the world's vast sorrow they have passed on to us even to this day.

They had hate; bitter, deep and lasting for each other. Their father, knowing this, willed one that portion of his kingdom which is modern Germany. The other he will what is modern France.

The passing generations developed different cultures, different languages, very different people. All things changed save hate. The hate that has bred fear one of the other these hundreds of years; that has bred death and destruction not only for each other but for those they have sucked into their quarrels. These two are not the only hereditary hates that fester on Europe. She is covered with these sores. She is the world's best example of that biblical prophecy—"even unto the fourth generation"—except that four generations is mild beside the facts.

And in face of these world forces of destruction, the Christian ministry is largely concerned with small points of doctrinal difference quibbling over whether this or that is a sin, worrying about some poor unclothed savage and his souls salvation because he had not been benefited by the refined barbarianism of the so-called christian nations; preaching the hereafter with their eyes aloft, while they stumble unheeding over the here; doing all these things instead of trying to make God's love as powerful a force in everyday world affairs as the hate of the powers of evil.

Me thinks the after death, the reward of many of our ministry is going to surprise them; that the Creator will judge them severely, having given them life's most precious gift which they locked away in a cupboard while they quibbled about twiddle de de or twiddle de dum.

And the spirit of LOVE, like the dove sent out by Noah, found no resting place in all the weary wastes.

That's all for this time.

The Observer.

A GOOD WIFE

Heavens Gift to Man
Evangelist John Moses Baker
Baltimore, Maryland

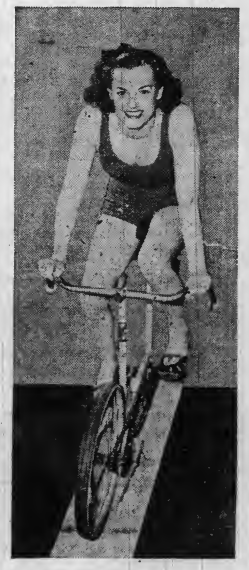
There is nothing on earth that we cherish,
And nothing a husband loves more,
Than the wife that was given to help him,
And save in temptations so sore.

When trials and conflict surround him,
She then is his comfort and stay,
And when the dark cloud gather o'er him,
Her smile quickly drives them away

In sorrow and anguish what comfort,
Comes from her watching and care
No battle so fierce or no danger
To keep her away from him there.

She will stand by when all others forsake him,
And keep brave and true till the last,
And in life's darkest hour will comfort,
Until every temptation is past.

She will always be sweetheart and dearest,
Of any on earth he holds dear,
Her voice will always be sweetest
Of any he ever will hear.



At last when life's journey is ended,
By her side he will lie down to rest,
And in Heaven she will be with him
Forever and even the blest.

60TH BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Riddell entertained Friday night in honor of Mr. Riddell's 60th birthday anniversary. Those present to enjoy the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Aylor, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Aylor, Mr. and Mrs. Jameson Aylor, Mr. and Mrs. Whorley, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ogden and the host and hostess.

Cards were enjoyed during the evening, and a bountiful lunch was served at a late hour. The guests departed wishing Mr. Riddell many more such birthdays.

Cycles to Swim

ELEANOR HOLM JARRETT, former Olympic backstroke swimming champion, finds that pedaling a stationary bicycle keeps her in physical trim for her appearances in Billy Rose's Aquacade at the Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland, where she heads a cast of 500 swimmers, singers and dancers in the world's first great water extravaganza. Appearing with her from May 29 to Sept. 6 on the 160-foot floating stage at the 5,000-seat theater, amid lighting equipment three times that of Radio City, are Johnny Weissmuller and Aileen Riggin, also former Olympic champions and motion picture stars.

Lesson for May 9

ABRAHAM A MAN OF PRAYER

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 18:17-32.
GOLDEN TEXT—The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. James 5:16.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Abraham Praying for His Neighbors.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Great Man's Prayer.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Praying for Others.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Ministry of Intercession.

Prayer—how many are the books that have been written on that subject and the sermons preached, and yet how little it is actually practiced. One can attract an audience to hear it discussed, but only a handful will come to pray. We as Christians agree that it is God's appointed way of blessing. We put up mottoes such as "Prayer changes things," or "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of," and then (may God forgive us!) we try to change things ourselves. We struggle with problems when we ought to pray.

The lesson of today, from the life of that great hero of faith, Abraham, stresses the importance of intercessory prayer, that is, the giving of ourselves to pray for the temporal and spiritual welfare of others. In an age characterized by a grasping spirit of acquisition for personal advantage it is like a breath from heaven to read of this man's prayer for others.

I. The Nature of Intercessory Prayer.

1. It is a Privilege. Abraham had been honored by a visit from God. The covenant had been renewed, a son had been promised. The three visitors looked out toward Sodom. God who had thus appeared to Abraham in visible form and had shared the hospitality of his home now extends to him the privilege of sharing in God's purpose. How glorious to be on such terms of confidence with God, to know him and to know his will and purpose!

2. It is a Responsibility. "Abraham stood yet before the Lord"—why? To pray for Sodom and Gomorrah. Privilege and responsibility go together. Those who have audience with the King of kings are there to carry the blessed burden of prayer for others. Are we praying for our children, our families, our church, our nation? If not, who will pray?

3. It is Objective, not Subjective. Some modern "religious" leaders would devitalize prayer by making it a sort of spiritual exercise which has only the value of developing our own soul. The prayer room is to them a sort of spiritual gymnasium where the soul develops its strength and a spiritual sense of well-being floods the soul.

Undoubtedly the very fellowship with God which is inherent in prayer is spiritually beneficial, but prayer actually deals with such things as cities, men, sin, sorrow. It concerns men's physical well-being, their material prosperity, as well as their spiritual welfare. It is the means designated by God for the release of his power on behalf of the object for which we pray.

II. Characteristics of Intercessory Prayer.

1. Unselfish. Abraham already had his promise and his blessing. The cities of the plain were wicked, yet he prayed for them. Those who know the spirit of God are not selfish in prayer.

2. Courageous. Note the reverent boldness with which Abraham pleaded the cause of the condemned cities. The Bible reveals that God honored men who had a holy courage. History tells the same story. We celebrate this year the centenary of one who prayed boldly—and believed, and labored—Dwight L. Moody.

3. Persistent. No one likes a "quitter." Christ spoke of a man who was heard for his importunity (Luke 11:8). See also Luke 18:1-8. Some one has said that when we pray we are all too often like the mischievous boy who rings the doorbell and runs away without waiting for an answer.

III. Results of Intercessory Prayer.

The cities were destroyed, but the righteous were saved. God hears and answers prayer. This is the testimony of His Word, of countless Christian men and women of all ages, yes, of the men and women of our day. We know by experience that it is true—"I cried; he answered." He says to you and to me, "Call unto Me and I will answer thee and show thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not" (Jer. 33:3).

No Reason for Anxiety

Anxiety is the poison of life; the parent of many sins and of more miseries. Why, then, allow it, when we know that all the future is guided by a Father's hand!—Blair.

"And render to God the things that are God's."

By L. L. STEVENSON

The term pocket miner doesn't mean the same in NewYork as it does in the West. Out where men are men and rocks are hard, the pocket miner is a legitimate citizen who digs gold out of pockets in the earth. In New York, the pocket miner is one who digs bills out of pockets of night club frequenters. He doesn't do it with deft fingers because police deal roughly with pickpockets, and there is always the chance of getting caught. He does it by trickery. The patron who has enjoyed a wet, wild night receives callers at his hotel room or office the next morning. They inform him that the night before, he wasn't himself. Seeing that he was a good fellow, the club had settled for a small amount and he had told them to call the next morning and collect the balance. If the victim shows signs of getting tough, they tell him that he'll either settle or there'll be unfavorable publicity. Most of the victims, in the throes of a hangover, have settled. Thus the racketeers flourished.

• • •

Recently two waiters and a clerk called on a local gentleman. He didn't remember much about the night before but when asked for two hundred dollars, he became suspicious. He didn't argue about the matter, however. He merely told his callers to come back the next day—presumably when he would feel better—and there would be a settlement. The trio accepted the invitation. The business man was as good as his word—he met the demand in full. There was just one catch—he had taken the precaution of having a couple of detectives stowed away on the premises in a place where they could both see and hear. So the waiters and the clerk were taken with their loot right on them and at the moment are roosting in the hoosegow. Other pocket miners are laying off because when a victim squawks and gets away with it, the game becomes too hot to handle.

• • •

Ordinarily a peace-loving citizen, there have been numerous times when the desire has possessed me to drive a tank or some other indestructible car along the highways of New York and bang into road hogs and those motorists who hurl insults when accidents, of their own inviting, are missed seemingly by a miracle. Hence an incident on Williamsburg bridge has a peculiar appeal. Two gentlemen in a car were not only driving too fast but carelessly. A passing motorist advised them as to their shortcomings an the two informed him what he was and where he could go. The other motorist speeded up and beat them to the end of the bridge. There they found a traffic officer acting as a reception committee. The quiet man they had insulted happened to be Lewis J. Valentine, who as police commissioner, is boss of all the cops.

• • •

As you know already, local merchant tailor designers hold that the well-dressed man must possess at least 19 suits and overcoats, the list being: Six business suits, a riding suit, an informal walking suit, a cutaway suit, a dinner suit, a host jacket, a full dress suit, a dress evening topcoat, a plain blue topcoat, a blue heavyweight topcoat, a guard's coat, a yachting suit and a sport suit equipped with several pairs of trousers. Well, counting in the two white linen suits, one acquired in Trinidad and the other in Barbadoes and both several years old, as well as a two-season-old tropical worsted, I'm only 14 shy of the quota.

Under the energetic direction of Park Commissioner Moses practically the entire Hudson river front, from Seventy-second street to the upper end of the island, has been transformed, or is being transformed. In the course of time, it will be one long parkway, accessible to all who care to visit it, and that means hundreds of thousands. The Hudson river panorama at any season is one worthy of attention. Still it does look queer with many of the old landmarks missing.

RED CROSS WORK CONTINUES

Red Cross rehabilitation work for flood-affected families in Kentucky continues at the page of 6,000 cases closed per week, with the needs of more than 40 percent of the registered families already met.

"There are 78,571 families registered with the Red Cross in the State of Kentucky" said Richard F. Allen, State Director of Red Cross Flood Relief, in a statement made at Regional Headquarters in Louisville. "Of this number of cases, 33,562 have already been closed.

"Of the 57 counties in Kentucky where flood conditions prevailed and where Red Cross rehabilitation relief was necessary this work has been completed in 19 counties. By May 15 we expect to complete our work in 23 additional counties, or in all but 15.

"As soon as the work is finished in one county, the trained Red Cross case workers there are transferred to other counties where a considerable case load still remains. It is the earnest desire of the Red Cross to complete its work in the entire state as quickly as possible."

One way in which building repair cases throughout the state are being expedited is by the work of 39 Red Cross building estimators, who last week made estimates on more than 1400 home properties in which Red Cross assistance is needed.

Milk With Acid Fruits Held Aid to Digestion

Amherst, Mass.—Acid fruits when used with milk are an aid to digestion, Professor Julius H. Frandsen, of Massachusetts State college, says.

Persons believe that cherries, oranges and other acid fruits, when used with milk are harmful and cause digestive disturbances, Frandsen said. The idea is apparently based upon the fact that milk is curdled by the acid in these fruits.

These superstitions are baseless, because the acid fruits, by their curdling action on milk, are aids to digestion and should be welcomed rather than spurned. He said acid milk often is recommended for infants.

Tung Oil Wins Ranking as Important U. S. Crop

Dallas. — Tung oil, which constitutes at least 50 per cent of the composition of all modern quick-drying paints and lacquers, is regarded by the All-South Development council as an important new southern crop.

Until the last few years all the United States' annual consumption —125,000,000 pounds—has been imported from China.

DR. YELTON FARM

428 ACRES--2 TRACTS

At AUCTION

SATURDAY, MAY 15

10 A. M. Slow Time

ON PREMISES, STATE HIGHWAY 18, ABOUT 3½ MILES WEST OF BURLINGTON, KY.

In one of the best farming sections of Boone County, splendid neighborhood, just a few minutes from Cincinnati—an excellent market. Electricity, milk truck and school bus to door.

ANOTHER GUY DOWNS AUCTION—Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Yelton have contracted with us to sell this fine farm at the highest dollar, your price. Remember-If you bid last, you'll buy.

Good land, lies well, lots of grass—Clover, Korean Bluegrass, Alfalfa Locusts, suitable for fence posts. Watered by ponds, pool, and several everlasting springs. A real tobacco and stock farm, well equipped—ready to make money.

TRACT NO. 1—Contains 262.97 acres, long frontage on 2 roads. Has comfortable six-room frame house, cistern, sink and water in kitchen, electricity, nice size basement. With little expense this home can be made most modern. Meat house, 2 chicken houses, and orchard; equipped for large dairy; 3 barns (dairy, stock, tobacco barn) with 3 silos, milk room and spring house, corn crib, stock scales, tenant house with necessary out-buildings. All these buildings have recently been painted. This farm—strong and productive soil, well improved—is most desirable as an investment and home.

TRACT No. 2—Contains 165.70 acres, long frontage and beautiful building site on State Road. Has new small house with out-buildings, orchard and tobacco barn. Plenty of new land, ready for the plow. Here's your opportunity to own one of the best—you can dig your money out of this land.

Your savings invested in good farm lands will bring you a better return. It has been said "the safest investment on earth is earth itself." And has not this been proven? Farm commodities are demanding a good price. Money is very cheap. Take advantage of this situation—buy now, get ahead of the rise. Don't let someone else make a profit that could have been yours. Your money in land will be safe; where you can walk on it today, tomorrow, next year.

Everybody welcome—Ladies especially invited, you'll enjoy the outing and hearing our famous auctioneers.

This is an absolute auction, regardless of price and weather. No one knows what this property will bring. So come, at your convenience, see these farms—be prepared to buy, it will be too late after the sale. Think it over, this is your opportunity—cash in on it.

FARMERS SLOWLY POISONED BY CHEMICAL FOUND IN SOIL

Omaha, Neb., April 30—The slow poisoning of whole populations in Wyoming and the Dakotas—stunting growth, aging residents prematurely, even attacking poultry and livestock—was pictured by a Stanford University professor today before 1500 delegates to the midwest conference of the American Chemical Society.

Dr. Floyd Deeds said the poison comes from the soil itself in the Pierre shale sections of the Northwest. Widespread shale lands in the three states are permeated with selenium, a highly diffused slow poison, kindred in effect to arsenic, he said.

The poison has evidenced itself for years, he said, in poor condition of cattle and poultry and poorly-formed eggs.

"Children in such areas show stunting of growth and an appearance of premature aging," he said. "Farmers recognized the existence of some toxic factor and are convinced of its association with wheat grown on the poisoning soils.

"Obviously this toxic wheat is sold in other sections or mixed with non-toxic wheat. There seems to be no doubt, therefore, that the population of other areas may be subject to health hazards associated with wheat grown on selenium-containing soil."

The main difference between taxes and taxies is that a taxie doesn't hit you a double lick for trying to dodge it.

LOCAL STUDENTS AID EASTERN WIN

Two Boone County boys were in the lineup of Eastern State Teachers' College when the Maroons turned loose an 18-hit barrage against two University of Cincinnati pitchers, to win, 9 to 2.

They are Leslie Voshell, of Burlington, who played left field and led off, and "Kack" Demoisey, of Walton, who banged three hits while hitting in the fifth position. Demoisey played centerfield.

While the Maroons were scoring at will, Lou King was limiting the Bearcats to three hits, while collecting four out of five himself.

He was given a seven-run lead at the end of four inning and coasted in to win.

FOUR LARGE BASS TAKEN FROM WALTON RESERVOIR

According to a report from E. M. Johnson, game warden, four large bass were taken from the Walton reservoir recently by Herman Hanekamp, of Ft. Mitchell. The bass were caught on a Hildebrandt flapper with white buck tail and pork ring.

The four bass weighed twelve pounds. Mr. Johnson stated that more bass had already been caught in the Walton reservoir than during any other previous fishing season. He also said that the lake would be open to sportsmen during the month of May, due to being overstocked.

INDIANA OFFICIALS PRESS CORBIN CASE

Judge Johnst Northcutt, Saturday heard extradition proceedings against Silas Corbin, Covington auto parts dealer, wanted in Indiana in connection with an auto theft ring.

Two members of the Indiana state police testified that they had seen him in Indianapolis in February when they were investigating the ring.

Corbin, when placed on the stand, denied being in Indiana since last October although he admitted he received an Indiana car, later said to have been stolen, for repair work.

The car, he said, was held in the Covington city garage for overnight parking but was released by police. He denied knowing a George Sandefur, a Kokomo, Ind., man now in jail on an auto theft charge.

As we go to press we have had no further details.

RECORD USE OF LIME AND PHOSPHATE IN BOONE CO. THIS YEAR

Boone County farmers are setting a record for the use of lime and phosphate for growing better grass and legume crops so far this spring, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. During April 750 tons of agricultural limestone and 330,000 pounds of T. V. A. superphosphate were secured for use on soil building crops. Several tons of additional phosphate were purchased from commercial concerns.

Lime and phosphate have proven the most effective soil treatment amendments in growing of blue grass, timothy, orchard grass, red clover, alsike clover, Korean, alfalfa, sweet clover and other grass and legume crops. All field crops including corn, wheat, etc., have shown increased yields following this soil treatment.

Lime and phosphate because of the large amount used and the cooperation of the Boone County Soil Improvement Association program, may now be secured at some of the lowest rates in history. Many leading truck owners will now deliver good limestone rock to almost any farm in the county at a cost of around $1.00 to $1.25 per ton. This stone may be pulverized into agricultural limstone for 70 cents per ton this spring or 80 cents per ton this fall, making a gross cost of from $1.70 to $2.00 per ton for agricultural limestone on the farm.

Forty-three percent phosphate for soil building crops may be secured from the T. V. A. up to 60 percent or 75 percent of the ACP allowanc at $32.25 per ton plus freight and handling charge. The freight and handling charge of approximately $5.30 is all the cash required, the original cost being deduced from the ACP allowances with the farmers given credit at the same rate in ACP payments.

Farmers interested in securing agricultural limestone or T. V. A. phosphate and are unable to secure it locally are urged to notify the County Agent's office at Burlington.

FLORENCE HOMEMAQERS' CLUB

The Florence Homemakers' club held their monthly meeting at the Town Hall, Thursday, April 22. Twenty-two members were present. The roll call was answered by "Facts About Kentucky."

The major project was the "Well-Groomed Woman." The lesson, "Good Posture for Good Looks" was given and demonstrated by Miss Mary Hood Gillaspie and Mrs. Virginia Goodridge, and as we all desire to be well groomed, by following the helpful advice of this lesson, we should be able to acquire "Good Posture," a help towards becoming that "Well-Groomed Woman."

The minor project "Know Kentucky," was given by Miss Gillaspie. The subject was very entertaining and educational, as some important facts were learned about a number of towns in Kentucky.

Miss Gillaspie told us about the Blue Grass District meeting to be held at Lexington Avenue, Baptist Church in Danville,, May 7th. The Registration beginning at 9:30, program is a very interesting one. then Community Singing, Business Meeting, talks by very capable speakers, a Minstrel Show at 1:15 then another song and a talk, then adjournment at 3:00. Those attending this meeting will certainly enjoy it.

The refreshment committee, Mrs. J. P. Tanner, Mrs. Carl Anderson, Mrs. Jennie McEvoy and Mrs. J. Bradley Sayre, prepared a very tempting lunch. A game "Simon Saus" was played and enjoyed by everyone. All joined in the song, "My Old Kentucky Home."

The members have decided to meet in the afternoons from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. during the summer months. The next meeting will be May 27 and the lesson will be "Care of the Feet."

WORKERS HERE ARE BEST PAID

New York—American steel workers received an average of 67 cents an hour in their pay envelopes last year compared with an average of only 28 cents an hour for steel workers in eight foreign steel producing countries for substantially the same period, the American Iron and Steel Institute has calculated.

The figures used were chiefly data from the International Labor Office. The calculation was made by translating the hourly pay of foreign steel workers into American money at the rate of exchange prevailing when these pay schedules were in effect.

After the 10 per cent increase last November in the wage rates paid in this country, wage earning employees earned an average of 73 cents an hour, or 160 per cent more than the average for foreign steel mill employees. The further increase effective March 16 is estimated to have raised hourly earnings of American steel workers to 83.5 cents or nearly 200 per cent above the foreign average.

American steel workers earned from 81 per cent to 740 per cent more per hour than steel workers in the eight individual foreign countries last year. After the wage increase effected here in March, hourly earnings ran from 125 per cent to 950 per cent above the earnings of steel workers in foreign countries.

Samuel Evans, of St. Louis sued the hospital in which his son died because it shipped him the body of a woman.

EMPLOYEE PLANS NOT PROHIBITED

New York—Freely chosen employee representation plans or legitimate worker organizations confined to the plant were not outlawed in the Supreme Court's recent interpretation of the Wagner Act, business men were assured in the weekly news letter of the National Association of Manufacturers sent to its members.

In an analysis of the court's opinion, the Association's legal department noted that the decisions applied the commerce power to a new field but did not extend it to all employment relations in industry.

"The Act as interpreted does not compel contract or agreement with anyone, individually or collectively," the analysis said. "The obligation created is that of reasonable negotiation with the true representatives of the majority of employees, whether such representatives be from within or without the employe's working force. No legitimate organization confined to the plant or any freely chosen employee representation pla nis outlawed. If the employees prefer an organization confined to the plant for the purpose of collective bargaining it is their right to form one and deal with their employer through it and it is the business of the law to recognize and protect."

GIRLS TO HAVE 50 CCC CAMPS OF OWN

To Be Given Training to Make Them Independent.

Washington.—Girls of less-privileged families no longer need envy brothers going to C.C.C. camps, as 5,000 girls have already been enrolled to start vocational training in fifty camps of their own.

On a recent lecture tour, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt visited one of the first of these camps to be opened, near Kansas City. There girls were receiving intensive training over a period of four or five months in such work as would help make them economically independent. At this particular camp, orders for tennis nets were being taken and filed.

Camp Director Richard R. Brown stated that camps would be located at abandoned C. C. C. barracks, vacant resorts, school buildings and other quarters they can use free of charge. Plans called for work centers in Rhode Island, Arkansas, Florida, Oklahoma, Missouri, South Dakota and Tennessee.

Girls will receive $5 cash a month in addition to board, lodging and clothes. Each girl will perform a certain amount of camp work. She will receive instruction in cooking and housework and put these to practical test. She will be taught handicraft, such as the making of hospital supplies, repairing toys, sewing, and the making of historical highway markers.

Preference will be given to girls who promise to profit by the experience of camp life, and will be able to take back into their homes and communities the benefits of instruction given.

Girls having a flair for gardening and agriculture will be given special instruction in tree and plant nursery work. All will have instruction in English, health, and hygiene, and disciplinary problems will be submitted to a "Student Council" selected by the girls themselves.

Women will direct all activities in the camps. Girls will not be put in uniforms. Clothes will be made by the young women themselves as part of the instruction in dressmaking. Materials will be supplied through W. P. A. projects.

Huge Cache of Relics Found in Connecticut

Bethel, Conn. — Examination of a rock shelter in the Bethel hills, reported to him by a racoon hunter, led Starr S. Sherwood, antiquarian and collector, to the largest collection of Indian relics ever uncovered in Connecticut.

With two companions, Sherwood dug beneath twelve inches of leaf mold that covered the flooring of the shelter to make his discovery.

Included in the relics were 102 arrowheads, two steel knives and one of bronze, fragments of small clay trade pipes, pottery fragments as well as a number of teeth, bones and jaws of animals.

One of the relics was an English farthing dated 1724 and bearing the head of King George I. About the size of a penny, the farthing had become dark green in color and, although weatherbeaten, bears legible inscriptions.

The stones from which the arrowheads had been fashioned were quartz, slate, quartzite, chalcedony and similar stones. Rarest of the heads was one made of hartshorn, or the tip of the point of a buck's antler.

Mexicans Will Explore Civilization of Mixtecs

Mexico City. — The first scientific expedition to explore the ruins of the Mixtec civilization will leave Mexico City soon. The expedition will be headed by Dr. Alfonso Caso, archeologist and discoverer of the Monte Alban jewels in 1931.

The expedition will first make preliminary surveys at Nochiztlan and Tilantongo, in the northwestern part of the state of Oaxaca. Tilantongo is the ancient capital of the Mixtec nation, the remains of whose early crafts have established this race as the finest workers in metal of all preconquest Indians.

In fact, Mixtec jewels left by their conquering warriors in tombs in the Zapotecan city of Monte Alban formed the great treasure discovered in 1931. These jewels included gold, turquoise, crystal, pearls and other precious stones. They are prized for their exquisite craftsmanship.

Ear Is Loudspeaker

Cambridge, Mass. — The human ear can act as a radio loudspeaker, according to Dr. S. S. Stevens, of Harvard university. In experiments, ordinary alternating currents introduced into the ear by means of an electrode placed in the ear when it was filled with salt water produced sounds that could be heard.

Lynx Called Most Deadly of Animals

Hudson, N. Y. — The deadliest animal is neither the lion nor the tiger, according to John T. Benson, who operates a wild animal farm here. It is the Canadian lynx. And a handsomely coated, healthy pair are rarer and higher priced than a pair of lions or tigers.

The strongest argument for peace is the long time it takes a nation to get over the war.

THE Plus-Powered KELVINATOR GIVES YOU

FACT 1
The new Kelvinator is Plus-Powered. It has as much as double the cooling capacity of other well-known refrigerators of equal size.

FACT 2
The new Kelvinator runs only half as many minutes per day—during the rest of the time it maintains low temperatures using no current at all.

To every person who owns an electric refrigerator—to every person who plans to buy one—these two facts are of prime importance.

Because of them, many experienced refrigerator users are replacing their old refrigerators with the Plus-Powered Kelvinator.

Once you know these facts you can judge the basic refrigeration value of any refrigerator before you buy.

Refrigerators may be alike in many respects. These facts divide them into two classes. They mean that Kelvinator provides better cooling, faster freezing—that it has a longer life and effects greater savings.

See the new Plus-Powered Kelvinator today and learn first-hand the fundamentals of a truly modern refrigerator. You'll never be satisfied with anything else.

Only Kelvinator gives you all these advantages

BUILT-IN THERMOMETER...Kelvinator's plus power assures safe refrigeration temperature—always...The built-in thermometer proves this.

RUBBER GRIDS IN ALL ICE TRAYS...Kelvinator's plus power gives abundant reserve capacity to provide as much ice as you'll ever need.

CERTIFICATE OF LOW OPERATING COST...Kelvinator's plus power assures less running time each day...only Kelvinator gives you a Certificate of Low Cost of Operation.

5-YEAR PROTECTION PLAN...Kelvinator's plus power unit runs less time at slower speed—years of dependable service—certified with a Five-Year Protection Plan.

PARTY VIEWS COUNTY SITE FOR HOSPITAL

Lexington, Ky., April 29—Gov. A. B. Chandler requested a survey and complete details concerning a proposed Eastern State hospital site on the Mt. Tabor pike after he had been conducted on an inspection tour of the land today by a group selected by the Lexington Board of Commerce.

While agreeing to take under consideration the Fayette county tract the governor said: "It looks pretty good, but I don't believe there's a better site in the state of Kentucky than the Boyle and Mercer county land I have been considering."

The land which the governor investigated today runs from the Mt. Tabor pike to the Armstrong Mill pike and lies in a quadrangle formed by the two pikes, the Richmond pike and the Tates Creek pike. It is held by several owners, but real estate men, acting for the Board of Commerce, have procured options on approximately 1,200 acres. Eight hundred acres of this total can be purchased for an average of $121 an acre. If the entire 1,200 were purchased, however, the average would be raised to between $131 and $135 an acre.

Gov. Chandler was accompanied on the tour of the property by State Welfare Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis, County Judge W. E. Nichols, Mayor E. Reed Wilson, James M. Todd, president of the Board of Commerce; Ed Wilder, executive secretary of the trade board; Col. James H. Graham, state technical adviser, and others.

The governor told the group, as he had told the Fayette county delegation which visited him at Frankfort Monday, "Lexington failed to offer any sort of new site until two weeks ago, despite the fact that I declared more than a year ago that the state was going to build a new hospital and that it was not going to be constructed on the site where the old now stands."

Mr. Wilder then said that a Fayette county committee had been inspecting sites for a number of weeks and had made recommendations to persons believed to have been in authority to speak for the governor.

Speaks For Himself

In reply to that, Gov. Chandler said, "I speak for myself, and sooner or later people are going to find that out."

While conducting the governor on the tour, Mr. Todd and Mr. Wilder pointed out that the land was productive, that a power line from Dix Dam ran adjacent to the property, that the pumping station for the water plant was only a half mile away and that two reservoirs lay adjoining the tract. Also they stated that both the C. and O. and Southern railways tracks were only two miles distanct.

Gov. Chandler said that he would like to have a survey and map of the land showing the individual farms and the prices of each. He stated further that if the Fayette countians expected any action on their proposed site they would have to get clear titles to the land and have it ready for almost immediate possession should it be accepted. "To get the Boyle county land," he said, "all we have to do is to pay the money and take over the site."

Mr. Wallis said, "This is a beautiful tract of land and would make an excellent hospital location."

Col. Graham said the tract was all right except that it was a little far removed from a railroad. The land on Lake Herrington, he said lay just a half mile from a track.

Gov. Chandler told the delegation last Monday and reiterated today that when the hospital was moved the old site would be made into a diagnostic clinic, which would be operated in connection with the University of Kentucky.

RAIN INJURES LEAF PLANTS IN HARRISON

Cynthiana, Ky., April 29—Many farmers of Harrison county "eport that recent heavy rains have done much damage to tobacco plant beds sown in the lowlands and on hillsides. It is estimated that one-fourth of the plants in the county have been destroyed, some farmers reporting every plant lost. The outlook for a plentiful supply was good, previous to the rains, the plants being thrifty and of considerable size. The loss will be a handicap, since tobacco raisers generally had planned to plant a large acreage in tobacco this year than last. Farming lands also in some localities have been considerably damaged by the washing rains particularly on hillsides.

HUBERT RYLE

Hubert Ryle, son of Thaddeus and America Stephens Ryle was born August 4, 1874 and passed away at his home in East Bend, April 29, 1937, at the age of 62 years, 8 months and 25 days.

Mr. Ryle was born and reared in Boone County, living his entire life in and near the community in which he was born. He was the youngest and last remaining of a family of six children.

He attended the schools of Rising Sun, Ind., and Quincy, Ill., graduating from the latter in the year of 1893, after which he took up farming, continuing that pursuit until ill health forced him to retire some two years ago.

On September 12, 1895 he was united in marriage to Dessie B. Stephens, who with one son "Thad" a daughter-in-law and one granddaughter remain to mourn his going. One other son preceded him in infancy.

Hubert, as he was familiarly called by all his friends was a quiet unassuming man, always ready to lend a helping hand whenever and wherever needed.

He was an honest upright gentleman, standing only for things of the truest character and was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him.

Besides his kind and faithful wife, loving son and family, he leaves numerous nieces and nephews and a host of distant relatives and many friends who will sadly miss him.

"Life is real, life is earnest
And the grave is not the goal;
Dust thou art, to dust returneth
Was not spoken of the soul."

MILK STRIKE IS SETTLED AT ASHLAND

Ashland, Ky., May 3—The milk strike which has been in progress here since last Saturday morning, was settled here late today with employees of the five milk companies involved winning two of the five points they demanded.

The strickers won recognition of the union and their salary demand which was a minimum of $25 per week. The demand for a week's vacation annually with pay and seniority rights are to be arbitrated, W. C. Burrow, Director of the State Department of Industrial Relation, and Mayor Will C. Simpson, who have been sitting on the negotiations with the strikers and milk distributors, announced as soon as the agreement had been signed. Burrow said the points left unsettled would be settled within 45 days.

The price of milk is to remain at 14 cents a quart. The farmers, who were in the conference, had been receiving $2.85 a hundred pounds for raw milk. Under the terms of the new agreement they will receive only $2.75 per hundred pounds. Their decision to accept the cut in the price of raw milk made the settlement of the strike possible, Burrow said.

LEXINGTON MAN TO HEAD ADVISORY GROUP WITH LIVESTOCK COOPERATIVE

Virgil Steed, Lexington, was chosen chairman of the operating and advisory committee of the Lexington branch of the Producers Cooperative Commission Association at a meeting of 21 committeemen representing a number of central Kentucky counties Saturday, April 29th at the Phoenix hotel.

George D. Robinson, Lancaster, was chosen vice chairman, and R. Q. Smith, Cincinnati, will act as secretary. Mr. Smith, who is manager of the Cincinnati and Dayton, O., branches, also will be general manager of the Lexington branch.

Charles Rose, Lexington, was selected to head the cattle and calf division of the local yards, and Kirby Conner, Cincinnati, was named head of the sheep division. Both men have been employed for a number of years by the Cincinnati branch of the association.

The Producers association has leased the yards of the Lexington Livestock Commission Company and will start daily sales May 17.

CARD OF THANKS

DEMOCRATS HAVE RECORD CROWD

AT REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING AT WAYSIDE INN—BEAVER, WALTON AND UNION PRECINCTS IN CHARGE.

The Young Men's Democratic Club of Boone County held their regular monthly meeting at the Wayside Inn, Monday night, and a record crowd enjoyed a fish fry prepared by the Walton, Beaver and Union members.

President Ted Heile called the meeting to order and several committees made favorable reports. After considerable discussion, it was decided that the club would sponsor a dance in the near future, probably the later part of this month. A definite date, time and place will appear in next week's issue.

Another very complimentary step taken by the club Monday night, was to set aside $25.00 to be given as a donation to the Florence Voluntary Fire Department to help purchase a new pumper for the department. The donation was accepted by Mr. Ewing, chief of the Fire Department.

Several other committees were appointed to represent the club in other projects. Two of these committees being: first, a group of three to raise funds for the Booth Memorial Hospital movement now underway, and second, a group to go before the fiscal court at their next session and urge the appointment of a county nurse for this county in the coming year.

The Young Men's Democratic Club is a growing organization, and is doing many things for the benefit of the county. At the present time there is a membership drive under way and many new members are being added. Bailey Greenup, Burlington and Tom Owens, Florence, are the two captains, who have appointed workers in each community in the county. The two captains surely are doing a good job, but neither will reveal the exact number of new members until the drive is over.

BRIDGE TO CINCINNATI PURCHASED BY STATE

Frankfort, Ky., May 6—The state of Kentucky, Governor Chandler announced Wednesday, has agreed to purchase in the near future for $2,100,000 the Chespeake & Ohio vehicular bridge across the Ohio river between Covington and Cincinnati.

The bridge will be made toll-free as soon as toll receipts liquidate the 3 percent revenue bonds which the state will sell to finance the purchase.

The governor said he has instructed Commissioner of Highways Robert Humphreys and Highway Engineer Thomas H. Cutler to complete immediately negotiations for acquisition of the bridge.

Mr. Carr has lived in this district for many years and is therefore well acquainted with the improvements which have been made and which are needed at the present. He also is well acquainted with the condition of roads in his district.

If elected Mr. Carr stated, he will make every effort to represent his district in a very efficient manner.

SPRING RALLY DAY FOR 4-H CLUBS TO BE HELD SATURDAY, MAY 29TH

Spring Rally Day for all Boone County 4-H clubs will be held at Burlington school house, Saturday, May 29th. Every club in the county is planning to be represented by at least one demonstration team, and two health contests.

There will be two types of demonstrations, agricultural projects and home economic projects. The county champion demonstration teams from each of these departments will be awarded a trip to Junior Week, which will be held at Lexington, June 7th to 12th.

The health contest will determine the healthiest boy and girl in 4-H club work in Boone County. These champions will also be awarded a trip to Lexington to enter State competitions at Junior Week.

JUSTICES STUDY ISSUE OF OLD AGE PENSIONS

Washington, May 8—The major questions before justices off the supreme court at their secret weekly conference today was whether the old age pension provisions of the social security act are constitutional.

This was the first opportunity the court had to discuss the case since arguments were heard last Wednesday.

A decision may be announced on May 17. A final decision on other litigation involving the unemployment insurance procisions of the federal act and supplementary state legislation may be forthcoming at that time also.

CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY OF BOONE COUNTY—SERVED AS CASHIER OF HEBRON BANK FOR 14 YEARS.

In this issue of The Recorder, Chas. W. Riley, of Hebron, Ky., has formally announced his candidacy for County Attorney of Boone County in the Democratic election which is to be held Saturday, Aug. 7th, 1937.

Mr. Riley ranks as one of Boone County's most prominent business men, serving as cashier of the Hebron Deposit Bank from 1922 until he was elected to the office of County Attorney last summer to fulfill the vacancy caused by the death of B. H. Riley. He was born and reared on a farm, and followed farming as his means of livelihood from 1910 until 1922.

Mr. Riley was born on a farm in Boone County, December 13, 1891, and has spent his entire life as a citizen here. He received his education in the common schools of Boone County, Covington High School, and Transylvania College. In 1928, he entered the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A. Law school where he later received his L. L. B. degree. He was admitted to the bar in 1930, and since that time has been practicing law in Boone County.

He is the son of the late C. W. and Corrine Riley, also life-long residents of this county.

Mr. Riley desires to state to the voters of Boone County that if he is re-elected to this office, he will serve in the same manner as in the past.

EIGHT CARS OF T. V. A. PHOSPHATE ORDERED FOR BOONE COUNTY

Eight carloads of T. V. A. phosphate totaling 190 tons have been ordered from the County Office for 243 Boone County farmers, according to David Colville, Assistant County Agent. Farmers are given credit at the rate $32.25 per ton for the application of this phosphate. The eight carloads represent an earning for farmers of $6,127.50.

The T. V. A. fertilizr must be applied to soil conserving crops (grasses and legumes) before Oct. 31, 1937. The T. V. A. authorities are not running competition against local commercial fertilizer dealers because this phosphate cannot be used under corn, tobacco or any other soil depleting crops, and very little if any, phosphate has been sold in the county by these dealers for soil conserving crops.

Three carloads of phosphate are being made up at the present time to be sent to Erlanger, Walton and Verona. Farmers desiring to secure this phosphate are urged to call at the County Agent's office or get in touch with B. W. Franks at Walton or O. K. Powers at Verona and order their phosphate as soon as possible.

Earl Sullivan and daughter are suffering from an attack of the measles.

HYBRID SEED CORN TESTS

TO BE MADE IN HEBRON, BURLINGTON, FLORENCE AND HAMILTON — FIVE VARITIES HAVE BEEN RECEIVED.

Kentucky Experiment Station double crossed hybrid seed corn strains of five varieties Nos. 69, 75, 76, 79, and 82 have been received for demonstrational purposes for work planned in Hebron, Burlington, Florence and Hamilton 1937 Community Agricultural Improvement Programs of Work, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

Hybrid seed corn of these strains developed by Prof. E. J. Kenney, of the College of Agriculture, have resulted in increased corn yields up to approximately 90 per cent over the common varieties grown. The demonstrations planned will be carefully checked this year under Boone County conditions and reports will be made public this fall. Cooperators in these demonstrations are Harry Tanner, Florence; Davis Gaines and Harold Crigler, Hebron; Prof. D. H. Norris and H. E. White, Burlington and Noel Walton, of Hamilton. The Utopia club members are also conducting nine demonstrations and an acre of hybrid seed corn breeding project in addition to the above work. Several farmers also have purchased hybrid seed from commercial sources for planting.

Farmers desiring to purchase hybrid seed corn are advised that strains quite often adapted in other states may not be adapted in Kentucky. When ever any new seed is developed many dealers often unscrupulously attempt to take advantage of the situation by selling a product at an unfair price or a substitute for the genuine. Reliable sources indicate that most growers of genuine Kentucky adapted double crossed hybrid seed have been sold out of their saleable supply for some time. Farmers should not become overly enthused about purchasing of adapted hybrid corn this year, but should wait to study the results of the demonstration work planned.

LOCAL STUDENTS WIN IN ACHIEVEMENT TESTS

Results of the recent achievement tests conducted in Kentucky high schools under auspicies of the University of Kentucky extension department were announced Saturday by Louis Clifton, director.

The tests were taken by 1,900 high school boys and girls in 170 different schools. Lithographed certificates will be awarded to those pupils who ranged in the upper 10 per cent in the various tests.

Local students who were listed among the winners are as follows:

Literature—James Conner, of Hebron high school.

General Science—Florence Cook, of Burlington high school.

Biology—Charles Watson of Walton-Verona high school.

Algebra I—William Clutterbuck, Lloyd, of Erlanger.

Plane Geometry—Robert Dunham, Lloyd Memorial, Erlanger.

FLORENCE MAN BUYS INTEREST IN CARROLL COUNTY MOTOR CO.

Joe Surface, of Florence, has purchased an interest in the Carroll County Motor Company, of Carrollton, according to word received here last week.

Mr. Surface, a resident of Florence for the past 15 years, is well known throughout Boone county, and was for many years connected with the C. W. Myers Motor Co., of Florence.

Mr. Surface will be missed by his many friends in Boone County but we join in wishing him much success in his new field.

He is expecting to move his family to Carrollton in the near future.

LUMBER BLOWS OFF TRUCK CAUSING ACCIDENT

According to a report received at this office Tuesday, lumber which was being hauled by the Erlanger Lumber Co., blew off the bed of a truck, causing two trucks to be badly damaged, owned by W. J. Craig.

According to the report, two of Craigs trucks and a car driven by Orville Kelly was traveling east on the Burlington-Florence pike, and the Erlanger Lumber Co., truck was traveling west. Just as the trucks and car were passing, a gust of wind hit the lumber blowing it off into the road, causing one of the drivers of Craig's truck to ram into the other. The damage was estimated at approximately $200.00.

MELON GROWERS CONTINUE TO STUDY WILT RESTISTANT

Petersburg and Belleview watermelon growers are continuing this year demonstrations and study work in the growing of higher quality market melons that are resistant in the fild to wilt, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent Demonstrators in this study, the past week received seed of the Stone Mountain Wilt Resistant No. 5 and Improced Kleckley Wilt Resistant No. 6 developed by the Iowa Experiment Station. Plans are to try in addition to these two resistant varieties.

Wilt Resistant Thurmond Gray or Dark Seeded Grey Monarch.

Wilt Reistant Klondike R7.

Wilt Resistant Klondike R 16.

Petersburg and Belleview bottoms are famous thruout Northern Kentucky for their fine quality of melons produced. The efficient control of wilt would prove a great help to the industry in these communities. Committeemen assisting in the demonstration study are J. J. Klopp, Andy Cook and J. H. Huey in Petersburg community; L. W. Rogers, Edward Rogers, and F. H. Brown in Belleview community.

MAY 15TH LAST DAY TO PAY KY. INCOME TAX

May 15th marks the close of time in which Kentucky state corporations and individual income taxes may be paid without penalty. The time for paying the Kentucky tax on income earned during 1936 was extended from April 15 to May 15, by proclamation of the Governor.

BURLINGTON GOING STRONG

IN BOONE COUNTY BASEBALL LEAGUE—WIN OVER BOB & SATURDAY BY SCORE OF 14 TO 7.

The Burlington nine, met the strong team, of Bob and Gene's last Saturday and chalked up another victory by the score of 14 to 7. The local boys have played only two games and have been the winners in both tilts.

Akins and Kirk were on the mound for the Burlington team, with Britch Stephens behind the bat, while Bob Smith and Cliff Stephens were on the mound for Bob and Gene with Bud Cleek on the receiving end.

The Burlington boys got off to a very poor start, but near the end of the game staged a rally which placed them in the lead, which they held the remainder of the game.

Next Saturday Burlington will invade the Petersburg stronghold where a very interesting and hard-fought game is expected.

The local baseball club is now getting the schoolhouse grounds in shape for their next game, which will be an improvement needed for sometime. The grounds are being made larger and the diamond smoothed, which will make the game much faster.

ZOO WILL GET SNAKE FOUND WITH BANANAS

A baby boa constrictor three feet long will be added to the Zoos reptile house collection, it was learned Saturday.

It will be donated by F. Perrone & Co., 248 W. Sixth street, whose employes found it Friday, frozen stiff from a long stay in refrigerated freight cars, clinging to a banana stalk.

Hastily "poured" into a jar, the snake was taken to Ralph Drury, curator of the Museum of Natural History. Mr. Drury identified the reptile as a close kin to the water type of boa, which reaches 25 feet in length at maturity. The perrone boa is non-poisonous.

DON'T FORGET BIG AUCTION

Saturday, May 15th, beginning at 10 A. M., Dr. Yelton's splendid 428 acre farm and personalty will be sold at absolute auction. Be sure to attend this sale, all your friends will be there, and you'll enjoy the outing. Lunch will be served on the grounds by the Burlington P.-T. A. Al Schild's band of Covington will be on hand to furnish music in their usual delightful manner. And, too, you may win some money for $50.00 will be given away absolutely free. The Guy Downs Realty Co., of Shelbyville, Kentucky, in charge of the sale, extends to you a special invitation. Those associated with this firm will greatly appreciate your presence. —adv.

BOONE COUNTY RELAYS SUCCESS

HAMILTON WINS WITH HEBRON SECOND—MEET HELD AT HEBRON THURSDAY, MAY 6—FIVE SCHOOLS REPRESENTED.

Due to wet grounds and rain the Boone County Track and Field Meet which was scheduled at Hebron for May 5th was postponed until May 6th.

Five of the schools of the Boone County Conference had representatives in the events. This group of boys took part in what will be an annual competitive meet in the future. They are to be congratulated because of their efforts in making the first conference relays successful and interesting.

Trophies go to the wininng school, the runner-up, the winning relay team, and to individual winners. The winning trophy is presented by the Boone County Board of Education, and will be passed to the winning school from year to year. Hamilton is the proud possessor of this beautiful symbol of victory for the first year. Hebron will have the runner-up trophy as well as the relay trophy from the first meet.

Of unusual significance was the thrilling performance of Williamson from Hamilton. This lad started out winning in good form and never tired as the meet progressed, and when the last event was finished, and the managers had time to count his totals, it was found that this athlete had six first places. Such a feat is far from ordinary when competition is as keen as ti was in this meet. Goodridge of Hebron and Jones of Hamilton were among the other outstanding entrants, each showing a first place or tie for first. Jones came in with two firsts one in the 440 and one in the 880 yard run.

From the standpoint of the sidelines, there was plenty of thrills. Many of the onlookers, however, admitted that they were seeing their first track and field meet to be conducted in such a manner. Nothing makes the sportlover's blood tingle more than to see a well-developed young man coming in on the stretch in front of his opponents in a hard race. There was no evidence of any boy attempting to win by foul means in this meet, a thing which gave the crowd a happier afternoon. All who were there will feel a deeper interest in the school sports program after having seen this competition out in the open.

Below are the statistics for the various schools showing how the points were distributed and how the contestants who placed came in. The times for the track events and distances for the field events, while not records, show that there are many possibilities for records when these boys have had some years of seasoning. Most of the boys had never entered a meet of this kind, and the coaches had to start them from the ground floor. Equipment was limited this year, but school officials agreed that more would be added from time to time, and that more emphasis would be placed upon this phase of the athletic program of the Boone County schools.

220 Yard Dash—1st, Williamson, Hamilton, 25.5; 2nd Rairden, Florence; 3rd W. Bradford. Hebron.

440 Yard Dash—1st Jones, Hamilton 1 min. 6 sec.; 2nd Knox, New Haven; 3rd Marshall, Hebron.

880 Yard Dash—1st Jones, Hamilton, 2 min. 30 sec.; 2nd Conner, Hebron; 3rd Huey, Hebron.

1 Mile Run—1st Bankemper, of Florence, 5 min. 49.5 sec.; 2nd Huey Hebron; 3rd Ryle, Hamilton.

440 Yard Relay—1st Hebron; 2nd Hamilton; 3rd Florence.

Shot Put—1st Williamson, Hamilton, 36 ft. 4 in.; 2nd, Carroll, of Hamilton; 3rd Darby, Hebron.

Pole Vault—1st (tie) C. Goodridge Cave, Hebron 9 ft. 5 in.; 3rd (tie) W. Aylor, Hamilton, Haley, New Haven.

Discus—1st Williamson, Hamilton, 99 ft. 4 in.; 2nd Knox, New Haven; 3rd Darby, Hebron.

Broad Jump—1st Williamson, of Hamilton, 17 ft. 8 in.; 2nd Cave, of Hebron; 3rd A. Bradford, Hebron.

High Jump—1st Williamson, of Hamilton, 5 ft. 2 in.; 2nd Marshall, Hebron; 3rd Howard, New Haven.

In the following, the total points earned by each school has been based on 5 points for first. 3 for second and 2 for third:

School	1st	2nd	3rd	Total
1st Hamilton	8	2	*1	49
2nd Hebron	2	6	5	38
3rd Florence	1	1	2	12
4th New Haven	0	2	*2	11
5th Burlington	0	0	0	0

*Hamilton and New Haven split an additional third place in the pole vault.

PEDESTRIANS RIGHTS ARE GIVEN PRECEDENCE

Frankfort, Ky., May 6—Pedestrians have the right of way over vehicular traffic on cross-walks at street intersections, the Court of Appeals held Tuesday in reversing judgment of Jefferson Circuit Court in a damage suit growing out of a fatal automobile accident.

The suit was filed by the administrator of the estate of Miss Barbara Pryor, who was fatally injured December 11, 1935, when struck by an automobile driven by John D. Otter at Brook and Brekinridge Streets, Louisville. The Circuit Court, the Court of Appeals held, erred in instructing the jury that Ottr had the right of way. The intersection had a painted cross-walk for pedestrians.

When there is no spectific statute or ordinance changing the role, the court said, "pedestrians and automobile drivers have equal right in the use of streets and highways. Where the municipal authorities have laid down cross-walks, even over a boulevard, pedestrians have the right of the immediate and preferrential use of the street over ordinary motor cars."

The pedestrian, the court pointed out, must exercise ordinary care for his own safety.

HEBRON HOMEMAKERS

The Hebron Homemakers will meet Wednesday, May 19 instead of their regular meeting date, as Miss Gillaspie was unable to be present at that time.

BROWN IN RACE FOR CO. JUDGE

HAS BEEN RESIDENT OF BELLEVIEW FOR PAST THIRTY YEARS — ORGANIZED CITIZENS DEPOSIT BANK.

F. H. Brown, of Belleview precinct makes his formal announcement for Judge of Boone County in this week's issue of the Recorder.

He has been a resident of the Belleview precinct for the past 30 years, organized the Citizens Deposit Bank of that place and was elected cashier and director, serving for six years in this capacity. In 1909 he was elected member of the Belleview School Board and filled this position for sixteen years.

He was married to Grace M. Rogers, a Boone County girl in the year 1900. He has been an active farmer his entire life.

Mr. Brown received his education in the Owen County school, and graduated from the University of Kentucky Commercial Department in 1905.

He stated that he was in favor of repealing the poll tax law, was in favor of lower valuation on property damaged by the 1937 flood; relief to the needy and distressed; retaining the present County Agent and his staff of workers. He also stated he favored the work of the 4-H and Utopia Clubs and the Homemakers' Club.

Mr. Brown stated that if elected he would do everything in his power to make Boone County an efficient judge.

A HAPPY BIRTHDAY AND MOTHER'S DAY

The children, friends, and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Isaacs Sunday to celebrate Mr. Isaacs' birthday, who was 57 years of age.

It was a great surprise to him as he knew nothing of it. Mr. Ed Shinkle invited him to go to Sunday School with him, and of course he accepted the invitation. When he returned home there were cars parked in front of the house, people standing in the yard. He wondered what was wrong. All gretted him with "happy birthday" and he received several nice presents.

A beautiful Angel Food cake bearing 57 candles was placed in the center of the table with everything good to eat placed around it.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wharton and son, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Kirtley, Mr. and Mrs. Ange Hodges and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Sullivan and son, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shinkle and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Black, Mr. and Mrs. Raq Smith, Miss Velma Gene Ogden, Miss Velma Lea Black, Willie Sheets, Roy Sullivan, Jimmie Smith, Gladys Isaacs, Ryle Isaacs and Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Isaacs.

At a late hour all departed to their homes wishing Mr. Isaacs many more happy birthdays and good health.

INDIANA BOND STAYS HEARING

OF AUTO PARTS DEALER'S CASE — DEFENDANT WISHES TO CLEAR HIMSELF OF THIS CHARGE SOON AS POSSIBLE.

Hearing of a habeas corpus action filed by Silas Corbin, Covington, used automobile parts dealer, and resident of Boone County, was continued to Monday in Kenton Circuit Court, Covington, when Corbin's counsel informed Judge Johnst Northcutt that Corbin had posted $2,500 bond in Bartholomew County, Indiana, last Friday for his appearance to answer a charge of "vehicle taking" there.

The hapeas corpus action had been filed in Kenton County after Corbin had been arrested in Covington by Charles D. Crowe, Kentucky state patrolman, at the request of Indiana State Police who charged Corbin was implicated in operations of an automobile theft ring in Indiana. An Indiana warrant for Corbin's arrest was sent to Covington, and Indiana authorities obtained requisition papers for his return.

Judge Northcutt had taken the matter under submission when Corbin was released on bond in Covington pending the habeas corpus hearing. In consideration of the legal complication arising from Corbin's voluntary appearance in Indiana the Judge ordered the continuance. Some attorneys held that Corbin's action in giving bond in Indiana automatically set aside the habeas corpus application in Kentucky.

"Corbin does not wish to place himself in the position of being a fugitive from justice, and desires to clear himself of the charge against him as soon as possible," Bert J. King, Corbin's attorney, told Judge Northcutt, in announcing Corbin's trip to Indiana. An Indiana attorney accompanied Corbin to Bartholomew County to assist in arranging for the bond, King said.

REAL ESTATE MOVING

A. B. Renaker sold to Mr. and Mrs. Luther Smith the Rogers property adjoining the Renaker home a few days ago. Mr. Renaker purchased this property two years ago from the W. R. Rogers Estate. Mr. and Mrs. Smith plan to repair the property and make it a home.

The Peoples Deposit Bank sold to Roy James, Sr., the large brick store property in Petersburg formerly owned by R. E. Berkshire. Mr. James plans to place the building in repair and continue to operate a cafe as has been operated by Mr. James' son for the past several months.

For the past several weeks the Peoples Deposit Bank has had several carpenters, painters and other workmen busy placing in repair the buildings on the 130 acres a mile out on the Belleview Highway. The work is about completed and gives to the farm a very pleasing appearance. The bank is offering the farm for sale privately.

THE AGE OF HURRY

There is such a thing as the tempo of an age. People of one generation do move faster, feel more hurried, and experience a greater sense of strain than those of another. The various modern instrumentalities of transportation and the universal application of machinery to the activities and labors of man have much to do with the fact that the present age is one of hurry and harrassment.

A tragedy which occurred in New York a few days ago illustrates this. A young girl employed in the metropolis was brought to the station by her mother to catch the regular commuter. They were a little late and the train had begun to move. The girl ran through the gate, rushed up to the next-to-the last coach, attempted to swing herself up and was thrown under the wheels, having both lower limbs cut off.

She had only to wait 18 minutes for another fast train, but didn't, she felt, have the time to spare. Crippled for life, her prospects ruined, her family grief-stricken, she realizes that had she taken things a little more philosophically and mastered her impatience, all would have been well. In order to save 18 minutes she wrecked her career.

So it is that drivers plunge ahead racing for a railroad crossing in order to save 30 seconds, and in thousands of instances are ground to pieces beneath the wheels of a locomotive. So men and women impatient of the slightest delay, drive at reckless speed along the highways, collide with other cars, fail to negotiate curves, or otherwise kill themselves by the tens of thousands every year. They dash up to intersections trying to beat the red light and are unable to stop in time to avoid an accident. They attempt to weave in and out of traffic at high speed and are caught and maimed or snuffed out.

But while many thousands are each year killed because of the speed mania, a far greater number perish of the degenerative diseases of the heart, because of excessive strain and the stress of hurry and anxiety. Each year raises the mortality rate on account of heart affections which are the direct results of the universal malady of hurry.

If men would go more softly, more quietly, with a greater appreciation of the uselessness and danger of hurry, and would live more simply, more naturally, life would be far more enjoyable and longevity would increase. It is entirely possible to live on 24 hours a day. Nature has decreed that men shall have only so much time.

Thoreau said long ago that men no longer understand "sauntering" and never think of themselves any more as "part and parcel of nature, rather than members of society." A saunterer, as he points out, was one who in the Middle Ages wandered about trying to collect enough to take him on a pilgrimage to the Holy Land. So men should think of nature rather than mere civilized manikins hurried here and there and made to act a part.

THE AGE LIMIT

For some reason we're not hearing so much about the "age limit" in industry now that jobs are becoming more plentiful. And it is well. If there ever was a foolish argument it is that a man loses his usefulness after he passes the age of 45.

Possibly no man is better qualified to speak on the subject than is Henry Ford, largest individual employer of labor in the world. He is on record as saying that a man's most valuable are those after he is 40; that he has not, lacking experience the sound judgment needed in most lines of industry, And the majority of men in key positions in Ford's plants, and the men closest to him, are men past the 45-year mark.

Glance around Boone County and note the good work being done by men who are over 45 years old and you will have a better idea of how foolish this "age limit" talk sounds. Go anywhere else and you will find the proportion as great as it is here. Young heads are essential in business and industry, of course. But the day has not yet arrived when the world can get along without older heads, men of experience, and judgment, and calmness and wise counsel when it is desperately needed. The lamented Will Rogers, speaking some years ago on this same subject, said: "Young men are all right in industry, but I've noticed it's most always an old man that owns the whistle—and an old man that blows it." And it will always be so, regardless of any argument that a man's usefulness departs when he passes life's 45th milestone.

FIRE AND CHILDREN

Statistics show there's a fire a minute in the United States, and two-thirds of all of them occur in homes. With that in mind parents should take steps immediately to safeguard their children more than they have been accustomed to in the past.

Don't leave small children at home alone, and don't harbor a fire hazard when you know it exists. Hundreds of fires are started annually by children playing with matches; in other instances a stove door is opened or a lid lifted off by a child while its parents are out of the house and fatal results often follow the pouring of gasoline or kerosene on a fire by a child too small to realize the consequences. All small children love to play with fire, and no precaution should be overlooked in restraining them.

Another thing to be avoided is hanging clothing too close to stoves or piles. These can easily become ignited during your absence and the home reduced to ashes—along with the children if you have left them at home alone—within a few minutes time. Waste of all kinds, such as rags and paper, should be disposed of as it accumulates or stored in metal containers, and electric wires that have become frayed should be replaced before a short-circuit ignites carpet or rug. Fire is this nation's most destructive agent, and no community is immune. Your own home may be the next one to around here. Don't suffer the double calamity of losing your children, too, by leaving them in the house alone.

IMPORTED SEED

For several years past there has been a noticeable increase in the amount of imported seed coming into this country. As a rule the imported article sells at from eight to ten cents a pound below the American-grown varieties, and farmers anxious to save a few cents forget about quality and go in for price. As a result a new warning is being broadcast by the federal government, and everyone in Boone County who buys seed should heed it. Imported clover and alfalfa seed, according to the warning, is not always adaptable for successful growth in this country and even if it is lower in price it is more costly in th long run because it is unfitted for a vast part of American soil. The warning should be heeded, and it would also be a good idea to go still farther and treat everything else imported from across the sea with a measure of suspicion.

SOUTHEAST STOCK JUDGING CONTEST WON BY KENTUCKY

The College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky captured highest honors in the recent southeastern livestock judging contest at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville.

As a team the three Kentucky boys stood 60 points above their nearest competitor, the Virginia Polytechnic Institute. They also were the best judges of beef cattle and mules and second on horses.

Highest individual honors went to Harlan Veal, Lexington and George Kurtz, Lancaster, ranked fourth as an individual judge. The other member of the Kentucky team was Thomas Culton of Boyle county.

Other teams in the contest were from Clemson Agricultural College in South Carolina, the Mississippi A. & M. College, the North Carolina Agricultural College and the Louisiana Southwestern Institute.

The Kentucky team was trained by Prof. L. J. Horlacher.

49-YEAR-OLD HAT IN STYLE THIS SEASON

When members of homemakers' clubs in Ballard county gathered to bring some old hats up-to-date they found that a hat of the year 1889 needed no attention. It was right in style this spring—flat,tin-plate like, with a tiny crown. Mrs. Harrison Hughes' grandmother wore the hat in the Easter parade at Wickliffe nearly a half-century ago.

Mrs. Hattie Newman of Kevil brought a hat of the Spanish-American war period. It needed a lot of attention, for on it were feathers, ribbon and flowers. Other hats that looked strange today were of the World War period.

Ballard county women revamped 200 hats, according to Mary Lou Jackson, county home agent.

AGED BIRD FOSSIL SHOWS NEW SPECIES

Bone of Pigmy Falcon Is Found in Nebraska.

Washington, D. C. — Nature was kind to birds 40,000,000 years ago. In the relatively equable climate of the middle and upper miocene geological periods, it is indicated by their scanty fossil remains, various avian families developed a wide diversity of form and size, the less fit of which were exterminated in the bitter cold of the long ice ages which followed.

New evidence of this comes in the form of a pigmy falcon just described as a new species by Dr. Alexander Wetmore, assistant secretary of the Smithsonian institution. A single bone was collected in a quarry in Dawes county, Nebraska, where also were found fossil bones of ancient horses and other animals of the American midwest in the miocene period. It was referred to the Smithsonian for identification.

Size of Sparrow Hawk.

Most of the falcons of the present are relatively large and powerful birds of prey. This species, Dr. Wetmore deduces from the fossil bone, was about the size of the male of the small race of the sparrow hawk now found in Florida.

Other pigmy forms related to birds still extant, Dr. Wetmore says, have been found in the same general period of geological time. One was a chachalaca, a distant relative of the turkeys, one species of which now lives in Texas. The fossil form is less than half the size of the modern species of this group.

Another is a fossil oyster-catcher, of about the stature of a small sandpiper. Still another is a form which closely resembles the present Carolina paroquet, but is only about three-fourths as large.

Another fossil bird collected in the same general locality and described by Dr. Wetmore as a new species appears to have been an exceptionally strong, predatory type of hawk of a group now represented only in the old world. It also dates from the middle, or lower part of the upper miocene period.

Few Fossils of Birds.

The story of bird life in the past, it is explained by Smithsonian ornithologists, must be reconstructed on very slender evidence. There is none of the abundance of fossil material with which the story of mammal life can be reconstructed. The bones of birds were lighter and more likely to decompose before the fossilization process set in. Moreover, birds were not so likely to perish under conditions conducive to their preservation as fossils.

U. S. Output Is Booming in Stamps and Currency

Washington. — Booming business has the presses in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing rolling day and night to meet demand for stamps and new currency.

Demand for two and three cent stamps, according to postal officials, is the highest since 1929. So far demand for these stamps is 20 per cent over that of the previous fiscal year. Post office revenues, an official said, may break the all-time record of 750,400,000 set in 1930.

At the Bureau of Engraving, it was revealed that from July 1 to November 30 a daily average of 59,000,000 postage stamps had been printed, compared with 45,000,000 in 1933. The daily average of cigarette stamps was 32,000,000; for tobacco stamps, 9,800,000, and for liquor stamps, 4,800,000.

The daily average of new currency printing was 3,600,000, compared to 2,100,000 in 1933. A Treasury official attributed the increase to more rapid circulation of money.

Two shifts are at work to keep up the stamp supply. Three shifts have been employed in producing new seamen certificates required under the Copeland safety-at-sea act.

Four Black Cats Worth $25,000 to Some Family

San Francisco. — Four black cats will mean a modest fortune to some San Francisco family if the terms of the will of Shirley Moore, fifty-seven years old, retired postal clerk who died recently, are carried out.

"I bequeath my life savings of $25,000 to anyone who will care for and feed my four black cats, providing the guardian has no children in his household," Moore wrote.

Here Is the Real Utopia; No Laws and No Taxes

Sydney. — The town of Collarenebri, 455 miles from here, claims more of the comforts of home and fewer of the municipal discomforts than any other town in the world.

As for the lack of municipal discomforts, it has no mayors, no aldermen, no property rates, no fire department, no brick building, no unemployment, no crime and no laws.

Find Old Trees

Olivet, Mich. — Tree surgeons working on the Olivet College campus have found specimens which they say are more than 400 years old. The college, the campus of which is famous for its ancient oaks, has inaugurated a tree planting program to replace older trees.

It seems that the American home can't be run any more without a bridge table, a cocktail shaker and a budget.

Another trouble with our economic system, is that most of us can't sit down fast enough to keep up with the rising cost of living.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL

SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for May 16

THE FORBEARANCE OF ISAAC

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 26: 12-25.
GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God. Matthew 5:9.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Man Who Wouldn't Quarrel.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Was Isaac a Hero?
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Prevent Quarrels.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Promoting Peace.

In a world largely dominated by the philosophy that might is right and in which men are urged to assert themselves and demand their rights, exacting them even by lawless and violent methods, it is increasingly difficult to proclaim the truth that meekness is not weakness and that the Christian virtues of patience and long-suffering are not simply outmoded theories which do not fit our modern world.

The story of Isaac, the second of the patriarchs, is instructive from beginning to end. The five chapters preceding our lesson merit careful reading. Isaac had come through many blessed experiences and had also sadly tasted the defeat of unbelief and sin before we reach the time of our lesson. Fearing a famine, and evidently not being certain that God would care for him, he had gone down from the promised land, and was dwelling in the land of the Philistines. But God had not forsaken him, and even there he blessed him.

I. Peace, Prosperity, and Envy (vv. 12-17).

Isaac was at peace although he was in the enemy's territory. God had given him great prosperity with the result that the Philistines hated him. Times have changed, but men are the same. Many are they who will not have the Lord Jesus Christ to rule over them, but who cast envious glances toward those who because they have honored God have been honored by him with peace of heart and have been prospered in whatever they do. (Read Psalm 1.)

Note that Isaac's testimony is strengthened by his willingness to yield even what was his right, rather than cause contention. Undoubtedly there are times when one must defend his name and his possessions, but all too often those who "stand up for their rights" have wrecked homes, churches, and nations, and have gained nothing but an empty victory.

II. Peace in the World Is Temporary (vv. 18-21).

Isaac moved on and digged more wells, and for a time he was again at peace, but not for long. He was still in the land of the Philistines. We are in the world. We long for peace, we would throw all our influence on the side of peace. But let us not be misled, for as long as sin is in the world there will be strife and war.

Many noble Christian men and women have permitted their God-given hatred of war and killing to mislead them into support of unscriptural and impossible peace programs, often to the loss of their interest in the preaching of the gospel and the winning of souls to Christ.

But is there then never to be "peace on earth"?

III. Perfect Peace in the Presence of God (vv. 22-25).

When Isaac came up into Canaan the land which God had promised him, he found permanent peace and renewed fellowship with God. Even so, the Christian man and woman who will step out of a spirituality-destroying fellowship with the world and will come wholly over into the spiritual Canaan will find true peace and intimate communion with God.

A broader application of the same truth brings before us the teaching of Scripture that when the One who has a right to reign, the Lord Jesus Christ, returns to take his throne, then and not before, will peace cover the earth. In the meantime those who bear the beautiful name Christian, who are true followers of the Prince of Peace, will give themselves to sueh patient, loving, and longsuffering testimony to Him that their personal influence will be toward peace in the home, in the church, in the community, in the earth.

Always remember that God's Word, the Bible, is our guide. Let us read it diligently, intelligently, prayerfully. To help the reader to do this, the writer of these notes will be glad to supply without cost or obligation a Bible-reading calendar with a workable plan for reading the blessed Book through in a year. If possible enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope with your request.

Faults Showing Up

The good often sigh more over little faults than the wicked over great. Hence an old proverb, that the stain appears greater according to the brilliancy of what it touches. —Palmieri.

Sin of Not Doing

Doing nothing at all is often the worst kind of wrong doing. Simply failing to do what we ought to do may be more inexcusable than any mistake in our best methods of doing.

Reading that the ladies are going to shorten skirts to the knees, that ought to give us something to look at besides hats.

You've also probably decided by this time that too many of the present-day doctrines need doctoring.

NEW TRAVELING STORES INCREASE PARTS DISTRIBUTION EFFICIENCY

New-found efficiency in the parts distribution phase of the automobile industry is being realized through a revolutionary move which literally lifts parts and accessory stores from their old moorings and puts them on wheels—as traveling parts stores.

The new traveling stores are rapidly being put in service by Ford parts distributors throughout the United States. The units comprise a specially designed trailer drawn by a Ford tractor with 131-inch wheelbase and powered with an 85 horsepower V-8 engine. The new fleet of "stores" will carry genuine Ford parts to independent garagement and fleet operators throughout the country.

The new traveling stores system is intended to improve further service and maintenance facilities available to Ford owners, enabling garagemen and service shops to obtain without delay repair parts necessary in the service of owners' cars.

Each trailer is equipped to display and carry enough parts for several days of calls on customers without returning to the base of supply. Parts are carried in open shelving which stands nearly ceiling high down the centerline of the trailer, and in other shelves and racks which line the walls, from the floor to the windows. Four factory reconditioned engines can also be carried. There is also space in which exchange parts as well as other specially-ordered parts, can be carried. Display of parts and accessories are mounted above the windows.

Aisles between the side and center shelves provide ample place for the garagemen purchasing parts to look over stock and select their needs. Five large windows on each side provide ample light. There are large doors at the rear and at the right side. Two windows of safety glass on each side crank down, and these, coupled with air vents in the front and rear of the trailer body, provide adequate ventilation. The trailer is built with a two-inch dead air space between the steel panels of the roof and side and the plywood lining.

With the traveling parts store making frequent, scheduled stops, garagemen or service shop parts managers are rendered a more efficient service. Car owners are saved time as a result of the convenient stop on wheels.

A SEWING HINT

When making a dress that has a belt, use oilcloth to stiffen the belt. It will do as well as anything. Save trips to the store by having some on hand. The oilcloth will keep the belt from sliding and wrinkling.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

E. M. Reed, Metcalfe county, has built a two-room apartment house for his chicks, complete with heat, light and water. The heater in the center serves both rooms and may be fired without getting among the chicks. Each room has a roofed sun porch.

Running approximately 100 soil tests, Spencer county farmers are hoping by this means to improve the alfalfa crop this fall. The land proved to be deficient in phosphate and sometimes also in lime. Both are being applied rapidly.

Harvey Tongate, who has a farm in Hancock county, bought 250 bushels of "flood corn" at 25 cents per bushel. By properly drying it, he has been able to feed it to his shoats without injury to them.

Although more limestone was spread in 1936 than in any previous year, Carroll county farmers find that a large part of their land is still acid. They are spreading limestone to earn their soilbuilding allowances in many cases.

County Agent J. Lester Miller is telling farmers in Madison county not to seed alfalfa unless they can lime and phosphate the soil, inoculate the seed, and use seed produced no farther south than Kansas.

A 100-ton lime kiln was built and burnt by Shelt McKinney, of Spout Springs community in Estill county. Much of the lime was distributed on his own farm. Nearby farmers who wanted it were sold some of the material at small cost.

Maybe they say some people are "the sale of the earth" because they have a habit of getting fresh.

As a rule it isn't long after a man begins courting trouble that he finds himself married to it.

SPEND MILLIONS TO CUT AIR ACCIDENTS

Government Takes Cognizance of Recent Disasters.

Washington, D. C. — Taking cognizance of the four recent air line accidents in which twenty-one persons were killed, the Department of Commerce announced that 10 million dollars would be spent on modernization of its safety equipment during the next two years.

J. Monroe Johnson, assistant secretary of commerce, revealed that the bureau of the budget had already approved additional expenditures for the next fiscal year. The modernization program would be in addition to the normal functions of the bureau of air commerce, which spent 6½ million dollars during the last year, Johnson said.

Asked about the new modernization program Johnson said there were 300 items ranging from $5,000 to $175,000 for improvements and the installation of new equipment.

The main improvement in air line operations, however, would be the introduction of the radio compass, according to Johnson. He claimed that the four recent accidents might have been avoided had the planes contained radio compasses that would function properly.

Johnson said the compass had not yet been developed to perfection. One of them, a Bendix product, was tested in a Lockheed Elektra plane at Washington and sent back to the factory for further adjustments. This compass, consisting of a ball of coils, was encased in mica to protect it from ice and sleet, and attached to the belly of the plane.

In the plane of the future, according to Commerce department experts, the pilot will turn on the receiving set and move the station selector to the frequency of the station he desires to pick up.

The pilot will tune in on his station until the maximum volume is reached, and from that time on he merely watches a needle on his instrument board which is pointed to zero. If the plane veers to either side the needle will move accordingly to show the airman his ship is wandering from its course.

The airman's course will lead directly to the radio station, and from there he will orient himself with respect to the local landing field.

Chimpanzee, 7, Is Rated at a Mental Age of 5

Fort Worth, Tex. — Patsy, seven-year-old female chimpanzee at the Forest Park zoo here, is rated by Hamilton Hittson, keeper, as one of the nation's smartest animals.

Her antics please hundreds of Fort Worth youngsters each Sunday afternoon during good weather, and her talents recently were put to practical use as a "retriever" of twenty monkeys that escaped from an exhibit.

Hittson and his assistant gave Patsy an examination which he said fixed her mental age as equal to that of a five-year-old child.

First, a banana was suspended from the ceiling and several boxes were scattered about the cage. Patsy placed the largest box under the banana, stacked the others on top and retrieved the fruit.

Next, an orange was placed just outside the cage, with a stick nearby. Patsy grasped the stick and batted the orange through an opening. An attendant led Patsy to a hydrant, turned on the water, then turned it off. He showed the chimpanzee a glass and asked: "Are you thirsty?"

Patsy took the glass to the hydrant and after several trials turned on the water. She filled the glass and drank from it. Then, she handed the empty glass to her keeper.

Pierre, S. D. — On of the largest and most complete ammonites ever found in the United States has been discovered by A. M. Jackley in the Badlands section of South Dakota.

An ammonite is the petrified remains of a prehistoric snail which lived years ago when the country was covered with water.

The specimen Jackley unearthed is 25 inches in diameter, almost geometrically perfect and in a rare state of preservation.

EMPLOYEES OVER 65 MAY GET SOCIAL SECURITY ACCOUNT NUMBERS

Employees over 65 in Boone County, who work in factories, shops, mines, mills, stores, offices and other places of business not excluded under the Old-Age Benefits and Unemployment Compensation programs of the Social Security Board may now get Social Security Account Numbers according to an announcement made by R. V. Shepler, Field Representative of the Board in Cincinnati, O.

Explaining the reasons for this new registration, Mr. Shepler stated that the step was taken primarily as an aid to States in administering unemployment compensation laws. Application for an account number by an employee 65 years of age or over is voluntary in so far as the Social Security Act is concerned. However, the same type of account number card will be issued to those 65 years of age and over as has been issued to the workers.

"State unemployment compensation laws," said Shepler, "cover workers of all ages. Since State agencies will use Social Security Account Numbers, such account numbers are needed for workers 65 years of age and over, as well as for the younger employees. In order to promote efficiency and uniformity, therefore, we are allowing for enumeration by all workers on a voluntary basis."

Procedure to be followed by aged workers is the same as that for others. They should get their application blanks at the local post office or at the office of the Social Security Board, and after filling them out completely, transmit them to the local post office which will issue the number. No postage is needed in mailing applications to post offices.

Mr. Shepler emphasized that information on applications for account numbers, by agreements between the official State unemployment compensation administrations and the Social Security Board will be held as absolutely confidential and will be used by the State agencies as well as by the Social Security Board solely in administering Social Security laws.

Use of account numbers by States in administering unemployment compensation laws and their use by the Federal Government will be advantageous to employers as well as workers in that only one number need be recorded for both the Federal Old-Age Benefits plan and the State unemployment compensation program.

Voluntary registration for the purposes outlined does not entitle an aged worker to the regular benefits of the Federal program. Requirements for such benefits are established by the Act and are not changed by the new ruling. Those requirements are: A worker must have earned not less than $2,000 in covered employment since Dec. 31, 1936. He must have worked at least one day at such employment in five different calendar years after that date and before age 65, before regular monthly payments can be made to him.

It may not be possible to always preserve American life, but a good portion of it will always be pickled.

THE FARM AND HOME

(Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station)

Fertilizer applied to lawns now will stimulate crab and other wild grasses, rather than help the bluegrass, which grows most in spring and fall. Wait until fall frost kills the wild grasses before applying fertilizer and sowing bluegrass seed.

Watermelons grow best in well-drained, slightly acid, sandy loam soils that contain an abundance of organic matter. The use of four to six tons of well rotted manure and about 500 pounds of complete fertilizer to the acre is recommended.

Placing hives in the shade, especially of trees, tends to keep bees from getting lazy in hot weather. Bees fly two to three miles, sometimes farther, seeking honey-making plants. This fact should be considered in locating hives.

Paradichlorobenzene crystals are among the best controls for moths. Have winter garments cleaned and sealed in pasteboard boxes, heavy paper garment bags, tight trunks or cedar chests, putting in before sealing the crystals tied in pieces of cheesecloth.

Serving different cereals and fruits and varying the method of preparation help to keep children interested in breakfast. Adding slices of lemon or orange during cooking changes the flavor of stewed prunes, apricots or apples. Prunes and apricots may be cooked together.

The buffet service is a delightful and convenient method of herving a large number of guests or an uncertain number. The menus may be much simpler than those of a regular meal at the table, but the meal may be just as charming and attractive.

CLEAN-UP CHECKS CHICKEN DISEASE

The College of Agriculture at Lexington reports an unusual amount of coccidiosis among young poultry this spring. Outbreaks are most common among birds weighing a half of a pound to 3 pounds.

The symptoms are droopiness or dullness, usually accompanied by bloody diarrhea. Postmortem examinations show inflamation of the intentines.

Once the disease has entered a flock the most important factor in its control is sanitation, says E. A. Baute, field agent in poultry improvement work. Confine the chickens to the brooder house or other quarters which can be thoroughly drycleaned every day. A small amount of litter that will readily absorb moisture should be used and lime scattered over the floor after each cleaning to help keep it dry. Feeders and waterers should be so placed and of such a type that the birds cannot get into them with their feet or scratch litter into them.

The disease will usually run its course in 10 days or two weeks if these measures are followed as soon as the trouble develops, says Baute. He adds that there is no medicine that is satisfactory either as a prevention or cure of the disease.

TWO LIVE IN TRAILER, ATTEND UNIVERSITY

"That two can live as cheaply as one" is the contention of C. R. Baker, Princeton, Ky., a student in the College of Law at the University of Kentucky.

Baker and his wife, Elvira, "built themselves a trailer and came to college," and while the young husband attends classes, his wife stays at "home" in the trailer, and keeps house. "Home" is at present parked behind a filling station at the intersection of Rose and Limestone streets in Lexington.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker estimate that they save $17 a month on rent alone, and they budget their entire expenses to $30 a month." Anyone familiar with student living costs knows that it usually costs that much for one," says Mr. Baker.

The trailer home was built for the most part during the month of January while Mr. Baker was still teaching a school in Caldwell county. He said he and a friend had built two others previously and had sold them, but that the one in which he is now living is the first he has constructed of his own design.

The house on wheels is 14½ feet long, 7½ feet wide, and six feet two inches high, and weighs approximately 3,000 pounds. Parts of at least two makes of automobiles were used in its construction. The chassis, wheels, window and some miscellaneous parts were taken from old automobiles. The studding, side walls and floor were built with lumber sawed from a yellow poplar tree which Baker selected for the express purpose.

Next fall the Bakers plan to be back early, they say, to pick out a nice shady spot for their school quarters.

OUSTED COMMISSIONER IS REPLACED TUESDAY

Frankfort, Ky., May 6—George Weatherby, Louisville attorney, Tuesday was appointed a member of the Advisory State Highway Commission by Governor Chandler. He succeeds Gilbert Burnett, whose position was declared vacant by the Governor.

Burnett, an adherent of the E. Leland Taylor Democratic faction in Louisville, was ousted under the 1934 Ouster Act. He had been a member of the Advisory Commission since July 1, 1936.

Weatherby, whose home is in Middletown, near Louisville, is 31 years old, attended the University of Kentucky with Governor Chandler, and is Secretary of the Jefferson County Young Democratic Club. He is identified with the M. J. Brennan Democratic faction in Jefferson County. He was sworn into office Tuesday afternoon by Appellate Court Clerk, Charles K. O'Connell.

BUILD SOCKET FOR EYE OF TELESCOPE

Workers Busy on "Bones" to Hold Huge Mirror.

Philadelphia. — Lester, a tiny community just beyond Philadelphia's southwestern boundary, basks in the glory Corning, N. Y., reflected upon itself when it built the giant 200-inch mirror for Mount Palomar observatory, high up in the mountains above San Diego, Calif.

Here scientific eyes are observing, step by step, construction of the intricate socket in which the 16-foot, 8-inch "eye" can roll in comfort as it scans the heavens. Work on the mounting began six months ago and is not expected to be completed before next September.

Work on Steel 'Bones'.

Laboriously and with the greatest care, workmen in the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company's factory here are fastening together daily the steel bones and ligaments which will support, rotate and focus the massive telescope mirror and its subordinate mirrors, all now being ground to proper curvatures in California. Scientists estimated four tons of glass must be removed from the first one.

After completion the telescope can be ridden at both ends and along either side, while the huge yoke in which the cage-like telescope tube will swing is to be a fully-equipped four-room apartment, with electric lights, hot and cold running water and probably air conditioning.

In spite of its million - pound weight, scientists say, the telescope will roll easily and be under excellent control. Engineers have the friction problem so well in hand that the giant tube can be shifted by the pressure of an infant's hand. They are, however, installing a small electric motor to accomplish this task.

Huge Bearings.

Only a fraction of the strength of a one-horsepower motor is required to move the great instrument, the biggest bearing of which will be forty-six feet in diameter.

This is the split-ring or horseshoe-shaped piece which constitutes the north support. The outer surface will be machined glass-smooth and will rest on two patented oil pads, floating and sliding on a film of oil three one-thousands of an inch thick. The oil is fed under pressure.

Westinghouse's executives, who are used to the bigness of turbines, condensers, generators and the like, say they know of nothing similar anywhere to compare in size with this.

When the telescope tube is finished, the fabricated pieces will be carried by ship to California and thence overland to the summit of Mount Palomar, in special oversize trucks used in the Boulder Dam construction and over specially-built, wide turn roads.

U. S. Navy engineers in charge of the observatory construction estimated three additional years will be required before the great 'scope is ready to take its wide turn in the heavens, reaching out through eight times more space than the current largest 'scope at Mount Wilson.

Swiss Bells Soothe Cows, Ohio Dairy Farmer Finds

Canton, Ohio. — John Stotzer's dairy farm near here has become the mecca of northeastern Ohio Swiss who are attracted by the specially tuned cowbells.

Stotzer imported the bells from Switzerland, where he lived as a youth, and where it is the custom for cows to be outfitted with resonant bells made by experts.

Prize ensemble of the bovine orchestra is a group of thirteen cows equipped with a matched set of bells. These bells are perfectly harmonious and all the others hanging from the necks of his herd of forty Holstein cows had been selected to accord with them. They range in size from little bells weighing less than a pound to two weighing ten pounds each.

Stotzer says the Swiss use bells principally because they make a pleasant sound, although there are many cattlemen who think the sound of the bells has a quieting and comforting influence on "bossy."

"I suppose that a cow which never had worn a bell would get along just as well without it, but it is a fact that when a cow has once worn a bell she seems nervous without it." Stotzer said. "Once I lost the clapper out of one of my big bells and until I had it fixed I had to furnish another bell for the cow. She seemed unhappy without it."

Porkers Ride in Comfort in New Type Stock Cars

Montreal. — Little pigs going to market travel in comfort over the Canadian National railways because all stock cars have been equipped with friction springs, providing a smoother ride and bringing Mister Piggie home in better condition and with less shrinkage in weight.

AN INSPIRATION

A dreary place would be this earth
Were there no little people in it;
The song of life would lose its mirth
Were there no children to begin it.

ATTENTION!!

The Ladies of the Burlington P.-T. A. are serving lunch at the auction of Dr. Yelton's 428 acre farm, May 15th. They are expecting you to come out and eat your lunch at the sale. The money they make at this sale will be used by them in their school work. So take off a few minutes and drive out, you'll enjoy the lunch and seeing your friends. It will be a splendid gesture on your part, and your cooperation and support will be appreciation. —Adv.

HOSPITAL LOCATION SOUGHT FOR BOURBON

Edward H. Gorey outlined the expansion of business in Paris through the last few years and pointed out reasons he believed to be the underlying causes of the return of better conditions locally, at the regular meeting of the Bourbon Business Club held at Paris Monday night of last week.

The secretary was instructed to write a formal application to Frederick A. Wallas, commissioner of public welfare, for the location of the Eastern State hospital in Paris. After a vote of the membership, the secretary was directed to write the Chamber of Commerce at Covington of the support of Paris business men in their fight to bring about the repeal of the state income tax laws. A movment to close business houses in the city at an earlier hour on certain days through the summer months was referred by President Raymond Turner to a committee composed of Ernest Martin, Q. O. Turpin and J. K. Rogers.

NATIVE MATERIALS BEAUTIFY GROUNDS

Native trees, shrubs and vines make up most of the plantings in plans made by N. R. Elliott of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture for 37 school grounds and 21 rural homes in Butler, Fayette, Fulton, Henderson, Jefferson, Pulaski and Scott counties this spring.

Wherever possible, the use of native materials adaptable to the locality is recommended, and such plantings have been used on all but a few city grounds and a few others asking for elaborate settings.

Measurements of grounds are usually made by home demonstration or county agents and sent, together with pictures, to Prof. Elliott who make the drawings and plans, showing the location and name of each tree, shrub or vine. He also makes suggestions regarding lawn grass mixtures and fertilizers.

Prof. Elliott is now working on planting plans for several church grounds and cemeteries.

IN THE KITCHEN

The housewife who would have a regular supply of dry bread crumbs for thickening soups, making stuffings, meat loaf, croquets and escalloped dishes should keep these dustless while drying. A convenient system is to keep a cheesecloth bag in a cupboard which closes, and to place in this all scraps of breads left from a meal. They will be enough exposed to the air to dry, since the bag is porus, but will be shielded from dust.

THE GREATEST TIRE EVER MADE TO SELL AT THESE LOW PRICES

COME in, examine a cross section cut from a Firestone Standard Tire, then examine the deep-cut, non-skid tread and see how much extra value you get. You will quickly understand why more and more car owners are equipping their cars with these tires. You will agree that never before have you seen so much quality, so much built-in mileage and so much safety at so little cost. You will find the Firestone Standard Tire is made safer from blowouts with the Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping. The patented construction of two extra layers of Gum-Dipped Cords under the tread protect against punctures and bind the tread and cord body into one inseparable unit. The wider, flatter tread with more rubber on the road will give you longer mileage and greater protection against skidding. Firestone is able to give you all these extra values because Firestone Standard Tires are built in such large quantities that great savings are made in production.

Don't drive another day on thin worn tires that are dangerous and may cause an accident. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign by equipping your car with Firestone Standard Tires — First Grade Quality at Low Cost.

Buy Firestone STANDARD TIRES TODAY AND SAVE!

YOU SAVE yourself and your family from dangerous accidents because Firestone patented construction features give you greatest blowout protection and safety from skidding.

YOU SAVE because Firestone Standard Tires give you low initial cost and lower cost per mile.

YOU SAVE by buying now as tire prices are advancing. The price of crude rubber has gone up 110% and cotton more than 26% during the past two years. BUY NOW AND SAVE.

DON'T RISK YOUR LIFE ON THIN WORN TIRES

Protect yourself and your family from the danger of driving on thin worn tires which may cause a serious accident.

DO YOU KNOW

THAT last year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 36,000 men, women and children?

THAT a million more were injured?

THAT more than 40,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding due to unsafe tires?

Above is a section cut from a smooth, worn tire, which shows the non-skid protection worn off. Tires in this condition are more liable to punctures, blowouts and skidding.

Above is section cut from a new Firestone Tire. Note the thick non-skid protection against skidding, blowouts and punctures. Come in today, see by actual demonstration.

THE STYLIST SAYS

Good old pre-ware materials are again in vogue. Tricotine, serges, hard-finish wools, worsteds, kashes and the ribbed kind of twills that were famous back in 1915 are now very much in style. There are nubby weaves but the numbs are neat and have definite shape.

The Friendly "MEDDLER"

Real estate operators west of the Licking River in Northern Kentucky are rejoicing over the news from Frankfort which states that the State Highway Commission will immediately proceed with negotiations for the purchase of the Chespeake and Ohio bridge which connects with Cincinnati from Covington over the Ohio River. They believe a free toll bridge will be an hospitable invitation for Cincinnati business men to become home owners in Kentucky's beautiful suburban hills. Farmers, too, are delighted of the prospect of a more convenient outlet for traffic for trade in Indiana and Ohio.

Interesting past events, bearing on the history of Woolper Creek and Laughery Island, were brought forth in story when Judge Oliver E. Bailey, Cincinnati, discussed historic personages Monday night at the Masonic Temple in Cincinnati. Chief Thayendanega, Mohawk Indiana, and said to have been a free Mason, was one of the men whose brave deeds were recalled by Judge Bailey.

• • •

Boone Countians, who like the river drive from Andersons Ferry to Aurora, Ind., on the Ohio-Indiana side, will soon enjoy a newly built highway from the Indiana-Ohio state line to Lawrenceburg, Ind. According to Frank Switalski, Executive Vice PJresident of the Cincinnati Automobile Club, a four lane highway, conforming to that which extends from Elizabethtown, Ohio to the state line will be begun soon. In the new road, the four lanes will be divided by grassy strips.

• • •

Williamstown merchants have approved a recent ordinance which will control traffic and parking. The ordinance hits chiefly at parking of home town cars on the business streets which are narrow and constitute a hazard during busy business hours.

The recent rumor that a new court house for Grant County was an assured fact seems to be more or less substantiated. The project when completed will have cost approximately $100,000 with part of this sum acquired as a W. P. A. grant.

• • •

Miss Sallie Noell, only daughter of Robert Noell, Moores Hill, Ind., died at General Hospital, Cincinnati, O., April 30, 1937, and was buried at Paint Lick May 3. Miss Noell was born 33 years ago in Boone County. The family moved to Moores Hill a number of years ago.

• • •

The new postoffice at Dayton is nearing completion. It is of brick construction and one-story in design.

• • •

Flood conditions in Dayton have improved so rapidly that the Red Cross unit has been disbanded and united with the county headquarters at Newport.

Dayton has been able to find homes for all the refugees and the flood is rapidly becoming a very unhappy memory.

• • •

The real estate company, of Wood and Ware, formerly in the Finance Building, 103 York, Newport, has been moved to a more commodious office at Third and Monmouth Streets, Newport. A new member, Herbert Elam, has been added.

HEAVY FEEDING OF MINERAL MIXTURES IS FOUND HARMFUL

An official report of the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky covering the composition of mineral mixtures and their effect on livestock indicates that heavy feeding of minerals may be harmful to animals.

The study of mineral mixtures followed continued reports to the Experiment Station of stock on farms over the state dying without symptoms of diseases or troubles commonly fatal to animals. It was observed that in many instances of such losses the stock had free access to mineral mixtures, such mixtures being placed in pastures, feed lots and barns.

Samples of mixtures used on farms were fed to rats at the Experiment Station in varying amounts. Very small amounts apparently did not affect the animals, but where the ration was 3 per cent minerals the animals were clearly affected and as the amount of the mineral mixture was increased the trouble became increasingly severe. Post-mortem examinations of the rates revealed serious intestinal disturbances.

A chemical analysis of mixtures showed them to contain large amounts of salt, ground limestone and finely ground rock phosphate.

Rock phosphate contains calcium flouride, a substance which the investigators at the Experiment Station say has a harmful effect on animals. The mixture also contained sand silica, copperas, bluestone and other substances of doubtful value when fed to livestock.

Other than salt, it is probable that livestock in Kentucky need little or no mineral supplied to them, says the Experiment Station. Limestone, which is one of the principal ingredients of many mixtures, is abundant in much of the state. Grass and other feeds ordinarily supply animals with most of the minerals that they require.

Salt should be given to stock, but care is necessary in placing it before animals in large amounts, especially if they have not been receiving salt regularly.

THANKS

The Guy Downs Realty Co., of Shelbyville, Kentucky wishes to thank the citizens of this community for the many courtesies extended the firm and those associated with it, during their visit to Burlington, preparing for the auction of Dr. Yelton's farm. It has been a pleasure to be with you; and though we have not been able to see many of you personally, we want you to know that we always enjoy coming to your friendly and hospitable community, Boone County. Again, may we say "Thanks" for the consideration and courtesies extended us during our stay. —Adv.

BEAVER LICK

There will be services at the Baptist Church next Sunday, May 16th at 2:30 p. m., conducted by the pastor Rev. R. A. Johnson. On May 24th a series of revival srvices will begin there, with Rev. Johnson, doing the preaching and Owen Hoard, of Elsmere will lead the singing.

Rev. R. M. Baldwin announces that the third Quarterly Conference will be held at Hughs Chapel May 16th at 3 p .m. Dr. Crockett, the Presiding Elder will preach. Everyone is invited to attend.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. George Baker sympathize with them in the death of their infant son, who was born at St. Elizabeth Hospital last Monday night and passed away on Wednesday night. The little one was buried at New Bethel cemetery, Verona on Thursday. Scott Chambers had charge of the interment.

New Haven P.-T. A. held its final meeting of the year last Tuesday night. New officers were elected as follows: Mrs. Harry Moore, President; Mrs. Austin Gschwind, Vice President; Mrs. Harold Weaver, Secretary, and Mrs. Raymond Newman, Treasurer.

POOL ORDERS FOR CHICKS

Jackson county farmers pooled orders for baby chicks and had them sent into the county by the truckload. By this method County Agent W. R. Reynolds is getting good flocks started on many farms. Mass buying also helped to reduce the cost of chicks. Several brooder and laying houses have been built in the county and there is increased interest in poultry. Farmers owning certified flocks are getting a premium of a cent an egg from hatcheries.

Doctors prescribe spinach and parsnips at this time of year, but most men prefer to take their medicine and their food separately.

Mr. Business Man

You owe it to your business to attend the auction of Dr. Yelton's farm Saturday, May 15. Whether yours is a retail or money lending business, the knowledge of real estate values in your community will be a great help to you in extending credit. Boost your community. Your presence and support at this sale will help.

LETTY HOLMES, clad in her crisp, white uniform, spanked the naughty chimpanzee which had spilled his tea to the plaudits of the crowd around the cage marked Kindergarten. Not until the conclusion of her act, when she sat rocking Jocko, the baby ape, did she notice that a young man with bristling red hair was grinning at her.

"A man with a face like that," she was thinking, noting the bulging forehead, the conspicuously small nose, the beady eyes and freckles, "ought to be on the inside looking out." Yet he appeared intelligent and highly interested in her performance. How could she know Brandon Tyre's sensibilities were wounded because the most beautiful girl he had ever seen was that minute rocking a chimpanzee?

The Fleming Animal Farm was about to feed its roaring lions raw meat. The spectators moved away from Letty's kindergarten, all save a few. A middle aged Romeo smirked at the little nurse. "Say, Sister, is that the only thing you can get to rock?" he mocked.

The girl ignored him, but her chair ceased its motion. "Suppose you remember," she heard the homely young man bridle, "Miss Holmes is a lady. Doing her job and doing it well."

"Thanks, Mister," she smiled, wondering how he had found out her name. "Just another fresh guy. Rastus, give him the razz."

Rastus, the largest of the three anthropoids, cavorted from a trapeze, emitting a flow of abusive sounding jargon.

"Oh, I didn't mean any harm, Cutie," wheedled the Romeo. "How about a little spin after hours to cool off? My car will be waiting—"

"So will you. I don't make dates with visitors."

"Perhaps I didn't make myself clear," Tyre walked up to the old flirt, his palms itching.

"You don't mean to tell me she's dated up," exclaimed Romeo, backing away, "with a baboon like you!"

For five continuous days Letty noticed the same cheerful, homely face at her every performance. She chatted with Tyre, now and then. "You must love animals. Or maybe," she considered, "you work here."

"I do love animals," he confessed. "I've been promised a job as soon as there's a vacancy, and I'm sort of learning what I can about the place."

"Maybe you expect to get my act," Letty laughed at him, "and get me fired."

"That's not a bad idea," he returned seriously. "Only of course, I wouldn't do it unless you got a better offer."

"Not likely," she said. "No other work for women except selling pop or taking tickets. Besides, I love my apes."

Tyre looked at her adoringly. She loved her apes! She loved her apes! The words sang like music in his ears. "If she can do that, perhaps—in time—!"

Fifteen chimpanzee acts later found Letty Holmes and Brandon Tyre slated for a movie. He was, she thought, the most interesting man she knew. My, what an education! He had been everywhere; observed everything. While listening to him she forgot how homely he was.

For three days now he had had a job, taking care of the ponies. The elephant man, who rode the kiddies around in a howdah on Jumbo's back, had been fired. Cruelty had been hinted. There had been several changes.

"Gee, I may be the next to go," said Letty nervously.

Tyre was passing the Kindergarten with a bucket of bread and milk for a small Thibetian bear. "If you get fired I know another position you can have," he said enigmatically.

On Saturday night she told him she was discharged from the Fleming Animal Farm. She was highly indignant. "No one can say I've mistreated my pets," she cried. Then, "Tell me about that new job, Brandon."

"It's—it's—it's taking care of me," he blurted out. "I—I—thought maybe you wouldn't mind having me around even if you are as beautiful as an angel and I uglier than Jocko. I love you so, Letty, and maybe you could learn to love me—the way you did the other——"

"Don't say it!" the girl broke in. "You talk as if you were the Missing Link. Why, I think you've got the kindest face I know. I—I might take you up on that offer, only I'd hate to think you asked me just because I was going to be down and out."

Tyre took her in his arms. "Silly, I just had to be sure you might care for me before I told you. We're going to manage this place together. I had you fired, dear. Haven't you guessed I'm Angus Fleming's grandson?"

FOR FLOWER GROWERS

Evergreens should have plenty of water. Spray the foliage frequently to wash off the dust and dirt and keep down the attacks of red spiders . . . If you work in the garden without gloves, rub a little soap under the nails to keep them from staining . . . In setting out bedding plants be sure and put them lower in the ground than originally. This is a good general rule for all transplanting.

KEEP PESTS FROM HOME-GROWN CEREALS

Home-grown cereals require just as much care to protect them as packaged goods bought at the store advises Prof W. A. Price, head of the entomology department of the Kentucky College of Agriculture. This is true of wheat flour, wholewheat breakfast food, and corn meal. It is desirable to clean cereal containers thoroughly before putting new material into them, as otherwise the larvae or eggs of pests already may be installed ready to attack the new supply. Where possible use insect proof containers such as glass jars with tight-fitting lids. Pantry shelves should be washed frequently with soap, hot water and a stiff brush. The smaller the quantity of cereals kept during hot weather, the better, Prof. Price suggests.

KIRTLEY RYLE FATALLY INJURED

WHEN STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE ON DIXIE HIGHWAY SUNDAY —SKULL CRUSHED AND LEGS BROKEN.

Kirtley Ryle, 38, of Florence, was killed Sunday when struck by an auto at Sunset avenue and Dixie Highway. Erlanger. His skull was crushed and his legs broken.

Fred S. Scheben, 19 of 826 Dixie Highway, driver of the car, was cited by Kenton County Police Chief George Langley, to appear in Kenton County Court on a man-slaughter charge. He told Chief Langley that he swerved his auto to avoid striking Mr. Ryle, but that wet pavement caused it to get out of control.

Coroner James P. Riffe, who investigated the accident, said Mr. Ryle was dragged 30 feet and that the auto skidded and crashed into the porch of a nearby house.

Young Scheben is the son of Fire Chief Andrew Scheben, Jr., of Erlanger.

He is survived by his father, two sisters, Mrs. Floyd Chipman and Mrs. Radcliffe.

The pallbearers were Frank Bauers, Taylor and Omer Hodges, Ed Scalf, Lester Chipman and Floyd Smith.

Services were conducted Tuesday at 2:30 by the Rev. J. A. Miller at the Taliaferro Funeral Home, interment following in Florence cemetery.

NEW MOTORS INSTALLED ON LAWRENCEBURG FERRY

John Cox, owner of the Lawrenceburg ferry installed two new motor on his ferry last week. The motors were sold and installed by Calvin Cress, of Burlington.

According to Mr. Cress, the boat is capable of making the trip across the river in approximately half the time as formerly.

Mr. Cress also reported that he sold a combined Harvester and Thresher to Dr. Crisler recently. It is believed that this is the first machine of its kind to be sold in this section of the State.

ELMO LAWSON GETS 2 YEARS

ON CHARGE OF CUTTING WITH INTENT TO KILL—WALTON DRUGGIST WAS VICTIM—FACES FEDERAL CHARGE.

Upon the report of J. Beatty Davis, Kenton county probation officer, that he had issued no misstatements at his trial, Elmo Lawson, of Bluefield, W. Va., was ordered to serve a two-year sentence in the state reformatory at Frankfort, today by Judge Johnst Northcutt in Kenton Circuit Court.

Lawson was convicted about a month ago on a charge of cutting to kill William Brakefield, Walton druggist, last fall. His sentence was held pending Davis' investigation.

At the conclusion of his term in the state reformatory, Lawson will be given into the custody of federal authorities who charged him with auto theft and obtained a conviction and a two-year sentence in a federal penitentiary in U. S. District Court.

Lawson was charged with stealing an auto in Cincinnati, transporting it to Covington where it figured in a collision with Brakefield's auto. In an ensuing argument, Brakefield was stabbed.

RUTH BEST TO RETURN

TO WALTON METHODIST CHURCH MONDAY MAY 24—WAS RATED AS BEST SINGER TO VISIT COUNTY.

Those who heard Ruth Best sing recently, in the Walton Methodist Church, will be glad to hear of her return engagement for 8:00 P. M., Monday night, May 24th. She was acclaimed by those who heard her as "wonderful, "the best I ever heard," and the like. Many who did not hear her recently have expressed the intention of being present at her next engagement. Doubtless a still larger audience will greet her than did the goodly number present recently. A full house is expected.

The program will be sacred in nature. While Miss Best is a famous singer and radio artist, her renditions are by no means "over the head" of the average audience, as those who have heard her, testify. Every word may be easily understood in clear, sweet melodious tones which convey the message of the song to the heart—rare singing indeed. This artist possesses a modesty, grace, and charm of personality which endear her to the audience. One simply can not listen to such a program as she renders without being helped and inspired. It is a rare opportunity indeed to hear such wonderful talent right at home.

She will be accompanied by the wonderful Hammond Organ with Mrs. J. B. Johnson at the console, whose playing Miss Best has highly complimented. There will be no admission fee; only a free-will offering.

ERLANGER MOTOR CAR FIRM SOLD

Details of a transaction for the sale of the Dempsey Motor Car Co., Erlanger to Joseph A. Kuchle, Ft. Mitchell, was revealed Saturday.

C. D. BENSON ENTERS RACE

SEEKS RE-ELECTION AS COUNTY COURT CLERK—HAS BEEN ONE OF COUNTY'S MOST EFFICIENT OFFICE HOLDERS.

C. D. Benson, of Burlington, makes his formal bow to the voters of Boone County in this issue of The Recorder. Mr. Benson is seeking re-election to the office of County Court Clerk.

"Dewey" as he is known by practically everyone in Boone County has filled the position as County Court Clerk for the past four years very efficiently and while he has been in this office has made many new friends.

He has been a life-long resident of Boone county and is well known in all sections of the county.

Mr. Benson is well educated and has proven his ability to fill the office to which he seeks, and if re-elected he no doubt will be even more efficient in the next four years than in the past, due his experience in fulfilling the duties of County Clerk.

Before being elected to the office he now fills he was a resident of Walton, but after he election he has made his home in Burlington.

Mr. Benson states that if he is relected he will strive to serve the citizens of Boone County in the same efficient manner as during the past four years.

STATE POST OFFICES GIVEN HIGHER STATUS

Washington, May 11—Postal officials announced Monday the advance of 392 fourth-class postoffices to third-class status, effective July 1.

"It looks as though happy days are here again," a department spokesman said. "It is an almost unprecedented number of promotions and more accurately than any other index reflects the return of prosperity to small communities."

Postoffices advanced to third class include: Kentucky—Buffalo, Independence, Inez, Junction City, Magnolia, Mays Lick, Perryville, Science Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ryle and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ryle and son were visiting in Big Bone Sunday.

TRUCKMEN TO HAVE MEETING

AT COURTHOUSE FRIDAY NITE —ALL INDEPENDENT TRUCK OWNERS ARE URGED TO BE PRESENT.

The first meeting of the Kentucky Independent Truck Owners Association in Boone County has been announced for Friday night, May 21st at 7:30 p. m. (slow time). All truckmen in this section are expected to be present to discuss their present problems.

The purpose of this association is to use every legitimate means in its power to obtain:

(1) A repeal of the mileage tax.

(2) To repeal the present law for weight, body length, and load limits on trucks.

(3) To modify the insurance and bond clauses in the truck law.

(4) To allow contract carriers to contract freely with all parties.

(5) To apprise itself of all the needs and problems of independent truck owners and to exert every effort in behalf of these truck owners to correct injustices, both legal and otherwise and to obtain for the truck drivers a fair and just administration of the law and to force, by court action if necessary, a proper administration of the law in their behalf.

(6) To establish a lobby with a paid lobbyist who is to endeavor in every legitimate manner to see that no further and unjust legislation be enacted by the Kentucky Legislature concerning truck owners and trucks, and to secure a modification and repeal of such laws as now threaten the very existence of the independent truck business in Kentucky.

STATE HOSPITAL TO BE PLACED IN BOYLE-MERCER

Construction work on the new hospital to serve Central and Eastern Kentucky in place of the present Eastern Kentucky State hospital for the insane at Lexington will start within a few days, Governor Chandler announced Monday. The institution which cost approximately $1,500,000 will be located somewhere in the Boyle Mercer counties area the governor said.

The institution, he said, will be of the cottage type, modern, fireproof, clean with ample water facilities built with federal aid. It will provide "an adequate place for those people to live and have a chance—which they don't have now."

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Williams Route 1, Walton, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Anna Pearl Williams, to Mr. Thomas Marshall Randall, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Y. Randall, of Burlington. The marriage will be an event of the early summer.

JOHN WALTON BUYS DR. YELTON FARM

John Walton, of near Burlington purchased the 428 acre farm which was offered at auction last Saturday. The purchase price was $41.00 per acre.

The many friends of Chester Tanner are glad to know that he is able to be out and at his store in Florence, after a prolonged illness.

GIRL DIES IN AUTO CRASH

AUTHORITIES UNABLE TO LOCATE KIN OF YOUNG WOMAN, BELIEVED TO BE DOROTHY RAWLINS.

Georgetown, Ky., May 17—A young woman believed to be Miss Dorothy Rawlins, 20 years old, of Williamstown, succumbed at the John Graves Ford Memorial Hospital of injuries received yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding left the Dixie Highway at a point about two miles north of Georgetown and crashed into a tree.

Authorities here have been unsuccessful in their efforts to locate any relatives of the girl.

Lonnie Lancaster, 34 of Georgetown, is still in a critical condition as a result of skull injuries suffered in the accident, while his nephew, Claude Lancaster, 21, driver of the car, suffered only minor lacerations.

Putting Our Roads Under The Microscope

Kentucky's efforts to systemize its highway and improvements program is a belated but welcome step in the right direction. It is the same direction in which 40 other progressive states are now moving and is, in effect, a microscopic study of actual highway conditions from which will be formulated the plans for the roads of tomorrow. The degree of the success of the survey will depend, in large measure, on the cooperation of the motoring public for whose eventual and direct benefit the program was launched. It is, therefore, eminently deserving of wholehearted and intelligent support of all motorists.

The dual and outstanding purposes of the highway planning survey are (1) to set up a program of improvement on which financial requirements may be based with reasonable accuracy; and, (2) to determine the order of improvement of the various parts of the program so that the heaviest demands may receive first consideration. This is a far and happy cry from the methods of the past.

Inseparately interwoven with such a study is the ever-present and ever-increasing problem of safety on our streets and highways. It is an obviously patent fact that improvement of road conditions will reduce materially the number of traffic accidents, which are costly not only in lives, needlessly lost, but in hospital and medical bills, loss of time from occupations and property losses.

It is in keeping with the rich history and spirit of Kentucky, one of the first states west of the Alleghanies to have paved roads, that the present state administration inaugurated this worthwile and forward-looking program. To better insure its success, the Department of highways, od which the planning survey is a division, joined forces with the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and together they have assembled a highly trained personnel to carry out the actual office and field work.

Kentuckians need not worry about the eventual and tangible results of the survey when there are such experienced road and traffic men to head the work as J. E. Stigers, formerly with the highway department as locating engineer, as the state manager; J. D. Mage, representing the federal government; Glen Weinman, secretary-manager of the Blue Grass Automobile Club, as manager of the traffic survey; George D. Aaron, formerly of the highway department as resident engineer, and now manager of the road inventory; and J. G. Stuart, formerly of the department of finance, and now the head of the financial survey.

The survey, which began operations last October and field operations later on, is, divided for all practical purposes, into three branches, namely: One, the traffic survey which centers its attention on the flow of traffic thruout the state; a detail check-up on trucks and passenger cars not only on the primary roads but in every county in the state; two, he financial survey, which is making a study of highway income and expenditures of all units of government of the state, assessed or full valuation of all localities, population, area, the number of motor vehicles, highway mileage of the various vehicles, motorists fees and taxes, the study of the life and cost of maintenance of the different types of road surfaces and all allied information which has a direct bearing on the receipits and expenditures of the highway department; three, the inventory division, which operates only in the rural sections of the state and concerns itself primarily with the compilation of data and maps not included by the two other divisions of the survey.

Various crews of field workers are now scattered throughout the state for the purpose of obtaining the needed information. The least the motorist can do is to cooperate by stopping for the requested check-up and to respond to the brief and courteous but always essential questions that will be asked of him. The Recorder feels that this cooperation will be given freelly and that it will be decidedly mutual, just as it is felt that Kentucky's great and rich past can be projected into the future only to the extent that we of today build wisely for tomorrow.

KILLERS OF THE SKIES

Government and other kinds of investigations can't change the facts. You likely have seen and heard the tragedy of the Hindenburg in the talking pictures.

The Hindenburg lasted longer than our own Shenandoah, Los Angeles, and Akron. Even so Germany brags that it is "undaunted" and will keep right on navigating its inflamable gas bags.

The United States Government controls about 99 per cent of the world's supply of helium and it isn't for sale. The gas has the lifting power of about 92 per cent as compared with hydrogen, it is safer than any other lifting gas. Even so, our own streamlined and glorified "balloons" have crashed one after another.

The airplane companies have recently been carrying display advertising that claims flying is comparatively safe. They advise the public to fly and find out whether that statement is true. If you are killed in he attempt you can' deny it. If you live, you'll have somehing to boast about. Most everybody likes to do a certain amount of bragging. Better make a will, anyway, before you climb into the clouds.

—o—

HELIUM GAS

The real reason why the United States does not sell helium to be used in German airships is because the United States is not encouraging war-mad nations that would find helium just one more reason why they should begin shooting up the world again. That's practical neutrality, plus sensible precaution.

England, France and the United States have sent their airships to the graveyards. But Germany is carry on—and the man in the movies who tells you that it is all for the sake of "airway progress" is just letting off more gas. The shrieks and yells of the dying and the distruction of the big airship in less than a minute is horrible to hear and see.

If you can find "progress" in the history of these monsters of the air then you can do better than the Washington newspapermen who writes this piece for the papers.

THINGS ONE REMEMBERS

By R. M. Hofer

There are many simple things that could be done to reduce automobile accidents.

Recently, I saw a small trailer with lumber in it tear loose from the pleasure car that was towing it. It dashed out into the oncoming traffic, then slued around and ran into the bank on the side of the road where it broke loose. It missed the oncoming cars by a split second, and came just as near causing a wreck with the car that was following it.

The trailer had been fastened to the pleasure car bumper (which was never made to haul a trailer) with an insecure bolt that simply jolted out. It was only a miracle that it did not cause serious or fatal accidents. The owner of the trailer refastened it to the bumper with some baling wire and started out again.

What excuse is there for laws or regulations governing automobiles that permit such potential death-dealing contraptions on the highway? A traffic officer would immediately stop a driver without a license plate. Why should not laws be passed whereby a traffic officer would stop ever car towing a trailer that did not have some form of identification attached showing that it complied with rigid regulations as to its safety, and arrest the driver?

This is merely one potential law to aid in automobile accident prevention that could be as easily enforced as automobile licensing requirements.

"PUPILS AREN'T FIREPROOF!"

Writing under the above title, in the New York Herald Tribune magazine, T. Alfred Fleming discusses the appalling problem of hazardous schools.

Mr. Fleming is an authority on this matter—formerly a clergyman, he happened to be present when the Collinswood school burned many years ago, and aided in the rescue. Thereafter he left the pulpit and gave his life to preaching the gospel of fire prevention. As a representative of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, he has inspected thousands of American schools, new and old, big and little—and he reports that two-thirds of them are fire traps. Every day, five school fires occur in this country—and only "dumb luck," to use Mr. Fleming's words, keeps them from becoming major tragedies.

Just how bad are our schools? They are unquestionably far worse than any parent imagines. Mr. Fleming has seen supposedly safe schools where the janitors thought fire extinguishers were insect sprays, and schools where students were notified ten minutes in advance of fire drills! He has gone through 40 schools in one city and found 200 inexcusavle life hazards such as the execessive storage of gasoline in the building, 30 defective emergency doors, etc. As he says, "And after each new shock I thank God that we are so lucky.'

Maybe the school your children attend is safe—and maybe it is not. And here is a matter where guesswork isn't enough—public opinion should demand that competent, disinterested engineers make a thorough inspection of every school plant, and that their recommendations be followed. Pupils aren't fireproof!

OBSERVATIONS

The news that comes through from Washington these days is startling by its absence. It's a good deal like the silence that strikes one wtih the force of a blow when firing on a battle line has ceased.

Commercial men have lamented these New Deal years about the lack of tranquility in goverrmental affairs and its disturbing influence on American business. Doubtless that is true, for the aggressive, inventive, pioneer type that thrive on change and that founded American business, have been largely replaced by stand-pat executives of the type which eat up routine and detail. Such men hate and fear anything which requires the effort to understand a new routine.

However, there has been one very definite good come out of the New Deal regardless of what may be said of some of its results. We have a new interest in government. Gone is the blase attitude of indifference and permitted the rotten mess of the Harding administration; that permitted the luxuriant growth of the Capones, and the political protector Mayor Thompson of Chicago; and permitted the flourishing of the Mitchells and other financial racketeers no different than the Capones except in the greater refinement of their methods.

Today we are all very much aware of our government. The violent pro and con that the New Deal has stirred up carries over to a new interest in state and local affairs.

This is one of the most healthy things that has happened in a generation.

Since the boyhood of this observer, and until the advent of Roosevelt II, interest in politics has been on the decline. The rapid rise of industriallism with its benefits in greater purchasing power for the masses as well as the classes, shifted the interests of the masses from matters of freedom to matters of food, shelter, and transportation. Greater purchasing power resulted in the commercialization of sports. Baseball, horse races and later football spectacles took the place of cracker box discussion of the fitness of political representatives.

Unless one has hardening of the arteries or has been brought up in the sour-faced puritan tradition, one does not regret the growth of means by which people can find entertainment and happiness.

However, the net result was, until the crash in 1929, that sports, the stock market, everything that greater income made possible, relegated politics to a very minor position in the mind of the public. It became an opiate by which the public was lulled to such a deep sleep that racketeers of all kinds could get away with anything.

It is hard to determine whether any of our former activities have suffered, but it is certain that people still go to ball games, derbys theaters and what not. These other interests now seem to be an enrichment of life rather than otherwise. That much is a gain in our national life.

The Rehearsal

By JANE OSBORN

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service.

LUCY BADGER had been chosen for the role of the leading lady in the play for the benefit because she was so amazingly pretty. One amateur was as good as another—or rather, as the professional coach they employed thought, as bad as another. And Rodney Britton had been chosen because he looked the part. But Mr. Britton was stupid, thought the coach—no temperament—no imagination. To be sure, he learned his part letter perfect, which was more than most amateurs seemed to be able to do. But when it came to putting feeling into his part it seemed as if he had a heart of wood. In the second act where he held Daphne—that was Lucy's role—in his arms and told her of his insane love for her, he might as well have been embracing his own grandmother or a lamp-post and talking about the weather. And when it came to those kisses in the third act—they were mere pecks. "Like a robin pecking at a green apple," said the coach.

Lucy, who stood during the pecking ordeal with her pretty mouth held tight and her eyes shut, seemed to be as inexperienced as Rodney. The coach suggested that he go through the part with Lucy—just to give Rodney an idea of how the thing might be done—but Lucy protested. They had all laughed about the matter at yesterday's rehearsal but afterwards the coach took them aside and told them that it wasn't any laughing matter. The play was to come off in another week. It would be a flat failure unless Lucy and Rodney pepped up the love scenes. They'd got to rehearse those kisses. He told them, practically ordered them, to spend the next Saturday afternoon at Lucy's house where she would feel quite at home rehearsing the love scenes—and the kisses. They might do it before a mirror. Professionals sometimes did that. They must try to put feeling into it. "Try to imagine that you are in love with Miss Badger," he told Rodney; "that you are dying of love for her; that you cannot eat nor sleep for love of her. Imagination is all you need."

Lucy and Rodney laughed, but they promised to rehearse their part together the following Saturday. Lucy had arranged to have the library off the living-room all to themselves for the afternoon. She had carried a long pier glass from upstairs into the room so that they could work before it.

The next minute Rodney arrived. They stood before the mirror in the library and went through their parts right to the point where Rodney had to take Lucy in his arms. There he stopped. "You know more about this business than I do," he said. "Maybe you'd better show me how to do it. I couldn't bear having that greasy coach kiss you—that's why I consented to having this rehearsal alone. Now come on, I have to hold you in my arms—like this. Is that the way I ought to do it?"

"How should I know?" asked Lucy, finding it rather pleasant standing there within Rodney's strong embrace. "I don't know any more about this—this love business than you do."

"That's a fib," said Rodney, holding her a little closer than before. He felt an unexpected thrill of pleasure as her soft hair brushed against his cheek. "I never held a girl like this in my life before. And I really don't believe I ever kissed a girl——"

"I know I never, never let anyone kiss me," said Lucy. "But I don't believe it will be very hard. You can imagine you really love me——"

"Yes—that's what I've been trying to do. I find that helps—puts you in the right mood." Rodney held his arms very tightly around Lucy's slender young body. "It's not so hard," he whispered, and then bending down his head, pressed his own lips against Lucy's.

Lucy looked at him with misty eyes and cheeks aflame. "But Rodney, the kiss doesn't come in this act," she said.

At last came the evening of the final rehearsal. "It's going to be hard," Rodney told Lucy, "not hard the way it used to be—only hard to forget that that greasy little coach and the rest of the cast are looking on."

At the end of the second act the coach rushed forward with outstretched hand to Rodney. "Superb, magnificent," he cried, as he shook Rodney's hand. At the end of the third act he would have embraced Rodney if Rodney had not backed away. "I have misjudged you," talent, real talent." Then he suggested to Rodney that he take up acting as a profession, offering his own services as a personal director. "It was as I said," he boasted. "You had not used your imagination—without imagination acting is impossible."

"Then I'm no actor," replied Rodney, loud enough for all to hear. "I have not used my imagination, and I was not acting—Miss Badger and I are engaged."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL

SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for May 23

THE WEAKNESS OF ESAU

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 25:27-34; 27:41-45.

GOLDEN TEXT—And every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things. I Corinthians 9:25.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Twin Brothers.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Twin Brothers Trading.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Winning by Self-Control.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Conquering Appetite and Greed.

One of the difficult and at the same time challenging things about teaching the Word of God is that its divine precepts are diametrically opposed to the current philosophy of men. In our lesson of last week we saw that meekness and forbearance are strong and commendable qualities in a world which magnifies brute force. Today we are to study a portion of Scripture which shows the folly of living for the flesh, and we are living in a world where the flesh and its appetities are given full sway.

Professors in many colleges are openly advocating the free exercise of every fleshly appetite as a normal expression of life. Morality is cast off; the flesh rules. Many of the nations of the earth look upon boys and girls as merely so many physical units useful in a future war. Motherhood has been degraded into an animal-like function, solely for the breeding of more manpower. One nation recently advocated as great an increase as possible in the birth of illegitimate children to be cared for by the state as a measure of national security. One shudders to mention such unspeakable wickedness, but even so we have only touched the surface.

Is it true that man is but a beast? Is there no spirit in man capable of fellowship with God? Has the moral law of God been abrogated? The story of Esau and Jacob is most pointed and instructive in its answer to such questions. Two New Testament quotations have been chosen to express the truth of an Old Testament lesson; namely, Galatians 5:17, and 6:7.

I. "The Flesh Lusteth Against the Spirit" (Gen. 25:27-34).

Esau is a type of the man of the flesh. He was "a cunning hunter, a man of the field." Evidently he was an athletic, outdoor man of attractive personality, of free and easy-going spirit. He was a hail-fellow-well-met. Had he lived in our day he would have been featured in the rotogravure, would probably have been in the movies, would possibly have been a great athlete, and the good-looking boy who set hearts a-flutter at the country club dance.

He came from the hunt, and he had found nothing. He was hungry. What a type this is of the folly of seeking satisfaction in the world. It never satisfies. For all its glitter and glamour, it is empty and shallow. He had a birthright—a valuable possession in any case, but doubly so as a son of Abraham. But he was hungry, he would simply die if he did not eat. His brother Jacob, inspired by his scheming mother who was not willing to abide God's time for the fulfillment of his promise, had the savory pottage ready to tempt him and he sold his birthright for a "gulp of that red stuff," for so might v. 30 be translated.

One is reminded of a clergyman who attended the Keswick Conference in England. He sent a request for prayer to the platform and asked this question: "I have a habit which is dishonoring to Christ. If I give it up I will die. What shall I do?" The wise and complete answer was one word—"Die." Rather should we lose our body and its desires than to lose our soul.

II. "Whatsoever a Man Soweth That Shall He Also Reap" (Gen. 27:41-45).

Jacob and his mother found that one lie called for another, and ultimately their deceit led (as deceit always does) to the place of reckoning. The law of sowing and reaping is inexorable. Jacob fled from his angry brother. Rebekah thought it would be for "a few days" (v. 44), but it proved to be twenty years, and she never saw her favorite son again.

Let us make no mistake about it. Our sins will always find us out. Even God's people must learn to walk uprightly before Him if they are to walk in peace.

Bumps

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

TOM GILBERT was always thankful that he had been standing in the doorway of his shop when the incident, just outside, took place.

He watched the girl, as he had many times watched her, while she put a great bundle of magazines in the mail box which was on the sidewalk just in front of his shop. Then he saw a good-looking man approaching the mail box, most obviously intent on a flirtation with the girl.

Gilbert never knew exactly how it happened, but what he did see was the bundle of magazines bumped out of the girl's arms and a swift stooping of both the man and the girl to pick them up.

Apparently their heads came together in a violent collision for the girl crumpled into an unconscious heap on the sidewalk.

"See, here, what's happened?" he questioned, belligerently.

"This young lady, a friend of mine, has bumped her head, that's all—no need to make a fuss about it," he said.

"Since the young lady happens to be engaged to me—I think we will make a fuss—give her to me at once!"

Gilbert scattered them all and carried the girl of his dreams tenderly into the shop and from thence to the big living-room behind, where his mother sat.

"She evidently got a nasty bump," said Gilbert, and gazed anxiously at the fluttering eyelids of the girl. "I don't know whether that dirty dog who tried to claim her did it deliberately or not—it looked mighty suspicious," he growled, and went out.

Peggy sat up a moment later with the naturally puzzled look of returning consciousness in her eyes. She also rubbed a swiftly growing bump on her temple.

"You're quite safe, my dear," said Mrs. Gilbert. "You had a bump on the mail box and you are in the shop just beside it."

"You are a dear and how horribly silly of me to bump my head. I think I can stand now." She smiled into Mrs. Gilbert's eyes. "I'm so sorry to have put you to this trouble."

"It was no trouble. I am just thankful my son was looking out the window and—well, my dear, he fancies he rescued you from the clutches of a flirt—but don't breathe a word to him about it."

Tom burst into the room to make inquiries.

"Well, what a change from the little pale face I carried in, Mother," he said joyfully.

Peggy Underwood looked up and held out a slim hand.

"It was very, very kind of you," she said sweetly with a swift, shy glance at Tom. "And your mother has been so good to me. I am Peggy Underwood and have charge of the library just around the corner." She rose. "If you don't mind, I must rush back as there is no one in charge, but if I may, I should love to come in this afternoon. I have an hour off at four."

"Good," said Tom. "I'll be here, too."

It was a wonderful tea party in the big living room and, when someone entered the shop, it was Mrs. Gilbert who arose to attend.

The man who entered was the one whom Tom considered a cad.

"Oh—I have just come in to inquire after the young lady your son is engaged to," he said, and noticed the surprise in Mrs. Gilbert's face.

But she was equal to the occasion. "She is all right now, thank you, and is having tea with us. Oh, Peggy dear," she called out, and Peggy appeared at the door. "This is the gentleman whose head came into the collision with yours—he has called to see how you are."

"And to apologize. Your fiance rescued you from the hands of the villain," the man said and watched her closely. "He was a bit of a caveman about it, too."

Peggy cast a swift glance at Tom, who had followed close on her heels. There was not the flicker of one long, silky eyelash as she said softly, "Well—that is what one's fiance is for—isn't it?"

And Tom exchanged a broad grin with the mail box outside.

Goldbeater's Skin

Goldbeater's skin is a fine membrane made of the outer coat of the blind gut in cattle and used by goldbeaters to separate the leaves of metal during the last and most difficult stages of hammering out goldleaf. The intestine, after being put through several processes, is cut into pieces about five inches square. Its tenacity and powers of resistance are so great that it will resist the continuous pounding of a heavy hammer for several months. Goldbeaters do their work by hand as they did in ancient times. A large number of leaves are beaten at the same time and hammers ranging in weight from seven to twenty pounds are used.

JAMES ROGERS IN SENATE RACE

U. S. COMMISSIONER TO HAVE CHANDLER BACKING IN OPPOSING JOHN T. MURPHY—IS ERLANGER BOY.

Persistent rumors that the Chandler administration had been casting about for a candidate to run against Senator John T. Murphy, and more recent intimations that that candidate would be James C. Rogers, U. S. Commissioner at Covington, were borne out Tuesday when Mr. Rogers formally announced his candidacy.

"After mature consideration I announce my candidacy for the the Senate for the 24th Senatorial District, comprising enton county, subject to the action of the Democraic party.

"Kenton county is entitled to honest, competent, loyal and courageous representation in the Senate, and it is my desire and ambition to so represent and pledge to its people to give to them the best representation of which I am capable in the event of my nomination and election.

"As the state debt is being rapidly decreased, there should be a reduction in taxes. The present program of freeing bridges should be continued to the end that all toll bridges are freed as soon as possible. Economic and social legislation should be perfected so as to bring the greatest good to the greatest number. There are too many laws and restrictions upon the liberty of the people and all unnecessary, obsolete, unpopular and unjust laws should be repealed. No laws inflicting further burdens or restrictions on industry or livelihood should be enacted unless their need is imperative.

"I am 32 years of age and a native of Kenton county, a graduate of Holmes High School and the University of Virginia, and in 1935 was appointed U. S. commissioner by Judge H. Church Ford and have been engaged in a general practice of the law with my father, O. M. Rogers, for the past nine years. I have always been a Democrat and loyal in my support of its nominees, and whole-heartedly indorse the present state and national administrations.

"If nominated and elected to the office to which I aspire I will endeavor to so conduct myself and discharge the duties of the office as to cindicate the faith placed in me."

MANY HOMES BEING PAINTED WITH NEW POWER PAINTER

Something new in the field of painting has been demonstrated in this section the past few weeks a power painter for painting Homes and any outside or inside painting.

A good example of the work done by this outfit is the painting of the Rogers property in Burlington, which has been recently purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Luther Smith. This large brick building was painted two coats, including the roof in less than five hours of actual labor.

Tyler and Henry Long, two young engineers from Shelbyville, planned this device, and it has proved a big success. They have several other contracts here at present, and are receiving inquires for bids daily.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS TO STUDY STATE AT ANNUAL JUNIOR WEEK

"Know Kentucky" or "Get Acquainted with Your State" is to be the central theme of the 17th annual Junior Week at the University of Kentucky June 7-12. Approximately 600 farm boys and girls from 100 counties, selected in local contests, will be in attendance.

Featuring the history and development of Kentucky, instruction will be given in the literature, music, mineral resources, agriculture, industry, parks and hospitality of the state.

The usual contests are held, including the judging of canned and baked foods, clothing and room improvement exhibits. In a style revue, which will attract girls from at least 50 counties, the best dressed girls from at least 50 counties, the best dressed girl will be selected to represent the state in a national contest. The healthiest boy and girl also will be selected, and and will go to the national 4-H Congress in Chicago.

Each county will send to Junior Week a highly trained team in farm practices or homemaking, and their demonstrations will be another feature of the program.

At the morning assemblies the boys and girls will be privileged to hear noted speakers while evening vespers will bring to a close each day's program.

PASSES $112 MILLION TVA DAM IN KY.

Washington, May 13—The current movement to curb federal spending lost its first real test in the senate Wednesday by a 46 to 29 vote authorizing construction of a $112,000,000 TVA dam at Gilbertsville, Ky.

The ballot ended a day of heated debate on spending. On the roll call the bulk of the Democratic majority approved an early start on construction of the dam, which is expected to require an annual outlay of $15,000,000 until completed.

Meanwhile economy advocates won a round at a session of the senate appropriations committee. It slashed $60,000,000 from a proposed $500,000,000 fund for soil conservation payments to farmers and cut $500,000 from funds for forest purchases by the agriculture department.

After much talk of economy, the house voted 385 to 7 against President Roosevelt's request for a permanent Civilian Conservation Corps. It sent to the senate instead a bill calling for a two-year extension of the CCC. Shortly thereafter the senate labor committee favorably reported an administration bill for a permanent CCC to cost $350,000,000 annually.

Strong indications developed late in the day that the house appropriations committee would approve $1,500,000,000 requested by Mr. Roosevelt for relief in the next fiscal year.

One of the amendments, if concurred in by the house, would permit the Tennesse Valley Authority to begin construction of the dam during the next fiscal year, which begins July 1, out of its $40,000,000 general appropriation. No specific sum was carried for the dam, but TVO officials estimated $2,700,000 could be allotted to the project.

Senator George Norris of Nebraska, author of the TVA act, said the Gilbertsville dam was a necessary unit, and the largest one in the TVA program. Congress is definitely committed to that program, he said and to date has spent about $200,000,000 on it.

UTOPIA CLUBS TRY HYBRID SEED CORN IN 23 COUNTIES

The launching of a program to increase corn yields through the use of hybrid seed is announced by the Kentucky College of Agriculture through the agency of Utopia clubs, which are made up of older boys and girls on farms, hybrid seed is being used this year in 23 counties both to demonstrate its superior qualities and to start production on a commercial scale.

One hundre dand eighty-four boys are cooperating in the work. Each is growing an acre of hybrid corn, usually in the same field with other corn, in order that farmers in the community may make a direct comparison between it and common kinds of corn.

Then one Utopia club in eacn county, as aclub project, is growing an acre of hybrid corn in order to start its commercial production.

At the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington, where many years have been devoted to corn breeding, it is said that the hybrid corn yields 15 to 25 per cent better than other kinds, that it is drouth and disease resistant, and has superior strength in its roots and stalks. That is, it stands up better against winds and storms.

The production of hybrid seed corn is said to be one of the most interesting recent developments in agriculture. It has made possible by the practical application of science to corn breeding, and it is expected to materially increase corn production when applied on a wide scale.

FORMER STATE SENATOR TAKEN

J. B. HILES DIES AT HOME OF SISTER IN ERLANGER—SERVICES HELD SUNDAY AT 2 P. M. IN BRACKEN COUNTY.

Services for J. B. Hiles, former state senator and retired banker, were held at 2 p. m. Sunday at Johnsville, Bracken county. Burial was at Johnsville.

Mr. Hiles died Wednesday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Julius Cooper, Erlanger, following an illness of 10 weeks. He was 78.

Born at Rocksprings, Ky., he entered the tobacco business in Bracken county with his father and later was elected county assessor there. Twice elected a member of the Kentucky Legislature, he was author of the compulsory education law. In 1910 Mr. Hiles became a candidate for Congress.

In the same year he organized the Foster Bank and remained in active management of it until two years ago. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge and the Odd Fellows.

Besides Mrs. Cooper he leaves two other sisters, Mrs. Trinna Miller, Cleveland, and Mrs. Margaret Stairs, West Virginia, and two brothers, Ace and Robert Hiles.

HOW TO MEASURE LAND DESCRIBED

Simple, practical and accurate methods of measuring land are given in a new circular published by the college of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky. It was prepared especially for farmers who, in cooperating in the agricultural conservation program, need to know how to ascertain the area of fields and how to lay off fields to contain given acreages.

Experience in checking compliance in the farm program revealed much inaccuracy in measuring fields by pacing or stepping distances. Fifty-nine farmers, whose tobacco acreage averaged 4.4 acres per farm, over-estimated the acreage by an averag of nearly an acre to the farm. Thirty-four farmers whose acreages averaged 7½ acres per farm, underestimated them by an average of nearly na acre and a quarter per farm.

The circular was written by Earl G. Welch, field agent in agricultural engineering. Ask a county agent or write to the college for circular No. 291, "Simple Problems in Land Management."

BURLINGTON LEADS LEAGUE

WITH THREE CONSECUTIVE VICTORIES—BIG BONE HAS STANDING OF 667 WITH TWO VICTORES.

The Burlington baseball team is leading the Boone County baseball association with three consecutive wins, and indications are that they will be found in the upper class during the entire season. They defeated the Petersburg nine Saturday by a score of 6 to three games, losing only one, with Akins was on the mound for the Burlington boys at Petersburg last Saturday, and showed fine form, and it is expected that he will be even better before the season closes.

The Big Bone team has played three games winning two, placing them in second position.

Belleview defeated the Big Bone boys in a fourteen inning thriller Saturday evening. The game was hard fought from beginning to end. D. Williamson singled and H. Rogers doubled to win the game for the Belleview boys by a score of 4 to 3.

Five hits were gathered by the Big Bone boys from the offerings of Wilson, while 7 hits were chalked up for the Belleview boys.

SPECIALIST TO SPEAK TO TRUCK GROWERS

John S. Gardner, vegetable crop field agent from the College of Agriculture, will meet with Boone County truck crop growers at Constance School on Thursday evening, May 27th at 8:00 p. m. (fast time), according to John P. Dolwick, Chairman of Constance Community Agricultural Improvement Program of Work. Everyone interested is invited to attend.

Mr. Gardner is widely known throughout Kentucky as a field worker from the College and writer on truck crops production problems. His discussion will be along the lines of new developments in various truck crops and a round table discussion with growers on local problems.

LOCUST TO APPEAR IN WEST KENTUCKY

A statement from W. A. Price, Lexington, state entomologist, and head of the department of entomology at the College of Agriculture and Experiment Station, says that the 17-year locust is scheduled to appear in Western Kentucky during the latter part of May and early June. According to previous records, this brood has shown greatest numbers in Kentucky in the wooded parts of that region known as the Purchase, extended some distance along the Ohio River. A few scattered individuals may appear in other parts of the state.

Injury to trees and shrubs comes at this time through the egg-laying activities and not through feeding. The female is equipped with a saw-like ovipositor which is used in depositing eggs in the small stems of shrubbery and twigs of trees. This causes the stems and twigs to die and break in many instances at the point of attack. Large trees will recover from such injury. Very small trees, however, may be ruined by this pruning operation. Such trees and shrubs can be protected from these insects by wrapping them loosely in cheap cloth, and fastened in such a way as to give the tree as much freedom as possible.

While spraying large trees is not feasible, applications of 40 percent nicotine sulphate, one part to 400 parts of water, plus soap will give satisfactory commercial kill.

ELSMERE-ERLANGER MINSTREL ON SLATE

The Erlanger-Elsmere Burnt Corkers, with Rev. R. D. Martin as interlocutor, will give a minstrel show May 27 and 28, in the Lloyd High School auditorium to raise funds for playgrounds and emergency relief. The affair is under the management of the Erlanger-Elsmere Civic League.

Judge Harry L. Riggs, musical director, has secured talent for the event. Instrumental music will be furnished by Mrs. Lillian Faber and Miss Lyda Catherine Keeney. Stage settings are under the supervision of Paul J. Carter.

B. F. DUNN, TEXAS RANCHER, AND HIS 21st CHEVROLET —ALL BOUGHT FROM THE SAME CHEVROLET DEALER

(Here is Mr. Dunn's own story of his experience with Chevrolet motor cars)

"Buying another Chevrolet has become an unbreakable habit with my family and me—so much so, that we are now driving our twenty-first consecutive car of that make. Another part of the 'habit' is that we always buy from Joe Mills, owner of the Mills Chevrolet Company, our Chevrolet dealer in Colorado, Texas. As the big spaces of Texas test both cars and friendships, I think our long-time loyalty says much for the dependability of both the Chevrolet car and our local Chevrolet dealer. While we can get values like these, nothing but Chevrolet will satisfy us."

FARMERS TO BE NOTIFIED

LATTER PART OF THIS WEEK CONCERNING THEIR 1937 ACP BASES—SAME AS LAST YEAR IN MOST CASES.

Boone County farmers cooperating in the Agricultural Conservation Program are being notified by mail, beginning the latter part of this week, on their 1937 ACP bases, according to John E. Crigler, Secretary of the association.

Bases in mases cases are about the same as last year. Because Washington demanded a lower total soil depleting crop base for the county this year it was necessary that a number of farmers suffer a slight downward adjustment in the general soil depleting bases. The committees, in the adjustment of bases, have worked hard and conscientiously in the attempt to adjust every base equitably between individual farms and at the same time to be fair to every individual farmer in the county.

It will probably take two weeks to get base notices mailed to all farmers. Farmers are advised to wait until they receive notice thru the mail. If there are any questions on these notices growers are urged to get in touch with the County Agent's Office immediately.

DISASTERS HARRIED WORLD DURING 1936

Floods, Earthquakes, Fires Take Heavy Toll.

Washington, D. C. — "One of the most spectacular of the world's natural disasters of 1936 was a fall of rock into cliff-rimmed Leon lake, Norway, which threw up a 300-foot flood wave that wiped out two villages," says the National Geographic society.

"Most devastating disaster of the year was the spring famine in the Szechwan and Honan provinces of China, in which thirty million people faced starvation. This was an added blow to a country which, since 1920, has been prostrated by sixty-eight floods and famines.

"The United States had its share of misfortunes with drouth, fires, floods, and tornadoes. In summer the most serious drouth in the country's history for scores of years parched the northwest and central states, burning up wheat and corn crops and killing cattle. The accompanying prolonged heat waves of approximately 100 degrees, which also assailed the eastern states, took the lives of more than 4,000 people.

"In August and September forest fires devoured thousands of dry acres in Minnesota, Wisconsin, California, and southwest Oregon.

Floods in East.

"Although the West suffered for lack of water in summer, the East was deluged with it in spring. March floods ravaged thirteen eastern states, destroying millions of dollars worth of property, and 169 lives. Johnstown, Pennsylvania, paralyzed by an eight-foot flood, recalled its famous disaster of 1889. In western Pennsylvania and northern West Virginia, a blizzard increased suffering of the homeless.

"Floods inundated southern England and France in January, and Luzon island in the Philippines in December.

"On November 20, the dam of a copper mine reservoir in Japan collapsed and at least 300 people were killed by the released poisonous solution.

"Wind and weather reached their climax in February. Gales, snowstorms, and extreme cold swept across twelve countries of Europe and the Near East, killing hundreds, wrecking shipping, and causing tremendous property damage. A terrific blizzard, the worst there in decades, swept through central Japan.

"The United States was struck by a severe cold wave, and on its heels dust storms harassed Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, and Colorado, and caused 'brown snow' to fall in New England.

"During the same month, in northern Transvaal, South Africa, hail fell three feet deep, killing crops, cattle and nineteen natives, some of whom had to be dug from their blanket of ice.

"Tornadoes harried Florida, Georgia, and Alabama in January, southern California in February, and, in April, lashed through six Southern states, killing 421 persons, and causing damage amounting to millions of dollars. In September a hurricane raged up the Atlantic seaboard.

Villages Swallowed Up.

"Typhoons did their share of damage in the Pacific. In August they destroyed crops in the Philippines and in October took 310 lives there. In August, 1,516 persons perished in Chosen (Korea) in its worst typhoon of recent years.

"Landslides following a violent earthquake killed approximately 300 people in January in Colombia. Two hundred perished when the village of La Chorrera was swallowed up by the earth and its place taken by a roaring volcano. Earthquakes killed several hundred in China in May, destroyed Tuquerres, Colombia in July, and leveled the city of San Vicente, El Salvador in December.

"Mounts Vesuvius and Stromboli, Italy, and Mount Asama, Japan, erupted during the year."

JACK SEABURY looked at Billie Dorn in knickers cleaning her golf clubs energetically, with stern disapproval. He vigorously disliked the athletic type of girl and Billie was all of that, surely. Sometimes he thought she must be made of steel, the way she swung her tennis racquet and cracked her golf balls across the course. He honestly could not remember ever having heard her say she was tired, or chilly or afraid; you could not protect or take care of a girl like Billie, she stood too firmly on her own feet. She was not the girl he dreamed about, a lovely feminine type of sweet delicate beauty and certainly not named Billie! He rather fancied the name of Alice, it was so distinctly feminine and made him think a little of that old song, Alice, Ben Bolt.

"Say, Billie!" He savagely cut off some leaves with his brassie. "I'm in love!"

"With whom, Jack?" she asked carelessly, but the brown fingers scrubbing the putter were not quite steady.

"With a wonderful girl, Billie, a girl of my dreams. I can see her now, blue eyes gentle and soft, hair that is fluffy and glinty and a skin—the kind that you love to touch!

"And," continued Jack, "she doesn't play golf, nor tennis, nor ride! And she's afraid of snakes and she tires easily. She likes fancy work and to have men wait on her—in other words, a real woman!"

Billie picked up the putter and began to rub and scrape, and then with all the braveness of a hero started to whistle a popular air.

"What's her name, Jack?" she asked in a teasing voice, covering up her true feelings.

"I think it's Alice," he answered. "Funny thing but I've never either met or seen her—but I want to—if I only could!"

"Don't despair. Sooner or later you'll meet your Alice if you want to bad enough. Just affirm Alice. Every time you think of this Alice pictured in your mind, say very positively. 'Alice, is. I, Jack Seabury, affirm Alice, the woman I love. Day by day, hour by hour, she is coming nearer to me.'"

"O. K. I'll try your game, Billie, and see how it works."

It was just a week later that Jack discovered a new girl at the club who answered his ideas of Alice—pale gold hair, a white transparent skin and baby blue eyes. Jack immediately sought an introduction and he was overjoyed to find out that she wasn't very strong and that her main sport was knitting and that she had headaches quite frequently. Naturally he was overcome with joy when he discovered her name to be Alice Willard.

It annoyed him exceedingly some time later when he rushed to the coat room, with his mind full of plans for ordering orchids and roses, to have his best friend, Phil Baker, stop him. "I want to say good-by to you, Jack. I'm leaving for the west. No one knows what I've been through married to Emily, living with that pampered girl!"

"Why, Emily was always the sweetest little thing, so frail."

Phil shuddered. "Have you ever lived with anybody who is always getting a headache? The slightest unpleasantness sends her into hysterics? A woman who punishes her husband for every little thing by having a sick spell? Who takes the joy out of everything by being tired, or too weak? Have your vacations just been toting shawls and pillows and finding comfortable seats for somebody who is too lazy and indulgent to exercise and get up a little strength? Have you ever been forced to stick in the house for weeks and when you suggested playing a round of golf have a woman burst into tears?"

It was a very thoughtful, enlightened Jack Seabury who dressed for the country club dance that evening. He found her almost immediately—a woman who suggested strength and glowing health, in her dress of shimmering green, beautiful against the soft tanned skin.

He hurried her out of the clubhouse for a walk over the knoll to the ninth hole, and there in the darkness, without a word of explanation, he drew her close and kissed her warm little mouth.

"I've always loved you, though I did not know it," he said softly, tenderly. "You've been my little pal, always there, always ready for anything. I don't want any wishy-washy delicate girl for my wife, but a real woman like you, Billie."

And as they walked back to the clubhouse, Billie said happily: "It worked after all, affirming Alice. Billie's just a nickname; I was christened Alice, you know."

Animals That Change Color

The octopus is noted for being able to change its color, but there are many other animals which can also change theirs for protective purposes. Most famous is the chameleon. This African reptile has acquired such a reputation that a legend has grown up that one placed on a piece of Scotch plaid burst itself trying to match the background. Another is the flounder. This fish is so expert that it can mottle its back to resemble coarse gravel on the floor of the ocean.

H. H. Winters, Boyd county, estimates that his land has made an increase in value of not less than $75 an acre since the laying of an adequate drainage system. "I wouldn't take $100, really, for the benefit ot each acre of land from proper drainage," Winters commented.

O. M. C.

By JANE OSBORN

TED CARSON, sitting at his desk in the city, talked to Howard Fern over his telephone.

"Can you come out and play bridge with us tomorrow? It's our O. M. C. bridge club and one of the couples can't come. You don't know any of them-but they're perfectly harmless. And, say, you don't mind passing as a married man, do you? I'll tell you on the way out. And you can meet your wife at dinner. Madge wasn't sure who she'd get—it has to be someone the crowd doesn't know."

At about the same time Madge Carson called up Alice Gordon, an old friend who lived in the city. "My dear, I hope you won't think I'm dreadfully rude but I'm asking you to fill in at bridge tomorrow night. It's our turn to entertain the O. M. C. and Clara and Bill have gone south. You see O. M. C. stands for "Old Married Crowd"—though, of course, we aren't exactly old. Well, anyway, we made some fool rules and one of them was that we'd never have anyone belong who wasn't married—and no member is allowed to invite an unmarried stop gap. But really Ted and I don't know any people that are married to ask. So Ted said he'd get some friend of his and I said I'd get you and you could pretend you were married. We'll make up a name for you and you'll probably never see your husband again."

So it was arranged, and it was not until Howard Fern came downstairs with Ted for dinner after a hasty change from their business clothes, that he knew that the girl whose husband he had been asked to impersonate was Alice Gordon whom he had met five or six times that winter in the city, and in all probability they would meet again occasionally. That was what made the situation a little more embarrassing than they had expected it would be. But it was agreed that they were to play the role of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Norcott.

After the cards were over the various members took places round the tables drawn together for the supper to follow, and sat while Ted and Madge Carson brought on the refreshments. Someone brought up the subject of proposals and Madge announced that she didn't think that Ted ever did propose to her.

"I certainly did propose," Ted answered. "We were at a Sunday school picnic and I'd been drinking pink lemonade and we stayed behind the others in the grove—I can remember the mosquitoes. One stung me on the nose when I kissed you."

So that started it. It was moved, seconded and carried that everyone present confess how he or she became engaged.

"Don't have the girls in on this," objected Madge. "Because they'd tell different stories and then we'd find out what liars our husbands really are. We'll just listen while you do the romancing. Gerald, it's your turn." So Gerald told briefly of his own proposal, and then came time for Howard—Mr. Bob Norcott.

"Isn't much to tell," he said smiling assuringly at Alice. "The only remarkable thing about it was that she was willing to have me. You see I'd met her a few times and she—well, you know how a girl can treat a man without being at all rude. Snippity-I call it. I knew I wanted her and I sat up nights trying to think of a way to get acquainted. Then one night we went to fill in at a card party—much like the party tonight— and I knew right then that I'd have to ask her, and though we had both been asked to spend the night I asked our hostess if I could see her home. I thought maybe I'd get my courage up on the way. It was on the train going in to town that it happened. I never had an idea that she'd have me—" Howard looked up and across at Alice with a straight eager look that made her blush. But somehow she rose to the occasion.

"You're as bad as the rest," she told him. "I was crazy about you from the first. I think it was I who suggested going home together and I'm sure I did the actual proposing."

Madge gasped her amazement but no one noticed it, and the confessions went on. Then they finished supper and there was the usual leave taking and Howard and Alice were alone with their host and hostess. Howard said he thought really he ought to get back that night—and as he was going, perhaps he could take Miss Gordon. So they started and on their way to the station a few minutes walk away they said scarcely a word.

"You are a very good actor," Alice said at last. "I don't see how you carried it off so well."

"I'm not an actor at all," said Howard without smiling. "You know what I mean. It was pretty hard, though, having to sit there and listen to you, knowing all the time that you were laughing at me."

Alice looked away from Howard toward the dark window. "Perhaps I meant what I said, too," she said.

"Then you really could think of me—you would really marry me?" asked Howard.

Alice turned and looked at him. "Of course I meant it," she said and then she laughed. "Didn't I say I had to do the proposing—and now I think I really have."

Doyle Hiestand, Taylor county junior Farm Bureau member, cleared $76 on 16 hogs fed in a dry lot during the winter. Fed by the ton-liter method, the hogs made rapid gains from the start. They were produced for approximately $6.50 per hundred.

TEKES VALLEY

BEYOND Bukhara and Samarkand, Central Asia, lies Tashkent; and from Tashkent eastward stretches an ancient silk caravan road to Cathay. It winds across steppes, mountains, and the Chino-Russian boundary until it runs past the glamorous Central Asian metropolis of Kuldja (or Ningyuan) in Sinkiang, whose bazaar is a riot of color and whose community is an amazing mixture of tongues.

Here, in the winter, old-style Russians in gay troikas race to and from all-night parties; solemn processions of Mongol lamas parade through the streets on horseback; and long-robed Chinese and Turkish merchants shout and gesticulate in the crowded market places.

In summer lumbering oxcarts replace racing troikas and, from the streets which have become dust ponds, clouds of fine sand swirl aloft to hover over the city like a pall. Then life in Kuldja becomes unbearable and the populace, by horse, wagon, and on foot, packs off for the mountains.

And so it was that, after spending seven winter and spring months in the snows and dust of Kuldja, a traveler found himself in mid-June two days by horse south of the city, half lost in the mountains and searching for the famous Tekes valley.

His trail was winding up the bottom of a deep ravine. The steep slopes were bare of trees, but covered with an unbelievably rank growth of grass and weeds. This vegetation formed walls of the narrow trail, cutting off his view of everything save a thin band of sky above and a short patch of trail before and behind.

Suddenly a horseman emerged from the overgrowth onto the trail in front. He was a Kalmuck, a nomad from one of the Central Asian tribes of Mongols; his dark skin, high cheekbones, and brimless, domed felt hat made that certain. Apparently he had been watching the traveler from some vantage point and was accosting him for a purpose.

Kalmuck Points the Trail.

They rode together up the trail for a short distance without speaking. Among nomads silence is a prelude to greeting. It is a fine point in their social etiquette

"Where are you going?" As he turned back in his saddle to speak, his expression was decidedly unfriendly.

"To the Tekes valley," was the reply.

"What is your business in the Tekes?"

"I visit Sayjan Beg, the chieftain of the Kirghiz."

The man drew rein and swung his horse around, his face a complete transformation. Where before had been sullen distrust, there was now smiling friendliness.

"This trail does not lead to the Tekes," he explained. "If you follow it you will be lost in the mountains and have to spend the night in the open." Then he gave elaborate directions for retracing steps and picking up the right trail.

"And carry greetings from the Kalmucks to the chief of the highland Kirghiz," he called as they parted.

Following his directions, at the first fork beyond an old sheep corral, the stranger dismounted to examine the muddy trail. It was even as he had described; there were many tiny tracks made by a flock of goats which had recently passed up the slope to the right. From there the trail led over a series of hogbacks until suddenly it came out on the crest of the last ridge.

Below lay the goal the traveler had been aiming at for three years—the Tekes, the valley of valleys, the nomad paradise of Central Asia.

Above the opposite valley wall, the foothills of the Celestial mountains leveled off to a great plain which stretched away to meet the snow line. On that undulating plateau were those far-famed highlands which the traveler had come to see.

Paradise for the Nomads.

Even in distant Istanbul one hears tales of how the nomads migrate to these Tekes highlands, bringing with them their flocks and herds to spend the summer months in a veritable earthly paradise for Mohammedans, drinking the famous mare's milk, feasting on mutton, sporting, loving, and marrying.

Far across the valley in one of the recesses could be seen a scattering of brown huts amid a black splotch of trees. It fitted the description given by Kuldja friends; it must be the winter quarters of the nomads, the home of Sayjan Beg, chieftain of the Kirghiz. The horseman seized the bridle rein and picked his way down the perilous zigzag trail.

"So you are a real American!" exclaimed Sayjan Beg, the Kirghiz chieftain.

He was seated cross-legged on a sedir (deep Turkish couch) reading the introduction the visitor had handed him.

The visitor had to explain to him his coming to the Tekes. His Tatar cousins had been fellow students at Robert college, in Istanbul. While at the school they had captured his fancy with tales of their home city, Kuldja, and the Tekes valley. When the boys returned home, they had given him a warm invitation to visit them.

Sayjan Beg was strangely cast for a nomad chieftain, small, thin-boned, and delicate; yet, as one came to know him, his littleness was forgotten and one was conscious only of his wiry strength and vitality. He had unbounded nervous energy and a regal manner, coupled with a quick, decisive way of uttering commands. One suspected Russian blood somewhere in his strain, for his skin was much lighter than that of the Kirghiz about him.

Chief's Head Always Covered.

Perched on his head was the embroidered velvet Moslem cap, for he considers it a breach of etiquette to be seen with uncovered head, either indoors or out. Buttoned tight about his neck was a clean, white Russian shirt, while the rest of his costume was made up of a corduroy coat, Russian riding breeches, and knee boots of excellent black leather obviously imported from Soviet Russia.

Tribal headquarters were soon crowded with Kirghiz. News passed swiftly around the village that a stranger who had lived in Istanbul was visiting the chief; so the more important tribesmen had come to pay their respects to both the chieftain and his guest. Sayjan Beg and the visitor were sitting on sedirs opposite each other, while the onlookers sat Turkish fashion on the floor or stood about, leaning against the walls.

On this first evening and subsequently, sitting cross-legged around camp fires, the guest found the nomads had rather old-fashioned ideas about geography. To them the world is flat and no amount of explaining can alter their conceptions. The earth is surrounded by "the great sea," while the sun circles about the earth.

They have heard of Russia, China, Iran (Persia), Turkey, Kashmir, Hindustan, Tibet, Afghanistan, and the mysterious far-away England. But America means nothing to most of them; in fact, the guest was invariably taken for a Russian unless he explicitly told them that he was a Ferengi—an Asian word of ancient origin derived from the word "Frank" and used to denote all western Europeans.

Dwellers in the Valley.

During a lull in his cross-examination by the circle of nomads, he questioned the chief about the different peoples living in the valley.

"There are two main races here in the Tekes, nomadic Turks and Mongols," he said. "We Turks are represented by the Kirghiz and Kazaks, two great tribes whose customs, language, and religion (Mohammedan Sunni) are almost identical; in fact, in the time of Genghis Khan we undoubtedly were one tribe.

"However, we now have distinctions: our dialects are slightly different; the Kirghiz women wear a unique headdress, and through the years we Kirghiz have been more successful in amassing wealth. We come from Issyk-kul (Warm Lake), across the border in Russian Kirghizistan, while the Kazaks have migrated from the dry steppes of Kazakistan, in southern Siberia.

"The Kalmucks, or Mongols, in the other end of the valley have lived for centuries, with only a few interruptions," he continued, "a law unto themselves, with their Tibetan religion, Mongolian language, and unspeakable customs. They have always dispensed their own civil and, to a large extent, criminal justice."

HUBERT CONNER TO BE DELEGATE

FOR KENTUCKY AT NATIONAL HOLSTEIN CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN CHICAGO DURING FIRST WEEK OF JUNE.

The official list of delegates chosen to attend the Fifty-Second Annual Convention of the Holstein Friesian Association of America has just been issued and Mr. Hubert Conner of Burlington, will represent this State. Each state is entitled to one or more delegates, depending on the number of active members within the state and 123 delegates have been elected to attend the 1937 convention to be held at Chicago during the first week of June.

Delegates are elected by the members within their respective states from a list nominated by the members, and Holstein breeders throughout the country consider it a high honor to be chosen as a delegate to the Annual Convention.

The program includes the Open Forum for general discussion of matters of interest and importance to Holstein-Friesian cattle breeders on Tuesday, June 1st; the official convention day, Wednesday, June 2nd when all matters of official business will be transacted and officers elected for the ensuing year, with the Annual Banquet in the evening and the National Convention Sale of 80 high class Holstein cattle on Thursday, June 3rd.

The Holstein-Friesian Association of America is the largest livestock breeders association in the world and a large attendance is expected at this meeting. The convention will be held at the Medinah Club on North Michigan Ave. with the best of accomodations and all Holstein breeders are invited to attend these meetings.

LIMABURG MAN SUFFERS PAINFUL INJURY MONDAY

Fred Bennett, Limaburg farmer suffered a very painful injury Monday while riding a disc harrow.

According to Dr. M. A. Yelton, attending physician, the seat on the harrow broke, dropping Mr. Bennett on a projection of the machine which pierced hip to a depth of approximately two inches. Dr. Yelton said the injury was not serious, but was very painful.

JUDGE RIDDELL RETURNS FROM VACATION IN TEXAS

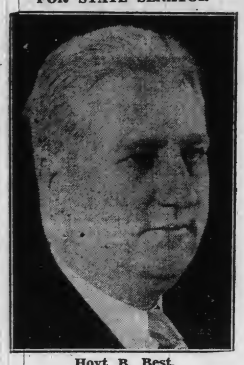
Judge N. E. Riddell returned to Burlington Saturday, after spending a month in San Antonio, Texas.

He reports that he had some real sport fishing while there. He even brought two fishing lines home with him, one being a 50 pound test line, and the other a 90-pound test line, which he said were broken by fish the same as if he was fishing with an ordinary line. They must have been "whoppers" Judge.

The Judge appeared very glad to be back home and we are equally as glad to have him back.

J. H. Grant, of the Idlewild neighborhood, was a brief caller in Burlington Monday. Mr. Grant stated that he had tobacco plants large enough to set, and was just waiting for a season.

LEADS D. H. I. A. HERDS



IN SHELBY, BOONE AND CARROLL—TWELVE COWS AVERAGED 37.5 POUNDS OF BUTTERFAT DURING MONTH.

The registered Jersey herd of Kite and Purdy of Burlington, Route 2, lead all herds in the Shelby, Boone and Carroll Dairy Herd Improvement Association in both butterfat and milk production during the month. The herd of C. W. Shipman's Shelbyville was second.

Three Boone County dairymen, Kite and Purdy, Burlington R. 2; Joel Gray, Burlington and Ben Nichting, of Beaver have been consistent members of the Shelby, Boone and Carroll County Association, the past five years. There is no known method of improving a dairy herd more efficient than Dairy Herd Improvement Association records effectively used. The next advanced step above D. H. I. A. work is combined D. H. I. A. work with bull association testing.

STOCK ARE UNDER FED

SAYS COUNTY AGENT FORKNER LIVESTOCK DO NOT DO THEIR BEST WORK WHEN FEED SUPPLY IS CUT.

Boone County livestock are under fed according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. This is practically true on 100 percent of the farms at one time or another during the year. Livestock, as with people, do their most profitable work when well fed. Few people would want to agree that their livestock are under fed but a close analysis of the available feed supply and consumption for the entire year will indicate the above statement is correct.

The County Agricultural Planning Committee in their study found that approximately 12,000 cattle, 15,000 sheep and 3,000 horses in the county would consume annually around 25,570 tons of hay but that only 16,000 tons were produced in the county, leaving 3,570 tons of roughage to be imported. Boone County is and definitely should be a deficit grain area. The solution to our greatest livestock problem—better feeding—then is pasture and hay improvement.

Pasture and good hay are the most profitable crops produced on the farm. Few dairymen can produce milk during the winter months at a profit if all the feed both grain and roughage are bought. A good dairyman can always produce milk at a profit during the summer months if pastures are good. Our pastures and hay crops, through use of good seeding mixtures on good seed beds combined with lime and phosphate plus a very light coat of manure where needed can be made to produce abundantly. Early sown wheat, rye and other good winter cover crops sown early for fall, winter and early spring pasture plus in exceptional cases emergency pasture crops as Sudan grass (Johnson grass free), spring sown small grains and proper pasture rotation will help give us abundant pasture eight to nine months out of the year. Experimental work shows that a Jersey cow can stand up and produce 2 gallons of milk daily and a Holstein cow 20 pints of milk daily when full fed GOOD alfalfa hay.

Pasture and hay improvement today are the two most important foundations toward more profitable agriculture in Boone County. This program is backed by the Agricultural Conservation Program, raising farm real estate values and a greater profit from farming. Drive down the road and study which farmers are making the most money. Check their farm organization. Nineteen out of twenty are those farmers that are feeding their livestock well on nature's cheapst feed—good pastures and good hay crops.

Remember a few years of good pastures and we have land that will grow good tobacco or any other crop that may follow.

HOYT B. BEST FOR SENATOR

FORMER COUNTY ATTORNEY OF PENDLETON COUNTY ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY FOR STATE SENATOR.

Hoyt B. Best, Falmouth, Pendleton County, Ky., formally announced his candidacy for the office of State Senator this week, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, Saturday, August 7th, 1937.

He is 36 years of age, a home owner, married and has one son. He has received his A. B. and L. L. B. degrees, and has been a practicing lawyer for fifteen years. He formerly served as city attorney of Falmouth, and then was elected to the office of County Attorney of Pendleton county. He has, and is at present, holding several other positions of honor and trust. He has always been a democrat, and has served his party faithfully at all times.

Mr. Best states that he will receive a huge majority of the votes from his own county, which speaks well for anyone, and respectfully solicits the support of his many Boone County friends. He further states that if he is elected to this office, he will serve all the counties fairly and impartially.

The 26th Senatorial district includes Boone, Gallatin, Grant, Owen and and Pendleton counties.

Wilton Stephens

STEPHENS FOR RE-ELECTION

Wilton Stephens, Burlington, who has served in the capacity of County Tax Commissioner for the past four years, announced his candidacy this week for re-election to this office.

In asking the support of the voters of Boone County, Mr. Stephens refers them to his past record in caring for the office, and that his qualifications be taken from that. Each year the entire assessment has been made and all the books completed by January 1, which is something that has not been done in the past. Only six months is allotted for this work, and each year he has assessed fifteen of the sixteen precincts himself, and still closes the books by January 1st.

He not only has fulfilled the duties of the office, but he has tried in every possible way to be fair and honest to everyone, and at all times keeping the interest of the people he serves at heart. He feels that by contacting almost everyone in the entire County personally each year, that he is better acquainted with your problems, and if elected can serve still better in the future than in the past.

Mr. Stephens was born and reared in Boone County, and proved himself a successful farmer before being elected to this office four years ago. He states that if the voters of Boone County desire to re-elect him to this office, their support will not only be appreciated, but he will strive to serve them efficiently.

YELTON FARM SOLD; RILEY SALE COMING

John Walton purchased the Dr. M. A. Yelton farm of about 428 acres, near Burlington, which was sold at auction on May 15th. A large crowd, about a thousand people from several counties, attended the auction. The sale price, including land and personalty, was over $20,000.00. The Guy Downs Realty Co., of Shelbyville, Ky., well known for its absolute auctions, conducted the sale.

This progressive Realty Co., is now preparing for another absolute auction. The beautiful home and several choice building lots in Hebron, belonging to County Attorney Charles W. Riley, will be sold by this firm to the highest bidder on June 5th, advertisement of which appears in this issue.

FRAME STRAIGHTENER INSTALLED BY R. MICHELS WELDING COMPANY

The R. Michels Welding Co., Covington recently installed the latest type of Bendix-Feragen Frame Straightener, which is the first of its kind in Northern Kentucky. This machine handles every type and make of car and any truck up to and including the 1½ ton size. It will straighten and correct cold, all chassis, axles, drive shafts, housings, wheels, and other parts in or out of the car. With the installation of this machine the company is proud to say that they have the most complete service of any welding shop in the State.

On June 7th and 8th from 2:30 to 5:00 p. m., and again from 7:30 to 10:00 p. m., they will hold a demonstration of this machine at their location, 722 Washington St., Covington. They invite you and your friends to attend at any of these times, as men from the Bendix-Feragan factory will be present to show in detail the operation, and answer any questions.

FOUR-H CLUBS PLAN RALLY

AT BURLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL FOR SATURDAY—TEN COMMUNITY 4-H CLUBS EXPECTED TO PARTICIPATE.

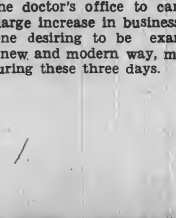
Boone County 4-H clubs are planning for their big Annual Spring Rally at Burlington high school for this Saturday, May 29th, according to Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent. Representatives in the farm and home practice demonstration team contest, girls style show contests and 4-H health contests from each of the ten community 4-H clubs are expected to take part.

Approximately 400 4-H club boys and girls, under the local supervisors of 42 adult leaders this year are carrying on the largest and best organized program in the history of Boone County 4-H club work. The morning session of the program will be devoted to organization training work for leaders, officers and members. The afternoon program will be devoted to a full schedule of competitive farm practice demonstration team contests, improved home practice demonstration team contests, clothing girls style show contest, and county competition for the healthiest 4-H club boy and girl. The club which scored highest in 4-H achievement and work during 1936 will also be presented with the Bank of Boone County trophies for outstanding work.

Boone County 4-H clubs are most fortunate in having the strong support of Northern Kentucky's outstanding business organizations. Through the splendid cooperation of Mr. Luhn and the Luhn & Stevie Co., Covington; The John R. Coppin, Co., The Kenton Loose Leaf Warehouse, Covington; Aurora Flour and Feed Co., Aurora, Ind.; and Early & Daniels Co., Cincinnati, each county winner of contests will receive a scholarship trip to Junior Week at the University of Kentucky, June 7th to 12th. Each winner will compete in the State contests while at Junior Week.

KATHRYN SEBREE RECEIVES MEDAL

FOR HIGHEST SCHOLASTIC AVERAGE DURING SENIOR YEAR —SAME HONOR WON LAST YEAR BY CHAS. GRAYSON.



Miss Kathryn Grant Sebree, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dolph Sebree, Florence, was the winner of the Lloyd medal this year, according to Prof Caton, principal of the Florence high school.

This honor was given Miss Sebree for her outstanding scholastic achivement during the senior year. There were seventen students in th senior class at the Florence school this year, and to reach this mark in such a large class, is something of which to be proud. We are very proud of Miss Sbree, and hope that she will continue to be a leader in whatever she may attempt.

There is a sum of money set aside by the estate of the late John Uri Lloyd to take care of this medal each year, and some pupil in the Florence High School receives the award each year. The medal was awarded this year for scholastic achivement. However, it can be won in other ways, one of which being a heroic deed during the school term.

BANKS IN COUNTY TO BE CLOSED MAY 31ST

All banks in Boone County will be closed Monday, May 31 in observance of Memorial Day.

Hubert White

WHITE TOSSES HAT IN RING

AS DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR MAGISTRATE FROM THE FIRST DISTRICT—SEEKS RE-ELECTION.

Hubert White, magistrate in the first magisterial district, composed of Burlington, Florence and Union precincts announces in this issue as a candidate for re-election.

Mr. White needs no introduction to the voters of his district, whom he asks to indorse his administration of the office he now holds.

His hobby is good roads and during the three years he has held office, much of his time and labor has been devoted to the improvement of the roads and bridges in his district.

A successful business man and farmer, has made himself the champion of the farmer, the small home owner and the tenant farmer, which reside on the numerous side roads in the county, who have long struggled to obtain better roads and living conditions for himself and family.

He is a democrat of the "old school" and a firm believer in the principles of his party. In every campaign, County, State and National his earnest efforts are always put forth in behalf of his party nominees.

His official acts during the 3 years of his present term testify as to his qualifications for the office he seeks and if nominated and elected, he will continue to look after the interest of his constituents and the affairs of the county in the same diligent and efficient manner.

RE-CLINIC TO BE HELD JUNE 7, 8, AND 9TH

Dr. C. E. Parsley, chiropractor, Erlanger, has recently announced that the recent clinic conducted at his office in Erlanger was such a huge success, that he has arranged to have a re-clinic on the 7, 8 and 9th of June, to accommodate those who were unable to be examined before.

Additional help has been added at the doctor's office to care for the large increase in business, and anyone desiring to be examined this new and modern way, may do so during these three days.

WINNER OF LLOYD MEDAL

Miss Kathryn Grant Sebree

FISH-GAME MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Fish and Game Conservation Club of Boone County at the courthouse Thursday night, June 3rd.

All committees who have been given special duties to perform are requested to be present at this meeting to make complete report before the club.

Plans for the bird shoot are well underway, and final arrangements will be made at this meeting.

Come and bring a new member!

USE CHECK PLOTS LIME AND PHOSPHATE

Farmers will use more lime and phosphate this year than any year in history, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Ninety percent of our soils need both lime and phosphate but some soils need this treatment more than others.

Every user of lime and phosphate is urged to leave small check plots not treated in the field. If a large field, a quarter of an acre may be left with no treatment, a quarter of an acre with phosphate only, with the rest of the field treated with both lime and phosphate. No chemical test can tell as accurately as the actual results secured. The untreated plots should preferably be left in long strips so as to cover all types of soil in the field.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Miller, of Columbus, Miss., visited her cousin, Mrs. Hubert Rouse Friday afternoon of last week.

Henry Glass, owner of the Rising Sun Flour Mill, paid The Recorder office a call Wednesday morning. Mr. Glass stated that orders for Rainbow Flour were increasing very rapidly.

Gayety Theater Will Show "After The Thin Man" Starting Sun.

With all the entertaining points of its predecessor, and a number of new ones, Dashiell Hammett's mystery story, "After the Thin Man," will be at the Gayety Theater, Erlanger, Sunday, Monday and Tues., of next week, starring William Powell and Myrna Loy. This is a sequel to "The Thin Man," which Metro-Goldwn-Mayer studios produced in response to public demand.

The same director, W. S. Van Dyke, was responsible. Hunt Stromberg produced the film and there was no doubt that the sequel picks up in high where the original opus left off.

An excellent supporting cast includes James Stewart, Elissa Landi, Joseph Calleia, Jessie Ralph and Asta, the intelligent wire-haired terrier which played a clever part in "The Thin Man."

The new story presents the ace detective as he returns from New York to his home in San Francisco determined to abandon sleuthing activities forever. The first thing that slaps him in the face is an A-1 mystery, with a murder and another series of irresistible adventures.

The story carries up into the aristocratic heights of Nob Hill in the city of the Golden Gate and descends into the spicy atmosphere of Chinatown, with the solution never in sight until the very end. As a matter of fact, according to M-G-M authorities, the final scenes were filmed secretly and the cast was virtually sworn to keep the plot to themselves.

"After the Thin Man" is a worthy successor to the first sensational picture which became a box office record-breaker.

ANOTHER WIN CHALKED UP

FOR BURLINGTON NINE—DEFEAT BIG BONE TEAM BY SCORE OF 7 TO 2—STILL IN TOP POSITION.

The Burlington baseball team chalked up another victory Saturday when they met the Big Bone team on the local ball park, defeating them by a score of 7 to 2.

In the first inning the Big Bone boys took a lead of 2 to 0 which they held until the fifth inning, when Burlington scored two runs tying the score. In the last half of the sixth, Burlington scored another run, giving them a lead which they maintained throughout the remainder of the game.

Akins was on the mound for the Burlington boys and handled the ball in very nice style, showing improvement as the game progressed. "Pip" Clore was on the receiving end for the locals in the absence of Britch Stephens, which position he filled in a very favorable manner.

Afterkirk, a pitcher who rates as first class in amateur baseball was on the mound for Big Bone. He showed the boys plenty of speed and fast breaking curves during the early stages of the game, but seemed to weaken after the sixth inning, when his curves broke just a little quicker than he desired.

The local boys are showing improvement at each game and very few errors were chalked up against either team. Burlington made two double plays during this game that would be a credit to any team, and would deserve mention, even in professional baseball.

Fans are becoming more numerous at each game and much interest is being shown. Many of the fans believe that real talent can be developed in our county this year.

HEBRON SCORES IN STATE CONTEST

In the State Scholastic contest held recently, James Conner of the Hebron school made the high score in literature contesting against one hundred and thirty-seven other pupils from all over the state.

Mary Marshall, also of the Hebron school scored in the upper tenth in Algebra.

HOMEMAKERS' LEADERS' TRAINING CLASS TO BE HELD MAY 28TH

Twenty-two local leaders of Boone Homemakers Clubs are expected to attend the Training Class Friday, May 28th 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. at the courthouse. This will be the last of the series of eight training classes in clothing conducted by Miss Iris Davenport, specialist in clothings, University of Kentucky. Special projects will be given in the local clubs during July and August.

Mrs. Allan Gaines, County clothing project leader, will conduct the roll call. The roll call is answered by a report from each club of work done in her community during the past month, according to Miss Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent.

FIRST HYBRID SEED CORN

BREEDING PROJECT STARTED IN BOONE COUNTY—PARENT CORN SECURED FROM EXPERIMENT STATION.

The first acre of hybrid seed was planted last Friday, May 21st on the farm of Wilton Stephens, member of the Utopia club, according to David Colville, Assistant County Agent.

This project is similar to the pioneering days of old, only in a different field and will probably prove as profitable to the farmers and those conducting the demonstration as to the pioneers of years ago.

Enough parent corn was secured from the Kentucky Experiment Station to plant one acre and is to be tended by the club members as a summer project. This hybrid corn harvested this fall will be Kentucky Hybrid No. 69 variety.

The Utopia Club members carrying this project are as follows: Wilton Stephens, Robert Graves, Grant Maddox, John Crigler, Lloyd Siekman, Ben Stephens, William Moore and Virgil Vice. Each member, in addition to the cooperative acre, is planting one acre of Kentucky hybrid No. 69 as an individual project.

THAT AUTO HORN

The horn on an automobile is a very useful gadget in an emergency, but it's an infernal nuisance in the hands of a driver who seems to think all occasions on the road are emergencies. It's a nuisance when the boy friend stops in front of the house where the girl friend lives and honks and honks to invite her out for a ride. It's a nuisance when the impatient driver thinks he can move a long string of cars massed before him simply by blasting away on his horn.

Observe the most careful drivers in this section and you will find that they seldom feel it necessary to resort to the horn. They do not look upon it as the motive power of the car, although there are many drivers who seem to think that it is. They do not use it as an instrument for "bluffing" other drivers into conceding them right-of-way, and they are too courteous to use it when there is danger of confusing another driver and, as quite often happens, cause him to place himself and those about him in danger.

One lesson for the new driver to learn, and there are a lot of older drivers who do not seem to have learned it yet, is that the noisy, continued blowing of an automobile horn except in an emergency cannot be rated as a competent driver. It was put on the car for but one purpose, and that purpose is it's use only when danger lingers near and a warning signal is necessary.

DON'T THROW IT AWAY

Along about this time of year local housewives begin ridding the house of what most generally classify as "junk." Few of them, unfortunately, realize what may be junk to them really constitutes an article of value to someone else in the neighborhood. It may be an odd piece of furniture, a worn rug or carpet, a lamp, radio, washing machine, table or stove. Why throw it away when there is a chance that someone else needs it and would gladly pay a reasonable price for it? Someone else may be wanting right this minute the very thing you are going to destroy tomorrow. And finding out who they are isn't difficult, nor is it expensive. A few cents for a little local liner in these columns will most generally serve to put you in contact with someone who wants the very thing you are tired of—someone willing to pay you for it. It takes but a moment to drop in and inquire about the cost. And it may mean an actual cash profit for you.

—o—

EXPENSIVE RATS

From figures gathered in all parts of the country federal experts have determined that the average rat consumes $2 worth of grain a year. Now if farmers in Boone County have any way of determining how many rates they have around their homes they can tell just what it is costing them in good hard dollars to maintain them. When one considers that a single rat can get away with $2 worth of marketable products annually it is hard to understand why more attention is not given to their elimination. If everyone realized that the sum of 2 could be saved this year by slaying a single rate, think what a slaughter there would be. And yet Uncle Sam says there is a saving of $2 worth of grain every time a rat is killed. He gives no figures concerning the destruction wrought by mice, but housewives know it must be in proportion. What the country seems to need just now as much as anything else is a national rat and mice killing campaign.

—o—

How times change. The old-fashioned Boone County couple began with a cow and a cookstove and the modern ones begin with a diamond ring and a coupe.

A FARM INVENTORY

Practically every business in the commercial world takes an inventory at least once a year, many quarterly and not a few every month. Good managers would not think of trying to do business without such a check-up.

Farming is a business. In fact, it is a rather complex business, and an annual inventory is just as valuable, and should be considered just as necessary as it is to any other business. Right now, before the start of another busy farming season, would be a very appropriate time for farmers in Boone County to give the subject their atteniton.

Take stock of your personal and real property, your livestock, hay, grain, implements and equipment of all kind. List the money you may have in bank and all outstanding debts that may be due you. Balance this against whatever obligations you may have, and thus determine exactly where you stand from a financial standpoint before starting on another crop year. Later on you will find a comparison of inventories helpful in deciding which projects are most profitable. Every farm, the same as any other type of business, should be conducted along systematic, regulation methods. It is not only helpful, but is essential if the farm is successfully operated. The farmer who "keeps books" has a much firmer hold on his affairs than the one who doesn't. And those who make it a rule to take a yearly inventory are less ape to find themselves going into the hole.

GOOD SAFETY WORK

A matter of great interest to everyone is the fact that rapid progress is being made in the elimination of grade-crossing all over the country, 748 having been wiped out in 1936. Plans have been approved by the government for 166 more such projects and from money available at the last session of congress possible 500 more will be elliminated by the end of the current year. That is the kind of safety work the public approves of. But it should be remembered by Boone County motorists that not all the death-traps are going to be eliminated over night. There will still be plenty of need for cautious driving over rail-crossing for a good many years to come, and so long as there is a single crossing left everyone who drivers over it is in more or less danger. You don't win anything if you beat a train to the crossing. And if it happens to be a tie just think what you stand to lose.

Lesson for May 30

THE REMAKING OF JACOB

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 28:10-22, 32:24-30.

GOLDEN TEXT—And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind. Romans 12:2.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jacob's Great Discovery.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Changed Jacob.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Finding One's Better Self.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Face to Face With God.

Front Page News! "Well-Known Crook Converted!" After years of deception, thievery, and all kinds of wickedness, Jacob, "the supplanter," had a transforming experience of the grace and power of God and became Israel—" a prince of God." That is indeed front-page news and the marvel of it all is that we may today proclaim the grace of God in Christ Jesus for the redemption of every one that believeth.

Memorial day is a most appropriate one for our lesson, for the first portion tells us of a memorial stone, and the last section tells of a great victory. We do well on this day to remember the days that are gone, to recall the heroic deeds of our valiant dead. It is right that we should honor them for victories rightly won and for a noble cause. But let us not fail to recognize that the great battles of life are those fought in the realm of the spirit and that the victories won there endure for all eternity. Every teacher of a class in the Bible school should with God's help endeavor to make this a day of blessed memory and victory in Christ for the boys and girls, or men and women of the class.

We consider today two experiences in the life of Jacob, both of which have their counterpart in the lives of many of God's children in our day.

I. A Vision and a Vow (Gen. 28: 16-22).

Jacob met God. Have you met Him face to face? Have you had "such a revolutionary experience in some unexpected spot"? What a sacred place it has become in your life. Perhaps it was at mother's knee, or in a little crossroad's church, or on a busy city street. God was there—you dealt with him—he blessed your soul—life was changed. Such may be the experience of each one of us. The place where Jacob had this experience had been known only as Luz. Now it became Bethel—"the house of God."

Spiritual experiences are not simply for our pleasure; they carry a real responsibility. Jacob recognized this and set up a memorial and made a vow. The depth of his purpose is revealed by the fact that it touched his earthly possessions.

The pledge of one-tenth to God is in accord with the Old Testament principle of the tithe. Many earnest believers regard the tithe as equally obligatory in our day. Others contend that it is an Old Testament principle only. Well, there is no need to differ too sharply on that point, for is it not clear that as children of God all that we have belongs to Him? Surely then we would not wish shamefacedly to admit that we give less than the Old Testament tithe. All that we have comes from His bountiful hand. He it is that gives "bread to eat and raiment to put on." Let us be cheerful (hilarious) givers of what he has entrusted to us, that his work on earth may be put forward.

II. A Struggle and a Victory (Gen. 32:24-30).

After varied experiences of both victory and defeat Jacob turns back to his own land. He hears of the approach of his brother Esau with 400 men. Before he meets him he spends a night alone. Whether it was in fear or in trust that he approached God on that night, we do not know. But we do read of the great struggle. It was more than a physical battle—real as that was—for here we have God wrestling with a weak and defeated, but proud man, seeking to bring him to the place where he will once for all "let go and let God" have his way with his life.

Into the night of struggle at Peniel have gone God's people in all the centuries, and lo, those who have submitted themselves to the mighty hand of God have come out as those that have "power with God and with men" (v. 28). Such an experience is the key to successful living and fruitful service for God. It is still true that "God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble." (Jas. 4:6).

A Strong Arm

Give me the pure heart, O Lord, to feel Thy presence near me. Give me the clear mind that understands. Give me the stainless soul that shall return to Thee fearless when my time shall come. And give me the strong arm to defend, with all my heart, with all my mind, with all my soul, the glory of Thy kingdom.

Doing Right

Do right and God's recompense to you will be the power to do more right.

25 Acres Few Choice Lots

AT AUCTION

SAT. JUNE 5, 1:30 P. M. FAST TIME

ON PREMISES, BLACK-TOP STATE HIGHWAY 20, ABOUT 8 MILES WEST OF LUDLOW, ADJOINING BANK AT HEBRON, KY.

Convenient to Everything—Near School, Churches—In a most desirable environment, only a few minutes from Fountain Square, Cincinnati. You owe it to yourself and your family—live where you can enjoy life, away from the noise of the city.

Busy with the duties of his office, as County Attorney, and having little time to give to the care of this beautiful property, Mr. Charles Riley has authorized us to sell same. Therefore ANOTHER GUY DOWNS AUCTION—Bid last and you'll buy, our one and only method.

BEAUTIFUL HOME

Modern and convenient. Frame construction, in good repair, slate roof. Large living room with fire-place, bed room, dining room and kitchen on first floor; 4 bed rooms and bath on second floor. Attic and storage. Concrete basement and laundry room, hot air furnace (thermostatic control), excellent water supply and electricity. Natural gas recently brought in across Highway. Garage, servant house, grape arbor and tennis court.

Situated, as it is, overlooking the spacious lawn, surrounded by stately pines, large old shade trees and beautiful plantings of shrubs—this home appeals to the home-lover. It's spring—and here, Nature has revealed many of her intricacies—the grass is a rich green, the tres are almost in full foliage, the flowers are hurring to blossom, and the birds are singing. And lest, in the constant effort and grind of his business Man shall forget—this home in the country beckons—take time NOW, to live.

LAND AND IMPROVEMENTS

About 25 acres of well-lying fertile land. It will pay its way and make money. Everlasting stockwater—walled spring, cisterns and pond (with fish.) Two fine young orchards. Nice dairy barn (steel stanchions for 15 cows, concrete floor), grainary, 2 corn cribs, chicken house, tool house, and dandy meat house. All these buildings have recently been paintd and are in excellent condition.

This property merits your consideration. It affords you all the conveniences of a modern home in the city. Is one of the most outstanding places in this clean, thriving surburban community. Is just a few minutes from your office or business. Consider your family—live where you can produce your old country hams, milk and butter, vegetables; where you can keep your riding horses. Think it over.

CHOICE BUILDING LOTS

A few large Home Sites with good frontage on State Rd., electricity available. Don't overlook this opportunity, for there are few lots in Hebron like these.

REAL ESTATE IS SAFE

The market is higher and still rising. Don't Wait—Buy this home and small farm now; invest where you'll always have a living. Cut your overhead.

Come at your convenience, see this property. Make your arrangements now—by all means attend this auction. REMEMBER—We sell regardless of price and weather.
PERSONALTY—Cows, farming implements—household furnishing of all kinds.

Let These Facts Help You
CHOOSE THE RIGHT REFRIGERATOR

Fact 1.
The new 1937 Kelvinator is Plus-Powered. It has as much as double the cooling capacity of many other well-known refrigerators of equal size.

Fact 2.
The new Kelvinator runs only half as many minutes per day—during the rest of the time it maintains low temperatures using no current at all.

They distinguish the Plus-Powered Kelvinator from Ordinary Electric Refrigerators

KELVINATOR cuts the cost of better living! The two facts displayed here on the left prove it. They mean that day after day, month after month, year after year, Kelvinator will save you money. They mean also that Kelvinator is built to "take it." No matter how hot the day, no matter how oven-like your kitchen, Kelvinator keeps foods always SAFE.

Kelvinator quickly pays for itself. That is why so many present refrigerator owners are replacing with 1937 Plus-Powered Kelvinator. You, too, will want a Kelvinator when you see the marvelously efficient new models. Come into our store today. Let us give you the details of our easy purchase plan.

ONLY KELVINATOR GIVES YOU ALL THESE ADVANTAGES:
Built-in Thermometer - Rubber Grids in All Ice Trays

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

J. J. Auxier has succeeded in making alfalfa grow here it has usually failed. His eight-acre field is one of the largest and best in Johnson county. He limed and phosphated the land and inoculated the seed before sowing.

The fruit crop in Henderson county may amount to 10,000 bushels of peaches and 500,000 bushels of apples, in addition to small fruit, says County Agent, H. R. Jackson. Encouraged over the crop so far, farmers expect to be "in the money" this year.

Several years ago J. I. Lester of Lyton county hauled limestone 15 miles in a wagon over a mud road to apply it on his farm. He was one of the first men to use it, and this year he is reliming the same fields. The first clover crop aid for the initial liming, he says.

H. B. McIntosh, Estill county, traded a $35 heifer for five ewes. In the past five years he has sold $470 worth of lambs and wool. He still has 19 ewes and 31 lambs. His flock is headed by a registered ram, and his ewes hold the county-lamb-producing record.

Achivements of G. D. Hieronymus, of St. Helens community in Lee county: 185 tons of limestone spread, 60 acres of Korean lespedeza seeded, 5,000 pounds of superphosphate spread, 8 acres of red clover seeded, 12 acres of sweet clover seeded.

The Livestock Committee in McCracken county bought a draft stallion for $500, and placed him on a centrally-located farm. Farmers are buying shares for $8, or paying the amount in installments.

MEETINGS PLANNED FOR SHEEPRAISERS

A series of meetings in the various sections of the state, for the purpose of improving sheepraising, especially the production of spring lambs, are being planned by the College of Agriculture at Lexington.

The meetings will be at farms, where flocks and individual animals will be studied, with a view to encouraging the use of better type of ewes and rams. Special effort will be made to discourage the use of late lambs for breeding. Attention also will be given to management problems, including feeding and the control of disease and parasites.

Local farmers and breeders will be asked to assist in the meetings, in order that their experience may be made available to the whole industry. Others to take part in the campaign include Prof. F. R. Cox, head of the sheep department at the Kansas State Agricultural College, and R. C. Miller and Harold Barber of the Kentucky College. Prof. Cox was in the state for a series of meeting last year.

The first meetings will be from June 10 to June 25 in the central counties. Dates of meetings in other parts of the state will be announced later.

CITY ATTRACTS THREE OUT OF 10 FROM FARM

That three out of 10 farm-reared young men and women leave Anderson county farms for the city is revealed in population studies made at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Four out of 10 remain on farms, either in Anderson county or in adjoining counties. Three more stay by farming as a life work, but move farther away in the state or to land in other states.

Three go to help maintain city populations, which are never self-sustaining. Many of the Anderson county boys and girls go to Louisville or the Cincinnati area. There some of them learn trades, but more do semi-skilled work. Less than a tenth of them become clerks or enter professions.

GRANT HOMEMAKERS' CLUB

The Grant Homemakers' Club met with Marian Rogers and Laura Clore for their May meeting Thursday afternoon. After our business meeting Miss Gillaspie gave an interesting talk on the state meeting at Danville.

Our leader being absent, Mrs. Helen Clore of the Burlington club gave the lesson on the proper care of the feet and the right kind of shoes to wear. After the lesson, Mrs. Tinkelenberg taught us a new game which we all enjoyed very much.

Next meeting is with Mrs. Bertha Rice. Every member try to be present. —Marian Rogers, Sec'y.

The ONLY truck of its kind in the low-price field!

HERE'S a unit that's truck in stamina—yet a commercial car in maneuverability and economy. On 112" wheelbase, load space is 80" long, 62" wide, 29½" high. The stake sections are removable. Naturally versatile, as platform or stake truck—its adaptability is further increased by Ford's two V-8 engine sizes.

Owners needing maximum speed and power will appreciate the great 85 H. P. engine. Others, with lighter hauling, will find splendid performance in the 60-H. P. engine—with many extra miles to the gallon of gas.

Firestone TIRES GIVE YOU GREATER PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING AND BLOWOUTS

YOU will know the minute you see this tire why car owners everywhere call it the greatest tire ever made to sell at these low prices. The deeper, wider, flatter non-skid tread made of tough, long wearing rubber will give you protection against dangerous skidding.

But tires cannot be judged on tread alone. Under the tread of Firestone Standard Tires are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords. This Firestone patented construction feature binds the tread and cord body into one inseparable unit. Every cotton fiber in every cord in every ply is saturated and coated with pure liquid rubber which counteracts the internal friction and heat that ordinarily destroy tire life. This Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping gives greater protection against blowouts and is used only in Firestone Tires.

Come in and join the Firestone Save A Life Campaign today by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

DON'T RISK YOUR LIFE ON THIN WORN TIRES

Section of smooth worn tire which is more susceptible to punctures, blowouts and skidding.

Section of new Firestone Tire. Note protection against skidding, punctures and blowouts.

Protect yourself and your family from the danger of driving on thin worn tires which may cause a serious accident.

DO YOU KNOW

THAT last year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 38,000 men, women and children?

THAT a million more were injured?

THAT more than 40,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding due to unsafe tires!

JUNE 12 IS FINAL DATE FOR FILING A. C. P. WORK SHEETS

June 12 has been fixed by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration as the last day on which worksheets for the 1937 conservation program will be accepted at county offices, according to a notice from Washington to the state office at the College of Agriculture at Lexington.

Farmers previously had been asked to have their worksheets in by March 31, so that counties could make complete and early listings of acreages in the program. Now a deadline has been set, after which payments in this year's program will not be allowed. Farmers who filed worksheets for the 1936 program do not have to turn in worksheets again this year.

The worksheets are used in preparing information that will help farmers plan their operations so as to take part in the program. However, farmers who file worksheets are under no obligation to take part in the program, if they later decide that they do not desire to do so.

Two reasons are given for requiring worksheets to be in county offices not later than June 12. First, information prepared from sheets filed later than June 12 could not well be supplied to farmers in time to be of use to them this year. Second, checking of performance is expected to begin in certain areas in June, and the county office will need to complete the handling of worksheets prior to that time.

YOUNG STUDENTS TO GATHER AT PINEVILLE

Eighteen young women, representing the colleges and universities of Kentucky, will gather in Pine Mountain State Park on May 28, and from this group will be chosen Kentucky's seventh Mountain Laurel Queen. Two days of entertainment, climaxed with the crowning of the queen by Governor A. B. Chandler, on the afternoon of May 28, have been planned for the thousands of visitors in Southeastern Kentucky.

The seventh annual festival will bring together contestants from four states, Kentucky, Mississippi, Indiana and Delaware being listed as the homes of the young college women who will be guests of the festival association. The complete program has just been given ut and copies will be sent upon application to Festival Headquarters, Pineville, Ky.

The young women will gather here the afternoon of May 27. That night an informal entertainment will be given for the visitors and the program for the following day will be outlined.

Friday morning, May 28, a parade of floats and bands will be held in Pineville, the high schools, clubs and various organizations entertering floats. That afternoon at 3 o'clock the program will begin in Pine Mountain State Park, one mile from here. The band of Eastern State Teachers College, directed by Henry Schnabl, will give a concert. Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of Eastern and head of the Festival Association, will welcome the visitors. At 3:30 the festival queen will be selected by the secret judging process and the coronation will follow immediately. The court will be made up of about one hundred beautiful young women from all parts of Southeastern Kentucky. After the laurel crown is placed on the queen's head by Governor Chandler the Marian LaCour dancers will give several numbers. While the judges are selecting a queen the University of Kentucky radio entertainers will give several numbers.

Friday night's queen's ball will be held in the Pineville High School auditorium with Clyde Trask's orchestra providing the music. A floor show will be given by the Marian LaCour dancers. Saturday will be devoted to tours of the Cumberland Mountain with the festivivities coming to a close Saturday night at a dance at the auditorium. A floor show will be given at this dance also.

The festival grounds, greatly improved, will be in shape for the festival. Additional seating has been provided so that at least 10,000 persons can be accommodated comfortably. A complete change from former festivals has been announced by the committee in charge with the court making an entirely different appearance.

HOME AGENTS STUDY USE OF ELECTRICITY

In anticipation of the extension of electricity to hundreds of farm homes, Kentucky home demonstration agents attended short courses of intensive training at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington and the Experiment Substation at Princeton. Miss Lenore Sater, representing the Tennessee Valley Authority, gave them instruction in wiring houses, selection and use of electrical appliances and equipment, cost of electricity, meter reading, making minor repairs, etc.

One hundred and fifty-three miles of line are now under construction in Henderson county that will serve 1,000 farms, 38 miles in Jefferson county, to serve 360 farms, and the loan contract has been executed for 330 miles to serve 1,000 farms in Nelson and adjoining counties. Several other projects are under consideration.

CARD OF THANKS

We have never yet felt that we could ever express fully our deep appreciation for the many kindnesses and consideration shown to us during our recent sorrow in the loss of our beloved son, Jackie.

God, God, be lenient his first night there,
The crib he slept in was so near my bed;
His blue and white blanket was so soft,
His pillow hollowed, so to fit his head.
Teach me that he'll not want small rooms nor me,
When he has You, and Heaven's immensity. 1t-pd.

N. E. RIDDELL ANNOUNCES

FOR COUNTY JUDGE—HAS BEEN IN PUBLIC OFFICE FOR PAST THIRTY YEARS — IS WELL KNOWN THRUOUT STATE.

In this week's issue of The Recorder, Judge N. E. Riddell makes his formal announcement for re-election as County Judge.

Judge Riddell needs no introduction to the voters of Boone County having served the peopl of this county for many years as judge and has spent thirty years of his life as a public official.

His record as County Judge has been highly praised by State officials and he has received many letters from the state auditor commending him for the splendid manner in which he has conducted his office.

Judge Riddell was born in Burlington on July 17, 1872, spending his boyhood days in this community and attending the Morgan Academy for his elementary education. He attended the Cincinnati Law School, now part of the University of Cincinnati, from which he graduated in 1895 with the L. L. D. degree. Upon graduation he became associated with the late Judge J. M. Lassing with whom he practiced law for several years.

In 1906 he was elected County Attorney in a hot race against D. E. Castleman. He held this office until 1920 when upon the death of Judge Cason he was appointed County Judge to fill his unexpired term. He was elected without opposition in the next election and has held that office since that time.

At the close of his present term as County Judge he completes thirty years in public office. During this time Judge Riddell has made countless friends and hardly a day passes but what one or more persons seek his advice on various matters ranging from personal affairs to that of county business.

For about two years Judge Riddell owned and operated the Boone County Recorder, first selling a half interest and later the balance.

During his term of County Judge he has made many improvements in the county, one of which was construction of new jail in 1928 and installation of heating plants and water systems in both the infirmary and court house.

Judge Riddell is well and favorably known in all sections of the county, and has always been active in both state and county politics.

He earnestly solicits the support of every voter, and if elected will fill the office in the same efficient manner during the next four years as in the past. His record while in the office he seeks has been very commendable.

MATINEES TO BE DISCONTINUED AT GAYETY THEATER

The management of the Gayety Theater, Erlanger, wish to announce that there will be no more Sunday matiness at the show house until further notice.

J. H. HUEY FOR MAGISTRATE

IN SECOND MAGESTERIAL DISTRICT—SUCCESSFUL FARMER AND BUSINESS MAN SEEKS RE-ELECTION.

J. H. Huey, Petersburg, magistrate in the second district, formally announces his candidacy for re-election in this issue of the Recorder, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, Saturday, August 7, 1937.

Mr. Huey is the son of R. B. Huey, Burlington, and received his education in the high schools of Boone County. He has the distinction of being the first graduate of the first high school in the county in 1910.

He ranks first among our successful farmers in this county, and has served his people faithfully during the past three years he has held this office.

He comes from a long line of Democrats, and has been a loyal supporter of his party at all times. He asks the voters to judge his capability on his past performance of the duties of this office, and if nominated and elected, will serve in the same efficient manner as in the past.

SEEKS RE-ELECTION AS COUNTY JUDGE

WALTON BOY IS PRIDE OF BOONE

FORMER COLLEGE ATHLETE, NOW WITH LOUISVILLE COLONELS WANTS TO PITCH BIG LEAGUE BALL.

Walton baseball fans are telling city slickers these days that they have a pitcher from their parts who easily tops Dizzy Dean.

And the funny part about it is they are not joking.

Frenchy Demoisey. Boone county's greatest athlete and a hurler for the Louisville Colonels of the American Association, is 6 feet 5 inches tall, two inches taller than the Ozark orator.

Demoisey is serving his second year with the Louisville team and is fast becoming the leading member of the staff. He was the opening game hurler this year and later crashed Louisville headlines when he took up a little relief hurling and held his opponets to four hits in seven innings.

Frenchy got his start in pro ball in an unusual way. He wrote to a Louisville sports writer asking if he could get him a tryout with Louisville. The writer came thru and today the elongated former University of Kentucky basketball player appears on the way up.

Frenchy got his start in baseball at U. K. He never achieved anything like the success he achieved in basketball, but he did pretty well.

After his graduation he tried a few games in northern Kentucky amateur circles but failed to impress.

Then followed a year of pitching with Mayodan in the Bi-State League. Last year he applied for a Colonel's uniform, and by cracky, he got it.

Frenchy, so he has confided, would like to make the major league ranks. Then, so he plans, he will play baseball in the summer and coach basketball in the winter at some small college.

Burleigh Grimes, Brooklyn's battling manager and former Louisville boss, told the Boone countian that he thought he could make the grade in a year or two. And last year Frenchy had several offers to aid in coaching college basketball teams. The most important was from the University of Colorado.

He is but 23 years old, weighs 205 pounds and has a collegiate degree.

UTOPIANS FAVORED BY REV. T. C. CRUME, THURS. NIGHT

Rev. T. C. Crume, owner and operator of the Evergreen Nursey, addressed the Utopia Club at their regular monthly meeting last Thursday night, May 20th. The subject for discussion was "Landscaping." Many questions concerning shrubs and flowers were discussed.

Project discussions were led by Misses Margaret Blackburn and Mary Rector.

The entire club enjoyed the recreation and refreshments prepared by the Hebron Club.

JURY WEIGHS ERLANGER PLEA

EVIDENCE IS LACKING FOR INDICTMENTS, KENTON INQUISITORS SAY IN FINAL REPORTS.

Indignant residents of Erlanger, made a plea for compulsory sobriety and good behavior in their town Thursday of last week to the Kenton County Grand Jury, Covington.

In a report made to Judge Johnst Northcutt in Kenton Circuit Court, the grand jury said several residents had complained that "persons in varying degrees of intoxication, both male and female, are upon the streets of Erlanger at unsual hours of the night." Complaints also were made that the citizens "strongly suspect that gambling is being conducted in several different places in the town."

In its report regarding conditions in Erlanger, the grand said:

"Complaint was made to the grand jury by several residents of the town of Erlanger as to conditions existing there. It seems from the representations made to the jury that persons in varying degrees of intoxication, both male and female, are upon the streets of Erlanger at unusual hours of the night, and in addition thereto these good citizens strongly suspect that gambling in several different places is being conducted in the town.

"The testimony produced to the grand jury was too vague and indefinite to warrant an indictment. If, however, the statements made to us are correct, there is an evident lack of law enforcemnt on the part of the authorities of the town of Erlanger.

"We direct the attention of the authorities of Erlanger to same and ask them to correct this condition. If it is not corrected by the local authorities after their attention is directed o same, further consideration of the situation existing there shall be made by a future grand jury or grand juries in an effort to ferret out and indict those responsible for same.

BEAUTIFUL HOME AND 25 ACRES OF LAND TO BE SOLD AT HEBRON

The Chas. Riley property of Hebron will be offered at auction Saturday, June 5th at 1:30 p. m. (fast time) by the Guy Downs Realty Co., of Shelbyville.

This farm contains 25 acres of well-lying fertile land, with beautiful residence, modern and convenient, and only 20 minutes from Fountain Square, Cincinnati. It is located near school and churches and is in one of most oustanding places in this thiriving suburban community.

Many things, such as cows, farming implements—household furnishing will be offered at auction at the same time and place.

Ralph Garnett Maurer

LOCAL BOY SELECTED

TO EDIT EASTERN STATE COLLEGE PAPER—WAS FORMER CO-EDITOR OF THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

Ralph Garnett Maurer, junior at Eastern State College, Richmond, Ky., was appointed editor-inchief of the Progress, official college publication, for the year of 1937-38 by President H. L. Donovan, upon the recommendation of Mr. W. L. Keene, faculty sponsor, yesterday. Mr. Maurer served as co-editor with Kelly Clore, senior, during the past semester. He also served as sports editor and reporter during his three years on the Progress staff.

Besides his connection with the Progress, the new editor has had one year of commercial newspaper experience, serving as co-editor of the Boone County Recorder a leading northern Kentucky publication. During his time with the Boone County publication Maurer was recognized as the youngester newspaper owner and editor in the state, being only 19 at the time.

Maurer is an English and Geography major and is active in extra-curricular activities. He was recently elected president of the World Affairs Club, an organization of geography majors who have a departmental standing of more than "B." He is also a member of the Sigma Tau Pi, and Northern Kentucky Club.

KENNETH E. JOHNSON

Democratic Candidate for Representative of this district, composed of Boone and Grant Counties.

I have no political ambitions; neither is my announcement for this office prompted by any motive of an ulterior nature. I see in it a splendid opportunity to render public service.

I am in favor of all policies of National Administration now in vogue and all State policies coincident and correlative thereto.

I have never sought an elective office, but through persuasion and influence of friends of both Boone and Grant Counties, I am now offering myself in formal announcement for the office of State Representative embracing these two counties. I do not believe there is anyone residing or traveling in this district, any more familier with conditions and needs that exist, than I am.

I make no claims as to educational attainments other than training received through Elementary High school and College, which terminated in my sophomore year at Georgetown College.

My political experiences are limited to my service as page in the House of Representatives at Washington, D. C., then the second session of the Sixty-fourth Congress, under patronage of Arthur B. Rouse, who was Congressman from this district at that time.

Experience of Legislative Rules and Procedure, which naturally impressed a young lad sixteen years of age, will prove both beneficial and applicable through my term of office if I am successful in winning the primary election August 7th, and the Regular election, November 7th of this year.

My message to the Democratic voters of this district will be delivered in due time. I intend to conduct a very active campaign through the medium of the press and personal contact, especially to precincts whose voters I haven't already met.

To my worthy opponents, Mr. Jake Cleek and Mr. Grover Ransom, (both my personal friends) I promise that in my campaign against them, I will avoid all spurious and calumnous tactics and invoke reciprocative policies from them.

To the Democratic voters of Boone and Grant I offer my candidacy for this office, because I believe I am capable in handling matters relating to legislation.

I make this race with all earnestness and sincerity and hope that I am elected as Standard Bearer of the Democratic party for this office in the regular election this fall.

When the Legislature of the Commonwealth of the State of Kentucky meets in legislative session next January, Kenneth E. Johnson wants to be there.

I hope that I may prove worthy of your confidence and esteem.

BIBLE CONFERE AT BELLEVIEW

The fifth Annual Bible Conference will be held at the Belleview Baptist Church June 7th-11th. Rev. D. B. Eastep, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, Latonia, Ky., will be the speaker. Rev. Eastep will speak each night on "Separation From The World."

The great success of the Bible Conferences and the informing and inspiring messages that Rev. Eastep has brought in precious Conferences, assure us of another "mountain top experience" during the coming week. Bring your Bible and come with us.

J. P. BROTHERS' STORE IS DAMAGED BY FIRE WEDNESDAY

It was reported here Wednesday afternoon that the store building of J. P. Brothers at Limaburg was damaged by fire. It was thought the fire was started from a spark while burning papers in the stove. The roof and upstairs rooms were damaged. The extent of the damage was unknown.

GEO. GRIFFITH SELLS TWO TRACTS OF LAND

Geo. Griffith, real estate man reported the sale of Silas Corbin's farm of 46 acres to Mr. and Mrs. Kile, of Lexington. The purchase price was $10,000. The farm is located on the Burlington and Florence pike, and is a very desirable tract.

He also reported the sale of the old Hope White farm for Ed C. Witham to Sidney Taylor of Covington for a very good price.

Mr. Griffith stated that he still has a few buyers for real estate, and if anyone is interested to get in touch with him.

SCOUTS RECEIVE RECOGNITION

The Boy Scouts of Cobra Patrol No. 125 of Belleview received recognition at the Scout Exposition held in Newport May 20-22. Some of our parents and friends visited the exposition. They were much interested in our exhibit "Model Boat Building." David Colvile, Assistant County Agent, was a guest at our last meeting held May 28th at the home of Wayne See, Sr.

FIVE STRAIGHT FOR LOCAL NINE

WHEN THEY TURN HEBRON BACK BY A SCORE OF 10 TO 6 —BELLEVIEW DEFEATS BIG BONE 5 TO 0.

Last Saturday the Burlington baseball team defeated Hebron for their fifth straight victory of the season by a score of 10 to 6.

Akins and Stephens formed the batter for the winners, while Elliott and Fox worked on the mound and Moore behind the bat for the losers.

The Burlington boys are playing a better type of ball in each game and showed good form on the field and at bat.

Next Saturday Burlington will meet the strong Petersburg nine at the Burlington ball park, and a real game is expected. Sunday Burlington will play the White Villa Cafe for its first Sunday game of the season.

The Belleview boys trounced the Big Bone lads last Sunday to the tune of 5 to 0 Wilson was on the mound for Belleview while Brady, and H. Black were on the hill for Big Bone.

The Belleview boys showed fine defensive work, completing 6 double plays and timely hitting. Belleview's infield looks to be one of the fastest in years, while the outfield boasts of some of the fastest men in the county. They have a selection of young players such as Moore, Dennison, D. Williamson and others that are proving to be outstanding players of the county.

At a meeting held Monday evening, June 1st, the manager of the baseball clubs of the Boone County League agreed upon playing the regular schedule, ending Aug. 1st, when the elimination shall begin. All players who will be eligible to play in the elimination series must be under contract on or before July 1st and each club is limited to 15 players to compete in elimination series.

The drawing for the Saturday and Sunday games for this week are as follows:

Saturday, June 5th—Big Bone at Hebron; Petersburg at Burlington; Bob and Gene at Belleview.

Sunday, June 6—Bob and Gene at Big Bone; Petersburg at Belleview; White Villa at Burlington.

A schedule is being arranged for the remainder of the games to be played up until the elimination and will be published in the next issue of The Recorder.

FLORENCE BOY INJURED

Tommy Doyle, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Doyle, of Florence, was struck by an automobile in Erlanger Saturday morning and suffered lacerations about the face and head. He was carried to the office of Dr. C. R. Slater who treated him and then sent him to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

200 ATTEND 4-H RALLY

NINE COMMUNITY 4-H CLUBS REPRESENTED BY 15 IMPROVED HOME PRACTICE DEMONSTRATION TEAMS.

Two hundred attended the Annual Spring Rally held at Burlington high school Saturday, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Nine community 4-H Clubs were represented by 15 improved home practice demonstration teams, four improved farm practice demonstration teams, twenty-two health contestants and thirteen in the clothing style revue. The morning program was devoted to reports of club members and leaders and announcements of 4-H events to be conducted during the summer. The afternoon program was devoted to contests.

Prof. D. H. Norris, county superintendent of schools and president of the 4-H Council opened the morning session with an inspirational discussion on the splendid work members were doing locally and the recognition that 4-H club work is receiving nationally. Large representation of leaders, members and parents gave excellent reports

MAILING MISTAKES

Uncle Sam put $230.000 in his pocket in 1936 because the public was careless in addressing mail. Exactly 12,250,000 pieces of mail went to the "Dead Letter Office" because of insufficient addresses, and 108,454 of that number contained money. Since there was no return, the government got it. All of which should impress our citizens with the importance of having a return card in the upper left-hand corner of every envelope they mail. This day in time when printed return cards on envelopes is son inexpensive, and the only guarantee of a letter's return if it is improperly addressed, there is no excuse for mail going to the "Dead Letter Office." Whether it is a business or a social letter, make sure your name and address is in the upper left-hand corner of the envelope in which it is mailed. Then if it isn't delivered you will get it back, and have the satisfaction of knowing why it came back.

"BUY AMERICAN"

Probably not one Boone County citizen in a hundred ever looks to see where the article he is purchasing was produced, though if more would do so ,and more would refuse to buy products shipped into this country from abroad, conditions over here would quickly improve. In China and Japan a wage equal to 15c a day in our money is considered fair; Germany is not much better and Russia and Belgium are not far behind. How can an American workman compete with wages like that, or how can living conditions over here be kept at their present standard if he has to? If more Americans would look to see where the merchandise they are about to buy was produced, and then refuse to buy it if it came from a country where starvation wages, long hours, sweat shops and unsanitary conditions are the rule it would go far toward solving this country's employment problems and do much to prevent future depressions. "Buy American" should be every loyal American's slogan from now on.

GOOD NEWS

As a general thing the kind of news sent out by the weather bureau isn't good news. But now and then there is an exception, and a forecast regarding a repetition of last year's drouth is an example. It is the lind of weather news every around Boone County will enjoy reading.

According to this prediction the country will witness a more moderate summer than the last one. The experts say temperatures will be more normal; there will be no long, record-breaking hot spells such as we went through in 1936. While there has been more than the usual amount of moisture already this year, the weather men think there still will be a sufficient amount to meet all needs and vegetation will not suffer as it did during last June, July and August. In other words, Uncle Sam's weather bureau does not believe that the country is in for another drouth this year.

Along with this cheerful forecast comes one just as rosy from the Department of Agriculture to the effect that while many sections are below normal crop conditions owing to excessive spring moisture, the general outlook is good and warrants the prediction that bumper crops of all kinds will more than make up for the shortages caused by a lack of it last year. Putting the two reports together it makes the kind of news every reader likes to get hold of, and the kind of news every newspaper likes to print.

THE PREACHER

Someone is always writing about doctors and lawyers and teachers, but seldom can you find space devoted to that humble servant known as he preacher. Maybe if it hadn't been for the recent thoughtfulness of a Missouri editor you never would have had a pen-picture of the preacher. But he has thought to write one, and in the belief that citizens of Boone County will enjoy reading, we take the liberty of reproducing it—and here it is:

"The preacher has a great time. If his hair is gray, he is too old. If he is a youg man, he has not had experience enough. If he has ten children, he has too many. If he has none, he is setting a bad example. If his wife sings in the choir, she is presuming, and if she does not she isn't interested in her husband's work. If the preacher reads from notes he's a bore, and if he speaks extemporaneously, he isn't deep enough. If he stays at home in his study, he doesn't mix enough with people; if he is seen around the streets, he ought to be at home getting up a good sermon. If he calls on the poor, he is playing to the grandstand; if he calls at the homes of the wealthy, he is an aristocrat.

"Whatever he does, someone could have told him how to do it better. Yes, the preacher has a great time!"

AN INSPIRATION

"The best preparation for good work tomorrow is to do good work today."

Talk about stubborness, some men wont' even believe there is an egg in the custard unless they find a bit of the shell.

It may be true that there isn't much to see in the average small town but what you hear makes up for it.

Sad experience teaches man to beware of everything but a political promise and mine stock.

FIGHT FLIES

Swat that fly! Especially important, swat the first flies! Since a female lays 120 eggs at a time and a generation is produced every tenth day, the first fly to appear may increase to amazing numbers before the summer is over, every one of them spreading disease and filth. As The Progressive Farmer says:

"For their size flies probably carry more filth than any other living thing. Their cup-shaped feet and hairy legs bring filth to your home and table, if they can get in. They bring filth from the dirtiest places on your lot or your neighbor's lot.

"The kind of bacteria the fly brings depends on where he has been. Flies carry all kinds of disease germs—tuberculosis, smallpox typhoid, infections of the skin, pink eye, cholera, dysentery, etc.

"What to do about flies? Screens—morde screens, better screens. Small mesh screens. Screens which fit. Screens which close tight and stay tight. Screens without sags, rips, or rens—screen that absolutely keep flies out of the house. Of course there are flytraps and fly paper, preventives, sprays and the like. But in my opinion there is only one way to handle the fly question—prohibition by screens.

"The mesh of the screen should be not larger than 16; an 18-mesh would be better. Screens should cover the whole window, always on the ohtside. All proches, both front and back, should be securely screened. The porch should be boarded up at least one foot from the floor in order to prevent small animals from scratching holes in the wire or children from knocking holes. All chimneys should be covered by screens."

OBSERVATIONS

LABOR IN THE MIDDLE?

Last week a Union official said a surprising thing coming from a Union official. He was very much afraid that the three-party arrangement under the Wagner act would ultimately end in the smothering of labor.

It will be remembered that the essential provisions of that act are that both capital (managment) and labor must arbitrate their differences. Each appoints a mediator and so does the government, making it three. Thus, it is seen that the government representative has the balance of power.

All well and good say you? So did I until this Labor official's idea raised some doubts in my mind. His point is that any governmental appointee is necessarily political; that every politician has his price, in some way, shape or form, that in addition to the labor issues that face the three mediators there is always one other—the self interest of the government man.

This meiator, still according to the Labor leader, is faced always with the underlying thought of the political effect of his decisions. Will the action, for example, that he takes regarding the labor issue in question do his party good in votes (Labor) or will it tend to make political campaign funds easy to get (Capital) and of course there is always the possibility that this mediator can be reached personally by some form of graf.

Personally I believe he is wrong. Political parties need both votes and money. One advantage would tend to cancel out the other, and the political party in power would find that the best policy would be he honest one, according to their lights.

Alienism in Labor

This same labor man was an A. F. of L. man. Quite naturally he is prejudiced but his remarks are worth thinking about anyway.

He thinks the C. I. O. is definitely a Russian Communist inspired organization, that Lewis, dynamic organizer, is but a cats paw at the beck and call of Russian Jewish, Communist dominated garment workers Union. That he will be used to build C. I. O. into a powerful organization and then quietly (if possible) "bumped off" so that the agents of Moscow can move in.

It may be quite true that the garment workers are communist inspired. It is true that most of their membership is Russian Jew and that many of the Communist, including Trotsky and Lenine, are also. But it does not follow that they can or ever will dominate labor.

Alarmists overlook one fact. Communism in Russia, Facism in Italy and Nazi-ism in Germany have one thing in common. No one of these countries had any experience with the exception of Germany and that was very partial and very brief, in any form of self government. This country is still British in blood and civilization. Other elements in our population have enriched our culture, but none have changed the Anglo-Saxon concept of freedom and self government.

My labor friend tells me that the C. I. O. type of Union has only one rate of pay for all degrees of skill in any given industry. I believe he is misinformed. Such a thing runs directly counter to human nature, and if true will wreck the C. I. O. movement. Surely no craftsman who has the skill that a tool maker in the auto industry has, for example, is going to accept the same rate of pay as the boy on the production line with down on his lip, who does one simple methodical operation requiring no experience and a minimum of skill.

And Mr. John D. Rockefeller, symbol of King Midas dies at 98. missing his ambition by two years.

One wonders how in the scale which weighs all human acts, a fortune given away by the millions for the good of man but acquired by ruthless dishonesty never since equaled will balance. Will wise stewardship balance theft done in the name of economic necessity.

THE OBSERVER.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

Keep apples light after paring by dropping them into water to which a few tablespoons of lemon juice have been added . . . To hasten the setting of a jelly place the mold in a basin containing cold water in which salt has been dissolved . . . When sandpapering surfaces that are to be painted the work is made much easier if the sandpaper is folded over a small block.

FOR THOSE WHO SEW

Always use a short needle in hemstitching. When hemstitching on linen the thread may be easily drawn if a yardstick is laid along a straight line, being careful to insure the proper margin on the outer edge of the piece. If a piece of hard white soap is rubbed along the linen, the thread may be drawn with ease.

It's as hard to determine who wins a strike as it is to figure out who won the World War.

Lesson for June 6

JOSEPH'S READINESS FOR SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 41:33-44.
GOLDEN TEXT—Seest thou a man diligent in his business? he shall stand before kings. Proverbs 22:29.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Joseph's Errand.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Joseph Goes Before the King.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Ready to Serve.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Preparation for Public Service.

Public service—that position of opportunity and responsibility—merits far better treatment than is commonly accorded to it, for we know only too well how often it is nothing but a political football carried hither and yon as the dictates of partisan purposes may indicate.

Scripture holds a very exalted view of the public servant. Paul tells us to "be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God" (Rom. 13:1). The Bible clearly teaches that every governmental agency and every public servant from the policeman on the beat to the President in the White House, is only permitted to exercise authority over his fellowmen because God has ordained that there should be such government. Clear it is that every right-thinking official of state and nation should be humble, teachable, discreet, and wise in the exercise of his power, and God-fearing in the discharge of his responsibility.

Joseph, the one in the procession of the patriarchs of Genesis who passes before us in the lesson today is interesting from many angles His personal history is charmingly written and a model of appealing biography. He is a marvelous type of Christ, and one could devote hours to such a study of his life. But our lesson subject presents him as one ready for public service, and we may well profit by the lesson. He is an example of what men who serve their country should be.

I. Before God—Humble and Teachable (vv. 33-36).

The background of our lesson is found in the four preceding chapters. Joseph, the boy with dreams and aspirations, has learned obedience, humility, purity, and many other useful lessons in the hard school of experience. It has well been said that the tuition of that school is high, but the lessons are well learned.

Now he stands before the king to interpret a double dream, sent as a warning to the nation. The wise men who knew not the true God had vainly sought to answer the king's questions. Joseph sets them and us an example—he receives instructions and guidance from God, and speaks wise words because taught of him. Would that all those who stand as counsellors before kings and presidents in our day would listen for the voice of God before they speak.

II. Before Men—Spiritual, Discreet, and Wise (vv. 37-39).

Pharaoh recognized that the Spirit of God was in Joseph. That is a great testimony for Joseph, and at the same time it reflects credit upon the king. Who can say what would be the result if our government officials were chosen for their spirituality?

Spirituality is not the only qualification, however, for such service. The Christian who expects men to favor him because he is a Christian, even though he be careless and incompetent, finds no comfort in the study of Joseph. He was discreet and wise. The follower of Christ should distinguish himself by diligent and intelligent application of all his powers to his work. Then men will honor both him and his God.

III. In Service—Responsible and Powerful (vv. 40-44).

He who had humbled himself under the mighty hand of God was exalted in due time. (See I Peter 5:6.) Joseph was willing to abide God's time, and did not run ahead of him as did his father, Jacob.

The record shows that he used his place of honor and privilege to perform a difficult and arduous task and to do it well. Right-spirited men do not glory in position or power, but use the opportunity to give themselves in sacrificial service to God and their fellow-men. Someone has aptly said that a politician is one who has his eye on the next election while a statesman has his eye on the next generation and its welfare. God give us more statesmen!

Never Despair

Let no man despair of himself. We may be sepulchres full of dead powers; but Christ is the resurrection and the life, to make us shrines full of living, seeing, soaring, rejoicing thoughts and passions.—Dr. W. L. Watkinson.

Advantages of Tact

Without tact you can learn nothing. Tact teaches you when to be silent. Inquirers who are always inquiring never learn anything.—Disraeli.

SIX WAYS TO FIGHT MOSQUITOES

Mosquitoes pass through four stages: (1) the egg, (2) the larva, (wiggletail), (3) pupa, and (4) grown,up winged adult. The first second, and third are the water stages, and here is where the fish get in their work. There is a special kind of fish that feeds on mosquito eggs and larvae. These are Gambusia affinis, or the common top minnow. Mosquitoes do not breed in a damp grass or wet weeds or bushs, but no pool of stagnant water is too small for them to breed in. The females Anopheles is the malaria mosquito, but she has to bite a person who has malaria before she can carry malaria germs to another person. But the thing that interests us is how to avoid all mosquitoes:

1. Screen.
2. Break up breeding places. Get rid of anything around the place that will hold a spoonful of water for as long as a week. If there is a good reason to have such water, cover it over with cloth, wire, or oil.
3. Cut all underbrush near the house where mosquitoes can harbor during the day. Spray oil on ditch banks near the house, if such ditches hold puddles of water.
4. Use a dip cup of oil on flowing ditches or branches near the house, suspending a half-gallon bucket of crude oil over the ditch so that a drop will fall about every half-minute.
5. If mosquitoes get into the house, close all doors and windows tight and burn a pound or two of sulphur. Use a pot to burn it in and set the pot in a tub of water. Use a spoonful of coal oil to start the fire.
6. If you have an open well, exchange it for a pump with the well top closed. Mosquitoes breed in open wells.

INTERESTING LETTER

The following letter was handed us by Mrs. J. H. Walton, which was written by her sister, at Park Ridge Ill.:

Park Ridge, Ill.
May 1, 1937

Dear Sister,

I couldn't write much of the wonders of our trip on a post card so now if I can remember I will try to tell you all about it.

We left Chicago on April 3rd, in the car and drove through Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania to New York and enjoyed all over again the beautiful mountains of Pennsylvania.

Edgar had a paper to give in New York on the 8th, and so that gave us 5 days in New York. We took a lovely apartment on 40th Street, just off of Park Ave., and near the Murray Hill Hotel, where I stayed last winter when Edgar was there ill. We tried to see all the sights in the short time we had. We took in the shows, "Tobacco Road," "Beatrice Lillie" at the Winter Garden, Katherine Hepburn in "Quality Street" which, by the way, was in the Music Hall in Radio Center, and is the largest theatre in the country, holding 6,250, and the most beautiful. We heard a program broadcast from one of the studios, or rather, saw a program broadcast; saw Walter Damrosch; then we went out on a boat and saw the Statue of Liberty, the big girl who stands out in the water with her hand out; we had to take a tugboat to Bledsoe Island, where he Statue is located; we climbed the 186 steps which end in her crown. Had our moving picture camera with us and got some lovely pictures of the Sky Line of New York, Ellis Island, which is near, and just pulling out of the harbor happened to be the liner S. S. Washington, which was the boat which took Edgar to Europe, so we got a good picture of that.

We left New York on the 9th and drove to Washington, which was crowded with people, who were there for the Cherry Blossom Festival and we had a hard time finding a place to spend the night, as the hotels were full and were reaping a harvest by boosting their prices to the sky. Washington is a beautiful place and we could have spent more time there, but it was cold and we wanted to get on South, so after looking at the Capitol and grounds and the White House, we took pictures of the Capitol and the beautiful cherry blossoms and drove down to Mount Vernon which has one of the most picturesque settings I have ever seen. I know now why papa was always so enthusiastic when he talked of Washington. We went over a bridge and I know it was the bridge where papa told me he used to fish. I wanted to go to see Elbert and aunt Bell, but Edgar still had some business to attend to in Wilmington, Delaware, and as I knew his vacation was short, I felt he would want all the time further South, where he could play golf and enjoy the warm weather. So, after leaving Wilmington, we drove down the Atlantic Coast.

And here my pleasure was interrupted by an abcessed tooth, that had kept me in misery all night, and the next day by the time we reached Charleston, I was ready to have it taken out, which I did. Right away I was alright and from then on had no more trouble.

Then we drove on down to Saint Augustine, Fla., and here I could write a long letter about the things we saw there. It is lovely, quaint and historical, and as you know, the oldest city on the continent. We went to the Fountain of Youth, and as we are getting kind of old, we drank from the Fountain of Youth and so not another gray hair will I have in my head. I expect to remain as young and beautiful as I am now, forever, ahem!

We visited old Fort Marion which is the oldest fort in the United States; it took 84 years to build it and it has never been taken in siege or battle, although it has flown four flags, Spanish, English, Confederate and American.

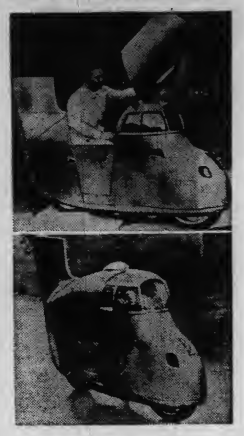
Then we went on to the show place of America—Miami, where it seems to be summer all the time among the palms. People stroll around the streets in bathing suits and gaily colored clothes and they seem not to have a care in the world. Fruit and flowers are plentiful and beautiful. Here, I think, I would like to live.

Carrie May was not at the address where she had been for the last year, so I went out to see a friend of hers, a Mr. Bell, of Coral Gables, who said that Carrie May went out to California last June and had been sick out there and said something about going home, in a letter, and he did not know whether she meant home to Miami or home to Kentucky, or home to Pittsburg. He said she was in Hollywood the last time he heard from her. Did you hear anything from Gladys about Carrie May being out there?

We had a lovely apartment on Biscayne Bay, where we could put on our bathing suits and walk down to the ocean, as everyone seems to do. And now I must tell you about our deep-sea fishing. We went down to the dock one noon. We thought we should take advantage of any opportunity to go out, so we saw an old captain with his boat, who said he would take us out about seven miles in the ocean to fish. I had my camera and was expecting to have a wonderful time. We got a few miles out and got our poles set, when I began to feel funny in the stomach and up came everything. I had to lie flat on my back the rest of the day and it was awful. It was not long before I heard them say that Mrs. Harrison had a strike. Of course, I gathered all my strength to get up and watch the fun. There, about 150 feet out, on the end of her line, was a big sail fish, leaping and jumping out of the water, and shaking his head trying to get the hook out of his mouth. It was beautiful to see his big blue body flashing in the sunlight, and I did my best to get a picture of him and focused him in the camera, but when I got him in the spot where he was he would jump to some other spot. Then, to our amazement and despair he broke the line and gone was our seventy-five pound sail fish. But we had lots of fun in those few minutes watching him fight for his life. Carrie said she was glad he had won and gotten away. She thinks hunting and fishing are cruel. Pretty soon Edgar pulled in a big fish, and although he didn't give much of a fight he was a fine big tuna, weighing about twenty pounds. We had a few more strikes but pulled in no more fish that afternoon. I rather thought that I had been a Jonah, so the next day we insisted that Edgar go again as he had enjoyed it so. He went with a party of four on a different boat and spent the entire day, and they brought in more than 400 pounds of fish, a record catch; two big sail fish, dolphins, bonitas, tunas and a good sized barracula, which, as you know is like a shark, a man-eating fish. I do not know what I'm going to do, if I can't sail the ocean blue, as the next time Edgar goes to Europe I want to go with him. But, I believe I will take a chance as they say the big boats do not roll as much as the little one we were on.

At last we had to come home, Edgar's vacation was at an end and I know he had a wonderful time. By the way, I stopped in Hollywood, but could find no Ryles in the telephone book so could not look up cousin Nellie and Roy. We had, however, stopped in Waycross Georgia, one afternoon for a soda, and the druggist's name was Ryle. Hard as we tried we could not connect up any relation. He had lived all his life in Georgia but he had an uncle Marion from or in Texas.

And so we drove home through the beautiful Blue Ridge Mountains and more gorgeous scenery. We found we had been in fifteen states all of them interesting and different and beautiful. I had hoped to see Kentucky in the spring, and my place, but it doesn't seem as if I can now, with Billy graduating. I am so anxious to hear all about your lovely trip to California. Write to me when you can. Hope to see you soon.



Love to all,

ANNA BELLE.

Streamlined Cycle

Here are two views of the serodynamic four-cylinder motor cycle, developed by an Italian firm recently, which is said to have made 190 miles per hour in trial runs. At top, the Italian speed champion Taruffi is shown on the seat of the machine just before he closed the streamlined cowling. Below, the motorcycle is shown in operation. Note the tail to give stability at high speed.

Carrier Pigeon Used as Spy

Carrier pigeons are being trained in Germany to act as "flying spies." The birds are equipped with miniature automatic cameras. The plan is to release them near an area where photographs are desired for military purposes, setting the camera to start working when it is judged the pigeons will be over the place selected. The negatives are tiny, but the photographs can be enlarged.

KNOW THYSELF

by Dr. George D. Greer

ARE ALL MEN REALLY CREATED EQUAL?

WHEN the writers of the Declaration of Independence stated that "all men are created equal," they were not referring to intelligence or other forms of inherited ability, but meant that all people had the same right of freedom, and that the Colonists were equal in governing ability to their British ancestors and rulers. It would be ridiculous to say that all people are born with the same amount of physical energy, the same degree of intelligence, or the same economic and social propensities. Some people are born with a greater equipment for life than others, but we all have the right to live and make use of what native abilities we do have—this is the only sense in which we are all born equal,—unless we add that the souls of men may be equal, but no one knows about this.

OCCASIONALLY you will meet a man whose judgments and decisions are formed with almost lightning speed. These may seem to be the result of "hunches," yet they seldom fail to materialize successfully. Casual observation of such individuals may stamp them as "reckless doers," but this may not be deserved. Their thumbs will tell you why.

The Thumb of Intuitional Analysis.

With those who possess this gift, one is apt to pass by its identification, which is clearly given by the formation of the second, or middle joint of the thumb. This may be of average length or longer. But it is always marked by exceptional slenderness of its mid-section, which is sometimes abnormally tied-in or "corseted."

Coupled with a resolute first or nail joint, this type of thumb must be definitely placed as signifying analytical abilities which function at supernormal speed. The possessor may wonder quite as much as do you as to the source of his almost uncanny perceptions.

A LETTER

The following letter was received from William T. Crisler, of 1115 East 31st St., Brooklyn, N. Y.:

May 10th, 1937

Editor Boone Co. Recorder.
Burlington, Ky.
My Dear Sir:

I am pleased to enclose herewith P. O. Money order for $1.50 to pay for renewal of my subscription for the paper for another year. I hope you will pardon the delay, for, as a matter of fact, I had simply overlooked the matter, and should have attended to it sooner.

Both my wife and I are natives of Boone County, having been raised from childhood in the Petersburg vicinity, and althought it is now nearly forty years since we came from there to Brooklyn, we still cherish what news we can gather through the medium of your paper of the people and events that occur there. True, much of the contents of the various issues are very like foreign news to us, yet we many times find items concerning those whom we had known, or at least known of, in years past; and we look forward egarely for its arrival each week.

With the very best wishes to you and the success of your paper and for all the people there, who may remember us, I am

Very truly yours,
William T. Crisler.

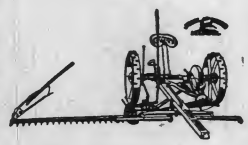
ITS SILENCE MEANS SAVINGS throughout its long life!



Women everywhere have started a trend to the GAS refrigerator!

MANY PEOPLE choose Servel Electrolux because its permanent silence says "Comfort" to them in a big way. And they're right—it is a real convenience. But this noiseless operation tells you something of even greater interest—especially to your pocketbook. It says: "Here's a refrigerator that has no moving, wearing parts . . . a refrigerator that gives you longer service at greater savings." Servel Electrolux has no moving parts for the very good reason that it needs none. A tiny gas flame does all the work in this remarkable refrigerator. See it today at our showrooms.

CLOSING DATE ACP WORK SHEETS

Saturday, June 12th has been officially set as the closing date for filling of 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program Work Sheets with the County Office at Burlington according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

Only farmers who were not in the program last year and who wish to take part in 1937 are required to file work sheets. Thirty-nine new work sheets of this kind have been filed to date bringing the total sign up in the county to 1126, covering approximately 95% of all farm land in the county.

TO ENJOY SOCIAL

On Friday afternoon between the hours of 3 and 8 o'clock the senior boys of the Burlington Baptist Church will have a social on Woolper Creek at the Woolper Bridge. All boys between the ages of 13 and 20 who have not been attending Sunday School are urged to come out and have a good time with the rest of the boys. Each boy bring some sandwiches, cakes or pickles.

EVERYBODY INVITED

Come and bring your family to the Charles W. Riley auction, June 5th, at Hebron. They'll enjoy the outing, and you'll be happy to see your friends. And too, $50.00 in cash will be given away, and Al Schild's band will be on hand to entertain you with their splendid music. This is a beautiful home. Tell your friends about it. It's a wonderful opportunity, for seldom is property such as this on the market. And remember, the highest bidder will buy, at this auction.

GROWERS HOLD MEETING

Constance truck crop producers held their second meeting of Constance Community Agricultural Improvement Program of Work at the school last Thursday evening, May 27th according to John P. Dolwick, local chairman.

Mr. John S. Gardner, field agent in truck crops work from the College of Agriculture was the principal speaker of the evening. He led in discussions on insect and disease control. Recommendations for the various insect control measures included; a mixture of 1 lb. Paris Green 2 pounds arsenate of lead and 12 pounds of lime for the control of cabbage and potatos bugs. A double strength spray of Dow's magnesium arsenate spray was recommended for the control of the cucumber beetle. Seed treatment with corrosive sublimate was recommended for control of seed borne diseases and field selection for other diseases inherited thru the seed.

Growers of the community are planning on special seed selection work on sweet potatoes and variety tests with new, improved Irish Potato strains. Mr. Gardner discussion was supplemented with talks by Alfred Dolwick, Lewis Dolwick, Adam Dolwick, H. R. Forkner, Dave Colville and John P. Dolwick.

IT'S MOONFACE!

A delightful comedy song, "Moonface," is sung by Jack Oakie, seen with Lily Pons, Gene Raymond, Herman Bing and Mischa Auer, in "That Girl from Paris," scintillating musical comedy at the Gayety Theater, Erlanger, Sunday and Monday. Miss Pons, of course, also vocalizes with her golden voice, offering sparkling renditions of three popular tunes, the "Blue Danube Waltz' 'and an operatic aria.

Marks Fifty Years in Circus

One hundred of the leaders of Melbourne's public life, including the Victorian state ministry and parliament, the town clerk and the chief of the fire brigade, sat down to dinner together in a cage of lions. The dinner marked the completion of fifty years of circus life by Philip Wirth, the "Barnum of Australia." A horseshoe table was erected inside of a large cage. Within the horseshoe was another cage containing six of Mr. Wirth's full-grown lions, which, during the dinner, were released to roam around the table under the trainer's supervision. The postprandial proceedings were broadcast both locally and to foreign countries.

The Way of the Cross
By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

I THINK I had as much belief
As most men have who have no care,
And yet the Christ was never there
Until I was His kin in grief,
Until I had my cross to bear.

When I had only death to fear,
I think perhaps my faith sufficed;
But faith is not so cheaply priced;
For they, who never shed a tear,
What know they, after all, of Christ?

Until I, too, was laden down
I think my faith was only dross.
I think a life all gain, all loss—
That not a soul shall wear the crown
Unless it first has borne the cross.

Swimmers Warned Not To Go Into Ohio Or Its Tributaries

Don't swim in the Ohio River and its tributaries! This is the warning sent Saturday from the office of Dr. F. K. Harder, acting health commissioner.

This goes, too, for those who were immunized against typhoid because of the water pollution peril during the January flood, Dr. Harder said.

Those immunized, he explained, may not catch typhoid, but innumerable other diseases lurk in local streams.

For verification he asks that Clarence Bahlman, superintendent of filtration at the Cincinnati waterworks, be quoted. Mr. Bahlman said:

"The Ohio River today is 7000 times worse than the minimum requirements for safe drinking water."

He said these figures are based on a minimum requirement of one bavterium for each 100 cubic centimeters of water. Ohio River water today showed a bacteria count of 7000 per 100 cubic centimeters.

Cincinnatians, as they haul out their bathing suits for their annual escape from sweltering heat, therefore are adjured to seek out private and public pools. This also goes for other residents along the Ohio River.

The trend in recent years, due to polution of the Ohio River and extreme danger of typhoid, dysentery and other diseases, has been toward man-made "swimmin holes."

This is borne out in a statement made by Bleecker Marquette, secretary of the Better Housing League, at a hearing of the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the U. S. House of Representatives.

"The excessive pollution of the Ohio River makes it so dangerous for swimming," Mr. Marquette said, "that the Board of Health hrs for several years had to notify inhabitants of this area of this danger. It is fully established by medical science that there is great peril in swimming in a polluted stream. Any of the raw water may contain the bacilli of typhoid, fever dystentery or other diseases."

Let that be fair warning, swimmers! Hang your clothes on a hickory limb, but don't go near the Ohio River and its tributaries!

5,000 IN KENTUCKY TO RECEIVE PAYMENTS

With an estimated 35,000 persons or their estates in Michigan, Ohio, and Kentucky eligible in 1937 for payments under the Federal old-age benefits plan of the Social Security Act, the Social Security Board will be equipped to adjudicate one claim every eight minutes of the working day, Benedict Crowell, regional director of the Board, announced recently.

Expansion of claims work to handle the growing influx of claims emphasises the increased activitiy in this phas of the social security program, Mr. Crowell said.

The Board, Mr. Crowell announced, estimates that Michigan will have about 12,000 persons or their estates eligible during the present year to file claims, while Ohio will have about 18,000 and Kentucky about 5,000. The Board estimates, he said, a national total of 320,000 persons or their estates eligible for payments in 1937.

Mr. Crowell added that claims actually submitted during the year may not equal these totals because some persons or estates may not apply for small amounts and some claims may not be filed within the year. He explained that of the estimated number of persons or estates eligible to file claims, the Board estimated that about 40 percent will involve lump-sum payments toworkers 65 years old, and about 60 per cent will be death payments to estates of workers who die before reaching this age.

The lump-sum and death payments are preliminaries to the major program which begins in 1942 of paying monthly benefits for life to qualified retired workers age 65 years and over.

"As payment of Federal old-age benefits claims spread, possession of a social security account number by every eligible worker becomes more important," Mr. Crowell stated, "since the payments are made on the basis of wages received by the worker and recorded by the Board in his social security account. These wage reports will be made on information returns submitted by the employer and will include the worker's account number.

"The worker who has a social security account number will therefore insure the proper recording of all eligible wages for the payment of his old-age benefits."

Mr. Crowell urged all eligible workers who have not yet done so to apply for an account number immediately.

FLORENCE HOMEMAKERS' CLUB

The regular monthly meeting of the Florence Homemakers' Club was held at the Town Hall, Thursday, May 27. The meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. Clifford Coyle and the roll call was answered by "Your Favorite Tree and Why?"

After the business of the day was taken care of, the president asked Mrs. C. F. Blankenbeker to give a talk. Mrs. Blankenbeker and Miss Gillaspie had attended the Blue-grass district meeting, at Danville, May 7th and Mrs. Blankenbeker's talk was enjoyed very much by the members, for she pictured the activities of the meeting so well that we began to feel as though we too had attended the meeting.

Miss Gillaspie then spoke of the canning contest to be held in the Fall, and gave some information about the pressure cooker and canner.

Mrs. L. Sullivan and Mrs. Virginia Goodridge gave a very helpful lesson on "Care of the Feet." Now we know a great deal more about our feet for before this lesson we only know that our feet hurt.

Mrs. Sullivan was taking Mrs. L. T. Utz's place as leader for this month. Mrs. Utz will assume the leadership again next month. The next lesson will be "Care of Clothing," and as each member is expected to bring hose or something to be darned, this promises to be a merry gathering.

After singing "Home Sweet Home" the meeting was adjourned. The next meeting will be June 24, at one o'clock at the Twon Hall, and the Roll Call will be answered with "Your Favorite Flower."

SEASONABLE DISHES

EACH year opens up new methods to make our meals better and more satisfying with the minimum of labor. How easy it is to make a few glasses of grape jelly from grape juice, if needed for any occasion. Use the bottled pectin and in a few moments the jelly is in the glasses, ready to serve when chilled.

Cream of Mushroom Soup

Chop one-fourth of a pound of mushrooms and cook them in one quart of chicken stock 20 minutes, then rub through a sieve. Reheat and bind with one-fourth of a cupful each of butter and flour cooked together. A slice of onion may be added to the stock if desired. Add one cupful of cream and two tablespoonfuls of orange juice when serving.

Brown Mushroom Sauce

Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add a teaspoonful of onion juice or scraped onion and cook until slightly brown, add three tablespoonfuls of flour and cook until brown, pour on gradually one cupful of cream. Clean one-half pound of mushrooms, and cut into small pieces, saute in butter five minutes. Cook the stems in water to cover and reduce to one-third of a cupful. Add a teaspoonful of beef extract to the mushroom liquor, add to the sauce with salt and pepper to season. Just before serving add the mushroom caps. They may be left whole if desired.

Harry's Proposal

By H. IRVING KING

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service.

"ALLIE, I am in love." Harry Drayton popped this out at the end of a short silence which had supervened in the conversation between himself an Allison Gower. He accompanied the remark with a sigh. They were on the hotel piazza; the moon was over the mountains and moonlight on the river. "You must have seen, Allie," went on the young man, "the—er—state of my heart. I—I—must know my fate tomorrow. I am sure you—"

"Oh Harry," cried Allison, "please don't say any more tonight—please don't. I will give you an answer tomorrow morning." She had risen from her chair and stood ready for flight.

Harry with a gasp sat up straight in his chair. "But Allie," he cried, "you don't understand what I am trying to—"

"Oh, yes, I understand," broke in the agitated Allie. "Good night, dear"—and she was gone.

Drayton fairly collapsed into the depths of his chair. "Well, of all the—" Words failed him for further remark. He sat staring out blankly into the moonlit night. He and Allison Gower had been friends from childhood. From the time he could remember, he had always confided to Allie. And now, when he was attempting to tell her that he was in love with Anne Blair, Allison had gone and taken his attempt as a proposal of marriage to herself.

He spent most of the night revolving over and over again the situation in which he found himself and seeing no way out. As for Allison, she went straight to her room after leaving Harry and, turning on the light, sat down to think. If Harry was in a daze so was Allie. She had always thought marriage a respectable and desirable custom to which, some day, she might possibly be called upon to conform. But now it jumped from the realm of the abstract into the realm of the concrete with a suddenness which was rather startling.

There came a tap at her door.

It was Anne Blair, who always stopped for a chat with her dear friend Allie on her way to bed. Allie sometimes wished that Anne, who was a great talker, would occasionally omit this nightly visit, but tonight she hailed her as a welcome guest. For Allie regarded Anne as so worldly wise and so experienced—for no good reason at all—that counsel from her could not help being of value. Therefore when Anne paused for breath after her first instalment of hotel gossip, Allie said: "Anne, what do you think of marriage?"

"What a question," cried Anne. "I think it's something any young girl looks forward to—provided you get the right man. And since you have broached the subject, I may as well confide in you that I expect to be married myself before long—in fact I know I'm going to be. But you must not tell a living soul until I tell you."

"Oh, Anne," cried Allie," how did you feel when he proposed?"

"Oh, he hasn't proposed yet," returned Anne calmly, "but he's going to tomorrow."

"How — how do you know?" he is gasped Allie.

"How do I know?" retorted Anne; "how do those figures in the barometer know when to come in and go out in advance of the weather? I am as sure Harry Drayton is going to propose to me tomorrow as I am that I am going to accept him. Hasn't he told you he was in love with me? You and he are such chums and old friends that I supposed he had told you before this. But, dear me, how late it's getting! Good night, dear." And she was gone.

Now Allison Gower was a simple soul but not without sense and resource when driven into a corner. Next morning Harry Drayton received the following note signed "Allie."

"Dear Harry—I ought not to have been so perturbed last night when you confided in me your intention of proposing to Anne Blair; for, of course, I have long seen how you felt toward her. You may have thought it strange in me to run away as I did, but the fact is marriage is such a serious matter that no advice should be given without due consideration concerning it—no hasty approval or disapproval. I wanted time to think, and I have thought. And after due consideration I have concluded that Anne is a dear girl and just the one to make you a good wife. So I give you both my blessings in the capacity of an old maid sister, and hope both of you will continue to use me as your confidant."

Harry Drayton swallowed that letter hook, line and sinker, as the saying goes. True, he could not remember having mentioned Anne Blair's name in his attempted confidence—but then, of course, Allie must have seen. His attentions to Anne had been rather pronounced.

As for Allie herself, she maintained her poise. And later she was married—to a charming man. Like Anne, she knew, sometime before the proposal, just what was in store for her and with a woman's intuition she was prepared.

KENTUCKY LEADS IN SOIL CONSERVATION

Kentucky is leading in the east-central states in the application of soil-building practices in the agricultural conservaion program, according to figures released from the College of Agriculture at Lexington.

So far this year, nearly 18,000 farmers in 115 counties in Kentucky have arranged to trade benefit payments in the farm program for high-test superphosphate. Approximately 15,000 tons have been ordered from Sheffield, Ala., or enough to treat 200,000 acres. Most of this land will be put in alfalfa, red clover, lespedeza, grass or other soil-conserving forage crops.

Last year Kentucky farmers cooperating in te conservation program improved nearly two and a half million acres by seeding hay and pasture crops, applying limestone or phosphate, terracing or otherwise applying soil-building and soil-conserving practices.

Dean Thomas P. Cooper, in a statement to the press, highly commended Kentucky farmers for their vision in cooperating in the national conservation program. Millions of acres are to go back into grass or will be put into legumes, thus maintaining and restoring fertility and at the same time providing large amounts of feed for livestock. A great work is being done, Dean Cooper declared, by farmers, county committees and county agricultural agents.

SAFEGUARDING MELONS AGAINST PESTS

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

Things that are worth enjoying are bought with struggle; the same applies to the watermelons, cantaloupes, cucumbers and squash that gardeners try year after year to raise but do not always achieve, because of the pests that attack them. The pity of it is that while certainly they are are aggravating, their controlling is by no means difficult or uncertain, though it does take some forethought.

The first insects are the black-and-yellow striped beetles that appear in swarms when the weather has become definitely warm, though their real time of arrival is long before that, actually, when the seedlings begin coming up. Control, too, begins at that time, and consists of dusting with a mixture of calcium arsenate and gypsum or land-plaster, one pound to 20. No duster is needed, but the material need merely be sifted over the middle of the hill. At least five applications three days apart, should follow, giving 18 days of protection, but as many as 20 are distinctly worth while making.

A troublesome insect, sometimes, is the melon louse, whose presence is made apparent by the under-curling of the leaves, and what is more important, by the stunting and perhaps the killing of the entire hill. To control the lice, they must be hit with a spray of tobacco or rotenone, both of which kill by contact. Arsenicals are of no avail against lice because they do not consume foliage, but suck the plants' juices.

A more insidious insect is the pickle worm, often found embedded in apparently sound cucumbers and squashes, or in cantaloupes ready to pick, but which on cutting are discovered sour and worthless. The worms hatch from eggs laid on the rind of the developing fruits, these eggs laid right at the ground line, out of reach of any spray, if spray could be effective, which is doubtful. The worms eat their way into the fruit and mature at about the time it does. Growers of cucumbers and cantaloupes have found partial relief by including hills of squash, here and there to attract the worms. which seem to prefer squash, then pickling the fruits still immature, and destroying them, and thus the worms that may have entered, What lovers of squash may do is not clear.

Another troublesome insect, coming later in te summer and particularly on the later cantaloupes and "mush melons" is the squash buk, commonly but wrongly called the "chinch bug.' It is a sucking insect, whose stings "scald" the foliage and ultimately kill the plants, the fruits underripe and worthless. For the hardshelled adults, only hand-picking can be suggested, but if observed in their soft shelled stages, they may be killed by contact sprays, as reocmmended for the lice.

The melon crops suffer from two diseases. Because the effect of both is to spot the foliage, ultimately causin git to turn brown and drop off, they are grouped under the colloquial name of "Blight." The leaves in the middles of the hills are first affected; control must be begun when the first signs of spotting are observed there. The material to use is 4-4-50 Bordeaux mixture, whose making has been described in an earlier article of this series. As many as three sprayings may profitably be given, and though absolute freedom from the blight cannot be guaranteed, at least the life span of the plants can be lengthened a few weeks, long enough to mature a reasonable number of fruits.

A discussion of this sort cannot go into the detail that be desirable, but full information concerning insecticides may be obtained by writing the State Entomologist, College of Agriculture, at Lexington. Directions for mixing Bordeaux in garden-size quantity will glady be sent by the writer, same address.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Rhubarb Marmalade—2 medium sized oranges; 1 medium-sized lemon; 5 pounds sugar; 4 pounds rhubarb, diced; 1 pound seedless raisins. Force oranges and lemons through the food chopper; mix with other ingredients and let stand a half hour. Cook slowly 45 to 60 minutes or to marmalade consistency, stirring often. Place in hot, sterilized jars and seal. One No. 2 can of shredded pineapple can be used instead of raisins if preferred.

FOR FLOWER LOVERS

To keep flower pots from toppling off porch railings, drive a blind-headed nail 3 or 4 inches long into the top of the rail so that it will fit into the bottom of the pot . . . Sowing seeds in rows has many advantages over sowing broadcast. It makes it much easier to recognize the seedlings as they appear. Cultivation and the removal of weeds is also facilitated.

IN THE KITCHEN

The maker of delicious soup never allows her soup to boil rapidly. She watches it until it reaches the boiling point and then turns it low and lets it simmer for hours until the meat is completely done and ready to fall apart. Doing that adds to its flavor and body.

ROGERS CHARGES POLITICAL PLOT

MEN CHANGE STORY AFTER LETTER IS SENT TO GOVERNOR A. B. CHANDLER—ROGERS CHARGES POLITICAL CONNIVANCE.

The alleged dismissal of 40 laborers employd in Kenton county by the State Highway Commission because, it was charged, they would not contribute a part of their salary to "a Democratic campaign fund" was branded Saturday by O. M. Rogers, Erlanger, Fifth District advisory highway commissioner, as "political connivance."

The charges are contained in a letter to Governor A. B. Chandler by Henry Runge, 1334 Wheeler St., and Edward Batton, 317 Trevor St., both of Covington. Both Mr. Runge and Mr. Batton chargd in the letter that they were dismissed from the road department of the Highway Wednesday because they would not contribute a part of their earnings to the campaign fund.

In the letter, Mr. Runge and Mr. Batton charged they were solicited by Roy Woods, a highway commission foreman under Mr. Rogers, and were asked to contribute 2 per cent of their wages "for a campaign fund in order to elect a state senator from Kenton county."

"I don't know either Mr. Runge or Mr. Batton and I surely know nothing of their dismissal from the department or the dismissal of any other road laborers," Mr. Rogers stated. "I have nothing to do with the hiring or firing of any employe in the State Highway Commission. They are hired out of the central office at Frankfort and it is from this office that orders of dismissals are made.

"I have never suggested or hinted any soliciitation of contributions from any employes of the State Highway Commission and I am sure that Mr. Woods, over whom I have no supervision or control, has not made any solicitations from the employes. Such collection of money from the employes for a campaign fund has not been authorized by me and I never heard of any solicitation until I was advised of the letter sent to Governor Chandler.

Political Purposes

'I sincerely believe that the letter was manufactured soley for political purposes" Mr. Rogers added.

When interviewed today, Mr. Runge said Mr. Wood solicited him and other road employes individually. While Mr. Runge sets out in his letter that he was asked to "give 2 per cent of his wages for a campaign fund in order to elect a state senator from Kenton county," today Mr. Runge said he was asked to "give as much as he could afford."

Mr. Runge further stated that when he was solicited, his contribution would go toward "a Democratic campaign fund." He said the solicitor did not specify that it was "for a fund to elect a state senator from Kenton county."

Mr. Runge said that he and a large group of the laborers refused to make the contributions.

"Marked X"

"Then the foreman came around with a long list of employes and the letter X was marked behind the names of those who refused to give," Mr. Runge said. "On Wednesday we were given our dismissal slips. The slips did not tell why we were being discharged, but I know it was because we would not give to the campaign fund."

Mr. Runge said he was among 40 of the employes to be dismissed.

The letter to Governor Chandler is expected to play a prominent part in the campaign between Jas. Rogers, son of O. M. Rogers, and Senator John T. Murphy, the Democratic aspirants for state senator.

Mr. Runge and Mr. Batton are members of the Good Government League of Covington.

Mr. Runge said that the league has not made any indorsements in political races as yet.

Within Three Weeks

"We will make our indorsements within the next three weeks" he said.

When asked whether the league will indorse Senator Murphy, Mr. Runge said he was unable to say. The league, however, is said to favor the candidacy of Senator Murphy.

The letter to Governor Chandler follows:

"We are sending you this letter to let you know that we have been working for the State Highway Commission in Kenton county since March 3 and June 3, 1936, respectively. We were laborers and at no time were we able to earn in excess of $65 a month, that is 30 cents an hour. We could only do this when we were able to work every day. In case of rain we were laid off and during the winter we were able to get but very little work to make a living for ourselves and family.

"This week your foreman, under Mr. O. M. Rogers as advisor to the Highway Commission, asked us to contribute 2 per cent of our wages that we had earned for a campaign fund in order to elect a State Senator from Kenton county.

Discharged

"We were unable to pay this 2 per cent because it took all that we earned since 1936 to support ourselves and family. Today several laborers were discharged in addition to us because we could not pay this 2 per cent of our wages.

"Two years ago we attended many of your political meeting and heard you say that you would not compel state employes to contribute to campaign funds. We don't believe you know anything about this so we are writing you this letter to let you know what Mr. O. M. Rogers and his foreman are doing in Kenton county.

"It is a great hardship for us to lose our jobs, but we were unable to get up this 2 per cent of our wages to give to Mr. Roy Woods and to Mr. Rogers. Several men have been fired this week and we are writing not only for our benefit but for the others as well."

VOLUME 62 BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1937 NUMBER 4

STORM CAUSES DAMAGE IN CO.

TOBACCO BARN AT KENSINGTON IS BLOWN APPROXIMATELY 100 FEET — TELEPHONE LINES DAMAGED.

Boone County, along with several other sections of the State was affected last Friday night by a heavy windstorm.

The most seriously affected part of the County was a section along the Dixie Highway between Walton and Richwood. At Kensington, a large tobacco barn was blown approximately 100 feet, lodging on the highway. It was removed by a crew from the State Highway Department.

In the same neighborhood, telephone poles and wires were blown down along more than one-half of a mile of the road. Crews of telephone company workmen rushed to the scene and aided in the more than one hour's work in clearing the thoroughfare.

The windstorm was accompanied by a heavy rain in northern Kentucky that brought the autos of many motorists to halt along the highways.

VAN DEVANTER ENDS CAREER AS JURIST

Washington, June 2—Justice Willis Van Devanter exchanged today his busy 26-year career as a member of the Supreme Court for that of a gentleman-farmer.

His colleagues in a letter expressed "high esteem and warm affection" and "a poignant sense of regret" at his voluntary retirement.

In reply, Van Devanter said he would carry happy memories of the association "together with profound respects and true affection" for each of those remaining.

The 78-year-old justice attended his final session of the court yesterday, when the tribunal adjourned until next October.

President Roosevelt has given no indication of his intentions in selecting a successor.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be held on the Baptist church lawn, Florence, Saturday, June 12th from 5 to 9 p. m., under the auspices of the Sunday School. All friends are cordially invited.

WILSON-RUST

Miss Virginia Mae Wilson of Walton and Mr. Herman Rust, of Piner were married at her home in Walton, May 22, 1937 by Rev. Jack M. Ervin, minister of the Walton Christian Church.

LOCAL COUPLE ARE MARRIED

ARE POPULAR AMONG BOTH OLD AND YOUNG—REV. WILLIAM SMITH, OF BELLEVIEW PERFORMS CEREMONY.

Miss Edith Mae Eddins, 18, and Mr. Robert Maurer, 26, both of Burlington were quietly married Saturday afternoon at Belleview, with Rev. Will Smith officating. The attendants were, Jeff Eddins, the bride's brother and Miss Frances Presser.

Immediately after the the ceremony the bride and groom and their attendants left for a short motor trip during the week-end, returning to Burlington Sunday.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lallie Eddins and is one of the most popular young ladies in this section of the county. She is a graduate of the Burlington high school, having graduated in 1937 class.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Josie Maurer, and is well known throughout the county. He graduated from the Burlington high school in the class of '29. He is one of our most industrious young men, and at present is employed by the Boone County Road Department.

The young couple will be at home to their many friends within the next few at their residence in Burlington, which they already have furnished.

The Recorder joins with their many friends in wishing them a long, happy and prosperous married life.

Dr. John H. Walton, of Sayler Park, Ohio and Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Walton, of Chicago, were recent visitors of L. A. Conner and family.

T. V. A. PHOSPHATE SHORTAGE

The County Agent's Office was notified last Saturday that the present available supply of T. V. A. phosphate supplied on the A. C. P. allowance is exhausted but that additional supplies will be available as soon as it can be cured. This will likely take around ninety days.

Farmers who expect to use phosphate for their grass seeded this fall and would like to use T. V. A. phosphate supplied on their A. C. P. soil building allowance probably should file their orders immediately for fall delivery according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Most farmers can not earn their full ACP allowance through use of seeding grasses and legumes. Where phosphate is not needed agricultural limestone is the best investment. Farmers desiring limestone for fall use should order it immediately as there will also likely be a shortage of agricultural limestone again this fall. Many farmers desiring to purchase limestone last year were unable to do so because of the heavy demand. Be safe—prepare now—Don't show up at the end of the year $—? lost.

Cecil Gale Rouse, of Cincinnati, spent several days here with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. McMullen. He returned home Saturday.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

O. M. HUEY, FORMER BOONE COUNTIAN IS SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS OLD—IS SUPERINTENDENT OF ORPHAN'S HOME.

Dr. O. M. Huey, former resident of Boone County celebrated his 75th birthday anniversary on May 24. He is well known in this county and has tht best wishes of all who know him.

The following article was printed in the Western Recorder:

On May 24 last, Dr. Oscar M. Huey, Superintendent of the Louisville Orphan's Home, attained the distinction of his seventy-fifth birthday, and his friends in Louisville and throughout Kentucky, whose name is legion, are congratulating him and Mrs. Huey. On Sunday, May 30, there was a service near the old home in Boone County, in which relatives and friends of Dr. and Mrs. Huey, did glad honor to them.

March 11, 1935, Dr. Huey, and Mrs. Huey, who was Katie Katherine Kennedy, of Union, Ky., celebrated their Golden Wedding. There are three living sons, Mr. Samuel L. Huey and Mr. George W. Huey, and Edward O. Huey. One son, Lee Manly Huey, died in Oklahome a few years since, and his body is buried where the recent family celebration was held.

Dr. Huey has spent his long and useful life in the ministry of the Gospel in the service of Kentucky churches, most of them being in central Kentucky. Just before the World War he served as pastor of the Crescent Hill Church in Louisville for five years. In 1919 he accepted the superintendency of the Louisville Baptist Orphans' Home in Louisville, and has magnified this position by active and skillful service since, he and Mrs. Huey residing at 2123 Woodbourne Avenue.

We are glad to have the good face of our beloved friend grace our front cover in this issue. Of the many fine things that could properly be said about Dr. Huey by way of appreciation, the barest skeleton is that he is undoubtedly known personally and in appreciative friendship by more Baptist people all over Kentucky than any one in service of our Baptist people at the present time. The writer sometimes has the privilege to travel with Dr. Huey in visitation work at our Baptist associations and elsewhere. He has now ceased to be surprised when Dr. Huey is greeted from the roadside or on city street or village square anywhere the length or breadth of the State by those who know and value him.

Modest, faithful, energetic, kindly and considerate of others, in his life a high and consistent exponent of the holy faith he loves to preach, here is a true Christian gentleman. We join with a host of our readers in congratulating Dr. Huey on this birthday, wishing that the Lord may permit him many more among the people whom he loves and who love and admire him.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kirkwood were called to Madisonville, Ky., last week on account of the serious illness of his mother.

BIG BONE NINE ARE WINNERS

IN ONE OF THE CLOSEST GAMES OF THE SEASON — FIGHT LASTS FOR ELEVEN INNINGS WITH SCORE 5 TO 4.

One of the best games of the season in the Boone County league was played last Saturday at Big Bone as the local nine tackled those hard-fighting Florence boys known as Bob & Gene.

York started on the mound for Bob & Gene, but was relieved by Stephens in the second inning. Afterkirk and Black were the hurlers for Big Bone.

According to fans, it was any one's game until the eleventh, when Dick Carr, right-hand mand for Bob Eades, made a serious error, causing the Big Bone boys to score the winning run.

Over 300 fans attended this game, being the largest crowd for any game so far this season.

BURLINGTON WINS SIXTH STRAIGHT GAME OF SEASON

Behind the effective pitching of Donald Kirkpatrick and the heavy slugging of Clore and Akins the Burlington baseball team hung up their sixth consecutive victory of the season last Sunday at the expense of White Villa by a 11-2 score. Neither Burlington nor the visitors used their regular team as the contest was not a regularly scheduled game.

White Villa took the lead in the second inning when Jarrell lined a home run into deep left. Thereafter, the home team had little difficulty in scoring at will. They pounded Hatter for 17 hits for a total of 27 bases. Both teams showed some classy playing and are expected to finish high in the league standing.

BELLEVIEW WINS OVER PETERSBURG

After getting off to a poor start the Belleview team seems to be hitting her stride now in the last three games they have been beaten only once and that was a ten inning game to Big Bone. This game showed the fans plenty of hitting and ended with Big Bone on the long end of a 15-14 count.

On the following day, Belleview evened things up by defeating Big Bone 5 to 0 in a ball game that is hard to equal in amateur baseball circles.

Sunday Belleview trounced Petersburg 3-1 in a had fought game. Shinkle was on the mound for Petersburg and is hard to equal in this County. Williamson was on the mound for Belleview allowing only 8 hits and striking out 8 men, allowing only 1 run. This is holding Petersburg very well, as they have one of the best balanced teams in this section. Williamson is on the way to be the best pitcher in the league.

Belleview is especially good in defensive work. At one time during the game a man was on second and first and one out; Jay Ryle was on the beginning and finishing of a brilliant double play; Louden hit a hot shot inside of first base Jay scooped it up, whipped it to second, O. Williamson back to first. Young Moore laid down a beautiful bunt which percipitated in scoring the second run for Belleview and with C. Williamson on second Denniston hit a fly to center field that went for a double, scoring the third and final run.

Fans watch Belleview climb now as they have hit their stride.

MANAGERS HOLD MEETING

At a meeting of the managers of the Boone County Baseball League Tuesday evening at Burlington the entire schedule for the remainder of the season was made and released. According to C. D. Benson, league president, a very satisfactory schedule has been arranged, with all teams having home games on both Saturdays and Sunday. The schedule follows:

June 12—Petersburg at Bob & Gene's; Belleview at Burlington; Hebron at Big Bone.

June 13—Bob & Gene at Belleview; Burlington at Big Bone; White Villa at Petersburg.

Saturday, June 19—Belleview at Hebron, Bob & Gene at Burlington; Petersburg at Big Bone.

Sunday, June 20—White Villa at Bob & Gene; Big Bone at Belleview; Burlington at Petersburg.

Saturday, June 26—Bob & Gene at Big Bone; Petersburg at Belleview; Hebron at Burlington.

Sunday, June 27—Bob & Gene at Petersburg; Belleview at Burlington; White Villa at Big Bone.

Saturday, July 3—Belleview at Bob & Genes; Big Bone at Burlington; Petersburg at Hebron.

Sunday, July 4—White Villa at Belleview; Burlington at Bob & Gene's; Big Bone at Petersburg.

Saturday, July 10—Bob & Gene at Hebron, Belleview at Big Bone; Petersburg at Burlington.

Sunday, July 11—Big Bone at Bob & Gene's; Beleiview at Petersburg; Burlington at White Villa.

Saturday, July 17—Petersburg at Bob & Gene's; Belleview at Burlington; Big Bone at Hebron.

Sunday, July 18—Bob & Gene at Belleview; Burlington at Big Bone; White Villa at Petersburg.

Saturday, July 24—Hebron at Belleview; Bob & Gene at Burlington; Petersburg at Big Bone.

Sunday, July 25—White Villa at Bob & Gene's; Big Bone at Belleview; Petersburg at Burlington.

Saturday, July 31—Bob & Gene at Big Bone; Petersburg at Belleview; Hebron at Burlington.

NOTE: In order that we may publish a complete account of the games played each week we are asking that the managers of the respective teams to phone results to the Recorder not later than Monday afternoon.

HEBRON PROPERTY BRINGS GOOD PRICE

The farm and residence of Chas. W. Riley, sold at auction last Saturday bringing $10,320. This was considered a very good price and Mr. Riley was well pleased with the results of the auction.

Louis Beemon and Dr. S. B. Nunnelley were the successful bidders for the main tract of land, including the residence.

The Guy Downs Realty Co., of Shelbyville had charge of the sale.

GAINES IS HEAD OF JERSEY CLUB

Former State Senator Perry B. Gaines has been named the 16th president of the American Jersey Cattle Club, according ton an announcement from the 1937 convention at Springfield, Mass.

Senator Gaines, a Carrollton cattle breeder, has been a director of the company and is considered an authority on Jersey cattle. His herd is said to be among the finest in the nation.

TRAP SHOOT TO BE HELD

BY MEMBERS OF THE FISH AND GAME PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION OF BOONE COUNTY AT BURLINGTON SAT., JUNE 12.

The members of the Fish and Game club in this county have just recently announced the plans for a clay bird shoot for the members of the game club, to be held Saturday morning, June 12th, at 8:30 a. m. (slow time).

A committee was appointed to locate the place for the event, but at present the committe reports that they have been unable to locate the exact spot, but all participants will gather at Conner's Restaurant, Burlington, and will be advised there as to the exact location of the shoot.

This event is for the members of the club only, but there will be membership tickets available for those who would like to participate and are not already members. The membership fee is 50c a year.

The club will sell the shells and birds, and the members are to furnish their own guns. There will be three different gauge shells, 12, 16 and 20. Do not bring other guns and expect the club to furnish the shells, as it is impossible to furnish all guage shells.

This is the first event of this kind to be conducted in the county this year, and the first event of its kind to be conducted by the club. However, if the sportsmen of the county are desirous of such a sporting event, the club will sponsor several shoots thruout the summer.

Tell your fellow sportsmen, bring your gun, and let's make this one of the largest events of the season.

ERLANGER JOB REPORTED OK

APPROVAL FOLLOWS INSPECTION OF SEWER SYSTEM BY FEDERAL, CITY ENGINEERS—PROJECT NEARS COMPLETION

Two-thirds of Erlanger's $150,000 Public Works Administration sanitary sewer system, largest of its type in northern Kentucky, has been inspected by federal and city engineers and accepted as satisfactory by the city, R. E. Johnson, resident PWA engineer, announced Thursday of last week.

The entire system, which drains the residental sections of Erlanger, will be completed probably in 90 more days. The project has been under construction for more than a year.

Disposal Plant M and its connecting sewers, costing about $100,000 and comprising the two-thirds that have been completed, were inspected several days ago by E. C. Harding, assistant State PWA engineer; Mr. Johnson, R. C. Stout, consulting engineer for Erlanger; A. H. Root, assistant to Mr. Stout, and Clyde Hawkins, job inspector for the city.

Coolsaet Brothers' Corporation, Dearborn, Mich., is in charge of construction.

DAIRY HERD IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION NOTES

Economical milk production is the key to successful dairying.

High producing cows give a better return for the feed they consume than low producing cows.

Liberal feeding or a relatively high feed bill is necessary before high prodution can be had.

Dairy herd improvement association records show year in and year out that the higher the production, the higher the cost of feed and the higher the income above feed cost.

FIRST DONATION MADE TO CAMP ERNST FUND

Richard J. Kenkel, Covington attorney, was the first to donate to the Camp Ernst Fund, Willard A. Hutton, general secretary, reported Tuesday.

The Covington Y. M. C. A. is attempting to raise funds to erect two new buildings at the camp and to send underprivileged children to camp.

Mr. Hutton reported that each mail brings letters from parents seeking an outing for their children. The fund will be administered by the Board of Directors.

A fund of $500 is being sought.

Camp Ernst is located just a short distance from Burlington.

WINNERS AT JUNIOR WEEK

HELD AT UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY — LARGEST ANNUAL METTING OF FOUR-H CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS.

Boone County winners of the county 4-H contests left for Junior Week at the University of Kentucky, Monday morning in company with Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent, and David Colville, Assistant County Agent, to take part in the state 4-H contests. More than 100 Kentucky counties are expected to take part in this annual 4-H meeting.

Local representatives are William Graves and Benjamin Goodridge of the Hebron 4-H club who will compete in the state improved farm practice demonstration team contests; Pauline Norris and Florence Cook of the Burlington Blue Ribbon 4-H Club, entrants in the home practice demonstration. Keith Vice, of the Burlington 4-H Club and Ardelle Tupman, of the Florence X-L-All 4-H Club, county health champions; Katherine Jane Casper of the Hebron 4-H Club, girls clothing style revue champion; Alma Frances Stephens, of the New Haven Boosters 4-H Club, the 1936 4-H tobacco champion.

Junior Week held each year in early June at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, is the largest annual meeting of 4-H club boys and girls. Between six and eight hundred boys and girls attend the meeting. The members in addition to competition in the contests receive a full week's course in the four fold development of the Head, Health, Heart and Hands. Classes in livestock judging, soil improvement handcraft, home economics, health and character building and other important farm and home subjects are attended each day by all 4-H members.

The Armies of The Army Worms Are Marching All Because Flies Didn't Thrive Last Month

In the grain fields of Fayette county today are mustered the armies of the army worm.

Organizing in patches of small grain, the squirmisg. greenish hordes Saturday were ravishing the barley crop, before moving on to fields of young corn. By midweek this plant will begin falling before their greedy onslaught.

Not since the record year of 1931 have Fayette county and Kentucky faced such an invasion, which entomologists in May predicted. For May was cold and Winthemia Quadripustulata, the little fly whose larvae feed on the worm, found living conditions so unfavorable that its prey went almost unmolested.

And Apanteles, Militaris, the small wasp-like insect which lays its eggs within the body of the army worm where its maggots later feed, also encountered difficulties and but partly did its work.

To this unbalance of nature does Kentucky owe the plague.

Only the best is good enough for Cirphis Unipuncta, the army worm. Dissatisfied with wheat and rye and barley, as these crops mature, the pest will move on to the greener pastures of the corn fields, laying waste to the acres over which it passes. No stripper could clean a bluegrass field more thoroughly.

Mysterious to scientists is the means by which a horde of worms can determine the location of a green field. They only know that a striped and wriggling army, tiring of one field will make its way as if by compass to vegetation more succulent.

Mysterious to laymen but not to scientists is the pest's habit of seeming to appear almost overnight. The moths of the army worm lay their eggs in the lushest foliage. The larvae go through five stages of development, but in the first four are small and restricted in movement, eating unnoticed near the base of the stalks on which they hatched. On entering the fifth stage, they begin to travel and to gorge—and farmers awaken to find their fields devoured.

There's one consolation—in 10 days more the worm will have done its damage for this year. It will enter the pupa or resting stage then, and though there will be two more generations during the summer, they will go unnoticed, for with hot weather Winthemia Quadripustulata and Apanteles Militaris will get in their work.

Four stages compose the life cycle of the army worm: the moth, which can produce 500 and more eggs; the bead-like eggs, the larvae, or worms and the pupae or cocoons, which are found in the soil. The entire cycle takes about seven or eight weeks in warm weather, several months in winter. The second and third generations are due to appear this year in July and September.

The strategy against the present army?

Badly infested crops may have to be sacrificed to protect adjacent fields, says W. A. Price, state entomologist. As the migration from field to field starts, dust furrows should be plowed, he has advised, in some cases to the puzzlement of farmers who have inquired how dust can be produced with the ground so wet that water often stands in the furrow. Insists the entomologist: Drag a log back and forth in the distch. Dust, through which the worm can't climb will be formed along the edges.

Poison bait— a mixture of Paris green, bran, syrup and water—also may be used effectly

THE GRASS IS GROWING IN BURLINGTON BUT NOT IN ITS CITY STREETS

A few years ago it was freely predicted by Mr. Hoover and some of his close friends that if Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected President of the United States that grass would grow in the City Streets. We have observed in our own little City of Burlington that instead of the grass growing in the Streets that it is growing in abundance on the croquet grounds, where four years ago, any hour in the day, as many as a dozen able-bodied men were busily engaged in this game on our local grounds. If help was needed by any one, all you had to do was to walk down to the croquet grounds and pick out most any number of men you wanted for a day's work and the men were anxious to get the jobs.

There has not been a game of croquet played on the local grounds this season and grass is gradually taking the court. Late of afternoons when a game might be played, the would-be players are all too tired to attempt it, from having been busy at profitable employment all day.

A WORD OF WARNING

The time-honored family medicine cabinet has become an institution in this country, and we daresay there are few if any homes in the County that do not boast one. Since early days the medicine cabinet has served well in safeguarding health in the home, It has been a godsend in thousands of emergencies. And yet danger lurks in almost all of them.

Utmost care is used by the manufacturers of medicines containing poisons, and druggists are also careful in labeling bottles so there can be no reasonable excuse for mistakes. But as soon as poisonous medicines reach the home the safeguards seem to break down. The box or bottle is placed in the medicine cabinet along with a conglomeration of other boxes and bottles, and left where children of the household can easily reach them, or where an adult can get one by mistake while reaching for some harmless box or bottle in the dark. Many have been poisoned in this way.

The danger lurking in family medicine cabinets has become so great that the U. S. Health Service has issued a warning in which it declares that the average person "messes up everything from common baking soda to bichloride of mercury tablets, despite the fact that doctors have issued warnings about the danger of having poisons in the home." So if poison of any kind must be kept in the house the proper way is to see that it is out of reach of children. Equal care should also be taken to see that any medicine containing poison is so placed that there will be no danger of a grown person mistaking it for a harmless remedy.

LAND OF OPPORTUNITY

It's not unusal to hear the growing Boone County boy complain of a lack of opportunity in this country, and that a fellow has to have money or "a pull" to get on in the world. Parents of boys who make such statements now have an excellent chance to disabuse their minds of such belief.

Point out to them the case of William Knudsen, who was chosen president of the General Motors Corporation just a few weeks ago. Knudsen came to this country 30 years ago, a poor emigrant boy, with but $30 in his pocket and not an acquaintance in the entire U. S. But he had the determination to make something of himself—and the perservance to stick by that resolve. He started in as an errand boy, earning just enough each week to pay for his board and clothes. He spent his leisure hours studying in free night schools and reading in free libraries. Today he is at the top.

America is still the land of opportunity, and this latest evidence of that should be pointed out to to every boy who feels that it's no. There is still a chance for success awaiting any boy who is honestly determined to work for it, and willing to put the best of his life in whatever he sets out to do. But each must work out his own problems. Success is to be gained in no other way. There is always room in America for more Knudsens.

AIDING CRIME

It is generally understood that the people of this country expect their officers to rigidly enforce the law. However, many are today doing everything in their power to break down the work of juries and judges. Through petitions and political pressure thieves and murderers are being turned loose every day to prey on their sentimental benefactors, the parole laws of this country have become little more than a sham. Far more than one-half of the criminals now being arrested are found, on investigation, to have been guilty of earlier crimes and to have gained their liberty through parole. It is not often that the citizens of Boone County are asked to attach their names to a petition for parole, but when they are it would be a good idea for them to weigh the matter carefully. Sentiment is a fine thing, but sentiment becomes dangerous if it leads to the release of still another menace to the peace and welfare of the general public.

WASTE IN THE AIR

With the destruction of the dirigible Hindenburg still fresh in everyone's mind, it will surprise many to learn that Germany has already started laying out the framework of another giant aircraft exactly like it. The first to enter the lighten-than-air field, Germany proposes to stick to it, cost what it may. After Uncle Sam's sad experience with zeppelines, however, they are looked upon here in an entirely different light, and this country has ceased to build them. Mankind advances by the trial and error method ,and maybe some day Germany will make a dirigible as safe from calamaties as the modern ocean-going liners. But the average American, who pays the taxes and foots the bills for such experiments is not at this time willing to have any more of his money spent on them. He considers the building of dirigible airships a waste of money and he seems their operation so far as a terrible waste of human life. So Germany can, it appears, count on very little opposition from this county in that branch of the flying field for a long time to come.

OBSERVATIONS

The new pictorial magazine, Life, has two paragraphs in its last weekly issue that are worth quoting. The entire issue was devoted to a pictoral story of American College Life. The two very significant paragraphs follow:

"June is the month when a million students on a thousand college campuses take their examination, put away their books and sprawl contentedly on the grass before expensive stone towers. The most astonishing things about these collegians of 1937 is their number. They are 1 percent of the nation's population. 15 percent of the youth of college age. They represent the world's first great experiment in mass higher education, an experiment that could only happen in America and has only happened here in the 20th century.

"Within two decades the campus population has increased five fold —from 250,000 in 1917 to 1,250,000 in 1937. This growth has moved the center of educational gravity from the Atlantic seaboard to the Middle West. It has made 80 per cent of higher education, Co-education. It has changed the campus from a scholarly retreat to a new and fabulous design for four years living. It has caused colleges to expand and multiply until their mere brick and stone is worth two billion dollars. Behind this vast investment is tremendous faith in the benefits of higher education. This faith is a cornerstone of any demonstratic philosophy, the pith and kernel of what writers since Jefferson have called the "American Dream."

Often those of us who volunteered their lives in the World War wonder why we did. Once in a while something like the above gives us again a great exaltation of spirit—a singing heart that makes one feel like bursting into the inspiring strains of "America the Beautiful;" that brings back snatches of long forgotten verse "Breathes there a man with soul so dead that never to himself has said, this is my own my native land."

Think of it—one person out of a hundred in this blessed land of ours with the benefits of a college education. One person out of a hundred to lead the rest of us into new and better ways of life—fifteen in every hundred young people to know enough about society, economics, science et, al., to be able to understand and perhaps design a social organization that will not break down periodically; a society that will not be beneficient to some and meager to many even when it does run.

This, if I remember my history, is what the Puritan fathers were dreaming about. This is the logical out-come of that stern requirement in the colonies when everyone able must learn to read in order that the Bible be available to all as it was written and not as the priestly orders chose to interpret it . From this early ideal the public school system rose. Calvinists, Lutherans, Campbellites, etc., were all agreed upon the benefits of reading, but no Calvinist wanted a Lutheran to teach his children reading, and visa versa. Since the Bible was very nearly a text book in those days it would have been almost impossible to teach reading without teaching Doctrine—So, they compromised, and a school in common was created. Reading and other subjects were taught, but Bible was reserved for Sunday. The preacher and teacher ceased to be the same individual and the public school system was born.

While education was confined to a few who acquired the privilege by virtue of their birth, progress was slow. Social lines of demarcation were sharp. With the growth of the public school system many minds instead of a few contributed to progress, so, progress came by leaps and bounds as compared to formerly.

Now, because the hours are shorter, comfort is greater, wealth is much more abundant and more widely distributed, and all because of our industrial civiliation created by the public school brains of common men, a higher education for these vast numbers is possible.

From now on the level of civilization should rise more rapidly. One college graduate in one hundred will exert a tremendous influence. When one considers that each graduate is one of a family, has neighbors and moves in a world that has many who are not college trained, one can realize that the influence of this group in our total population virtually makes college graduates of all of those who have the necessary gray matter.

We laugh at our crack-brained theorists, Jokesters poke fun at the absent minded professor, but in spite of the occasional educated fool, learning is the accumulated wisdom of the ages. Without it we are but clods. Old wisdom applied to new things will solve all all of our tangled problems. Truly there is nothing really new under the sun. The things that are new were always there, only new to us because we have just discovered them. The wisdom of the ages impressioned between the covers of books is enough to solve our problems, providing that wisdom is used as a scientist use it, ie., as a place of beginning for new discoveries. When one in every hundred population is seeking wisdom we can be sure that enough will be found.

This observer is thankful for having seen that article. He was a part of that wave of students who swept into college two decades ago, starting his own college in 1919. He knew that college degrees were nearly as common as high school diplomas used to be, but didn't realize that the growth was as large as it has been and, being so large, was so significant. He had laid most of the movement to momentum set up by cases like his own. He went to college because many of his friends only a year or two older, but with a year or two in college, came out of the war with gold braid on their arms.

Now he knows it for what it is—a spontaneous flowering of two developments coming together—the historical American urge for an education continuing until it met the extra wealth of industrialism.

Now he knows, and is thrilled again as he has been but a few times since his youth, that he really did fight to save democracy—not for the world, perhaps, but certainly for America the Beautiful. It is good in one's middle years to have the fire oy youth's idealism rekindled.

That's all for this time.

The Observer.

Lesson for June 13

THE BROTHERLY LOVE OF JUDAH

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 44:18-34.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let brotherly love continue. Hebrews 13:1.
PRIMARY TOPIC — Benjamin's Big Brother.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Big Brothers.
INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—Loving as a Brother.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Self-Sacrifice in the Family.

The fundamental unit of society is the family. It is of more importance than the state, the church, and the social order of which it is a part. The breakdown of the home and the sacred relationships sustained between parents and children, or brothers and sisters, points to the destruction of society itself.

God established the family in the garden of Eden. His plan and purpose have never been changed, nor have his laws for the protection of the home, for the sanctity of marriage, for brotherly love, been set aside. Men and nations may devise other plans and follow the dictates of the flesh, but that road always leads to ruin.

The continuation of our story of the life of Joseph and his brethren brings before us today the filial and paternal love of Judah, and affords us an opportunity to stress true brotherly devotion. No one should fail to review the connection between the chapter before us and the lesson of last week. Joseph had been dealing with his brethren who had failed to recognize him as the one they had sold into captivity. He was bringing them kindly but definitely to that point of repentance at which he could show himself gracious to them. In doing so he had brought disaster upon them. Being happily on their way homeward with a new supply of food, they were overtaken and Benjamin, the beloved of Jacob, stands accused as a thief, and by their own words condemned to die.

In this crisis the mouths of the ten others are closed, but Judah, who had really saved the life of Joseph (Gen. 37:26, 27), stands forth to make an eloquent and pathetic appeal to Joseph. It presents him as a brother who is

I. Courageous

Easy rests the yoke of family life as long as all is joyful and prosperous. But when adversity strikes, when sorrow comes, or sickness, or sin, then the true test of devotion is at hand.

It was a brave and manly thing for Judah to stand before the one whom he knew only as the man who was "even as Pharaoh." The circumstances were all against him. He expected the flaming anger of the offended ruler. His brethren had collapsed in despair. It was one of those dark hours which come to every family when someone must demonstrate true love by being strong-hearted and steady.

II. Intelligent.

Crises call for more than a cheerful smile or an encouraging word, much as they do mean in such an hour. But we must be prepared by our close contact with our loved ones to speak and act with vigor and assurance.

The plea of Judah is a masterpiece of logic, argumentation, and appeal, demonstrating that Judah was not only well-informed about his family and its problems, but ready to use his knowledge skillfully and effectively.

III. Sacrificial.

One step deeper goes the devotion of this man to his father and his brother He has done no wrong that merits punishment, but evidently his brother has been guilty. Had he been of the spirit of Cain he would have said "Am I my brother's keeper?" and let him answer for himself. Why should he suffer for another? Why should he allow himself to be imprisoned in a strange land to save his father from sorrow and his brother from what seemed to be the just reward for his deeds?

Thus reasons the man of the world, but such is not the language of love. "Let thy servant abide instead of the lad as a bondsman"—so speaks the true brother. And this is but a faint prefiguring of the One "who sticketh closer than a brother," who "though he was rich, yet for your sakes became poor that ye through his poverty might be rich" (Prov. 18:24; II Cor. 8:9).

Let us improve the opportunity to review our relations with our own family, to determine whether there is aught that we in intelligent and courageous self-sacrifice should do for our own.

An Aim in Life

We want an aim that can never grow vile, and which cannot disappoint our hope. There is but one such on earth, and it is that of being like God. He who strives after union with perfect love must grow out of selfishness, and his success is secured in the omnipotent holiness of God.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Christ, Robert Christy and Mrs. Wm. Hill called on Mr. and Mrs. Ira McGuire one evening last week.

Everyone along this road welcomes the three times a week ice delivery started last week by Jennings Craig. Give us a good road and a little time and we will be as modern as some cities.

Several in this neighborhood have measles.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Arnold attended church at Petersburg Sunday and called on Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Keim.

COLD, WET SPRING FAVORS FARM PESTS

The cold wet weather of the early spring is blamed by experts at the College of Agriculture and Experiment Station at Lexington for the appearance of several farm pests.

The latest threat is the army worm, well known to many farmers because of its destruction in 1931. It appeared first this spring in Union county, where it also was found first in 1931. Prof. W. A. Price, state entomologist, advised farmers to examine their small grain and grass, spray infested area before the caterpillar should begin its march through fields. Once it starts to march, it can be checked by dust furrows made by dragging a log or keg back and forth in a furrow.

Another pest to appear this spring was the seed corn maggot, which destroyed corn seed when germination was delayed by cold weather. Farmers were obliged to replant in several sections of the state.

Blue mold, a disease of tobacco plant beds that did much damage in more southern states this spring was found in a large number of Kentucky counties, but apparently reached the state too late to do much damage. Dr. W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist, predicted it would not reduce the acreage of tobacco this year.

As a precaution against carrying blue mold over to next year, Dr. Valleau advises farmers to mow their plant beds when through setting, cover them with straw or other materials and burn them.

LOCUST GROVE
(Delayed)

Mrs. Effie Sebree and James Jones are still on the sick list.

Miss Martha Jane Hightower was the guest of Mrs. Harry Barlow several days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bates, of Louisville, were holiday guests of their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kelton Kelly and family. Little Imogene returned with them for a visit.

Jake Brown is ill with measles.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferris Webster, of Petersburg, visited, Jess Louden and sons several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Pope and Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan Pope, of Covington, passed through Waterloo Sunday en route to Mrs. Bess Clore's and brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barlow entertained his daughter, Miss Elizabeth Barlow, of Covington Sunday.

Ellison Rector has been quite ill with the measles.

THE FARM AND HOME
(Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station).

From now until fall there is nothing to do fr the lawn other than mow it, and then it should not be clipped closely. It is too late to apply fertilizer or to sow seed. Set the mower to cut high, and mow only when necessary. Leave clippings on the lawn.

Poultry profits may be increased by feed distillery mash instead of corn. Four-fifths of the corn in the mash may be replaced by thick distillery slop fed in separate troughs and kept before the birds at all times.

Shade for pigs, poultry and other stock will save feed in the hot season. Where no trees are available, posts can be set up, poles laid across them, and straw, hay or lumber used for a cover.

A normal colony of bees has 10,000 to 15,000 workers in the spring and increases to 90,000 to 100,000 by June 1. This is the largest population, and the number begins to diminish with the approach of fall, reaching about half this number by October 1.

The striped cucumber beetle is usually on the job, ready to get in its deadly work as soon as the plants appear. The control is dusting with one part of calcium arsenate and 15 parts of gypsum or land-plaster. Dust every three or four days.

If curtains are used in the kitchen they should be made so as to pull aside easily and leave the window free of ventilation either at top or bottom. Full-length window screen are an aid in good ventilation as they permit either ash to be opened.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Veal Loaf—(Ham flavored) 1½ cups chopped cooked veal; 1 cup chopped ham; 2-3 cup soft bread; 2 egg yolks; 1 tablespoon minced parsley; 1 teaspoon minced onion; 1-4 teaspoon paprika; ½ cup milk; 2 tablespoons melted butter; 3 tablespoons catsup. Mix the ingredients and pour into a buttered loaf pan. Bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven. Unmold and serve hot or cold.

WORTH KNOWING

Rub the iron over a cloth which has been moistened with kerosene when ironing starched clothes. When starch clings to your flat-iron sprinkle salt on a piece of brown paper and run the iron over it. Keep a damp sponge at hand when ironing for dampening wrinkles or spots which have become too dry.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

To dislodge a fish bone from the throat, slowly swallow the juice of a lemon, which will dissolve the bone and allow it to pass down the throat. Or swallow the white of an egg.

As Little As 10¢ A DAY
. . . . buys a 1937 Plus-Powered
KELVINATOR
on our Meter-Ator Plan

HOW THE METER PLAN WORKS
We deliver the Kelvinator you choose and attach to it a little device called a Meter-Ator. Into this you drop a small amount of money each day—as little as 10c for the lowest priced model. This money is collected each month and a receipt is issued for it. When the amount of money collected equals the cost of the Kelvinator, the Meter-Ator is removed and you own the Kelvinator.

IT'S A FACT! For as little as 10c a day you can own a Plus-Powered Kelvinator—the refrigerator that gives you twice the cooling capacity with half the running time.

You can enjoy it without bothering to mail monthly or weekly remittances or making repeated trips to our store to meet installments. You simply drop as little as 10c a day into the handy little Meter-Ator which we install when we deliver your Kelvinator.

As little as 10c a day and your Kelvinator will soon be paid for. Why, Kelvinator's economy will save you more than that each day. So, why wait any longer? Come into our store and choose your Kelvinator today.

PARASITE CONTROL

IN SHEEP RECOMMENDED BY COUNTY AGENT—DRENCHING VERY NECESSARY SAYS H. R. FORKNER.

Progressive farmers cooperating in the planning of the local community agricultural improvement programs of work last spring considered intestinal parasite or stomach worm control in sheep a major problem. The County Agent and the field veterinarian from the College were requested to assist in preparing effective recommendations for sheep raisers interested in this work.

The following recommendations are submitted.

Most effective stomach worm control will be secured through a combination of drenching and animal rotation.

Drenching Recommendations

Drenching treatments as follows using 3 to 4 ounces for adult sheep and two ounces or less for lambs; 3 quarts of solution is enough for 25 adult sheep.

June—1 ounce of Bluestone to 3 quarts of water.

July—Same as June.

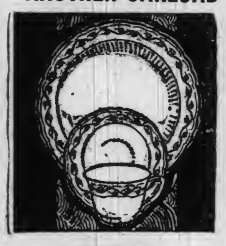
August—Nema capsules (tetrachlorethylene) according to directions as given on box for sheep.

September—Bluestone, as in June

October—One ounce Bluestone, one ounce Black Leaf 40 to 3 quarts water for 25 adult sheep.

Important extension circular No. 152 "Stomach Worms in Sheep" should be studied by all farmers before drenching. This circular is available free of charge at the County Agent's office.

Animal Rotation



Animal rotation is as essential for the health of animals as crop rotation is for the successful production of farm crops. The continuous use of pastures, lots or ranges for the same species of animal causes the land to become heavily contaminated with various kinds of germs and parsites. Fortunately very few of the diseases and parasites of animals pass from one species to another. This fact makes it possible to use animal rotation as an aid in controlling diseases and parasites.

Most species of animal parasites will not live in the open for more than two years. It is not practical or necessary to attempt to destroy germs or parasites on pastures, lots or ranges with disinfectants. Sunlight and cultivation or the use of the land for some other species of animal will give the desired results. Pastures that cannot be cultivated should be used for a different species of animal every two years, or used for the production of hay for two years.

The greatest effort should be be made to have a clean pasture for young animals. Mares, sows and ewes should be treated for parasites in the fall. As soon as the foals, pigs or lambs are born the young and their mothers should be placed in fields that have not been used by the same species of animal for the past two years.

Manure is the principal carrier of the eggs and larvae of internal parasites. As a rule, horse manure is most dangerous for horses since it carries material infective for horses, but not ordinarily transmissible to cattle, sheep and hogs. Cattle, sheep and goat manure is dangerous for these three classes of animals since they have many parasites in common, but is much less dangerous for horses or hogs. Hog manure is dangerous for hogs and much less so for other kinds of animals. It is therefore advisable in removing manure from the barns and lots to put it on the fields occupied by animals of a kind different from those furnishing the manure. When possible manure should be plowed under promptly to destroy eggs and larvae.

A Statement To The Voters Of The 26th Senatorial District

Two years ago we entered the political field in the belief that—business men and farmers could improve governmental conditions in this State, by taking more interest in politics and government. We still believe that, but we'll tell the whole wide world that it is a Herculean ask, and that no ONE MAN can accomplish many reforms in government by HIMSELF he MUST have help from the officers, citizens and the press.

And furthermore, no Representative or Senator can accomplish much in his first term in a legislative body, there are too many angles in legislative procedure for a new member to get acquainted with, too many ways to get trapped, and usually there are some "old timers" who will "doublecross" the new men, while carrying through their own program.

We endeavored to do our best, yes, we made mistakes, as it is to be expected, BUT, we learned from experience, and now are in the belief that we can do more, and really accomplish something.

We make announcement for the office of State Senator from the 26th Senatorial District, subject to the action of the voters at the Democratic Primary, August 7, 1937.

Two years ago I campaigned on a platform with the present Governor, "no assessments from employees for campaign purposes, no coercion of voters, no control of the legislators by job holding relatives, no buying of votes."—I campaigned for an open election, let the "voters" decide the election, NOT the "jobholders." I am still campaigning that way.

Holding down the job of Representative, we have had no relatives on the payroll, nor have we asked for any to be put on the payroll, we have sold the State no equipment, and we are not going to sell the State any equipment while in office.

We have asked for no special favors for ourselves, and do not want any favors.

In the legislative sessions we supported actively and openly:

1. $12 per capita for schools.
2. Labor in every vote.
3. Old Age Pensions.
4. Workmen's unemployment Insurance. The Socias Security Act.
5. Attempted to repeal the law, which permits privately paid deputy sheriffs.
6. Supported the Income Tax.
7. Voted to tax the automobile business, our own business, because we did not want to obstruct the State tax program.
8. Tried to get a State Tobacco Crop Control Act, that would be effective, and help the tobacco industry in the State.
9. Tried to get the 1½ ton truck law repealed, which law makes a permit necessary to the small truck operators of the State.
10. We introduced at the regular session a bill for compulsory Federal grading of tobacco, and subsequent selling by grades, to eliminate the unfair practices of tobacco selling in Kentucky, in which the poor man gets the "downs" in prices and the man man with influence gets the "up" in prices.
11. We voted for the "Omnibus" bill on the second round as a parliamentary move, but we admit the mistake, and we did what we could to remove the tax as soon as possible.
12. On the second round we voted for the Cigarette Tax, on an agreement to get the Tobacco Grading Act passed which we felt meant more to the tobacco growers than the damage from the cigarette tax.

These are the high spots in the legislative work of the past year.

If there is anything treasonable or traitorous in this record, my conscience don't bother me, but for some reason the present State Administration considers me "Public Enemy No. 1" in this territory, and has passed out the word that "Sidebottom must be BEATEN at ALL COSTS."

Who is supposed to elect the Senator in this district, the voters, or the State Administration?

Do you want a man to represent you and work for your interests? Or do you want a "yes" man dominated by some one that already holds office?

My ideals are the same that they have always been, and I am going to keep up the fight for better government.

I am asking the voters of this district to consider my candidacy for Senator, and as stated before, the decision rests with THEM.

P. L. SIDEBOTTOM.
Political Adv.

JUNE POULTRY POINTERS

The following poultry pointers for June are offered by Stanley Caton, field agent from the College of Agriculture:

Coccidosis

This is often referred to as sleeping sickness. The symptoms are inactivity, dropping wings, lack of appetite, loss of flesh, beak and shanks usually bleached white and often bloody droppings. This disease makes a sudden appearance usually after warm moist weather.

Confine birds to the brooder house and then clean the house daily. Moisture increases the severity of the attack, so keep the house dry. After a clean-up program of a week, turn the birds out on clean range. The use of milk in the ration, either the addition of dried milk or feeding liquid milk help the birds recover more rapidly.

Lice and Mites

They thrive during warm weather and they also lower egg production. Crank case oil and kerosene half and half, painted on the roosts will get the mites. Sodium floride as a dust or dip (1 lb. to 10 gallons of water) kills lice. Nicotine sulphate painted on roost poles just before the hens go to roost at night is also recommended.

SHOULD TEST FOR SOIL PRACTICES

Guessing at any soil practice is never advisable, notes a statement from the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. Farmers are advised to make sure to what extent they have a lime problem. This can be done by liming a small strip across the field and measuring the results in crop yields; or it can be done by applying an acidity test to samples of soil.

Except on the highly phosphatic soils of the Bluegrass region, a phosphate fertilizer should be used with lime. In tests in Graves county, limestone alone increased wheat yields three bushels to the acre, while limestone and phosphate raised yields nearly 13 bus.

BURLINGTON BOY TO RECEIVE DEGREE AT UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

Urbana-Champaign, Ill., June 10—Within the next four days Commencement exercises for the colleges and schools of the University of Illinois, both here and in Chicago, will signalize academic attainment for approximately 2,100 young men and young women who have spent the early years of their lives seeking higher education.

Monday morning, June 14, some 1800 degrees will be awarded on the local campus. Approximately 370 will receive degrees at the Commencement exercises for the Colleges of Medicine, Dentistry, and Pharmacy tomorrow morning, June 11 in the Civic Opera Building in Chicago.

Dr. Arthur Cutts Willard, who became president of the University while today's seniors were still freshmen, will deliver the Commencement address to the class of 1937 in Urbana-Champaign. T. V. Smith, State senator and professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago, will speak at the exercises for the Chicago divisions of the University.

Baccalaureate services for the the local colleges will be held at 4 p. m. Sunday in the George Huff Gymnasium, at which Prof. William Lyons Phelps of Yale will deliver the address.

Both the Urbana-Champaign Commencement and baccalaureate exercises will be broadcast by the University of Illinois radio station WILL (580 kilocycles.) The station will be on the air at 3:45 Sunday and at 9 a. m. Monday for these broadcasts.

George B. Yates, of Burlington is among the candidates listed for degrees from the University.

HOMEMAKERS HELP IN COMMUNITY CLEAN-UP

Community "clean-ups" were sponsored by homemakers' clubs in Hart county. Lawns and other private premises and school, church, cemetery and other public grounds were cleaned of debris, and fences repaired, old buildings removed, tomb stones straightened, window panes restored and painting done. At McHenry, a member of the homemakers' club donated a lot for a town park. Trees, shrubs and flowers were set and benches placed.

CARD OF APPRECIATION

I wish to thank the Florence Volunteer Fire Dept. for their efficient service rendered, in responding to the fire that damaged my store last week. It gave me courage to fight this fire, knowing the Fire Department was coming to back me up. I feel that the surrounding community should feel grateful for such an organization and should have their fullest cooperation and support, and the Volunteer Firemen should be proud of such equipment and their leader, Mr. Hue.

J. P. Brothers.

IN THE KITCHEN

When you make your next layer or loaf cake take out enough batter for four or five cup cakes. Bake them in small pans or paper cups and then save them to put in lunch boxes, since they keep better than individual pieces of cake and may be packed more easily.

WITH ROD AND REEL

With the opening of the fishing season after a month's rest during May, there has been very little to report in the way of large catches of bass in this section.

According to a report received at this office last week, Franklin Huey has been the luckiest angler in local waters, reporting that he landed ten bass from the waters of Woolper Creek, of which three were above the limit. All ten bass were taken from one hole of water.

During the past week many fisherman have been active on Gunpowder, the best stream in Boone County for the bronze backs, but as yet, there has been no reports come to us of any large catches.

According to popular opinion of local fishermen, this should be one of the best years in history for the fisherman, due to the Ohio River and its tributaries being so high during the spring, but as yet we have seen no difference in the amount of fish in our local streams.

Herrington lake fishing, according to those who have been there this month, is the most promising place in this section. Mr. Frank Rouse and Lloyd Kelly, local anglers reported some very nice catches. However, they stated that all their bass was taken at night between the hours of 12:00 to 7:30 a. m. The bait used was a Flapper Spinner.

Rains the latter part of last week muddied both Gunpowder and Woolper Creeks, but it is thought that with the fresh water that bass will be more active and will strike better after the creeks clear up.

Fishermen report that the Walton Reservoir has been a very popular place this season, being open to all during the month of May. Several nice bass have been taken from this lake, some which have weighed from 3 to 5 pounds. It is thought that bream will be plentiful here this year, and for those who love this sport, there is no better place to fish.

Robert Beemon reports the largest catch of the season, taking a ten pound ten ounce cat fish from the Gerhart pond on the Nicholson pike Sunday. This pond is privately owned, and only a small fee is charged the fisherman.

Flapper Spinners, Tom Thumbs, Jake's Bait, Tandem Spinners, and Weasles seem to be the popular brands of lures this year. Practically all catches being taken on these lures.

With clear water expected by the the latter part of this week, we hope to have something more to report in line of bass fishing next week.

JEAN HARLOW SUCCUMBS AT LOS ANGELES AFTER ILLNESS OF TEN DAYS

Los. Angeles, June 7—Jean Harlow, the platinum blonde film star actress, died at 1:39 (C. S. T. today at the Good Samaritan hospital here.

Dr. E. C. Fishbaugh, her physician said a cerebral oedema following acute uremic poisoning, caused Miss Harlow's death.

He said the Los Angeles fire department used an inhalator to restore her flagging respiration for a time before her life ebbed away.

Dr. Fishbaugh said the complication of cerebral oedema was a swelling of the brain. He said the film star was unconscious for several hours before her death.

The acrtess was 26 years old.

Miss Harlow, who flashed to fame in 1930 as the screne's "platinum blonde," was taken ill May 29. She had been working on a picture in which she was starred with Clark Gable.

CULTIVATION

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

At the risk of appearing to prophesy gloom, but because it has happened in past seasons, dare the writer suggest that rains may become more scarce as the summer advances? This being likely, it may not be amiss to work toward plans for saving the soil moisture there is, through proper cultivation.

The most beneficial feature of cultivation is that weeds are prevented from robbing the garden vegetables of moisture and of plant food. The earlier the weeds are stoppd, the better; that is to say, while they are still small. At that time, their roots lie close to the surface, and very little effort is needed to remove them.

Time was, when no gardener felt he had "worked" his garden properly unless it looked so, cut with deep gashes, "to give the roots air." If there was supporting evidence of rootlets laid bare, or handfuls of roots on the plow-points, so much the better. Such treatment, it was supposed, imparted fortitude to the vegetables, in that they were thus forced to recover. Although recovery was made in the event a rain followed, always there was interruption until the roots could take hold again; in dry weather sometimes catastrophe resulted.

In the past few years, experiment stations have been giving their attention to finding out just what cultivaion was and what it could do, and heir finding are briefly this, that when weeds are removed without in any wise disturbing the soil in which they stand, maximum crops result. The "cultivators" in the experiments were razor blades, and the weeds were shaved off just at the ground line.

Although razor blades are in no sense cultivating tools farmers or gardeners would use, the principle is applied in horse-drawn sweeps or in the beet-knife attachment on a wheel-hoe pushed by the gardener. The blades are tippd forward, so that when these tools are moved, the top half-inch of soil is penetrated, the small weeds lifted out, and those that go deeper, cut off. A hand hoe may achieve the same end.

This operation requires minimum effort, in contrast to deeper "working" or chopping both of which are real labor. Also, no interruption occurs in the growing of vegetables whose roots lying at from to 4 inches beneath the soil surface, are permitted to continue gathing moisture and plant food so essential. Furthermore, because these tools leave the soil surface level and make no ridges thru which extra surface is offered in evaporation, upper soil moisture is conserved, and because the water level is not dropped below root level because of borrowing soil from the middles to makes the ridges, deeper moisture is kept available to the plants.

This sort of cultivation will not benefit much those soils that incline to "run together," but neither will deeper working. The remedy for this condition is to raise the humus supply, and to use more thoroughness in preparing the garden for planting. The fact remains, though, that even in such a situation, shallow stirring is best, and certainly always, in a garden otherwise so conducted that maximum crops may be expected.

Up to now the dry-weather benefits of cultivation have been stressed; paradoxically, the same reasons may be brought foward, should moisture be present in ideal amount. Always, level, shallow, cultivation is best.

THE SEWING ROOM

When using buttons for trimming on a wash dress, place a toothpick or match stick across face of button and sew through eyes just as though fastening button to the dress, quite naturally catching the toothpick under the thread. Then remove the stick and use a small safety pin for catching the threads to the dress from the underside. Then the dress is ready to be laundered the buttons are easily rmoved.

Picture this beautiful GAS refrigerator in your kitchen!
YOUR own ears will tell you that Servel Electrolux differs basically from all other refrigerators—it's permanently silent! And this is more than a real advantage in itself. It means bigger savings . . . longer service for you. There is no noise, because there are no moving parts in its freezing systems. And for the same reason, there is no wear, no loss of efficiency due to moving, wearing parts. A tiny gas flame does all the work in this remarkable refrigerator. It circulates the refrigerant that, unfallingly, produces food-preserving cold and cubes of ice. Come in today and see the beautiful new 1937 models for yourself. Get the whole story. The more you learn about the modern gas refrigerator, the more you'll understand why owners are so enthusiastic about it.

FARM KITCHENS TOO OFTEN RACE TRACKS

Farm kitchens are too often race tracks where women wear themselves out running around getting a meal, members of homemakers' clubs in Oldham county found in making a survey in their house-reform campaign. One woman counted her steps and found she traveled 356 feet getting a simple breakfast of bacon, eggs, toast and coffee. She was afraid to attempt to determine how many she traveled in getting a dinner. Other women almost suffred a nervous breakdown when theyrealized how far they walked, trotted and ran every day. The survey resulted in rearrangement in kitchens, the adding of shelves, tables, sinks and other handy equipment, all designed to save steps in getting meals and lengthen the distance to old age.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

Pickle production is taking on new impetus in Carroll county, where the Hirsch Bros. Co., of Louisville is asking for large acreages. If enough farmers can be found who will grow pickles, a factory may be built in Carrollton next year.

A "hundred" ton marl club has been started in Washington county. The object is to have 100 farmers use 1000 tons of marl on their farms during 1937. Last year 3,018 tons were spread in the county, making it 11th in the State.

In Henderson county, where the year-round garden has been encouraged, nearly one-third of the homemakers have four or five varieties of vegetables available all the year. About 40 percent have year-round gardens with two to four vegetables.

The furniture in a church in Little Hickman community, in Jessamine county, needed upholstering, it was noticed by homemakers. As they had just finished a similar project, they undertook the job and now have entirely reconditioned furniture.

In the face of rising food costs, Negro farmers are improving poultry flock, raising a large number of hogs and chickens for market as well as table use, and raising home gardens. They call it their answer to the food problem.

A BEAUTY HINT

Necklines have almost same effect upon the face and neck as a necklace. The principles involved are almost idential in both cases. The woman with the round, full face should avoid rounded necklines. For her the oval, or V-shaped necklines are far more flattering.

WILBUR SHAW.

Gum-dipped cords PROVIDE THE EXTRA MARGIN OF SAFETY ON THE SPEEDWAY OR THE HIGHWAY

THOUSANDS said that tires could not stand the terrific grind. They said cars had been built with much greater speed, turns in the track had been repaved with granite-like surface, yet Wilbur Shaw drove to victory on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires setting a new record of 113.58 miles per hour on one of the hottest days in the history of the Indianapolis track.

Think of the terrific impact on these tires as the cars roared into the treacherous turns and out again: Tons of force straining, pulling, and twisting inside the tire, yet not one cord loosened, not one tread separated from the cord body—all because Gum-Dipping, the Firestone patented process, successfully counteracted the internal friction and heat that ordinarily destroy tire life.

You will never drive your car at these record-breaking speeds, but for the safety of yourself and family you need the safest, strongest and most dependable tires. Come in today. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires—the safest tires that money can buy.

POLLUTION CURE IS SHAPED FOR PASSAGE

Washington, June 6—A drive for legislation at this session of Congress to control stream pollution neared its final stage today, with members of the Senate Commerce Committee seeking to reconcile wide differences among advocates of pollution control.

Senator attie Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, Chairman of a Commerce Subcommittee, arranged to present the results of hearings on two pending bills, and expressed hope the full committee would approve the Barkley-Vinson Bill passed by the House.

Senator Augustine Lonergan, Democrat, Connecticut, indicated, however, he would insist in further consideration of his bill to authorize Federal direction of pollution control.

The Barkley-Vinson Bill would establish in the public health service a new division to cooperate with local governments and industry in a national study of the problem.

Its supporters questions the constitutionality of the Lonergan plan, which would empower the Secretary of War to institute injunction proceedings against industries which refused to install equipment to check pollution by indutrial waste.

LAMBS STARTING OFF AT GOOD PRICES

The lamb season is here, starting off at good prices. We see no reason why price should not continue good on good weight lambs, they should weigh 75 to 80 pounds and fat. Buck or half-fat lambs will sell within one or two dollars of top grades; if too light will sell much lower; for this reason, we advise to hold half-fat lambs as long as they are doing good; if they begin to go back, better market them.

Our best advice is to get your lambs up to the required weight and send them to market. While we are bullish on good lambs, as there is some shortage in lambs and shortage in cattle and hogs which will help hold prices up if the consumers do not spend too much for luxuries and fall down on necessities.

We think we can make it of interest for you to come our way, as we have a good local demand, in addition to order buyer representatives for the large killers. In fact, we are a terminal market. Including our local killers, we have most competition. We are strictly sellers, playing no favorites, with orders selling every consignment, small or large on its merits, not marking some up and some down. We do not hestitate to say, "No man can do justice to both parties" for an order buyer has to favor the killer to hold their orders. We have for a long time contended for a selling side and a buying side, which is growing in favor, for most of the consignors want to see a real bidder and buyer. Another practice we are opposed to is sorting out a few of the top lambs, marking them up, taking off of the next grade, making the consignment bring less dollars than selling them as near straight as possible; in other words the buyers want to sort out the cream of the lambs and leave the skimmed milk to sell for a much less price; when averaged up brings less dollars, but what you are interested in is to sell for the most dollars, which we try to do, by selling with as few out as possible, unless the consignor demands a sort.

We thing our duty to the owners is to render him the best service in getting him the most dollars; in other words, we owe it to the owner to render the best possible service, first, last and all the time.

We repeat it, get your lambs up to the required weight and as soon as you can send them to Norris, Brock Co., who will sell them for the high dollars. If you have any second or third grade ewe lambs, do not sacrifice them, keep them for coming ewes, it is better to have young ewes coming on than to pay the high prices that stock ewes are selling for.

We have talked until it is an old story; thousands of acres of grass are going to waste with not enough live stock. We have a shortage of cattle which can be overcome profitably by buying small good-grade cattle or breeding good grades and raising cattle that grow into money. We see no reason why good fat cattle should not bring good prices. If the good grass season continues, there is no reason for sending half-fat cattle to market. It is said by people that know, that the grass prospects is better than for 20 years; do not let the wagon go by, get a start with more cattle.

Hogs are scarce, which is causing high prices; our viewpoint is, that high prices on account of scarcity is not the best for the most people. We have had some to predict that hogs will sell for $15.00 this year; we do not think so, we are not trying to bear hogs, for it is our business to sell hogs, cattle, calves, sheep and lambs as high as we can, but we believe in being conservative. Did you ever stop to think that prices can be put up prohibitive beyond the public's buying power? When that happens the public will back up, when they do that, they can lower prices in 30 days. Another condition to consider, if we have a prospective big corn crop, which we hope for; when that is a certainty, the packers will reduce their killing capacity and wait for the lower prices, which will come with a big corn crop. Do not be disappointed with lower prices, it is better to have some hogs at lower prices, than no hogs with high prices; that is true of all livestock.

The quitter never wins, in a long pull the man that stays on the job in any business will finally win. We do not take our flag down, Cincinnati is the best all-round market in the country and that Norris, Brock Co., is a good commission firm on a good market.

CHICAGO SYNDICATE BUYS $2,100,000 KENTUCKY BRIDGE REVENUE BONDS

Frankfort, Ky., June 9—A syndicate, headed by Blyth and Company, Chicago, was the successful bidder for the $2,100,000 Kentucky Bridge Revenue Bonds, project 12, issued by the State Highway Department for the purchase of the C. & O. Bridge over the Ohio River between Covington and Cincinnati. The sealed bids were opened Tuesday morning, June 2 by Highway Commissioner Robert Humphreys and the letting was made immediately after the announcement of the high bid.

The successful bid for the bonds, which will be issued in denominations of $1,000 each, was for 2¾ percent plus accrued interest in addition to a premium of $21,840.00. Four other concerns including a syndicate headed by Harris Hall and Company, Chicago; Almstedt Brothers, Louisville; Bancamerica-Blair, New York, and Otis and Co., Cleveland, Ohio, bid for the bonds. The bonds mature on July 1, 1947.

Negotiations for the bridge, which was owned by the Covington and Cincinnati Elevated Railroad and Transfer and Bridge Co., were completed last month with the state paying $2,100,000.00 for the span. The bridge will be taken over by the state on or before June 11th.

By virtue of the purchase the Commonwealth now owns two important bridges over the Ohio River in the Cincinnati area. It has owned the Newport-Cincinnati bridge for several years.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Ballard county homemakers recently set 400 flowers, cleaned 200 yards, and arranged 30 flower borders around homes.

One hundred and fifty soil tests were made for Pendleton county farmers, most of whom bought phosphate as a result.

At a recent meeting, Livingston county farmers planned the terracing of 5,000 acres of land within five years.

Fifty books on child care, family problems and other phases of home economics were read by Ohio county homemakers.

Ten widely-attended sheep drenching demonstrations were held in McCreary county last month.

Ten-year-old Beatrice Payton, of Garrard county, has demonstrate and given speeches on the care and feeding of poultry.

M. D. Phelps & Son, Russell county, spread 25 tons of limestone on their farm to prepare for seeding red clover.

Strawberries in Muhlenburg county are flourishing, and it is estimated the yield will be approximately 4,000 crates.

The Spencer County Sheep Growers' Association insured 1,400 sheep during the past month.

The Sheep Growers' Association of Boyle county will give recognition to farmers who produce 100 pounds of lamb and 7 pounds of wool per ewe.

Luther House, of Allen county, bought 140 high grade ewes last month.

S. O. Arnett, H. H. Hackworth and Dora Adams have seeded large acreages of alfalfa in Magoffin county.

ANOTHER CRUSADE

Th action of the women of Virginia in sounding a battle-cry of freedom against unsightly billboards along motor highways gives promise of developing into a great national crusade, and before the summer is over you need not be surprised to find the women of Boone County enlisted in the fight. They declare that the signs not only mar the natural beauty of miles of highways, but that quite often they set up a serious hazard by attracting the attention of a motorist at the very second his whole attenion should be devoted to the road ahead. In their fight for laws that will sweep away the objectionable signs with which practically every highway is now cluttered they have the support of thousands of motorists who feel just as they do about it. Heartened by this support they are lining up for battle, and Virginia's legislative halls will be the battleground. It will be a battle, too, that will be watched with deep interest in every part of the country.

TWO STATES IN BRIDGE PICTURE

With two of the Ohio River bridges at Cincinnati already owned by the Commonwealth of Kentucky, steps to acquire the remaining structures over the river are expected to be taken soon.

It is learned that some conversations already have been had regarding such negotiations, but how far they have proceeded was not disclosed. Which state will acquire either or both of the bridges also is a matter of conjecture.

The Ohio Bridge Commission has received suggestions that it might be public policy for Ohio to own one of the structures across the river at Cincinnati. It is understood that the Ohio Commission is open minded about the matter, but since its purpose is to provide toll free bridges on main highway arteries it feels that the purchase of such bridges by other states for the same purpose meets the problem.

Since its organization in 1935, the Ohio Commission has acquired three bridges: the Sandusky Bay Bridge, the Fort Steuben Bridge over the Ohio at Steubenville, and the Ohio River Bridge at Pomeroy.

Kentucky has, in that time, acquired the bridges at Ashland and the L. & N. and C. & O. Bridges at Cincinnati. The other two highway bridges at Cincinnati are the Suspension Bridge and the Central Bridge, both privately owned. Kentucky also owns the bridge at Maysville.

West Virginia recently acquired two Ohio River bridges—those at Parkersburg and Marietta.

Under the plan under which the three states have been acquiring the Ohio River bridges, they will be toll-free with the retirement of bonds.

THE HITCH-HIKER

With the arrival of warm weather and the return of insect pests comes a return of that other insect, or pest, or whatever you may want to call him—the hitch-hiker. From early indications it looks as though he is going to be present on highways in even larger numbers than for several summers past.

While several states have sought to wipe out the practice of hitch-hiking by passing laws. Hitch-hiking has long offered an easy and inexpensive way of bumming a way about the country, and it will be continued just as long as there are motorists willing to stop and pick up a thumber. Warnings in the newspapers against picking up strangers, and the fact that some cold-blooded murders and many cases of banditry have been committed by hitch-hikers, doesn't seem to be very effective in eliminating them. There are thousands of hitch-hikers who are honest, gentlemanly and worthy of a lift. But on the other hand there are thousands who are criminals at heart, and not to be trusted.

There seems to be but one solution to the problem; but one way whereby a motorist may be absolutely sure of not becoming a victim of the bad type of hitch-hiker. That is to refuse to pick up any of thme.

A good many people around this county insist on figuring that life is like a custard pie; if the crust is good the filling will get by.

If you want to be supremely happy in this world then a certain amount of ignorance is absolutely necessary.

The old-fashioned woman who saved her wedding dress for her daughter now watches that daughter save the dress for the next wedding.

What has become of the old-fashioned doctor who asked you to stick out your tongue before he asked you to take out your pocketbook?

Most bachelors declare marriage is a cure for love-sickness, but they insist that the remedy is worse than the disease.

Don't forget "Slightly Delirious" a comedy in three acts to be given at the Hebron High School Auditorium, Thursday, June 17th, at 8:30 (Fast Time).

BELLEVIEW TRIM CHAMPS

BY A SCORE OF 6 TO 4—IS FIRST GAME LOST BY BURLINGTON BOYS THIS SEASON—LARGE CROWD OUT.

The Belleview baseball team, with Bill Rogers on the mound displaying his 1932-33 form, handed the league-leading Burlington team their first defeat of the season last Saturday afternoon on the Burlington grounds by a score of 6-4. Rogers held the Burlington team to 8 hits and fanned 9 men.

Roscoe Akins Burlington's pitching selection, was master of the Belleview team with the exception of the sixth inning when they scored four runs on four hits and a walk. Akins limited the Williamson-managed team to six hits and fanned twelve men.

Burlington opened the scoring, in the fourth when Stephens singled, went to second on an infield out, and scored on a wild throw to third by Denniston Belleview catcher. They added another in the fifth on two hits and an error. Belleview scored in their half of the fifth on hits by W. Rogers and H. Rogers. They took the lead in the sixth, their big inning, which produced 2 singles, 2 doubles, a walk, and four runs. Dale Williamson closed the scoring for Belleview in the eighth when he lined a long homer far over Sebree's head in left Burlington scored twice in the eight on three hits, a walk and an error.

In a heavy hitting, ragged fielding, and loose officiated game at Big Bone Sunday afternoon the Burlington baseball team defeated the Big Boners 14 to 12 in 11 innings. Burlington had little difficulty in scoring at will off the pitching of Cliff Afterkirk, Big Bone's ace twirler. They clubbed the speed-baller for 18 hits, including 2 triples and six doubles.

'Hoots' Ryle started for Burlington and held the South Countians scoreless for two innings when he retired to center field in favor of Kirkpatrick, who failed to last one inning. Akins then took over the pitching duties for Burlington and held the situation well in hand during the remainder of the contest.

Cliff Afterkirk and Steve Clayback did the heavy stickwork for the losers while Akins, F. Maurer, Kirkpatrick, and Ogden collected a total of 11 hits for the County Seat boys.

SECOND BRIDGE IS PURCHASED

BY STATE—C. & O. STRUCTURE TAKEN OVER BY KENTUCKY AT PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE.

The State of Kentucky became owner of the Chesapeake & Ohio Bridge between Covington and Cincinnati at 11:20 o'clock Thursday morning.

Transfer of the bridge to the state was effected at a conference in Philadelphia between Robert G. Humphries, Highway Commissioner; Tinder, Secretary of State Charles W. Arnett, and representatives of the Chespeake & Ohio Railroad, and the bonding company which bought the bonds issued by the state to pay for the bridge.

George Lyon, Covington, District Engineer, said W. B. Adams, Frankfort, Highway Department Auditor, and Emmett Griffy, Frankfort, Supervisor of Toll Bridges would instruct employees in the operation of the structure as a state-owned bridge.

Sixteen men will be employed on the bridge by the state. Of this number seven are now employees and nine are hold-overs, having been employed on the structure when it was privately owned.

EXTENSIVE ROAD PROGRAM PLAN

FOR EACH DISTRICT IN STATE WILL AMOUNT $2,595,335.00—FIFTH DISTRICT ALLOTTED 353 MILES.

Frankfort, Ky., June 16—The Division of Rural Highways has completed agreements with the fiscal courts in 107 of the Commonwealth's 120 counties covering work for the 1937-38 rural highway programs according to an announcement today by Cecil T. Williams, Rural Highway Commissioner.

In the entire State there is available for work in the fiscal year, which bena April 1, $2,595,335.00. The excess of this amount over the $2,000,000.00 annual appropriation represents the administrative savings and the unexpended balances in the various counties.

The total mileage in the programs in the 107 counties where agreements have been reached is listed at 7,261 and the total funds obligated is $2,097,400.00.

With the exception of Crittenden, agreements have been reached with all of the counties in the first State road district. These agreements in this section cover the improvement of approximately 1,300 miles of road at a cost of $226,300.00.

In the second district agreements have been reached with all counties except Hopkins, Logan, Ohio and Todd. The plans call for 472 miles of road work. According to Rural Highway Engineer Dave Phelps, a large percentage of this work will be stone or gravel surfacing. This work in this district will be at a cost of $243,400.00.

An extensive "Black Top" program covering 30 miles of high type road has been planned in the third district, which embraces the entirety of Jefferson County. This program was listed at $102,000.00.

Agreements are complete with all except Hardin, Meade, Washington and Taylor counties in the Fourth District. A mileage of 1,596 is planned at a cost of $332,500.00.

Kenton and Carroll counties in the Fifth District were the only ones with whom an agreement was not reached. The agreements reached showed plans for 353 miles at a cost of $152,300.00.

Another large "Black Top" program was set up for the sixth district where agreements were reached with all except Henry and Owen counties. The mileage is 654 and the cost was to be $240,200.00.

Each of the eight counties in the seventh district reached agreements with the Rural Highway Division and agreed on a program which will embrace 443 miles at a cost of $239,500.00. This was the only district which agreed 100 percent on the program.

Lewis, Mason, Rowan and Wolfe are the only counties remaining in the eighth district which have not concluded agreements covering the expenditures of the rural highway funds. The programs in the remaining counties show a total of 878 miles of road work at a cost of $280,000.00.

In the ninth district agreements are complete in all counties except Clay, Leslie and Russell. This program covers 1,535 miles of road work a a total cost of $281,200.00.

Commissioner Williams and Engineer Phelps who worked with the fiscal courts and who reached the agreements are still working with the thirteen counties with which agreemens have not yet been reached. When these agreements are made, and Commissioner Williams expects them to be completed in the near future the entirety of the appropriation for the State's rural program will be accounted for and the program will be the largest and by far the most definite ever undertaken.

F. I. CONRAD PASSES AWAY

AT HOME IN WALTON AFTER SUFFERING THREE YEARS FROM INJURIES SUSTAINED WHEN STRUCK BY CAR.

F. I. Conrad, one of Walton and Boone Conty's most prominent citizen passed away at his home in Walton, Saturday morning, June 5. The cause of his death was attributed to endo canditis.

He was a farmer and merchant, having conducted a merchandise establishment at Dry Ridge, Grant County, until about twelve years ago, when he sold out his business there and purchased the residence at Walton, in which his family now reside. He purchased a large farm near Burlington, which he afterwards sold, forming a partnership with the late E. E. Fry, in the hardware business afterwards buying Mr. Fry's interests. He and his son formed a partnership and he studiously attended to this business until his unfortunate injury.

On the night of Jan. 21, 1934 he crossed the highway from his home to visit B. F. Elliott, who was ill, afterwards calling at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wallace next door. After a short time he started home. As he crossed the highway, a motorist going north at a high rate of speed in a coupe bearing Ohio license, unable to negotiate the turn, ran almost to the curb on the left side of the street. The car struck Mr. Conrad a terrific blow, throwing him to the pavement. The injured man was taken into his home and Dr. F. E. Bedinger was called, who gave him first aid and ordered him taken to a hospital. He remained at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Covington for some time, and returned home. However, he never realized how seriously he was injured.

His condition remained grave, incapacitating him from his work or business of any kind. Within the past year he suffered greatly, mostly with heart trouble, requiring constant observation and care.

Decpration Day he expressed a desire to go to St. Elizabeth Hospital. On Monday following he asked to be taken home, returning Tuesday, and he continued to grow worse until death relieved his suffering.

Realizing that his end was near he made all arrangements for his funeral. He was a good christian man, and stated he was ready. He was a faithful member of the Baptist church.

Irvin Conrad was a very likeable man, kind, gentle, of a jovial disposition, always enjoying an innocent joke, a typical Kentuckian who loved company, and as an evidence of his popularity and many friends, over 300 called at his home Sunday to view all that was mortal of their dear relative and friend.

He is survived by his widow, one son, Powers, one sister, Mrs. R. H. Stephenson of Dry Ridge, and many other relatives in Grant County.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at his home, with a large number of relatives and friends present to pay their last tribute of respect. Rev. C. J. Alford, pastor of the Walton Baptist Church, opened with prayer, scripture reading, and deliver a most appropriate funeral sermon.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, a token of love and esteem of relatives and friends.

The active pallbearers were: O. K. Powers, Floyd Powers, J. R. Conrad, R. L. Conrad, Charles Renaker and R. H. Stephenson.

The honorary pallbearers selected were: J. R. Wallace, Judge Sidney Gains, J. B. Doan, R. P. Conrad, A. B. Renaker and Barnett Franks.

Funeral Directors Chambers & Grubbs had charge of the arrangements.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS RETURN FROM JUNIOR WEEK AT UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY.

4-H Clubs members, represening Boone County at Junior Week at Lexington, returned to Boone County Saturday, June 12th. The boys and girls who received this week of instructions as guests of the University of Kentucky were as follows: Katherine Jane Casper Billy Graves, Ben Goodridge, all of the Hebron 4-H Club; Kieth Vice, Pauline Norris and Florence Cook, of the Burlington 4-H Club; Ardelle Tupman, Florence and Alma Frances Stephens, of the New HavenClub.

One of the high spots of Junior Week was a trip to Frankfort, Friday afternoon and a tour of the Capitol Building, Governor, Mansion and the Museum.

Over seven hundred 4-H club members made the trip in twenty-seven chartered busses. An escort of four state motorcycle patrolmen completed the group.

Upon entering the State Capitol Building the 4-H Club members sang the National and State 4-H Club songs and were greeted by Governor Chandler. A reception was given by him after the tour of the Capitol.

Three hundred forty nine boys, three hundred fifty girls, and one hundred fifty adult leaders were present. This is the largest group ever to attend Junior Week.

GROUND IS BROKEN FOR PRISON CAMP

LaGrange, Ky., June 14—State and federal officials formally broke ground today for the first of six new dormitories at the Oldham county prison farm.

Meeting in a stubblefield, a crowd of approximately one hundred persons heard Governor A. B. Chandler pledge that his administration would provide "humane living quarters" for the inmates of penal institutions and hospitals for the mentally ill.

The groundbreaking shovel was wielded by Gov. Chandler, Lieut. Gov. Keen Johnson, Welfare Director Frederick A. Wallis and State PWA Director George H. Sager, Jr.

STANDARD OIL SAFETY CRUISER VISITS COUNTY

The "Safety Cruiser"—a new and efficient instrment in the cause of highway safety—made it appearance in Burlington Saturday attracting wide-spread attention.

Resembling a water-craft with its pilot house and its portholes, the huge "vessel" broadcast thru its public address system it warning and its lesson of safety to the public.

The public was given an opportunity to inspect the interior of the magnificient "land yacht" which has a spacious lounge, electric kitchen (or galley), pullman-like sleeping accommodations for the crew, running water, a fire-proof projection room. two-way radio equipment, and many other features.

The Safety Cruiser is making a state-wide tour, with the full cooperation of the Governor, and the State Departments of Highways and Safety. The undertaking is one of the Standard Oil Company's contributions in the national campaign to reduce the appaling accident toll on our streets and highways. The entire public activity of the Cruiser is devoted to Safety.

R. Z. CASON WINS SHOOT

WITH SCORE OF 23 OUT OF POSSIBLE 25—SEVENTEEN PARTICIPATE IN FIRST SHOOT OF SEASON.

The first in a series of clay pigeon shoots sponsored by the Fish and Game Protective Association of Boone County was held last Saturday morning on the J. G. Smith farm, near Burlington. Seventeen sportsmen from all parts of the county were present to help make this event a huge succes.

R. Z. Cason, noted sportsman, from near Belleview, came through with the highest score, breaking 23 birds out of 25 shots. Five others participating, broke 20 or more out of 25 shots.

The names and scores of the various entires are as follows: L. A. Conner, 16; Harold Conner, 19; D. R. Blythe, 21; A. E. Stephens, 22; Ralph Cason, 23; Carl Cason, 22; Luther Smith, 16; Frank Walton, 18; Holly Forkner, 12 (second trial 19); Newton Sullivan, 16; C. W. Riley, 21; Dewey Benson, 14; Dr. M. A. Yelton, 10; Owen Portwood, 20; W. B. Cotton, 11; George Porter, 19; N. E. Riddell, 3. The above figures are the number of pigeons broken out of 25 shots.

The purpose of the shoots is to provide entertainment for sportsmen who like to hand a gun, and also test your skill. The club makes only a small profit on the events, as they buy the equipment wholesale and resell it to the sportsmen at a very small margin of profit. Whatever profit there may be in each shoot, will go directly to the club to help pay the bounty on crows and hawks.

The next shoot will be held at the same location on Saturday, June 26. Watch next week's paper for further details as to time and instructions.

INTERESTING SOIL DEMONSTRATIONS

A survey being made on lime and phosphate demonstrations on pasture and hay crops is showing interesting results acording to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Forty one demonstrations were started last spring and a number of new ones have been started this year.

The most interesting part of the tests is the wide variation in results secured. Despite the good grass weather, treatments in some cases show the difference between success and failure in the growing of grasses legumes and small grain crops. The difference in other fields between the treated and the untreated plots are hardly noticeable. The demonstrations started will be studied over a period of years, and over a longer period of time still more striking results are expected.

Early results of the demonstrations indicate two important things every farmer should do. First, every year he should make small lime and phosphate treated check plots on every field seeded to young grass and clovers. Both lime and phosphate (not ACP phosphate under present rulings) should be applied before the grain crop, and the grain crop will likely give sufficient increase yields to pay for the treatment. The residue will remain in the soil several years for the grass and legumes to follow. Second, the field should be given the simple chemical field tests for lime and phosphate. The County Agent's Office will likely be able to make a limited number of these field tests for interested farmers.

HEBRON LUTHERAN CHURCH
Rev. H. M. Hanter, Pastor

Sunday, June 20, Bible School and Church services will be combined in one service to be held at 10:30 a. m. in the form of a Children's Day program. A fine program is being prepared and we hope it will be enjoyed by many.

The Women's Missionary Society will hold their monthly meeting at the church on Thursday, June 24, at 2:00 p. m. Mrs. John Dye will lead the topic.

Choir rehearsal will be held Thursday evening, June 24, 8:00 at Hebron church, unless otherwise announced.

Homemakers To Meet

The Taylorsport Homemakers' Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Marie Beacom Wednesday, June 23, 1937 at 10 o'clock. Everybody please be present.

Thelma Sprague, Sec'y.

LIME SHORTAGE EXPECTED

Because of limited facilities for supply of agricultural limestone and the expected large demand an acute shortage is expected this fall as occurred last year according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. A phosphate shortage has already occurred. Farmers expecting to use agricultural lime this fall are advised to secure it immediately.

Local truckmen, in most cases, are able to deliver limestone rock for pulverizing, where the farmer can not secure the stone on his farm. Three pulverizers operators have been curshing stone in the country. They are R. W. Auton of near Fiskburg, Orville Kelly, Burlington, Route 2 and Dance Brothers, Crittenden, Route 1. Dance Brothers and Orville Kelly have stated they will crush stone on shares and will deliver crushed stone any where in the county in lots of five tons or more. The price will vary with the distance hauled. Farmers desiring small lots should get in touch with their nearest supply or contract anyone or all of the operators. Farmers desiring stone crushed should notify the County Agent's Office.

Farmers are urged to take full advantage of earning their full advantage. Failure to earn your full allowance in 1937 is a waste of soil and farm income. Most farmers can not earn their full allowance thru seeding alone but will need to use some lime and phosphate.

SENATE FACES RELIEF BATTLE

FIGHT TO RESTRICT BLANKET SPENDING AUTHORITY MAY LAST SEVERAL DAYS ENDING IN A CLOSE VOTE.

Washington, June 15—The administration today faced a major test of strength in Senate consideration of President Roosevelt's $1,500,000,000 relief program for the 1938 fiscal year.

Veteran Senator predicte a vigorous fight between White House supporters and members seeking to restrict for the first time the administration's blanket spending authority.

They expected debate to last several days, ending in a close vote. Controversy centered on two points They were

1: Provision that local communities be required to furnish 40 per cent of the cost of projects under the Works Progress Administration.

2: A section prohibitiong WPA from using unobligated balances of past appropriation bills.

Both issues split the Senate Appropriations Committee with the President's forces losing. The committee minority submitted a report biterly assailing the majority decision.

Senator James F. Byrnes (D., S. C.), usually an administration spokesman, led the fight to keep the 40 per cent provision in the bill. It would except only debt-ridden communities which would be required to take a "pauper's oath" and would be effective on projects approved after Sept. 30, 1937.

BURLINGTON 4-H GIRLS DEMONSTRATE HOME SOAP MAKING.

The home practice demonstration team of Burlington competed with seventh five teams in the State Contests held at Junior week in Lexington last week. Boone County was represented by Pauline Norris and Florence Cook of the Burlington Blue Ribbon 4-H Club who demonstrated the making of toilet and laundry soap from old grease. The team was coached for the county contest by Mrs. R. C. Garrison, local leader, and for the state contest by Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent of Boone.

The state contest was won by the home practice team of Shelby County, The Shelby girls demonstrated the preparing and serving of a complete breakfast.

Toilet and laundry soap were actually made by the Boone Co., team in their demonstration. Cost of the laundry soap was one-half cent a cake and a little over one cent a cake for the toilet soap. This team will put on their demonstration before local Homemakers Clubs during the summer.

Ruben Kirtley, of the East Bend neighborhood was a brief caller at The Recorder office Wednesday morning. Mr. Kirtley states that he starting repair work on his buildings which were damaged by the flood.

JONES MAKES FORMAL BOW

TO BOONE COUNTY VOTERS THIS WEEK—SERVED AS REPRESENTATIVE OF OWEN AND HENRY COUNTY LAST TRM.

O. C. Jones, of Owenton makes his formal bow to the voters of Boone County this week, announcing for State Senator, from the Twenty-Sixth Senatorial District, composed of Boone, Gallatin, Pendleton, Grant and Owen Counties.

Mr. Jones has spent many years of his life as a dirt farmer, and has been very successful. He also purchased livestock and cattle for a large concern in several counties in this district.

He was elected as Representative from Owen and Henry Counties two years ago, which office he filled very faithfully, and asks the voters to study his record while serving in this capacity.

He has been a staunch Democrat, his entire life, and has never taken any part in factional differences.

Mr. Jones stated to The Recorder that at the present time he was unable to canvass the county thoroughly, due to the amount of work on his farm. However, he stated that he would make an effort during the next month to see each voter, if possible in this county.

He is one of Owen County's most prominent farmers, and has the farmers' interests uppermost in his program.

He stated that if elected he would do everything in his power to aid any program which would benefit the farmers of this district.

FORMER BOONE COUNTIAN IS CHAIRMAN OF DRY FORCES IN GEORGIA

W. W. Gaines, formeriy, of Boone County, has the distinction of being chairman of the Consolidated Forces for Prohibition in Georgia, which state voted dry at election held June 8th by a majority of 8,522, carrying 116 counties out of the 159.

He was born and reared in the Bullittsville community and joined the Bullittsburg Baptist church when a young man. He has practiced law in Atlanta for the past forty years.

Mr. Gaines is well known in Boone County, and visits here each years with friends and relatives. He is a brother of Mrs. B. C. Graddy, of Burlington.

Maurice Rice, of Williamstown was visiting friends in Burlington Wednesday morning. Mr. Rice is well known in Boone County, having formerly resided at Belleview and Walton.

N. Y. A. AID IS ANNOUNCED

FOR ERLANGER PLAYGROUNDS —WILL FURNISH SUPERVISOR AND PART OF MATERIALS IS REPORT.

George Smith, director of the newly arranged playgrounds in Erlanger, announced Tuesday that N. Y. A. aid had been granted the city in promoting efficient supervision of the activities, as well as furnishing some materials for the grounds.

Smith, who is assistant athletic coach at Lloyd High School, Erlanger, formerly was a star guard with the U. C. Bearcats and was chosen twice on the All-Ohio Conference team, and three times on the All-Buckeye. He is to be assisted in his new capacity by two men and three women, as yet unnamed, but all of whom will be paid by the N. Y. A.

The N. Y. A. also is to furnish such items of equipment as are found necessary to complete outfitting the playgrounds, which are located at the Locust Street School the Elsmere Graded School and at Lloyd High School.

The playgrounds are to be opened in the near future, and it is probable that registration of the school children will take place at the schools as early as today.

Final arrangements are to be completed tonight at the scheduled meeting of the Erlanger-Elsmere Civic Association. It was this group, organized less than three months ago, that made the playgrounds possible when it gave a minstrel show recently and netted a large profit.

THE BIGGEST BUSINESS

Ask the average Boone County man what he considers the biggest industry in the U. S. and chances are he will answer either the steel or automobile industries. But either answer would be wrong, for the dairy industry is larger than either of them. counting that it gleans most of its profits from ice cream, cheese and by-products other than fluid milk. American farmers produce forty-five billion quarts of milk a year of which 23 per cent is used on the farm, 30 per cent is distributed in bottles, 33 per cent is made into butter, 5 per cent into cheese, 4 per cent into evaporated condensed and dry milk, 2 per cent into ice cream and 1 per cent is used for miscellanoeous purposes. Milk constitutes approximately one-fourth of all the 1,500 pounds of food an average person consumes in a year. So hats off to the dairying industry, the biggest business of which great nation can boast.

MORE SAFETY

Traffic problems will not be wholly solved nor accidents entirely eliminated by any and all safety devices, even though it must be admitted there is merit in most of them. Experts in the federal bureau of roads see in the establishing of special roads for faster traffic a scheme that will promote safety and at the same time permit traffic to flow steadily. They would widen all main highways, with most of them four-lane roads. They would, they have, have separate walks for pedestrians along each road. They believe it is only a matter of time until the nation is a network of these super-highways. So here is a situation in which federal, state and local highway officials and the public should cooperate. While it is well to have speed limits, the establishment of more lanes and the building of better highways thruout the nation will lessen the chances of collisions and wrecks.

LOCK YOUR CAR

As far as Boone County residents themselves are concerned, your car car is just as safe standing on the street unlocked as it would be at home in the garage. But for several months to come this and every other part of the country will be overrun with transients, and quite often the temptation of an unlocked car is too great for one of them to overcome. You may have a little joke with yourself that your car isnt worth stealing, or you may be in such a hurry to get about your business you won't spare the moment it takes to lock it. But you're wrong. An unlocked car, regardless of its value, is a temptation to the man who desires to get somewhere else in a hurry, and believing he can use it for that purpose without being apprehended, he doesn't hesitate to take it. Eventually you may get the car back. But you have helped on his way a boy who might have gone straight had you not placed temptation before him. Always lock your car.

—o—

CLOSING OUR EYES

Reliable observers say there is already a German Fascist army in this country holding military drills in Nazi uniforms. There is a daily paper published in New York by and for Communists while papers and magazines advocating Italian propaganda are being regularly carried in U. S. mails and distributed in every section of this land.

Is there any Boone County citizen dumb enough to belive that this sort of activity is being conducted in the interest of he U. S.? Communists, cleverly organized and directed from abroad, are stirring up trouble among our workers, encouraging them to disregard our laws, defy our courts and violate our property rights. The recent shipping strike on the west coast, which cost millions of dollars, was an example of what stirring up can accomplish and the confusion and suffering it aims to bring about. We have the finest nation on earth now. Why let a lot of self-seeking outsiders come in and tell us how to run it?

The time has passed when it is safe to close our eyes to facts, or to take it for granted that nothing can undermine our liberty or our institutions. The danger is already here, and it is too serious to be longer ignored. As a good citizen you owe it to yourself and your country to start right now denouncing foreign propaganda in every form in which you encounter it, and to seriously ask your neighbors to join with you in doing the same thing.

THE JOB HOLDERS

Despite the efforts of politicians to hide actual figures on the matter, it has been established that something like 2,500,000 employees of state and local governments throughout the U. S. pay no federal tax, and that about 1,000,000 federal employes pay no state income taxes. All of which sets up a condition that is unfair to the taxpayers of the nation. Government employes have no more reason to be tax-exempt than any Boone County taxpayer has that right, nor should there be any state jobs providing tax exemption. All of these should share the expense of government according to or ability to pay. Government and state job-holders are no better than anyone else when it comes to footing the bill, and discrimination is not justified in any single instance. Any man with a state or government job that pays him a wage or a salary should be shouldering his share of the cost of government and the sooner voters start looking into the matter and finding out why so many of them are not doing so, the better of the country will be.

THE BEST REMEDY

The greatest menace on the highways today is the drunken driver and so far but one remedy to curb his kind has been discovered. That is a jail or workhouse sentence. Taking away their driving rights or levying a fine do not have the desired effect. Fear of the law is the only thing that will wipe out drunken drivers, and there is no substitute for it. Paying a fine doesn't discourage a drunken driver, and neither does suspending driving right for either a long or a short period. But if a few thousand of them are locked up—and kept locked up for a good long sweat—it will serve to create a fear and respect for law, and it won't be long until this greatest menace to safety is wiped out for all time to come. It is a case where the punishment must fit the crime, and a good, stiff jail or workhouse sentence seems to just about fit where a drunken driver is concerned.

OBSERVATIONS

Before Mr. Roosevelt was elected President, he wrote a series of articles on the evils of the so called small loan business, (chattel mortgage loans, co-signer notes, etc.) In these articles the vicious practices of these modern Shylocks were vigorously condemned. This observer had hoped that the thought back of these articles would be fixed in law before this. He had hoped that the national banking acts would make credit provision for the little fellow and protect him against these suave leaches.

Some one has said "Honesty is not only the best policy, it's d—n good business." In a like manner humanity is also good business. We are apt to forget that every human being, no matter how humble, is a consumer of some goods which have been manufactured for profit. Naturally, it follows that the more everyone is able to consume the more profit will be made by those making good for sale.

Industry, as usual looking out for number one, has been very blind to permit this Chattle Mortgage Octopus to fasten its tennacles about the incomes of industries' customers, industries wage earners. Every time an automobile is sold on time payments from 22-30 percent of the total money paid on its purchase goes to the finance companies. Suppose the list cost of the car was $600.00; twenty-five percent of that would be $150.00—a sum spent for a non-productive capital charge.

Now, suppose one were able to go to the bank and borrow this at a straight 6 percent. Thirty-six dollars would be the total charge. The difference between these two capital charges $114.00 would buy a mighty good radio, refrigerator, a good paint job on the house, etc. Other salesmen would earn a commission. The factory making the radio, for instance, would employ people and make a profit. The radio parts people would do the same, all the way back to the miners who mine the metal from which wire is made and to the woodsmen who fell the trees that make the cabinets.

Industry, in welcoming this credit development for the sake of immediate sales is killing its own market. Every time an installment purchase is made another possible sale of some other article is killed by the freezing of the purchase price of the second articles in the hands of the loan sharks, instead of going to some manufacturer.

This writer is a business man, yet he, together with anyone who thinks about current developments can get more disgusted with the stupidity of businessmen as a class than anything else in existence. The seeds of the next depression are being sowed right now. Longer and longer credit terms are being granted to force sales. The best terms to force sales would be cash on the line, providing cash were made available by banks at 6 percent and not by these twenty to thirty percenters. The profit system works very well, the best system devised yet, when profit is made on honest goods sold and honest services rendered. It is only when profit is made dishonestly or all out of proportion to the value of goods or services that the whole system breaks down.

All of which gets right back to the necessity of keeping business honest and modest in its profit demands. This administration has that as a fundamental concept—the regulation of industry for the good of all rather than a few on the outside. Many things to that end have been attempted and accomplished. One wonders why this reform which Mr. Roosevelt championed several years ago is not one of them.

One wonders if the Bankers' Lobby is too strong even for Roosevelt. Most of us can remember when individuals could borrow money on their "face" without having to have, as is now the case, so much collateral that one having it needs no loan. Ordinary banks did this before the "graduated pawn brokers" took it over. Now these same banks loan the same total of all their small loans to the Shylocks at 7 and 8 percent, who in turn pass this 7 and 8 percent on to their customer together with their overhead charges and nice fat profits. Thus the banks, even when completely honest in the matter, (many responsible bank officials own large interest in the Shylock shops) are shirking their responsibility in favor of cutting the costs of handling these small loans. When some banks have declared dividends up to 200 percent in one year (The Mellon's Pittsburg Bank) it doesn't seem unfair to think that banks could absorb these costs for the sake of community welfare.

Bankers will answer the above by saying "We are forbidden by law to make this type of loan." Of course they are—now. However, they would not have been—they would have seen to that—if the Loan Sharks had not grown up to take over a bank's proper function.

In dealing in commodities, there is in most cases a real function performed by a middleman. But in dealing in money the situation is quite different. Money is not a commodity. It is a tool. Anything dulling the edge of a tool slows up production. America cannot much longer stand the blight of these Money Middleman, the Finance Companies.

This column recommends, Mr. Editor, that a copy of these remarks be sent to Brent Spence, and that he be asked at the same time to remind Mr. Roosevelt that their constitutents are still awaiting action on this important move toward permanent prosperity and that a word about this from Brent Spence addressed to the editor of this paper would be appreciated.

That's all for this time.

Lesson for June 20

JOSEPH'S KINDNESS TO HIS KINDRED

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 46:1-7, 28-30; 50: 24-26.

GOLDEN TEXT—And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you. Ephesians 4:32.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Joseph Saw His Father Again.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Joseph Honoring His Father.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Kindness in the Family.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Mutual Helpfulness in the Family.

A happy ending—yes! Modern writers may look with disfavor on it (and perhaps rightly so, for most of them write about life apart from fellowship with God) but to those who trust God and who seek his will, the story of life has a bright and joyful conclusion.

But someone may object that the lesson for today closes with the last words of the book of Genesis, which are "a coffin in Egypt." Is that a happy ending? It is, because even that forbidding emblem of death pointed in faith toward the day when God was to keep his promise and bring his people into the promised land.

Our lesson centers around the last of our patriarchs, Joseph, and his kindness to his father and his family. The highest official in the land of Egypt (save for Pharaoh himself) proves his inherent greatness by forgetting position and power, except as they enable him to be a loving son and brother. We consider his kindness as it is centered in his devotion to God, shown forth in thoughtful provision for others, expressed in affectionate deeds, and as it imparted itself by faith to others.

I. Founded on Fellowship (Gen. 46:1-4).

Jacob, having heard from his sons that Joseph was in Egypt, and having thus learned of their treachery and deceit, came at last to realize that his beloved Joseph is alive. He has been urged to go to Egypt but he hesitates about leaving Canaan. How shall he know whether to believe in and respond to Joseph's invitation. He asks God, the One who is the joy and center of Joseph's life, and of Jacob's as well, and he has his answer.

Real family life and devotion center around a mutual fellowship with God. There may be little else to share, but "little is much when God is in it." Has God been honored in your home? Has He been made the center of family life? These are vital questions.

II. Evidenced by Thoughtfulness (vv. 5-7).

Joseph had arranged for Pharaoh to send wagons to bring his aged father, the women, and the little ones.

Many men in our day glory in being "hard-boiled." In their relentless pursuit of fame and riches they ignore and even trample on the members of their own families. They are ashamed of the broken bodies, the humble apparel, the uneducated speech of their parents, fearing lest their new-found friends in the circle of wealth and position may ridicule them. There is a crude but apt expression that describes such persons as "stuffed shirts."

III. Manifested in Love (vv. 28-30).

Joseph kissed his father whom he had gone out to meet, and held him close and wept for joy. Again he showed his true greatness by being his natural self.

We are not all demonstrative in showing our affection. Furthermore, we would not plead for more of that sham public expression of affection which is so distasteful to right-thinking people. But may we not suggest that there is room for improvement in our loving consideration for our kindred. Let us ask ourselves how long it is since we did something to show that we really love our mother, our father, or a faithful wife, son, or daughter? How long is it since you wrote home to mother, or went home to visit?

IV. Imparted by Faith (50:24-26).

Jacob had been gathered to his fathers; time had gone on its relentless way, and Joseph is about to die. What shall be the heritage to his family? Money, property, position? No; he leaves them something infinitely more valuable—a forward-looking faith that will keep alive in their hearts the expectation that God will in due season bring them into their own land. Joseph had spent most of his years in Egypt, he had attained high position and great honor, but he never lost his vision of the promised land. He imparts to them by faith that hope.

Hope

Ah, what thoughtful, loving provision God hath made for us in the gift of the angel of Hope! There is no path so dark but we may see the glimmer of her shining wings, no misfortune so heavy but her helpful hand is outstretched to us, and her smile still ready to cheer and encourage us.

Parade at Angels Camp, California.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

"I HOLD they are not worth a dollar." That is what Daniel Webster thought of California, and other southwestern lands, when it was proposed that we take them as indemnity after the war with Mexico. "What sympathy," he added, "can there be between the people of . . . California and . . . the Eastern states . . .?"

Webster gave that opinion of California in the senate only 88 years ago.

Today it is the wealthiest state west of the Mississippi, and has some 6,158,000 people. One of them said to a visitor: "It took my folks 200 years to get to California. They landed in Virginia about 1650, and moved west with the frontier. My father got here in the 1850s."

Up in Humboldt county at a "Forty-niner's ball," for which men grow full beards, a sweet, bright-eyed lady said: "My dress must be all of 130 years old. It was old when my mother brought it around the Horn, from Nova Scotia." Her men fought grizzly bears and Klamath Indians, panned gold, and cut timber to build schooners. Only once in 15 or 20 years did they get down to San Francisco, and then by sea; no railroad reached northwest California till long after she was grown.

"My father was general Mariano Vallejo, the last Mexican officer to command this post," proudly asserted Senora Luisa V. Emparan of Sonoma. "He was born at Monterey. Here are his silver mounted saddle, his sword, spurs, and pistols. After America acquired California he became a patriotic, influential citizen of the United States."

In such ways came the whites who people this land — divergent races, from sources far apart.

Many Came From Foreign Lands.

In Napa county you see how French, Italian, and German grape growers form yet another racial strain. In 1880 one-third of all people then here had come from foreign lands, a fact which was profoundly to influence the human and economic geography of this oldest and largest of all Pacific Coast states.

Seek quiet country lanes that lead to long-established homes of both native American and foreign stock, and you sense the social maturity of this complex yet mellow land. Monterey was a seat of Spanish culture before Washington, D. C., was even surveyed. Russians had built Fort Ross, and were growing wheat and trading counterfeit wampum for otter skins before peace ended the War of 1812.

Ever since Hubert Howe Bancroft's painstaking researches, writers have told and retold the story of early California — and they still make use of Bancroft's incomparable source material, preserved now at the state university in Berkeley.

To see what the white man has done with work, tools, and science in developing this region as it is now, consider the place where his labors began. Ride through the "Mother Lode country," where the first pick marks on this now lush, opulent land were made by the gold seekers. Every hillside, gully, and stream bed shows the scars of shafts, tunnels, and frantic digging.

Ruined huts and half - deserted "ghost towns" dot these gold fields from which bearded men in red-flannel shirts gouged nuggets and panned the yellow dust. Melancholy Columbia is adumbrative of all these early camps. In its old Wells-Fargo stagecoach office you see the clumsy scales on which, records prove, more than $30,000,000 in gold was weighed. In boom days 15,000 people lived and worked here; now the village is shrunk to a bare 250.

Ghost Towns Are Numerous.

All through Sierra foothills you find these fading towns, with such names as Rough and Ready, Slug Gulch, You Bet, and Grizzly Flats. At Hangtown (now Placerville) long stood the big tree on whose stout limbs two men could be strung up at once. In Tuolumne county is the cabin of Bret Harte, whose characters in "Tennessee's Pardner" and "The Outcast of Poker Flat" were drawn from hereabouts.

Another shack is labeled "Mark Twain's Cabin." Violent, murderous, and thieving though life in these diggings was, Twain was able later to say: "Always do right; it will gratify some and astonish the rest!" In those halcyon mining days he wrote "The Jumping Frog of Calaveras County." Each spring now the once hedonic town of Angels Camp stages a "jumping frog" contest; entries come even from distant Arkansas. Guests with what Pope called "nice foppish gusto" look with gluttonous avidity on the fat legs of these prize-winning frogs.

Though from these gophered hills some gold seekers took their dizzy millions, the real contribution of the Gold Rush to California's destiny is often overlooked. Think of the blacksmiths, carpenters, cowboys, farmers, doctors, lawyers, and teachers who came with the gold - hunting horde. They cleared land, built towns and roads, sent East for wives, raised husky "Sons of the Golden West," and spread the raw canvas for this 1936 picture of northern California at work.

Few, comparatively, got rich in the mines; that wasn't economic production, anyway. They simply found the gold, at first, and took it. In time, mining settled down to a business of deep shafts, stamp mills, smelters, timbered tunnels, roads, and towns. All this meant more food, machinery, lumber, transportation, clothing, amusements. To supply these, farms to grow meat and grain developed; towns with factories, schools, and music halls grew up to take care of mines, of farms, of each other.

Law grew, too, from this pioneer experience—the doctrines of appropriation and use, the laws of mining, water rights, and grazing. Students of jurisprudence say it is seldom that the customs of a people have had their origin, development, and final adoption by a legislature all within one lifetime, as came to pass here.

Sutter Founded Sacramento.

John A. Sutter, Swiss adventurer, built a trading post on land given him by the Mexicans. That was the beginning of Sacramento, in 1839. It was a strategic location; soil was rich, the river afforded easy transport to San Francisco, and the new town was right in the path of settlers coming from the East through Emigrant Gap. Sure, swift steps in the rise of that town epitomize the American conquest of this region. First Sutter fought the Indians, then hired them to farm his lands, run his cattle, and work about his "fort."

Kit Carson and John C. Fremont came here for fresh horses.

Into Sutter's Fort (now Sacramento), in 1841, drove the first immigrant wagon train to cross the Plains. From here men went, in 1847, to rescue the Donner party, snowed in and fighting starvation.

Sutter's hired man, digging to build a sawmill, found gold at Coloma in 1848, and started the great stampede. This lawless horde robbed and ruined Sutter; he died poor. Others held the fort, and traded furiously. They charged $64 to shoe a horse; $2,000 a ton to haul freight to the mines. It cost a pinch of gold dust to buy a drink of whiskey, and only men with big hands were hired to tend bar! Dance halls never closed; even today one advertises itself as "Bon Ton Dance Hall. Beautiful Girls Galore." Miners, coming to celebrate, brought their gold in an old sock, or in yeast cans! Modern youths buy a strip of tickets, each good for a dance with a "taxi girl."

California became a state in 1850. That year more than 42,000 miners swarmed through Sutter's Fort, from the East. About it a wild lawless town was growing, a town of tents and rough boards, of saloons, eating places, stores, and blacksmith shops. Most goods came first to San Francisco by sea, and then up the Sacramento river.

State Almost Divided Once.

Jumping from Monterey to San Jose, Vallejo, and Benicia, the state capital got to Sacramento in 1854. Many a bitter battle has been fought at this capital, none more exciting than that which once almost divided California into two states. Only the diverting advent of the Civil war prevented this.

From Missouri came the Pony Express in 1860. Next spring riders carried Lincoln's inaugural address through from "St. Joe" in seven days and seventeen hours—the fastest trip on record. Then a half-ounce letter cost $5; one now is flown by overnight plane for six cents.

Building east from Sacramento in 1869, the Central Pacific met the Union Pacific railroad at Promontory Point, in Utah; Senator Stanford drove a golden spike. Isolation was ended. Men and goods moved west at unheard - of low rates, at speed thought miraculous. Today Sacramento railroad shops are among the world's largest. About the old fort, where pioneer blacksmiths shod mules, filed saws, and whittled out pick handles for the miners, rises now a busy city of more than 500 factories, including colossal canneries of fruit and vegetables.

In the matter of styles, even a fla-chested girl can now keep abreast of the times.

As a general rule the henpecked husband never appears to be feeling cocky.

It's usually when a fellow is trying to make a big splash that he gets into deep water.

Salvation is free, but you've got to pay a gas tax if you go after it in an auto.

TO THE VOTERS

OF THE TWENTY-SIXTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT

Two years ago I was elected Representative from the counties of Owen and Henry and am now asking you to give me a chance to go to the Senate.

Before I was elected, I promised the voters of my District that I would vote for the repeal of the Sales Tax, for a single Primary, for an Old Age Pension, and any other legislation that would be for the good of my State and District. I kept that promise.

My record as a member of the House is an open book. I gave my wholehearted support to our governor and his program, but have never joined hands with any factional fight in our party. These fights cost money and are sually staged at the expense of the taxpayers. I am a candidate of the people and for the people; in other words, your candidate, and if I am elected, no politician, nor set of politicians will have a ring in my nose.

I have no stones to throw, but wish to present some facts to you for your consideration. It is your office—you pay the bills.

It is true that I favored a production tax of 10 or 15 cents per gallon on whiskey, but the strings were stretched so tight that we were never given a chance to vote on it in the House.

I voted to repeal the Sheriff-Jailer Bill. I feel that there can be some improvement and saving in consolidating some of our offices, but why not start on some State offices and make saving a reality for the tax payers?

I opposed the Dog Racing and Gambling Bill, and I might add here that there is one or two Owen Countians, who worked hard to get the third man in this race, who came to Frankfort and asked me to vote for the bill, and if I could not, to walk out on it. I informed them that I had not made a practice of walking out and would not start then.

I also opposed the so-called Milk Control Bill, which I believe could have haltered every milkman and dairyman and worked a hardship upon them. You should have read this bill and seen the power it held over the milk producers. I am a dirt farmer and milk a few cows, so your interest is my interest.

As I am a farmer and quite busy, it will be impossible for me to see every voter, but in due time I expect to present a number of things for your consideration.

Voters, I ask that you not be misled by political propaganda. Jobholders, I have been in your shoes, and will not attempt to tell you what to do, but in due time will tell you what I did. Another matter I hope to discuss later is: "A Friend and What He Is."

Farmers, if there ever was a time when we needed farm legislation, it is now. Our President is laboring hard to help us. Let's put our shoulder to the wheel.

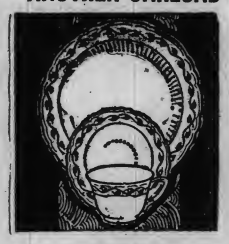
I trust that on the 7th day of August that the Twenty-Sixth Senaorial District will go on record as opposed to factional party fights and at the same time make me your next State Senator.

Respectfully,

Pol. Adv.— , O. C. JONES.

HUSBANDS, CHILDREN BARRED FROM CAMPS FOR KENTUCKY WOMEN

No husbands nor children allowed. So will read warnings signs at five Kentucky homemakers camps, planned to give tired housewives a breathing spell, a few days of relief from hot kitchens, monotonous home routine, children and husbands.



Two camps will be at the Blue and Gray state park at Elkton, one at the Agricultural Experiment Substation at Quicksand for women of the eastern counties, one in northern Kentucky, and one at the Fahoma Lodge of the Fayette county homemakers on the Kentucky river.

Programs will include entertainment of many kinds, swimming, boating, singing, folk games, camp fires, handcraft, and a lot of just plain rest, according to Miss Myrtle Weldon, state leader of home demonstration work.

Miss Ella Gardner, a recreation specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture, will direct the recreation, and Mrs. F. S. Kelley, music teacher at the Heath high school in McCracken county, will have charge of the music.

Opportunity to attend the camps will be made available to members of homemakers clubs in about 40 counties. The camps will be held in July and August.

PLAN MEETINGS TO HELP POULTRY MEN

Kentucky's twenty million dollar poultry industry will be given a push at the 13th annual poultry short course to be held at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture June 28 to July 2. Five days of intensive and practical training will be offered for the benefit of farmers, poultrymen and hatchery operators.

Those attending will hear talks, and then try their hand at culling, judging, selection of breeding stock, feeding, control of diseases and parasites, bloodtesting, and the like. Lectures also will be given on housing and house construction, equipment, brooding, marketing and other subjects of interest in the development of the industry.

To assist the faculty of the Kentucky college there will be brought to the state for the course three noted poultry experts—Dr. F. D. Beaudette of the New Jersey Experiment Station, foremost authority on poultry diseases; J. D. Sykes, extension poultryman of Mississippi State College, a successful southern poultry raiser, and Paul Zumbro, Washington, coordinator in the National Poultry Plan

The meetings will be open to all men and women. Sessions will be held in the livestock judging pavillion on the Agricultural Experiment Station farm at Lexington.

LACK OF EROSION DOUBLES INCOMES

Farmers make twice as much money on land where there is little erosion as they do on land that is badly washed, according to a study made by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture of 58 Logan county farms.

The average income from the 58 farms was $855. On the 17 least eroded farms, however, the income averaged $1,226, and on the 17 most eroded farms the income averaged $552.

The good land produced more tobacco to the acre, and also weed of better quality, than was grown on the badly washed farms. Income from dark-fired tobacco was about $60 more an acre on the good farms.

Complete maps were made showing soil type, amount of erosion and degree of slope on each farm. Information also was obtained on crop yields, livestock, receipts and expenses.

Maybe you've never noticed it, but there are a lot of fellows around Boone County who never start to put on their brakes until they feel their clutch slipping.

ON WASH DAY

Small mud stains on a clean white skirt may be concealed until ready for the laundry by pipe clay or white water-color paint. Or, let it dry, scrape off with a penknife and rub over the stain with white crayon or school chalk. Rub with a clean white cloth later on until the spot disappears.

AN INSPIRATION

Never feel that you have done well enough, while you know in your heart that you can still do better.

A survey shows the American people bought five million Bibles last year. Now if some way could be found to get them to read them all would be well.

WITH ROD AND REEL

Very few reports have come into our office this week concerning the sports of angling. However, we have heard of only a few bass being taken over the week-end. the notion of taking the lure of fishermen this week, but the condition of most streams would not permit the use of artificial bait, as most streams were muddy. The writer of this column and a friend, Walter Graves, tried their luck in Little Kentucky River Sunday, and were astonished with the results. When we arrived at the river it appeared to be muddy, too muddy for artificial bait, and we decided to go up river, seeking clearer water. It seemed that the farther up stream we went the muddier the water. Finally we decided to try our luck in one of the larger pools of the stream, and the third cast made a bass weighing approximately one and one-half pounds took my lure. We decided from then on that the water wasn't too muddy, and worked very hard for the attention of Mr. Bass the remainder of the day.

It seemed that every fish we caught during the day would just swim up behind the bait and take hold of it, feeling just about the same as if the bait had hung on a small rock, then slipped off, but once the fish was really hooked, we were unable to tell whether we had one that weighed a pound or three pounds. In all our experence fishing, we have never seen bass so game. Even the smaller fish under the limit of 11 inches fought continously until landed.

My friend Mr. Graves, hooked two large bass that he stated were "just too much for him," and was very unhappy over their loss.

Late in the afternoon we had to hunt shelter while a veritable cloud burst spent itself, and following the rain, fish seemed more active and were feeding around lily pads and rocks. We took several fish within a very few minutes and from then on until sunset we got an occasional bass and many strikes.

We are informed that many fishermen were out over the week-end but some of them never even wet their line, thinking the creeks were too muddy for casting.

We caught all our fish on a River Runt and a Hawaiian Wigler.

With creeks clearing in all sections of the State, it is expected that many bass will be taken within the next few days.

Early morning and later in the afternoon is thought to be the best time of day for casting, as most stream in this section of the state are not shaded enough for fishing during the heat of the day.

—o—

Last Friday, we met R. C. Soaper Federal Game Warden, of Henderson, Ky., at the Walton Reservoir. Mr. Soaper stated that he was checking on offenders who had been reported killing ducks out of season. Mr. Soaper also stated that a special effort is being made to enforce the song bird law, and explained that anyone caght killing song birds were subject to a minimum fine of $25.00, if tried in State court and a fine of $50.00 if tried in Federal Court.

Many young boys are killing birds which are insect destroyers and should refrain from this practice, Mr. Soaper said. He stated that if it were not for the birds there would be very little vegetation, due to the amount of insects which would multiply so rapidly that they would destroy practically all vegetables and fruit.

We are glad to have such a man as Mr. Soaper visit our county and were also glad to have explain the habits of the birds and other wild life, of which he is an authority.

NEW PRISON TO BE MODERN IN EVERY DETAIL

The new institution which is to be erected on the prison farm of 2,800 acres recently purchased in Oldham County, will be one of the most modern prisons in the nation. All the better features of the best prisons in the United States have been combined in an effort to provide an institution that will make possible an intelligent effort to salvage those law violators who are convicted in the courts.

Every cell will have an outside exposure, assuring healthful, sanitary conditions. This, the most modern prison will replace the old reformatory at Frankfort which is perhaps the most inadequate, unwholesome prison to be found in any state. The new structure is being built with money obtained from the PWA and a state appropriation made by the last legislature. This is the first major project undertaken by Governor Chandler in his effort to rehabilitate the antiquated penal and charitable institutions of the state.

The prison at Eddyville is being enlarged and will be used as he institution in which is confined prisoners of the type that require maximum security.

Inmates of the old Frankfort reformatory, which was rendered uninhabitable by the flood, are now quartered in temporary barracks on the Oldham county prison farm. Their labor is being utiliezd in improving the farm and in producing food stuff which will be used in the state institution.

CINCINNATI ZOO OPERA OPENS SUNDAY, JUNE 27

Cincinnati, O., June 14—Cincinnatis 16th consecutive season of opera at the Zoo Opera House will open Sunday, June 27, with the performance of Verdi's "Aida." It is planned to perform three or more operas each week, instead of the usual two, thus giving a total of approximately 18 vehicles in six weeks, each with at least two performances. There will be repeat offerings of several of the most popular operas toward the end of the season.

In place of the old pavilion behind the auditorium, 600 seats have been installed and will be offered to patrons for as little as 25 cents. An additional attraction will be the elimination of the outside gate admission charge for opera-goers.

Our idea of an optomist is the fellow in an old Model T who thinks the toot of his little horn will cause a big truck to move over.

U. S. MARINE CORPS ESTABLISHES NEW RECRUITING STATION

The U. S. Marine Corps established a District Headquarters Recruiting Station on May 15, 1937 at 417 Keith Office Bldg., 525 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, O., for the convenience of young men in this section who are interested and desirous of enlisting in that colorful branch of the service, according to word received from 1st Lieut. P. A. McDonald, USMC, officer in charge of the new station.

Applicants must be between the ages of 18 and 30, at least five feet four inches in height, single, of good character, and be able to meet the high physical standards of the Marine Corps.

Lieutenant McDonald explained that all young men now being enlisted are immediately transferred to the Marine Corps Base at Parris Island, S. Car., for a period of six to eight weeks tarining, and upon completion of this training they are assigned to duty aboard the larger ships of the Navy or to shore stations in the United States, China, Cuba, Guam, Hawaii, the Panama Canal Zone, or the Philippine Islands.

In addition to extend travel, the Marine Corps offers a splendid opportunity for young men to learn various trades through the "Marine Corps Institute," which has fifty-one courses, any one of which a Marine may select. These courses are free to all Marines.

Full particulars concerning enlistments including the application forms, etc., may be obtained by writing to the U. S. Marine Corps Recruiting Station, 417 Keith Office Bldg., 525 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

FIRST-AID TO AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN

GIVING AN OLD HOUSE A NEW APPEARANCE

NOT far from where I live, there is a house fifty or sixty years old. It is very well built, quite large, and on a prominent location; but few people gave it a second glance. The main part of the house and its extensions are well designed and in proportion. That it was not a show place was due to the jig-saw work all over it, to its ugly and useless tower, and the ornaments on its large and ungainly porch.

In its day that house was the last word in architecture, and was very greatly admired. But with the change in styles, it grew out of date, and became known locally as the "old-fashioned house on the hill."

Not long ago the house was bought by an architect who saw its many virtues. Within a month he completely altered its appearance by a few comparatively simple changes. For one thing, the tower was taken off, and the roof given simpler lines. The great porch also came off, and was replaced by a new porch with a roof that, while amply strong, is much lighter in appearance than the old one was. The new porch columns are delicate and in proportion to the roof that they support. The porch railings are also finer.

All of the jig-saw work, the elaborate moldings, and the fancy ornaments were stripped off, and where needed, were replaced with parts of much simpler design. Those old ornaments were only attachments. They had no part in the structure of the house, so that there was no loss of strength. As it stands today, the house is one of the best-looking in the neighborhood. The old-time residents are still marveling at the change, and at the slight effort with which it was gained.

There are houses of that kind in almost every old neighborhood. As a general thing, they are strongly built, and if there is no demand for them, it is only because of their old-fashioned appearance. With no great effort or expense, any of those houses can be brought into line with modern design. The ornamental work is no more than an attachment, and can be stripped off. Moldings, porch columns, steps, entrances and other parts of excellent design, can be had in stock at a lumber yard. The result is a stout and well built house, modern in appearance, and usually sufficiently increased in value by the operation to more than pay for the change.

Radio Measures Brain Waves

With an ordinary radio set for an amplifier, a young scientist at London is measuring brain waves. A fairly regular electrical wave emanates from the human brain during normal thought, but the waves diminish during sleep, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The intensity of the waves is measured on an electric meter, enabling research men to study the relative intensity of thought processes.

GARDEN GUIDELETS

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

Wholesale complaints are coming in about the slowing-up in growth of potatoes, tomatoes, eggplants and beans. Lice are the cause, likely present all the while but their damage masked by the cool, moist season up to now. A cheering circumstance is that with the coming of that, dry weather, the lady-bird beetle, dread foe of the lice, will become active and perhaps end the louse menace by itself. Better, though, is to help by spraying with tobacco or with rotenone.

The first Mexican bean beetles have been reported. Their coming, delayed by the cool weather, may be followed by their behaving in two ways: they may have become so weakened by their prolonged fast as to be easily manageable, or, having waited so long for food, they may now be so ravenous as to make intensified effort toward their control necessary. Careful spraying or dusting done now, will make the burden of Mexican bean beetle control easier in coming months.

Those gardeners who mean to prune their staked tomatoes should do is systematically, and not wait until the suckers have made size, when it seems a shame to remove them, and then decide not to do so. Pruning has a slight effect on earliness, but more so on the size of the fruit, and is well worth doing. An added advantage is that by staking, the fruit is kept off the ground and less is lost. In this connection, growers who have pritchard, should not pruns so heavily as when other varieties are used. Pritchard bears its fruits on the ends of the "suckers" which divide to make further fruiting surface. Thus pruning, as it is generally practiced, loses fruit to the grower. Best, is to prune Pritchard not all all.

As cabbage is being cut, the stubs should be pulled and put on the compost pile to dry to make way with a place for the cabbage worms to breed, and cause trouble on later plantings, or even on the early cabbage that remains. Once cabbage has reached the cutting stage it becomes difficult to control the worms, for pison dare not be used, but rotenone, deadly poisonous to insects, but harmless to humans, should be dusted or syrayed, instead of arsenicals.

Early radishes and mustard, now gone to seed, should be removed and place given to the current planting of beans, or to beets for the winter. If greens of the mustard type are still desired, Tendergreen may be used. It is actual improvement over mustard, even in mustard season and can be grown in weather too hot for mustardto thrive.

The early lettuce having gone to seed, gardeners who wish to continue having letttuce may try Cos, which is not affected by high temperatures. Trianon is the variety.

Likewise, those gardeners who wish mid-summer spinach should plant New Zealand, now. Harvested by removing merely the growing tips 20 plants will suffice. They should be given the same spacing as for early tomatoes. Two or three seed should be planted at a place and the plants thinned to one at a place.

In this connection, it is not too late to start Swiss chard, a summer green of beet-top type. Lucullus is the variety. Inasmuch as only the outer leaves of the plants are taken at harvest, a 30-foot row of plants standing 12 inches apart, sown from a seed packet of ordinary size will suffice for a family of five.

FARMERS MAKE MONEY THRU EROSION CONTROL

Farmers received net earnings twice as large on farms which have little erosion as on the same type of farms with severe erosion. This fact is based upon information from 58 farms of the same soil type in Southern Logan County, Kentucky for the crop year 1935 Complete maps showing soil type, amount of erosion and degree of slope were obtained on each farm in addition to the crops, livestock receipts and expenses. The year 1935 is the first season for which such comparison of erosion to income has been made available.

The improved quality of tobacco was as important to the farms of least erosion as was the larger yields. Even though they had fewer acres of tobacco the total tobacco income was more per farm. The income from dark fired tobacco was about $60 larger per acre on the farms of least erosion than on the farms of most erosion. Air cured tobacco returned $22.50 more per acre on the least eroded farms.

Erosion Control

1. Erosion reduces income by reducing yields.

2. Winter cover crops help to keep soil from washing, conserve moisture, save nitrogen and lime, and other nutrients.

3. All old lespedeza and red clover fields where grass is not present should be seeded to small grain cover crops to prevent leaching and erosion.

4. A nine-point program for sound land use includes: (a) Steep land in trees or permanent pasture; (b) plow hill land as seldom as possbile; (1) Practice a long rotation on rolling land; (d) concentrate tilled crops in short rotations on level land; (e) Winter cover crops after all tilled crops; (f) Legumes in all pastures and in rotations; (g) Where necessary, use lime and fertilizer, terracing, contour cultivation, contour furrowing, strip cropping, gully dams, and drainage; (h) Save and properly use manures and crop residues; (i) Balance livestock with cropping program.

Check over the above list. Ask yourself the following questions concerning each point:

How many of these practices am I now using?

How many of these practices should I be using and to what extent?

How can I undertake a sound program as outlined above?

Begin NOW to plan for a complete land use program on your farm. Your County Agricultural Agent will gladly talk over your plans with you. Your income tomorrow will be influenced by the plans you make today.

OHIO VALLEY DISTRICT LEADS THE NATION IN BUSINESS ADVANCE

Retail trade throughout the country responded to the stimulating influences of Summer weather and exceeded the levels of the corresponding period last year by substantial margins, Department of Commerce reports from 37 key cities, just received by its Louisville District Office, showed the past week. Wholesale markets, particularly in apparel lines, also showed improvement. Reports from many of the important cities of the country revealed large increases in building permits in May compared with last year. As a corollary of this situation, a sharp increase in the demand for building supplies, hardware, paint and miscellaneous items was noted. From reports it seems evident that the Ohio valley area contiguous to Louisville is leading the country in business expansion.

Louisville reported heavy demand for Summer apparel featured continued gains by retail trade, increases in various lines running from 15 to 30 percent above a year ago. Wholesale volume reported up to 15 to 25 percent above 1936, some industries doubling output of last year.

Factory payrolls in district showing increase of from 3 to 20 per cent. Labor dissatisfaction contined in number of industries; 25 moulders and laborers at foundry in Jeffersonville, Ind., out demanding union recognition, higher wages and longer hours; bargaining agreement is being negotiated at a Louisville furnace factory; 300 workers still out at Paducah, Ky., hosiery factory.

Dispute over authority of two labor crafts caused 200 machinists at Southern railroad shops in Somerset, Ky., to cease work.

STATE LAWS BOOST LIVING COSTS

The Supreme Court of the United States, as justices have often pointed out, does not approve or condemn any legislative policy. It does not decide or consider the wisdom of contested laws. It deals only with the question of wheather or not a disputed law passed by government is in accord or discord with the Consitution.

This should be remembered in considering Supreme Court decisions such as the one holding the Louisiana Chain Store tax constitutional.

The Louisiana act follows similar acts passed by other states, in leving a progressive tax against chains, based on the number of operating retail outlets. Its goes farther than most, in that it considers the number of stores a chain operates in other states as well as in Louisiana. For example, if a chain system has a thousand stores outside Louisiana and 20 stores within, it is taxed on a basis of 1,020 stores.

Beyond question, anti--chain store laws boost the cost of living especially in the food field, where chains have the largest number of outlets. The heavy taxes levied against chains under the progressive tax plan must be passed on to the consumer.

If it turns out, as some belive, that such laws will force chains to go out of business in unfriendly states, the whole state will suffer. Men and women will be thrown out of work. Property will be vacated. Normal taxes as well as well as special taxes will be lost to the state. Purchasing power will be reduced and the consumer will pay higher prices.

And, in return, what benefits will accure? It is argued that chains menace the independent merchant. This like so many other false rumors, dies hard. The United States Department of Commerce has recently issued figures showing that independent stores have been increasing in number during late years, and have also increased their proportion of all retail business done. Chain stores have been doing a smaller proportion of the business and have increased in number to a lesser extent than haveindependents. Those are facts.

You can't destroy a legitimate industry without paying for it. You can't pass class legislation that will eventually be used to destroy other classes. You can't inflate the cost of living without hurting the public. Excessive, punitive taxation of chain stores is directly opposed to the public interest, the public welfare, and sound public policy.

FAIRGROUNDS CONSTRUCTION COMPLETED

With the completion of the last stock pen, the huge task of rebuilding the Dearborn County Fairgrounds was ended this week. With rearrangement of all buildings a more spacious and inviting midway has been accomplished. Dearborn County Fair which will be held at Lawrenceburg, Indiana, July 26-31 inclusive, bids to break all past records as to quality of exhibits and attractions. Revival of the saddle horse show has won wide acclaim. 4-H club exhibit will be larger than ever; in addition 4-H exhibitors will compete in the open classes.

Premium books will be off press in a short time and one can be obtained by writing Leonard Haag, Secretary, Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Whitley county farmers this year for the first time turned under crimson clover in preparing land for corn.

Poison hemlock was responsible for the death of three Jersey cows owned by John Harden, a Taylor county farmers.

Forty farmers in Washington county are keeping complete sets of account books this year.

David Ambrose, J. H. Murphy and J. H. Yowell, Lincoln county farmers, are building the latest-type tobacco barns.

One hundred and seventy-five Caldwell county homemakers are growing at least one new vegetable this year.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

Claude Young, a Bath county farmer, reports that eight acres of crimson clover pastured 20 hogs all winter and seven cows during the month of April. A heavy growth was then turned under in preparation for corn growing.

Garrard county homemakers staged an upholstery exhibit in Lancaster, showing 35 pieces of worked-over furniture. Included were an antique love seat and two antique chairs owned by Mrs. L. G. Davidson, a member of the Lancaster club.

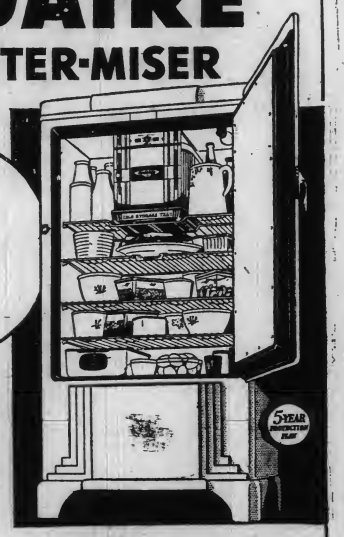
The application of superphosphate doubled alfalfa yields on the farm of Joe and Ed Beaven in St. Mary's community in Marion county. Approximately a ton and a half of hay was made at the first cutting.

E. A. Smothers owned the highest producing Washington county herd in the Dix River Herd Improvement Association in May. His six cows averaged 37 pounds of butterfat and 651 pounds of milk. R. C. Hays' herd averaged 33 pounds of fat and 706 pounds of milk.

To encourage sheep raising in Simpson county, 22 farmers will cooperate with the county agent in demonstrating good practices. Each will own at least 20 good ewes and a purebred ram, and will give the flock proper attention.

A survey made among members of homemakers clubs in Breathitt county indicated that fewer than half of the children are receiving less than a quart of milk daily. The use of milk in the diet is being stressed in home demonstration work in the county.

FARMERS HAVE THE POWER



As Governor Lehman of New York recently said: "The farmers have all the power to solve every major problem." This power lies in cooperative organization to dispose of farm produce to the best advantage, and to raise it most economically and scienifically.

It is a fact that the tens of thousands of farmers belonging to well established marketing cooperatives have gone far ahead of unorganized farmers in the last decade. Such cooperatives provide what individual farmers lack—mass bargaining power, equal in size and strength to that of wholesalers and distributors. They place the farmer on an even footing with those to whom he sells. This has been one of the most encouraging phases of agricultural development in recent years.

A BAD SUMMER

I looks like a bad summer for those insects which eat what man wants to eat. Last year grasshoppers alone destroyed an estimated $80,000,000 worth of farm products, despite the fact that the government paid an army of 25,000 men to join with rural residents in an attempt to exterminate them. Now comes word from the government that while billions of grasshoppers were destroyed, there is every indication that the battle will soon have to be fought over again and the odds will be just as heavy against the growers.

Years ago it wasn't necessary to spray fruit trees. Today they must be sprayed three or four times each season if a crop is to be harvested. Why this change has come about no one knows, yet everyone around Boone County realizes that far greater destruction is being caused in this, and every other community, by insect pests than ever before, whether it be the work of grasshoppers, boll weeevil, corn borer, Japanese beetle or what-not.

The return of higher temperatures is bringing out the insect pests and from now on eternal vigilance against them is the price of a decent crop of any description. Neglect to start warring on them until they have multiplied a thousand-fold is sure to prove costly. The time to launch the fight is right now, and there must be no let-up if you expect to keep them even partially under control. Uncle Sam will aid you with advice if you want it, but the real work and constant watchfulness will always be up to you.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Apple Tapicoa—6 tart apples; 1 cupful sugar; salt; ½ cupful minute tapicoa; 1 quart water. Pare and quarter apples. Place in dish and pour over sugar and salt. Cook tapioca in double boiler in a quart of water with pinch of salt, fifteen minutes. Pour this over the apples. Cover the dish and bake half an hour. Serve with cream and sugar.

THE FLOWER GARDEN

Where a hotbed is impracticable, a cold frame makes an excellent substitute, one of the chief values being as a place into which to transplant from seedboxes started in the house . . . Nothing makes a neater and more compact minature hedge for edging than dwarf marigolds . . . An application of complete plant food is oftentimes the best remedy for ailing flowers.

DEATH IS PERMANENT

The destruction of the Hidenburg has once again brought before the eyes and minds of the world the terror of sudden, uncontrollable fire. Millions of persons, reading the news accounts and viewing the ghastly photographs of the doomed airship and its victims, have been gripped by a shudder of horror. Not so long ago the New Londno school disaster resulted in a similar mass reaction.

The unfortunate part of it all is that these lessons are so quickly forgotten, and that a large part of the public virtually refuses to adopt safety measures of long standing need, which would prevent thousands of individual tragedies whose cumulative total of death, injury and property damage is infinitely greater than that caused by the infrequent major disasters that are headlined in the newspapers of the world.

For example, six thousand persons in the United States—exclusive of the 1,500 who do annually in burning buildings—die yearly of burns and scalds, and practically every one of these deaths is preventable. Children are the principal suffers, thanks to the carelessness of adults. Unprotected stoves and grates, hot water, steam and matches are the principal objects which quickly become lethal weapons of death at the innocent exploring touch of a child's hand. Among adults the practice of starting fires with kerosene and gasoline is well in the fore as a producer of fatal burns, and as a destroyer of property.

Death by fire is just as painful and horrifying—whether is occurs in a home or in a specatcular disaster. Think of this before you throw kerosene on that balky fire. Remember, death is a permanent proposition, and no amount of money will bring back life to a charred body.

W. B. COTTON,
Sheriff of Boone County.

Another thing worth remembering is that dreading a work that must be done makes the work harder to do.

Another sign of age is to be able to remember when when local grocers used a potato to plug up the spout on a coal-oil can.

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER

ESTABLISHED 1875

VOLUME 62 — BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, JUNE 24, 1937 — NUMBER 6

WEATHER FORECAST
Friday and Saturday, local showers; Sunday fair and cool.

RECORD WOOL CLIP IS SOLD

FARMERS SELL 62,779 POUNDS FOR $26,944.74 THRU BOONE COUNTY WOOL POOL—FORTY-THREE CENTS POUND NET.

Boone County farmers sold 62,779 pounds of wool for $26,944.74 through the Boone County Wool Pool on June 15th, 16th and 17th, according to H. E. White, President of the association. Growers received 43 cents per pound net for clear wool and 39 cents per hundred net for rejections. The rejections averaged less than 2½ per cent and the wool was reported of excellent quality.

This year's deliveries is a record for total pounds delivered, total dollars received and the small number of pounds rejected. The price per pound was the highest in several years. The second largest number of pounds sold thru the pool was in 1932 when approximately 58,500 pounds were sold for $12.75 per hundred for clear and $8.75 per hundred for rejections.

This year's clip was sold to S. Steinharter and Company, of Cincinnati, and was taken up by Stanley and Lee Steinharter, Jr. The cooperation between the growers and buyers was highly satisfactory.

The deliveries at various points in the county were as follows: June 15th at Walton 25,801 pounds; 16th at Burlington, 21,806 pounds; 17th at Petersburg 15,172 pounds.

The pool plan has proven the most successful method of selling Boone County wool. The pool is not a holding organization, but sells for the high dollar during the first part of June each year. Thru the pool plan growers have been able to receive between $1.00 to $3 per hundred more than the regular market. Each growers delivers his crop at one of the three convenient points in the county, joins his neighbor in equal and fair treatment and received cash for his wool when it is weighed. The Boone County Pool is probably the oldest active pool in the state.

PRESENT JAILER TO MAKE FORMAL BOW NEXT WEEK

Due to the Sheriff-Jailer bill which has been before the court of Appeals no candidate has announced for jailer in this county. However, the Court of Appeals ruled in favor of the jailer's office, and Elmer Kirkpatrick, our present jailer, will make his formal anouncement in next week's issue of The Recorder.

UTOPIANS HOLD OUTDOOR MEETING

Boone County Utopia Club members will hold their regular June meeting Thursday evening, June 24th at the farm of Miss Elva Akins of the Burlington and Petersburg pike.

The meeting is planned for an outdoor event with a special recreational program following the business meeting. All members are urged and prospective new members are invited to be present.

VOTERS URGED TO REGISTER

JULY 10TH LAST DAY UNTIL AFTER PRIMARY ELECTION—APPROXIMATELY 1200 HAVE NOT REGISTERED.

Approximately 1200 Boone County voters have failed to register at the County Clerk's office, according to C. D. Benson.

Mr. Benson stated that 4,100 voters are now registered, but that there are approximately 5,300 voters in Boone County.

July 10th is the last day for registration, and anyone who does not register will not be eligible to voter in the primary election to be held August 7th. Anyone who has moved from one precinct to another must have the change made on his registration card.

Registration cards are made into book form for each precinct, and before the voter is presented with a ballot the clerk checks your registration card to see if you are eligible to vote, and if not you will be refused a ballot. It only takes a very few minutes to register—why not do it at once?

1937-38 ACP ELECTIONS ARE HELD THIS WEEK

The 1937-38 Agricultural Conservation Program community committeemen will be elected in a series of meeting held this week and next, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent.

All producers whether landlords or tenants who operated a farm under last year's program and new 1937 work sheet signers are eligible to vote in the elections. Written notices, where possible have been mailed all cooperators.

The dates and places of the 1937-38 election meetings are as follows:

Tuesday, June 22—Hamilton and Carlton, Hamilton School, 7:45 p. m.

Wednesday, June 23—Walton and Verona, Walton School, 7:45 p. m.

Friday, June 25—Petersburg and Grant, Petersburg School, 7:45 p. m.

Saturday, June 26—Burlington and Florence, Corthouse, 1:00 p. m.

Saturday, June 26—Hebron and Constance, Masonic Hall 7:45 p. m.

Monday, June 28—Union and Beaver, New Haven School, 7:45 p. m.

All eligible voters are urged to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Cropper and family, Mr. and Mrs. Kirtley Cropper and son John, and Mrs. Harry Holtsclaw, were Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cropper and family.

EVERETT JONES SEEKS OFFICE

OF MAGISTRATE FROM THIRD DISTRICT—WAS STAR ROUTE CARRIER FROM WALTON TO HAMILTON MANY YEARS.

Everett Jones, of Hamilton precinct, makes his official announcement for Magistrate of the Third District in this issue of The Recorder, subject to the action of the Democratic primary Saturday, August 7, 1937.

Mr. Jones was born and reared in the Big Bone neighborhood. He was one of the county's most successful farmers until appointed as Star Route carrier from Walton to Hamilton, serving in this capacity for many years. It is said by many along this route that he was always efficient and very accommodating while serving in this capacity.

He is well known to the voters of his district which is composed of Walton, Verona, Hamilton and Carlton precincts. He is familiar with the road conditions, having traveled them more than anyone in his district, and if elected, will no doubt be in a position to advise the fiscal court as to the most efficient step to take in road repair.

Mr. Jones states that if elected, he will serve the citizens of his district to the best of his knowledge without partiality.

WAHL-DOLWICK

Miss Helen Wahl and Breckenridge Dolwick were married Saturday afternoon at the home of Rev. H. M. Hauter. The attendants were Miss Della Dolwick and Edgar Snyder.

Immediately following the ceremony the happy couple left for a motor trip to Detroit, Mich., where they will be the guests of relatives.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wahl. The groom is the only son of Mrs. Hildreth Dolwick.

Their many friends wish them a long, happy and prosperous married life.

LOCAL SCOUTS PARTICIPATE IN KENTON MEET

The Cobra Patrol No. 125 of Grant, participated Friday night in the Kenton County Court of Honor held at the boyhood home of Daniel Beard, located at Third Street, in Covington.

They received a plakue of recognition for taking part in a recent exposition. The boys also were in the parade there.

UPSETS ARE DISHED OUT

IN BOONE COUNTY BASEBALL LEAGUE — BURLINGTON GOES INTO SLUMP, BUT STILL HOLD FIRST PLACE.

Activities in the Boone County Baseball Leage fell into full swing during the past week-end with several upsets being dished out and a shift in the league standing resulting.

In what was probably the best played game of the season Bob and Gene defeated Burlington at the latter's ground on Saturday evening by a 5 to 3 count in 12 inning. "Hoot" Ryle, youthful fireballer, was on the mound for Burlington. He was opposed by Pettit, who limited the County Seaters to 5 hits. Burlington held a 3-0 lead until the sixth when Bob and Gene scored on Cliff Stephens' homer to right field. They added two more in the eighth on singles by Walton, Cahill and Stephens and a double Abdon.

Burlington's first run came in the first when Kirk reached first on Cahill's error, stole second and scored on P. Ryle's hit through third. They added two more in the third on Clore's single, Groger's error on a ground ball by R. Maruer. Maurer scored one the next pitch when Ogden lined a triple into deep left.

In the extra inning neither team was able to get a man past second until Bob and Gene scored twice in the twelfth on consecutive home runs by York and Cahill, which proved to be the margin of victory.

• • •

For their second loss in two days and third loss in four games the Burlington team was defeated by Petersburg Sunday afternoon by a score of 8 to 2. Burlington scored in the second on hits by Akins and D. Benson. Petersburg tied the count in the fourth and took a one run lead in the fifth. Burlington then knotted the count 2 all in the seventh, only to see Petersburg give an exhibition of a field meet in the eighth to score six runs.

Akins was on the mound for Burlington and pitched brilliant ball until the fatal eighth inning when he was relieved by Kirkpatrik, who in turn was relieved by D. Benson. "Bink" Shinkle was on the firing line for Petersburg.

Deck, Bradburn and Nixon lead the Petersburg attack while D. Benson, Ogden and R. Maurer accounted for six of Burlington's eight hits.

Belleview won their sixth consecutive victory of the season Saturday afternoon at the expense of Hebron by a score of 10 to 1. Wtih "Long Bill" Rogers on the mound for Belleview letting the Hebron boys down with five hits and fanning 12 men the game was one-sided throughout. This was Rogers' seocnd straight win since signing with Belleview two weeks ago.

Hebron scored their one and only run when D. Williamson let an easy fly ball drop safely, but he redeemed himself by collecting four hits and a free pass to first out of five trips to the plate. H. Rogers, Moore and J. Ryle lead the Belleview offensive.

Belleview added another win Sunday afternoon by defating Big Bone 7 to 6, making the third time they have drubbed the Miller aggregation this season. Wilson started on the rubber for Belleview but was relieved by C. Williamson in the second who allowed only four hits during the remainder of the contest.

With the score 6-0 in favor of Big Bone in the third Belleview turned loose on Arrasmith to knot the county. The score remained tied until the seventh, when D. Williamson reached first when hit by a pitched ball, O. Williamson walked, and Wilson singled the winning tally home.

GROCERYMAN BACK ON JOB

Ben Anten, groceryman, of Florence is able to be back on the job after several weeks illness. He underwent a very serious operation recently at a Cincinnati Hospital.

This week his advertisement appears in The Recorder, and circulars are being printed for the first time in several weeks.

COUNTY BUYS OIL SPREADER

FOR USE IN BLACK TOPPING ROADS IN COUNTY—MANY MILES TO BE COMPLETED BY FALL.

An oil distributor was delivered here Friday, which was purchased from the Littleford Bros., of Cincinnati. The tank which has a capacity of 800 gallons was mounted on an International two-ton truck.

This distributor is to be used by the Rural Highway Division of the State Highway Department in distributing oil and making black top roads in Boone county. The roads will be similar to the Petersburg Constance road.

Roads to be black-topped are now being put in condition for the oil surfacing, according to Judge N. E. Riddell, and by the time weather conditions halt this work, many miles will be resurfaced, it is expected.

Through the use of this new equipment, many dollars will be saved from the county road fund each year, as much repairing will be eliminated.

LIMESTONE IS AVAILABLE TO BOONE FARMERS

Farmers are urged to contact their local truckman as soon as possible to secure agricultural limestone rock within a radius of 6 to 8 miles for $1.25 per ton.

The crushing costs 80 cents per ton which makes a total cost to farmers of $2.05 per ton.

The truckmen who have turned in their names and addresses to this office are as follows:

Charles Kraft, Ludlow, Route 2.
Wm. Markesberry, Florence.
W. J. Craig, Burlington, Route 2.
W. R. Rouse, Burlington.
L. W. Gulley, Burlington.
W. R. Huey, Florence.
John B. Walton, Burlington R.2.
Gaines Robinson, Walton.
R. A. Stephenson, Verona.
Stanley Graves, Hebron.
Geo. W. Baker, Beaverlick.
Walter Whitsca, Walton.
Robert O. McCardle, Florence.
Hugh Baker, Petersburg, R. 1.

Farmers are asked to notify truckmen or the County Agent's office as soon as possible to secure their stone in the near future before the heavy demand is made this fall.

TWO WOMEN ARE ARRESTED FRIDAY

Mrs. Ida Gayer and Mrs. Mayme Rada, of Sanders Drive, Florence, were arrested last Friday night by Sheriff W. B. Cotton, on a charge of being drunk in a public place. Sheriff Cotton had difficulty in making the arrest, but finally subdued them. They were brought to Burlington and placed in jail, charged with drunkenness and resisting an officer. They were released Saturday after giving bond of $250.00 each.

They will be tried before Judge N. E. Riddell, today.

L. C. WEAVER REPORTS SEEING OTTER SUNDAY

L. C. Weaver, assistant Postmaster of Burlington, reported Monday, that while fishing on Gunpowder, he noticed something working in the water, near a riffle. At first he thought it was a fish, but upon investigating he found, what he thought was an otter. He stated that the animal was in upper Chimney hole.

He said the animal had long hair, which looked brown and was at least 3½ to 4 feet long.

Sometime ago Geo. Elliott trapped an animal which was thought to have been an otter, but it was never definitely known.

The Otter is a large water weasel, sometimes measuring 40 inches, the tail being half the length, and weighing 20 lbs. It has a long low body with short bowed legs and webbed toes. On land otters run awkwardly, but in water they are perfect swimmers, catching readily the fish which form their almost exclusive diet. The female rears three to five young in a nest hollowed in a stream bank. In North America, trapping has almost exterminated them. Otter fur is dark brown on the back, shading into grey and white below.

CELEBRATE 60TH ANNIVERSARY

ON SUNDAY JUNE 13TH—SEVENTY FIVE RELATIVES AND FRIENDS GATHER TO ENJOY THE OCCASION.

On June 14, 1877, Benjamin J. Crisler led to the altar beautiful Laura Aylor, where they were united in the holy bonds of wedlock by Elder Edward Stephens at his home near Erlanger, Ky.

The bridesmaid, Mrs. Fannie Crisler Rice, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Kelly, Mr. Martin L. Aylor and Mr. Sam Aylor were the only ones at their 60th wedding anniversary who attended the wedding.

On June 13th about 75 relatives and friends gathered at the home of this fine couple to help celebrate this wonderful event, 60 years of wedded life. At noon a bountious feast was partaken of by all present. Mrs. Samuel Aylor presented the "bride's cake" which was a most delicious creation.

A purse of $60.00 was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Crisler by Martin L. Aylor in a very appropriate manner.

Late in the afternoon the guests took their leave, wishing this good couple many happy returns of the day, and promised to all come back one year from now to cheer them on life's way.

The following guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. L. D. McGlasson and son, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Crisler, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Wingate and son, Mr. and Mrs. Justin Aylor and Mr. and Mrs. Julius Aylor and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Riddell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Willis and sons, Judge and Mrs. Sidney Gaines, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. E. Gaines, Mr. and Mrs. Vanden Canfield, Samuel Aylor and granddaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Yancey Clore, Mesdames Margaret Heist, Ida Bradshaw, Clara Kirkpatrick, Florence Riggs, Rose Graf, Fannie Gaines, Fannie Rice, Mary Berkshire, Leola Elliott, G. M. Terrill, Misses Edna Berkshire, Ellen Riggs, Hilda May Aylor, Messrs. Harry Riggs, Deirs Stubbs. There were many more whose names the writer can not recall as the original list was destroyed. We trust those whose names have been omitted will pardon us.

ERLANGER MAN EXONERATED IN AUTO TRAGEDY

A manslaughter charge against Fred S. Scheben, 19 of 826 Dixie Highway, Erlanger, was dismissed Thursday in Kenton County Court when the prosecution failed to introduce testimony.

Scheben was the alleged driver of an auto that fatally injured Kirtley Ryle, 30, Florence, on Dixie Highway, May 16.

FERRY BOAT IS LAUNCHED

FOR ANDERSON'S FERRY AT CONSTANCE — IS NAMED BOONE NO 7 AND WILL BE ALL STEEL.

The new all-steel Boone No. 7 was slipped into the waters of the Ohio River, Covington, the other day, and was fitted up to supplant the old Boone No. 6, the hull of which Henry Kottmyer built "right side up" in 1920. Boone No. 6—a sturdy wood-huller, is in service at Anderson's Ferry, where boats have shuttled men and their conveyances from Constance, Ky., to Cincinnati, since 1816.

The Boone No. 7, being a welded all-steel vessel, even exceeds the early expectations of the Kottmyers, who started figuring on a steel-hulled ferry after the Boone No. 5 was sunk in an ice gorge in 1918. They didn't get it right away, they didn't even get a new boat for two years, patching up the Boone No. 5 instead.

The Boone No. 1 was built by Charles Kottmyer in 1867, two years after he had bought Anderson's Ferry from John C. Wilson and wife, March 6, 1865. From 1867 to 1937 the Kottmyers built their own ferries, built them of sturdy white oak and iron from the blacksmith shop of John Klaserner, at Constance.

But they couldn't built a steel boat, so this year they contracted with the Stanwood Corporation for the Boone No. 7. And soon the iron men of the Kottmyer family will start piloting their new iron boat from Constance to Anderson's Ferry and back, following the route ferries have followed since 1816, long before there were bridges connecting Northern Kentucky and Cincinnati.

We are glad to welcome back to our community, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kirkwood, who were called to Madisonville, Ky. on account of the serious illness of his mother who passed away. We extend our sympathy to Mr. Kirkwood.

DISTRICT MEETING OF MASONS TO BE HELD AT WARSAW, JUNE 29TH

The 16th District meeting of all Masonic Lodges will be held at Warsaw, Ky., Tuesday, June 29th, at 7:30 p. m. The Master Mason's Degree will be conferred by a select team from Covington. Also Grand Master Innes B. Ross will be present. The Lodges of Boone, Grant, Owen and Gallatin are invited to be present.

BIDS LET FOR STONE CHIPS LAST MONDAY

Bids were received Monday by the Boone County fiscal court at Burlington for the hauling of stone chips. The successful bidders were T. W. Spinks, Erlanger. two hundred tons and Walton Lumber Co., four hundred tons.

These chips will be used in resurfacing and black-topping roads in Boone County.

OFFICE OF JAILER SAVED BY COURT

APPEALS BENCH RATIFIES REPEAL OF MERGER—SHERIFFS LOSE EXTRA WORK, CANDIDATES MAY RUN.

Frankfort, Ky., June 18—The Court of Appeals sived the offices of 120 County Jailers in Kentucky today when it held valid an act of the 1936-1937 General Assembly repealing a 1934 law that would have merged the job of Jailer with that of Sheriff at the end of this year.

Important as was the court's ruling to Jailers and candidates for Jailer throughout the Commonwealth, it was even more important to Governor Chandler and his sccessors in office, for it upheld the right of the Chief Executive to amend his calls for special sessions of the General Assembly, after that body is in session.

The fact that consideration of the Jailer-Sheriff merger repeal act was undertaken by the General Assembly under an amended call to the special session, held last December and January, was the principal ground for the attack on the legislation.

Appicants For Old Age Assistance Must Submit Sworn Statement

A new policy that will require all applicants for Old Age Assistance to submit a sworn statement as a part of their applications, will become effective July 1, according to an announcement made this week by Dr. A. Y. Lloyd, Director of Public Assistance, Frankfort.

"An entirely new and different application blank has been prepared" the Director's statement says. "It could not be used in the beginning of the Old Age Assistance program in Kentucky due to the vast number of aged persons who desired to file applications for aid; but now, with upwards of 40,000 applications reviewed and approved and many others investigated and rejected because they did not meet requirements of the present law, the new-type application form can be introduced."

This new feature in connection with Old Age Assistance administration in Kentucky is expected to aid materially in cutting down the number of applications filed by ineligible persons. It will also enable the Public Assistance Division to enforce penalties provided for false statements in connection with applications for Old Age Assistance.

Besides containing a sworn statement, the new application form also includes several additional features not found in the old form in use since the beginning of the program in Kentucky. It will require information pertaining to age and residence, and an agreement to reimburse the Commonwealth of Kentucky for assistance given.

Another feature of the new policy is that each and every applicant for Old Age Assistance must fill out his application form in the presence of a Notary Public, a Field Worker of the Division of Public Assistance, or some other person authorized by law to acknowledge oaths. The applicant, after answering all of the questions required on the application form, must make a sworn statement that his answers are true and correct to the best of his knowledge and belief, and he must then sign his application in person, using his signature or his mark as it will appear on checks or other legal papers.

Explaining the new policy in connection with applications for Old Age Assistance, Dr. Lloyd's statements says in part:

"In the past considerable difficulty was created for the division of Public Assistance, due to the fact that many applicants for assistance permitted some friend or relative to sign their applications. This, of course, was not in conformity with the rules and regulations of the Division of Public Assistance which require that the actual legal signature of an applicant shall be submitted. To meet this situation, the Division had to provide a special signature card to supplement the application blank. The new application form, by securing the actual signature of the applicant, will eliminate this difficulty."

"By having each applicant for Old Age Assistance submit a sworn statement as a part of his application, the Division of Public Assistance will be able in the future to enforce penalties provided for persons attempting by false statements to obtain aid for themselves or for some other person. The number of such applications has not been large in the past, but it is expected that they will be entirely eliminated in the future."

THE HOUSE FLY

The house fly spreads typhoid fever, tuberculosis, diarrhea, dysentery and other communicable diseases.

The most effective way to combat this menace to health and comfort is to see that the house fly has no place in which to breed. Where there are no dirt and filth, there will be no flies. Clean up your premises, inside and out, and keep them clean. The house fly breeds in kitchen offal, animal manure and the like. Dispose of all these materials in such way that the house fly cannot find any place to lay eggs and propagate.

The house fly multiplies with remarkable rapidity. It is estimated that a pair of flies hatched in April will give origin to millions by August.

The second most effective way of combating the fly menace is to screen all doors and windows. Every householders should do this, and, at the same time, insist that the butcher, the grocer, the baker and all others from whom food stuffs are bought do likewise.

Screens should be put in place early in April and kept continuously in use until the snow flies. With the house well screened and well sewered and with the premises kept clean, inside and out, danger from spread of disease by flies is practically eliminated. Especially should the doors and the windows of kitchen and dining room be well screened.

Clean and screen!
Build a sanitary, fly-proof privy!
Keep the first fly out!
Keep flies away from milk!
Keep flies away from babies!
Keep flies away from food in homes and stores!
Keep garbage covered!
Clean up yards and alleys!
Disinfect or haul out manure!
Kill flies in winter as well as in summer!
Swat the fly!
Trap the fly!
Poison the fly!

Most important of all, see that fly has no place in which to breed.

Protect your own health, the health of your community by exterminating the fly.

SLOW DOWN AT SUNDOWN

A new slogan is being offered the motorists of America by safety experts, and if they will adopt it and abide by it there will be a far happier story to tell when this year's deaths and accidents are counted.

"Slow down at sundown" is the new safety slogan, and when motorists realize that 60 percent of all auto accidents in 1936 occurred between sundown and sunup they will see the wisdom of obeying it. With more cars on the highways than ever before; with every indication that this will be the biggest touring year in the nation's history with the undeniable fact that driving has become more dangerous since the drunken operator has been added to the list of hazards; when all these things are taken into consideration it's a pretty dumb driver who spurns the new slogan and continues to hit as fast a pace at night as he is accustomed to in the day time.

From now until the fall months it is going to be far more dangerous to operate an auto anywhere in the U. S. than it has been at any time in the past. The only hope of keeping down the death and accident rate—even now 15 percent greater than for the same period last year—will be through the use of even greater care in driving. Even then there is no guarantee that the safest driver will escape. Slowing down to moderate, sensible speeds after sundown, or avoiding night driving altogether where it is not absolutely necessary, is about the only way left to reduce the national auto death toll. Unless each and every driver resolves here and now to do so we may prepare to read the most gruesome lot of figures at the close of 1937 that American newspapers have yet been called upon to publish.

BOYS AND CRIME

Parents of Boone County boys who have neglected to encourage them to affiliate with the Boy Scouts or a like organiation wherever it is possible for the boys to do so, will be interested in an announcement by federal secret servcie authorities on the subject. They say the percentage of juvenile crime in America is far less in communities where Boy Scouts and similar organizations are maintained than in those communities which either discourage such organization or fail to take any interest. "If we are to prevent crime," says one federal investigator, "we must begin with the high chair instead of the electric chair." Combatting crime is a responsibility of all citizens, and not merely of law-enforcement officers. Those who help the boys of this country to grow up into useful, law-abiding citizens are helping to prevent crime, and there can be no doubt but aiding and encouraging the Boy Scouts and like organizations is an excellent way to go about it.

A BIG FRUIT YEAR

In this country where dust storms and drouths and floods and insect pests are of common occurence it's next to impossible to predict accurately what kind of fruit crops to expect. But at the close of May reports from all sections of the country indicated that housewives can prepare for plenty of fruit, of almost every variety, for canning purposes. A mild winter was general throughout the country. While this in a way encouraged insect pests it also proved of value to fruit trees of every description. An unusual abundance of moisture during the first three months of the year has also served to enhance the outlook, so all in all, taking the country as a whole, there should be an abundance of fruit for canning and preserving purposes. Old-timers say that good fruit years mean good years from every other standpoint, especially for those who lean heavily on canned goods to get through the winter.

PLAIN TALK BY DOCTORS

The American Medical Association follows the lead of the United States Public Health Service in telling the people of this country that syphilis must be recognized, by its own name, and fought to a standstill as a menace to public health equal to tuberculosis. Norway and Sweden have this human plague under control, and the clinics by health officials and physiciens in Washington prove that its victims can be restored to health, or at least the disease made noncommunicable. That would have the next generation.

Books and all kinds of printed matter regarding syphilis are now in the public libraries. The leading newspapers in Washington and elsewhere give prominent editorial and news space to the subject; and the editor of one morning paper helped to sponsor a series of radio broadcasts. The subject is discussed in the public schools. In short the American Medical Association's position is that the time for pussyfooting over the mention of such an important word in the English language has passed, and the fight is on.

FARM TENANTS AND LOW RENT

A plan is being discussed in Congress to back up a permanent proposal for from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 a year to aid farm tenants. Measures of this kind are associated in popular understanding with proposals to obligate the Federal Government for the next half century to provide big subsidies in behalf of rentals for low-income groups.

Trouble is, Congress doesn't know where the money is coming from.

GRAND JURY INDICTS OLD JOHN BARLEYCORN

One of the most amazing exposes of liquor and its effect on American life since repeal is on file today from the county grand jury in Cleveland, Ohio.

"In every one of the distressing cases of death caused by a motor vehicle which came to our attention," says the Cuyahoga County Grand Jury in a report presented by Professor Henry M. Busch of Cleveland college, "liquor was an important element, if not the chief factor, leading to the accident.

"The jury is strongly of the opinion that a lethargic public opinion with respect to criminal potentialities in the mixture of gasoline, alcohol, and emotinal excitmenet, is largely responsible for the tragic situation today.

"The jury finds that liquor is an important factor in many cases of arson, burglary, sex offenses, stabbing, robbery, assault and other crimes."

SLUMS AND SUPER-SLUMS

A stirring vision of things to come was evoked recently by one of the chief figures in the American home construction industry. when B. G. Dahlberg of Chicago, pointed out that the majority of Americans still live under essentially "caveman conditions" insofar as protection from the hazards of dust, smoke, temperature extremes and noises are concerned. The point of the statement was that here is still a vast horizon for progress and vast opportunities for American industry in raising the housing standards of our population.

"Primitive man," Mr. Dahlberg said, "lived in a cave, open on one side to extremes of wind and weather. The majority of our homes, built as recently as 15 or 20 years ago, considered from the standpoint of the great progress made today in temperature, insulation and noise control give little more protection than the open side of the caveman's dwelling.

Mr. Dahlberg foresaw an era of housing developments which will utilize the newest methods and materials in which Celotex ranks as the leader, to reduce the hazards of noise, wide temperature changes and polluted air. He referred to conditions in even our most fashionable thoroughfares and in palatial homes, where, he said, "dwellers suffer the irritation of smoke. They are poisoned by toxic gases, infected by disease—carrying dust particles and suffer from the extremes of heat and cold.

"We have our super-slums as well as slums," he added. "Even in our 'best neighborhoods' we see crowding structures without breathing space between; interior, paved courts that act as perfect sound boxes for prolonging and reflecting noise; sunless rooms; apartments without cross-ventilation, etc."

OBSERVATIONS

This column has quoted before that very true saying that prognostication is the occupation of fools "yet, from first hand observations, this observer is willing to prophesy that Roosevelt is barking up the wrong tree in his tacit support of Lewis and his C. I. O. venture.

This morning this observer stood in a Central Labor Council office and heard two representatives of a voluntary group petition an A. F. of L. labor organizer to come out and organize them. This observer by virtue of the fact that he sells to unions articles which increase as the membership increases knows that the A. F. of L. is meeting the challenge of C. I. O. successfully and doing so, moreover in the C. I. O.'s type of industrial union.

There is no doubt that C. I. O. has stung A. F. of L. into aggressive action that they probably would not have taken if it had not been for competition for available membership. Again from personal experience, this observer knows of one new union affiliated now with the same International A. F. of L. union that turned down their petition before C. I. O. entered the picture and offered this new group a charter under the C. I. O. banner.

Labor is not as stupid or as radical as lots of sloppy observers seem to think. They want something to tie to. They seem to feel that the long established A. F. of L. is more substantial, even if somewhat over conservative, than the C. I. O. From the standpoint of members they know what to expect from A. F. of L. The new C. I. O. organization is still an experiment.

Management is faced not with the two alternatives of Union or non-union but with which Union. Quite naturally management would also feel safer with the older organization and the one which has been able to control its membership over a long period of time.

Thus this observer believes that A. F. of L. being already established is going to gain more both in prestige and membership, both from management and rank and file membership, from the efforts of C. I. O. than is C. I. O. itself. Hence, the tacit support, if I am right, that Roosevelt is giving the newer, more aggressive, organization will be a source of weakness rather than strength to him from here on.

That's all for this time.

STILL HOLDS GOOD

Back in your grandfather's day there was a saying that it didn't pay to be "dollar wise and pound foolish." What it meant, in words anyone around Boone County can plainly understand is that you can't save dollars unless you first save pennies. And the best place to save your pennies, steadily, consistently and all the time is right here at home. Home merchants are honest, and offer honest value for your money. They depend on the same customers over and over again and for that reason cannot afford to overcharge you, get your money and then turn their attention to another victim. If there is any place on earh where merchants just have to be square with every customers, it's in the smaller towns. They can't stay in business long if they are not. So be glad that you have this opportunity to save your pennies.

JOHNSON FARMERS TO GROW STRAWBERRIES

With 40 acres of commercial berries marketed this year, definite plans have been made for the development of strawberry production in Johnson county. At least 100 acres will be set next year, farmers signing up to turn under cowpeas and rye in preparation for setting one to three acres each. At least 30 four-H club boys also will have a quarter-acre or more each.

The market opened this year at $3.60 a crate, most of the berries going to Ashland, Huntington and Charleston. Ben Niles, secretary of the Kentucky State Horticultural Society, and W. W. Magill, extension field agent for the State College of Agriculture, assisted County Agent Justice L. Pidcock and farmers in formulating plans for the development of the industry.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS TO HAVE 13 CAMPS

Music and amateur dramatic will be featured in the programs of 13 summer camps for 4-H club members from about 100 Kentucky counties, J. W. Whitehouse, state club leader, announces. Cooperating agencies include the State Board of Health and the State Y. M. C. A. Two camps will be held at the Experiment Substation at Princeton and two at Bardstown. Others will be at Eminence, Blue Licks, Paintsville, the Experiment Substation at Quicksand, at Camp Daniel Boone on the Kentucky river in Jessamine county, at London and in the Purchase region and in Garrard county.

IN THE KITCHEN

Ordinarily new waffle irons have printed instructions telling how to use them. If the instructions are lacking, however, grease the iron thoroughly with an unsalted fat (lard or oil). Heat it slowly until it is well browned. Discard this first waffle and then start cooking additional batter. One greasing is usually sufficient. If the waffles stick, however, repeat the greasing process.

Witloof Chicory

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

Those gardeners who yearn to try something new, will find Witloff chicory or "French Endive" well worth adding to the list of vegetables they grow. A mid-winter salad, a veritable luxury, if restaurant menus are any guide, though such evidence is really superfluous, Witloof presents few difficulties in growing and very few in caring for it, afterwards. Certainly, it adds a certain piquancy to a diet of the more ordinary vegetables.

Witloof is a root crop. Its raising is identical with that of red beets. The time to sow the seed is before the end of June, before conditions have grown too dry quickly to sprout it. Once they come up, the seedlings can take of themselves, to make plump, shapely roots by frost time.

An ounce of seed sows 50 feet of row. The rows may stand as close as 18 inches apart, but two feet is better. When all the seedlings are up, they should be thinned to stand one to 1½ inches apart. The only pests are the flea beetles and sometimes some of the "general feeders," leaf-eating insects. To control both, spraying with Bordeaux mixture to which arsenical has been added, is advised. Generally, two sprayings are sufficient, the first as the seed is coming up, and the second, two weeks later.

At about the time that "Black" frosts may be expected, the roots should be lifted carefully, and the tops cut to a stub of one inch. The roots may be buried in a "pit" after the manner of white potatoes, or they may be put in a cellar safe from freeing, but preferably no warmer than 50 degrees.

The edible part of Witloof is the "second" top, produced from stored-up plant-food contained within the roots, and is produced in this wise:

About eight weeks before it is desired that harvesting begin, the roots should be stood submerged, full depth, in deep boxes of sand or partly rotted saw dust. They may stand close enough for just a little of the material to go between them. The tips of the longer roots should be cut back, so their tops are level. There is advantage, too, in selecting the roots as nearly of a size as possible to make the harvesting proceed with regularity. The tops should be covered with about 6 inches of saw dust, into which the "sprouts" are to grow. The whole should be put in a warm cellar a temperature of 60 degrees is ideal. Heavy watering should be done, but through holes bored at the bottom of the boxes; the upper saw dust should be kept dry.

Sprouting begins in from two to three weeks, depending on how warm the room is. Because of the covering of saw dust the sprouts maintain a tightly rolled shape, and because they develop in total darkness, they remain exceedingly tender and ivory-white in color.

When the tips just emerge above the saw dust cover, the heads are ready to cut, which when split and served with dressing, results in a salad well worth all the trouble its producing has occasioned.

GOVERNOR'S DAY TO BE CELEBRATED SATURDAY, JUNE 26

LaGrange, Ky., June 22 — A blanket invitation has been extended by the homefolk of Oldham County to all of the friends from all of the counties in the Commonwealth of Governor A. B. Chandler, to gather in LaGrange, Ky., Saturday, June 26, to celebrate "Governor's Day of Kentucky." This festival is being arranged by the Oldham County citizens to pay honor to the Governor in recognition of the honest, economy and progress of his administration, according to D. E. Wooldridge, Oldham County attorney, who has been named general chairman of the affair.

The all day festival will be held in the downtown section of LaGrange. A Military parade is being arranged. Several Democratic organizations will also parade. Mr. Wooldridge announced that he had arranged for four bands. The program will be climaxed in the afternoon by an address by Governor Chandler.

J. Dan Talbott, State Director of Finance, has been named by Mr. Wooldridge as head of the speakers committee. Mr. Talbott has not yet named any of the speakers on the card other than the guest of honor.

Robert Humphreys, State Highway Commissioner, was named as publicity chairman with Frederick A. Wallis, Commissioner of Welfare, chairman of the State farm display. James W. Hammond, warden at the State Reformatory, which is now being built in Oldham County, has been named to head the ex-service men's organization, while General G. Lee McClain, Adjutant General of the State, will have charge of the military display.

Others named on the committee are Mrs. R. H. Robertson, stage decorations; W. P. Yancey, radio broadcast; Joe Whitehead, Civic Beauty; W. L. Dawson, county publicity; W. W. Head, finance; Joe McCormick, railroad transportation; R. P. Neal, Music; E. A. Daubs, Grandstands, and W. H. Horton, seating.

53 COUNTIES TO JOIN IN WORLD'S LARGEST 4-H CLUB EXHIBITION

The annual 4-H club district fair to be held at Lexington Sept. 1-2 is claimed by its backers to be the largest event of its kinds in the world. Farm youth of 53 counties in the Blugrass and adjoining regions will join in the exhibitions of beef and dairy animals, swine, sheep, poultry, baked and canned foods, field crops, clothing, room improvement and other farm and home products.

More than $2,000 in cash prizes will be divided among the owners of winning displays. In the county exhibit class alone, awards total $553. County will be matched against county in this class, which is a new feature this year. A Utopia club hybrid corn show will be a new feature.

J. Ed. Parker, Fayette county agent, and general manager of the fair, has secured the cooperation of many commercial firms in sponsoring this year's exhibit. The Cincinnati Live Stock Exchange is sponsoring the entire swine show; the Cincinnati Union Stock Yards, the beef cattle show; Lexington Producers and Cincinnati Producers, the sheep show; Early & Daniel Co., Cincinnati, the poultry; Kroger & Piggly-Wiggly, the foods exhibit and a large part of the dairy show; Sears, Roebuck & Co., the clothing exhibits, and E. Kahn's Sons, Cincinnati, the stock judging contests.

THE FLOWER GARDEN

The middle of June is an excellent time to plant gladiola bulbs . . . You can have chrysanthemums in the open ground if you start early flowering seed now. They give fine late fall cutting material. . . Watch your bulbs if you have kept them stored in the cellar. See that they do not get too warm and start making spindly sprouts.

MILLIONS SUFFER

without knowing the reason why . . . .

NAHTHAN TULCH

Parents scold children for slouchy slumping, when their shoes are to blame. People suffer mental upset, nervousness, aches and pains when proper shoes (shaped to fit and support those fifty-two bones in your feet) would benefit the entire body and preserve your general health. Fortunes are spent in patent medicines and appliances when the shoe alone is the answer.

Those headaches, those backaches, those leg pains, may be caused by the shoes you are wearing. Why suffer longer? Why take chances with your health . . . comfort . . . and peace of mind?

If you are suffering from corns or broken down arches—Our friendly Foot Comfort Specialists will gladly make a scientific analysis of your case . . . absolutely free and will prescribe the proper shoes for your foot condition. (People's Foot Comfort, 828 Madison Ave.)—Adv.

IN THE KITCHEN

Strain bacon grease to prevent dark settlement on the bottom and uhe paper cups for storing it . . . Add a slice of lemon or the grated rind to apples to be used for sauce, and a pleasing flavor will result . . . Bananas should not be kept on ice. They are a tropical fruit and are more palatable and easily digested when ripened and mellow.

ERLANGER

Mrs. Alex Martin, Willow St., spent last Tuesday with Mrs. Frank Watson.

Mrs. Dewey Deemer, of Ash St., spent the week-end in Latonia, with friends.

Sam Glacken and wife visited his mother, Mrs. C. Glacken, Fox St., Sunday.

Mrs. Les Goodridge, of Walton, spent last Saturday and Sunday with Mrs. Elmer Goodridge.

Miss Marie Reed, of Crittenden, has returned to her home, after a week's visit with J. H. Carter and family.

Mrs. Frank Watson had as her guest, her brother, of Cincinnati, Ohio, last week.

Revival services at the Baptist Church conducted by Rev. Cole, of Dayton, Ky., are being well attended.

The children of Elsmere and Erlanger are enjoying the play grounds conducted by the Civic Club.

THE WHEAT OUTLOOK

Government forecasts now assure us that, barring unforeseen difficulties, the winter wheat crop in the U. S. for 1937 should be the largest for many years. The Department of Agriculture estimates it now at 654,000,000 bushels. Added to this will be the spring wheat crop which, though there is no certainty about the prediction at this time, may amount to 200,000,000 more bushels. So as things now stand the nation's wheat crop this year is going to be larger than at any time since 1919.

There are to be found in this county no doubt, some to contend that a bumper wheat crop does not mean better times for the reason that it will serve to drive down prices and producers will be no better off. Government experts, however, point out the falsity of such claim by stating that for the last three years the crop has been 50,000,000 bushels below domestic needs each year and this country has been forced to import wheat. They say a crop of 854,000,000 bus., as now predicted, will still be short of domestic demand, thus insuring a good price for the growers. If there should be more than is needed for home consumption, there is always an export market to take up the excess production.

It's cheering news, this prediction of a bumper wheat crop for 1937, and here is hoping that it comes true.

Spencer county farmers are raising fewer chickens, but are giving them better care.

FORD V-8 POWER
will do the job at lower costs than ever!

WITH V-8 engines in two sizes, the Ford V-8 Truck offers new efficiency in handling the work—new economy when you figure the costs.

If yours is a job of heavy hauling, you can handle it faster, easier and at less cost with the improved 85 H. P. Ford V-8 truck engine.

For light jobs, the 60 H.P. Ford V-8 engine gives splendid performance with gasoline economy running many extra miles to the gallon.

With either engine you get an added economy which is available only to Ford V-8 owners. For the Ford Engine Exchange Plan allows an old engine in any Ford V-8 unit to be replaced with a factory-reconditioned engine—for much less than the cost of an ordinary engine overhaul!

In addition, Ford dealers offer a wide variety of body types built to Ford's own standards of lasting quality.

Discuss your hauling needs with your Ford dealer today. Let him help you select the chassis, engine and body best suited to handle your loads. Then, let an "on-the-job" test show you how much better and at how much less cost you can do your hauling with modern V-8 power.

HERE'S WHY FIRESTONE ALWAYS GIVES YOU SO MUCH

More for your Money

Higher Quality Raw Materials! More Efficient Manufacturing! Lower Distribution Cost!

These All Combine to Give You Extra Values at No Extra Cost

FROM the day of its introduction, the Firestone Standard Tire has more than lived up to its name by setting a new high standard of tire values. Hundreds of thousands of car owners have already bought it because they saw in it more value for their money.

"How does Firestone do it? How can they build so many extra value features into Firestone Standard Tires and yet sell them at such low prices?" The answer is simple — Firestone controls better-quality rubber and cotton supplies at their source, keeps manufacturing costs low by efficient factory methods and sells in such huge volume that distribution costs are held to a minimum. That is why Firestone has been able to give you such extra value features as Gum-Dipping, two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread and eight extra pounds of rubber to every 100 pounds of cord, at no extra cost to you.

Make no mistake about this! The Firestone Standard Tire gives you the blowout protection of Firestone's patented Gum-Dipping process. Its scientifically designed tread gives greater non-skid protection and longer wear. And those two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread guard against punctures.

Before you buy ANY tire at ANY price, see today's top tire value — the Firestone Standard Tire. Don't risk your life with thin, worn tires on your Fourth of July trip. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Standard Tires.

THE GATEWAY TO GREATER TIRE VALUES

TODAY, from the jungles of Liberia, there has arisen a great rubber plantation on which the world's finest rubber is being produced.

From the Firestone-owned and Firestone-developed rubber plantations in Liberia there comes an ever-increasing supply of rubber, bringing greater savings to car owners in the form of extra values at no extra cost.

THRILLING SCREEN THREESOME STEP OUT IN "LOVE IS NEWS"

The romance of a thrilling threesome whose kisses crash the headlines and whose escapades sell extras, with handsome Tyrone Power outromancing his "Lloyds of London" role, lovely Loretta Young bringing her fresh charm to a portrayal that is enchantingly different, and Don Ameche creating a dashing new screen characterization, provides hilarious excitement in the Twentieth Century Fox streamline hite, "Love is News at the Gayety Theater, Erlanger, Sunday and Monday.

With Loretta in the role of a beautiful heiress heckled and pestered by sensation-seeking newspapers, the enjoyable pace is set at once when she vows vengeance against Tyrone Power, ace newshawk who has just tricked her again into the headlines, without, however, reckoning with his dynamii, hard-driving managing editor, Don Ameche (radio star of "The First Nighter").

To give newsman Tyrone a dose of his own medicine, Loretta determines to make him a public figure, and not only announces her engagement to him but also states that she has presented him with a million dollars.

Besieged on every hand, Tyrone strives to expose the hoax but his efforts serve only to increase his notriety, as well as his unpopularity with the managing editor. On a wild chase into the country, both the newshawk and his quarry are arrested for speeding and jailed by county Judge Slim Summerville, an incident which results in some of the most hilarious moments in the film.

Loretta's revenge works itself up to a bewildering and amusing climax in which the tables are suddenly turned and the pair find themselves, as the newspapers had so often repeated, really "that way about each."

WITH ROD AND REEL

All streams in Boone County were reported muddy over the week-end, therefore no bass were reported caught. However, many reports come to this office that still fishing was expectionally good—what they meant by "good" we do not know.

The writer has heard of only one stream within a radius of 60 miles being clear, and that was Elkhorn Creek, which is said to be one of the best bass streams in the State. According to all reports received here bass were not striking in this stream. It was said that the North Fork of the Creek was too clear for bass fishing, while the main body was in perfect shape.

The writer tried his luck in Elkhorn around daylight, but proved to be of no avail, receiving only a few strikes, and catching four small mouth bass before sunup, which were not large enough to keep. After sunup we never received another strike.

Woolper Creek is developing into a fine bass stream, according to Franklin Huey, who has been taking several of the bronze backs from these water this season. Mr. Huey reports, taking a very nice bass several days ago.

In our experience in angling, we have always found that the man who knows the stream—that is, how deep the water, where the rocks are located and places where bass have been caught, are the fellows who catch the fish, regardless of the type of lure used.

Any man who takes his lures to the creek and fails to bring in a number of bass in a day should not be discouraged, and should not think that the stream has no fish, for fish are likely to strike one day and not even notice any kind of bait the next. They feed only when hungry which may be early morning, late in the evening, or even during the heat of the day. However, we are inclined to believe that bass are more likely to strike at artificial bait either early in the morning or late in the afternoon.

We will endeavor to keep this column each week, and would appreciate any notes or news handed us in regard to fish, their habits, and catches made by local citizens.

POULTRY LICE AN MITES

Poultry lice and mite thrive during warm weather. They also lower egg production. Crank case oil and kerosene half and half, painted on the roosts will get the mites. Sodium floride as a dust or dip (1 pound to 10 gallons of water) kills lice. Nicotine sulphate painted on the roost poles just before the hens go to roost at night is also recommended.

The 13th Annual Poultry Short Course will be held by the College of Agriculture at Lexington June 28 to July 2, 1937. Make your plans to attend and get many helpful practical suggestions. Write the Poultry Department for a program.

TREASURER'S OFFICE ENTERED BY THIEVES

Frankfort, Ky., June 18—Thieves broke into the office of State Treasrer John E. Buckingham last night or early today, but apparently got nothing for their efforts.

Entrance was gained by forcing a lock to one of the offices in the treasurer's suite, on the second floor of the new capitol. No money was kept in the office.

The office of Attorney General Hubert Meredith, across the hall from Buckingham's also apparently had been broken into, a door being found ajar when employees arrived this morning. Nothing was reported missing.

WARSAW CANDIDATE SHOT ACCIDENTALLY

Foster W. Miller, of Warsaw, a candidate for tax commissioner of Gallatin county, is suffering from gunshot wounds in the left forearm.

A gun which he was cleaning Thursday night discharged accidentally while in his hands at the home of his brother-in-law, Willie Thomas.

The injured man was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Covington, where his condition is reported not serious.

LLOYD SOCIETY MEETS

The Lloyd Memorial Society met Saturday, June 5th at the home, with several members present. Mrs. Pearson, president, who has been very ill, was able to attend this meeting.

Quite an interesting program was rendered in the afternoon in memory of Flag Day. The history and origin of the first flag, several selections of music were rendered by Mr. Acra and sister of Covington and was greatly enjoyed. An invitation was given them to meet with us again in September at the old Schoolmate's Day.

During the months of July and August, there will be no luncheon just a business meeting held in the afternoon. Our next all-day meeting will be the first Saturday in September.

Thursday afternoon of this week the members are invited to quilt at the Lloyd Home. Be sure to attend.

Hazel Lucas, Sec'y.

THEATER AND HOUSE BURN AT CARROLLTON MONDAY

Carrollton, Ky., June 21—Two fires originating in distant parts of Carrollton, and detected within 15 minutes of each other early today, led Carrollton police and firemen to believe each was of incendiary origin.

Early this morning the Fire Department was called to a five-room vacant house recently constructed on South Sixth Street. The fire had gained such headway that fireman were unable to save the structure.

While the firemen were engaged fighting that fire, Charles Dolby, night watchman found the Richland Theater ablaze. With the assistance of citizens, Dolby held the fire in check until firemen could be summoned from the scene of the first alarm.

Firemen traced the theater fire to three inner tubes filled with gasoline in the balcony of the theater with a combustible fuse leading from the tubes to the rear of the building, which has been under construction. One tube containing one and one-half gallons of gasoline was recovered intact.

Carrollton officers are of the opinion that the fire on South Sixth Street was started to detract fireman and officers from the scene of the theater fire.

Harold Nieland, state arson inspector, is making an investigation.

METHODISTS LAMENT LIQUOR AT WHITEHOUSE

Methodists in this city are interested today in action of the New England conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in session in Gardner, Mass., in adopting a resolution criticizing what it termed, the "serving of liquor in the White House."

"We note with sincere and profound regret," the resolution said, "that liquor is served within the United States and that it was even served at a New Year's reception to young people within the White House. We note also that the government has recently dispatched its first shipment of rum from the Virgin Islands where it was made as a works Progress administration project."

TENNESSEE FARMERS SEE KENTUCKY SHEEP

One hundred and eighty-four Tennessee farmers, stockyards men. county agents, agricultural high school teachers and state officials, including John Goodman, commissioner of agriculture, recently visited farms of sheep raisers in Simpson, Warren and Todd counties in Kentucky to study livestock methods, especially the kind of Western ewes used by Kentucky farmers.

The visitors were met at the state line by the farm agents of the three Kentucky counties and by Richard C. Miller, extension field agent for the State College of Agriculture. At Bowling Green the delegation was welcomed by city officials, the Chamber of Commerce and state officials.

At this time there is being held in Kentucky a series of farm meetings for the purpose of promoting the production of better sheep. Farmers in both Kentucky and Tennessee, i is said, have reduced their profits from sheep by using late lambs for breeding purposes.

Plans are being made to entertain another party of Tennessee men on the sheep tour in Central Kentucky June 25, according to Miller. The tour will begin at the Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington and include eight or ten flocks in Fayette and adjoining counties. A banquet will be held that night in Lexington as a closing feature of the meetings.

RABBIT HASH

There will be services at the M. E. Church through this week.

Sorry to hear of the passing of Mrs. Chas. Bodie in East Bend, of which she has made her home for many years. She was a good neighbor and friend to everyone and her family will miss her in many ways. She was a loving mother. She passed away Sunday morning, June 20th.

REPORTS STUDY OF LOUISVILLE FRUIT, VEGETABLE MARKET

The importance of Louisville as a wholesale fruit and vegetable market is emphasized in a bulletin reporting on a study made by the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky. Between 11,000 and 12,000 carloads handled on the market yearly. Fruits and vegetables are shipped into Louisville from every important producing area in this country as well as from some foreign countries.

The Louisville market serves Southern Indiana and all of Kentucky except the extreme western and eastern counties and northeastern counties.

The growth of trucking has helped the Louisville market, the bulletin points out, because of the city's location with respect to markets in northern and southern states. Located on north-south arterial highways and midway between important northern and southern markets, Louisville is a convenient point for the exchange of produce.

Thus the city has become the terminus for fleets of trucks operating from the northern producing areas and from the southern producing areas. It is noted that "this situation provides opportunities that probably did not hitherto exist for the sale of locally-grown fruits and vegetables, and lays the foundation for a large wholesale fruit and vegetable market which will not only serve the city of Louisville but will supply a much larger trade territory than is reached at the present time."

The study was made at the request of the Jefferson County Farm Bureau.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT JUNIOR WEEK

Six hundred and ninety-six boys and girls from 107 counties at the recent Junior Week at the University of Kentucky broke all attendance records for this annual convention of 4-H club members.

The general theme of the week was "Know Kentucky," the boys and girls studying the resources, industries, literature, schools, music, wild life, hospitality, parks and natural wonders of their state. Assisting the faculty of the university in the instruction were General Bailey P. Wootton, director of State parks; Major James Brown, state director of fish and game, and other state officials.

Approximately 150 trained teams took part in the demonstrations in farm and home practices. There also were a style revue, a health contest, and competition in judging baked and canned foods, clothing and home furnishings.

State championships resulting from the weeks' activities were as follows: Farm practice team, Calloway county; home practice team, Shelby county; terracing team, Grayson county; style revue, Miss Ollie Frances Wilson, Madison county; health contest, Miss Georgia Poynter, Rockcastle county, and Nell Wallis, Ballard county; canning judging, Miss Glen Hamed, Christian county; baking judging, Miss Arbutus Ewen, Powell county; clothing judging, Miss Charlotte Stutzenberger, Jefferson county, and home furnishings Miss Lorraine Harris, Fayette county.

New officers for the Kentucky Association of 4-H Clubs are Glenn Clay, Nicholas county, president; Miss Joyce Cotton, Madison county, vice president, and Miss Wilma Powers, Bell county, secretary.

COMMISSION URGES TESTS FOR DRIVERS

Frankfort, Ky., June 16—Revision of the motor driving license laws to compel applicants to pass an examination was recommended yesterday by the legislative subcommittee of the Kentucky Safety Commission. Legislation to require compulsory reporting of auto accidents also was urged.

In addition to these recommendations the committee also adopted a motion to study possible laws to require periodic tests of motor vehicles to prevent accidents by learning defects of mechanism.

State Safety Director Maj. W. H. Hanson recommended accident reporting. Frank W. Rhodenhaber, manager of the Louisville Safety Council, urged drivers' license test. Col. Ed Huey, head of the State Highway Patrol, said the police force should be increased from 80 at present to at least 140.

The average man lives 31 years longer than he did in 1800. He has to get his taxes paid.

After he reaches 50 the average Boone County man realizes that fun is like insurance. The older you get the more it costs you.

WAREHOUSE PROPERTY TRANSFERRED AT LEXINGTON

Property of the Jewell Tobacco Warehouse Company on Angliana avenue, including a brick and metal building fronting 250 feet on Angliana avenue, was transferred at Lexington, Tuesday to W. Paul Little, of Lexington and J. R. Jones of Harrison county, by one deed. Stamps affixed to the document indicated the purchase price was $67,000.

The warehouse, which has been operated by John B. Jewell, Jr., and his sons, John and Charles Jewell, was constructed 10 years ago and has a capacity of 3800 baskets or approximately 1,250,000 pounds of tobacco. It will be operated by the new owners.

HEALTH SPECIALIST

Dr. Maurine Rudolph, located in the Odd Fellows Building on Scott Blvd., Covington, is one of the leading health specialists of Northern Kentucky. Her office is air-conditioned, and modernly equipped. Her Radionic equipment constitutes the very latest method of diagnosis.

The technique used in treatment restores nature's activities in the body to their normal efficiency. Dr. Rudolph has brought about seemingly miraculous cures, but says that health is everyone's right, and if taken in time every disease should respond to correction of treatment.

Miss Rudolph is a graduate of Ohio Northern University, the Lincoln College of Chiropratic, is governor of the Northern Kentucky Chiropractic Association, and has been during the past year president of the Covington Business and Professional Women's Club, and State Health Chairman of the Kentucky Federation of B. & P. W. Club.

Your spare change AS LITTLE AS 10¢ A DAY will buy a 1937 KELVINATOR on our Meter-Ator Plan

HERE'S how it works! We deliver the Kelvinator of your choice and attach to it a little device called a Meter-Ator. Into this you drop a small amount of money each day—as little as 10c for the lowest-priced model. This money is collected each month and a receipt issued for it. When the total amount collected equals the cost of the Kelvinator, the Meter-Ator is removed and the Kelvinator is yours.

Your Kelvinator will save you as much as the small daily deposit, so why wait any longer? Select the model you like today . . . and let it pay for itself while you use it!

YE EDITOR TAKES BRIDE

IS YOUNGEST EDITOR IN KENTUCKY — CEREMONY PERFORMED WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON BY REV. WILL SMITH.

Miss Margaret Walton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Walton, of Burlington, and Mr. A. E. Stephens, son of Mrs. Susie Stephens were quietly married at the residence of Rev. Will Smith Wednesday afternoon at 4:30.

The happy young couple motored to Cincinnati and returned to their home in Burlington, which was furnished and ready for occupancy before the ceremony. They have leased the new residence recently built on Jefferson St., owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Porter.

The bride is one of Burlington's most popular and attractive young ladies, and is a graduate of the 1937 class of the Burlington high school. Although she has been a resident of Burlington only a few years, she has endeared herself to all who have had the pleasure of meeting her.

The groom is the owner of this publication, and is said to be one of the youngest newspaper editors in the State. This paper, under his guidance has prospered to the extent that the paper was made into a seven column sheet instead of six several months ago, and much equipment has also been added. He is a graduate of Burlington high school in the class of '32 and attended Y. M. C. A. business school in Cincinnati, Ohio. He is a very prosperous young man and has made many new friends while serving as editor of this paper.

The happy young couple have planned no honeymoon, but will return to Burlington, where they will be at home to their many friends.

The writer of this article, who is an assistant to Mr. Stephens, joins their numerous friends in wishing them a very happy and prosperous voyage down the sea of matrimony.

HARVESTER AND THRESHER TO BE DEMONSTRATED

An International combined harvester and thresher will be in operation at the Dr. Crisler farm, of North Bend Bottoms on Friday of this week if the weather is favorable. This is the first machine of its kind to be sold in Northern Kentucky, composed of 17 counties. Mr. Calvin Cress, is the local dealer for International farm machinery.

Mr. Cress reported that he sold an International tractor this week to Bernard Gaines, of the Burlington-Petersburg Pike.

HAT IN RING FOR JAILER

ELMER KIRKPATRICK MAKES FORMAL ANNOUNCEMENT AS CANDIDATE FOR JAILER—HAS SERVED FOR EIGHT YEARS.

In this week's issue of the Recorder will be found Elmer "Q" Kirkpatrick's announcement for reelection to the office of jailer.

Mr. Kirkpatrick has been elected as jailer of this county for two consecutive terms, in which capacity he has served most efficiently, never being absent from his post when needed.

He is one of the county's most popular men, and there is not a precinct in the county where he is unknown and he has a strong following in all sections of the county. He has the reputation of being one of the best jailers in the state.

Mr. Kirpatrick has always made is a practice to feed his prisoners the same food that he is accustomed to having at his own table. and has made many staunch friends of prisoners confined in the local jail.

He has always been a strong Democrat and has always supported the party and its principles.

He states that if nominated and re-elected he will serve the people of Boone county in the same efficient manner the next four years as he done in the past eight.

Mr. Kirkpatrick stated that due to the duties of his office, he will be unable to see each voter personally, but will appreciate any support given him.

CONNER-HEMPFLING

Miss Dorothy Conner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Conner and Vaughn Hempfling, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Liston Hempfling were quietly married by Rev. H. M. Hauter, of Florence Saturday afternoon, June 26th. The bride is a resident of Hebron and the groom is from Constance.

The bride wore a beautiful white lace gown over pink silk. Her flowers were pink tea roses and fern.

Miss Lucille Ryle, the bride's attendant wore a yellow lace gown over yellow silk. Her flowers were pink tea roses and fern.

Woodford Crigler was best man.

Following the ceremony the happy young couple left for a short honeymoon.

Their host of friends wish them much happiness and prosperity.

FISH AND GAME CLUB TO MEET TONIGHT

The Boone County Fish and Game Conservation Association will hold their regular monthly meeting tonight (Thursday) at the courthouse at 7:30 o'clock. Chas. W. Riley, president of the club, will be in charge of the meeting. All members are urged to attend.

Much interest is being shown by the members of the association, and several constructive programs are being planned and some are now under way.

CONSTANCE BOY ATTENDS ROTC TRAINING CAMP

Allen S. Kenyon, of Constance is attending the ROTC Training Camp at Fort Knox, which is a training of six weeks duration.

Anyone attending this camp and upon their graduation from their respective college or university will be tendered a commission as Second Lieutenant in the Reserve Corps of the United States Army.

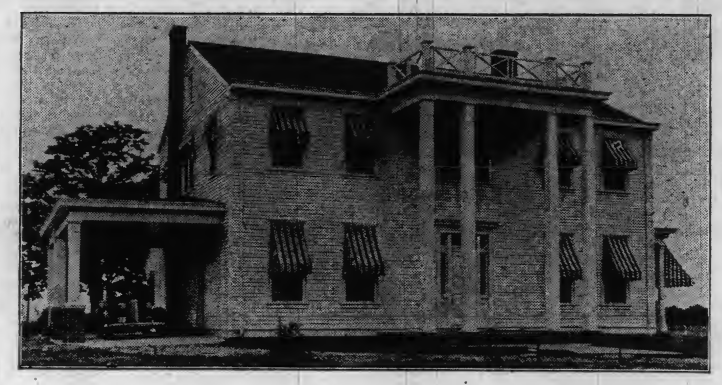
The camp opened on June 17th and closes on July 28th.

PETERSBURG MAN WEDS

INDEPENDENCE LADY WEDNESDAY NIGHT OF LAST WEEK—CEREMONY IS HELD AT FLORENCE BY REV. DEMOISEY.

The wedding Wednesday night of last week of Miss Anna Pearl Williams, of Independence and Mr. Thomas Randall, of Burlington was an event of widespread interest in Northern Kentucky, uniting it did two leading families of Kenton and Boone Counties.

The ceremony took place at the Florence Baptist Church, with Rev. R. F. Demoisey, of Walton officiating in the presence of relatives and friends, who filled the delightfully decorated church to overflowing.



Promptly at 8:30 o'clock the strains of "I Love You Truly" hushed those present and heightened the interest of the moment. Then followed the first notes of the wedding march, the signal for the bridesmaids and ushers to begin the procession down the two aisles of the church to the altar. Those bridesmaids, Miss Edith Williams, sister of the bride, and Miss Roberta Randall, sister of the groom, were garbed in delicate gowns of pink net, while the groomsmen, Mr. Lawrence Turner and Mr. Wallace Williams, wore white summer suits, as did the bridegroom.

Following the bridesmaids was the maid of honor, Miss Alice Jane Williams, another sister of the bride, who was charmingly attired in aqua net. Opposite her, in the other aisle, was the best man, Mr. John F. Randall, brother of the groom.

Then down the aisle came the bride on the arm of her brother, Mr. William Williams, to meet the groom at the altar, there to repeat with him the vows. The bride was lovely in a creation of white net and veil which had graced many another happy occasion. Adding her blithesome presence to the solemn ceremony was little Miss Glen Marie Tanner, the flower girl, whose yellow georgette frock was a happy note of color in the ensemble.

After the ceremony the guests motored to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Wallace, sister and brother of the bride, at Walton, for a reception to which they were welcomed by members of the wedding group, and where they showered congratulation and best wishes upon the happy couple.

New Funeral Home of Chambers & Grubbs

This new modern funeral home will be open for public inspection July 3, 4, and 5. The home is located at Alta Vista Avenue and Dixie Highway, Walton, Ky.

ALUMNI TO HOLD DINNER MEETING

AT HOME OF MRS. L. C. WEAVER TO MAKE PLANS FOR REGULAR ANNUAL MEETING—ALL OFFICERS URGED TO ATTEND.

An invitation has been sent each officer of the Burlington High School Alumni Association for a dinner-meeting to be held at Mrs. Nora Weaver's Tuesday, July 6th at 6:30 p. m.

Plans will be made for the annual meeting of this association which will be held within the next six or eight weeks at the Burlington school. Last year the meeting was a decided success and a very constructive program is expected to be mapped out this year. Plans will be discussed for a definite yearly program which the alumni can work in accomplishing what was intended in organizing the association.

It is requested that each officer give considerable thought to plans for the annual meeting, and present these suggestions at the dinner meeting Tuesday night.

The organization was formed only recently, and only one meeting has been held, but all indications point to a very strong association, as interest was very keen last year.

The executive committee is composed of the following: Courtney Kelly, Clayton Brown, Carroll Cropper, Harold Kelly Clore, Howard Huey, Pauline Smith, Mary B. Rouse, Judge Johnst Northcutt, Chester Goodridge, Raymond Ernst, James Lee McNeely, Mrs. John Conner, and Mrs. Catherine Clore Myers.

EDITOR TAKES FEW DAYS OFF

A. E. Stephens, editor of this paper will not be on the job this week. Therefore if your paper does not please you this week you will have to criticize the employees who are doing the best they know how.

Printing a country weekly is a much larger job than some of our subscribers think for, and it takes much time an effort to get our paper out. Therefore when one of the force or the editor is absent we are really handicapped.

So this week if you find an error or the news is a little short, just blame the employees.

CAMP ERNST WILL OPEN SUNDAY, JULY 4

According to a report received here, Camp Ernst, the Covington Y. M. C. A. haven, near Burlington will be officially opened July 4th. Approximately sixty-five boys have already signed for the periods beginning July 4, 11 and 18th. Girls will ccupy the camp for periods beginnings, July 25th and Aug. 1.

REVIVAL TO BE HELD AT EAST BEND

Beginning July 5th, Rev. H. W. Eggleston, pastor of the Rising Sun Baptist Church, Rising Sun, Ind., will come to the East Bend Baptist Church for a revival meeting. Rev. Eggleston, a native of Boone County is one of our strongest young preachers and evangelists. He has had unusual success in the work of God, both as pastor and revivalist. Everybody is cordially invited to attend these services. The services will begin at 7:30 p. m. There will be special music each evening.

BELOVED LADY OF HEBRON DIES FRIDAY

Mrs. Dora Highhouse Garnett, wife of Walter Garnett, Hebron, farmer and real estate man, died suddenly Friday at her home. She was 61 years old.

Dr. M. A. Yelton, attending physician said that when he arrived at the home, all possible hope of saving her was gone. Dr. Yelton said her death was caused from acute indigestion.

A sister, Mrs. Sallie Ritter, her mother, Mrs. Frances Highhouse, and four brothers, Hal and Frank Highhouse, Ludlow, and John and Louis Highhouse, Erlanger, survive her.

Funeral services were conducted at 2:30 Sunday at Hebron Lutheran Church with a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends in attendance.

Bullock and Catherman, Ludlow funeral directors were in charge of arrangements.

RUNAWAY TEAM CAUSES EXCITEMENT

A team of horses belonging to D. H. Norris and driven by Ivan Norris, which was being used to smooth the new tennis grounds at the Burlington high school caused considerable excitement Saturday when they bolted. The course of their run was the alley by Mrs. J. M. Lassing, the yard of E. E. Kirkwood, dislodging some heavy stones here, returning through the alley by Newton Sullivan's home, then down the street to W. L. McBee's filling station, through Mrs. Riddell's yard and Mrs. Weaver's, falling over a coal pile there, which was the finish of their run.

The horses were injured but not seriously. What caused the horses to bolt was unknown, but all efforts to stop them were in vain.

This news in the forty year ago column would not seem unusual, but during the machine age it is something rare.

MURPHY CASE TO BE HELD OVER

UNTIL FALL WHEN KENTUCKY COURT OF APPEALS ADJOURNS WITHOUT ACTION UPON DISBARMENT

The Kentucky Court of Appeals adjourned its summer term at Frankfort Friday without disposing of disbarment proceedings against State Senator John T. Murphy of Covington.

The court's action meant that the Murphy case would not be disposed of before the August primary election, in which Murphy is an anti-administration candidate to succeed himself. The next term of the court does not convene until September.

The Murphy case was one of a group filed with the Court of Appeals by the State Bar Association. Most of the others have been disposed of. Judge Basil Richardson, to whom the Murphy case had been assigned, died before the case was stated, automatically slowing action on it.

Senator Murphy was accused by the Kenton County Bar Associationtion of unethical conduct in the handling of the legal affairs of Mrs. Madeline Corby Morgan Webber, mother of Marie Therese Corby, heiress of the estate of a Detroit capitalist.

LOCAL NINE ON DOWN GRADE

BELLEVIEW DISHES OUT BITTER PILL SUNDAY, TO THE TUNE OF A 8 TO 1 COUNT—DOUBLE HEADER MONDAY.

Burlington dropped another game Sunday to the strong Belleview nine by a score of 8 to 1. Although Akins, who was on the mound for the Burlington lads, pitched a nice game, fielding was very poor and several wild throws was the cause of the difference in the count.

In the tilt between Burlington and Hebron Saturday afernoon, Burlingon won by a score of 14 to 7.

Bob and Gene, playing at Big Bone Saturday, won by a score of 10 to 5. On Sunday they met Petersburg and lost the game through two errors by a score of 3 to 2.

Saturday, Burlington will play Big Bone at Burlington and on Sunday they will meet Bob and Gene.

A large crowd is expected to attend the double header at Burlington Monday, when Petersburg invades the grounds of local nine. The first game will start at 10:00 a. m. and the second game at 2:30 p. m. This will be one of the best games of the season.

REVIVAL TO BE HELD AT LOCAL M. E. CHURCH

You are invited to the Burlington Methodist Church Monday night and be on hand at the beginning of the revival. Join in the singing, enjoy the preaching.

The music will be in charge of Mr. J. F. Moore, local school teacher; the sermons will be delivered by Rev. Harmon Moore, pastor of North Main Methodist Church at Winchester, Ky. Bro. Moore filled our pulpit recently and from all indications he will be a fluent speaker and effective evangelist.

Don't forget the date Monday, June 5th at 7:30 each evening.

ERLANGER GIRL DROWNS SELF IN LAKE WEDNESDAY

According to a report received at our office Wednesday morning, Rachel Conner Dennady, drowned herself in the lake near the Boone Kenton Lumber Co., early Wednesday morning. She was the daughter of John Woodruff Conner, and resided on Erlanger Road.

We were unable to obtain further information as we go to press, but will carry another story next week concerning the tragedy.

Chambers & Grubbs funeral directors will have charge of the arrangements.

LUDLOW MAN BUYS RILEY RESIDENCE

John Delahunty, realtor, of Florence was in Burlington Tuesday closing the deal of the Chas. Riley property at Hebron, which was recently sold at auction to Dr. Nunnelly and Lewis Beemon. Mr. and Mrs. Reed, of Ludlow are the new purchasers.

Mr. Delahunty also reported the sale of the Windhorn house and lot in Florence to Mrs. Emma Taylor and the Tom Judge property in Union to Mrs. Hershling, of Erlanger.

DEVON GIRL DIES IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH SUNDAY MORNING

Car Falls Into Creek Bed and Overturns After Hitting Guard Rail—Duluth Garrison Driver of Car

Mrs. Margie Mullins, 28 years old of Devon, lost her life early Sunday morning when an automobile in which she was riding crashed through a guard rail on a bridge on Richardson Pike, one mile west of the Madison Pike, in Kenton County, then turned over into a dry creek bed six feet below the bridge. Mrs. Mullins was injured internally. She was dead before being moved from the wreckage.

Mrs. Mullins was riding with Duluth Garrison, 32 of Burlington. Garrison said that he and Mrs. Mullins were returning home by way of the Richardson pike after visiting friends in Covington when they came upon an automobile driven by Lawrence Henry, Walton, in which Catherine Youell and Kermit Youell were riding.

Henry's car had stalled and Garrison agreed to give it a push with his machine.

Owing to a steep grade, Garrison applied considerable power and pushed Henry's car at a rapid rate of speed. The car started and while he was watching it the wheel of Garrison's car hit the side of the bridge and the car crash through the guard rail and turned over into the creek bed. The car fell upon Mrs. Mullins.

Kenton County Patrolman Harry Nuxoll and Adolph Froelicher cited Garrison to appear Friday in Kenton County Court on a charge of manslaughter.

The body of Mrs. Mullins was removed to the Chambers and Grubbs funeral home at Walton, and was taken to Davey, Ind., Monday, with interment at Davey Wednesday.

Mrs. Mullins was a daughter of Ben Wagner, of Devon, with whom she had been living since being separated from her husband.

NEW BURLINGTON RESIDENCE FINISHED

A new modern five-room residence was completed on Jefferson Street, Burlington this week. The resident has been under construction for the past several weeks. J. M. Rice, local contractor had charge of the construction work.

The house is very modern in every detail and adds very much to the beauty of our little city. The residence is owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Porter and will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Stephens, who were married Wednesday of this week.

BEER TRUCK IS WRECKED NEAR HEBRON FRIDAY

A Red Top beer truck was wrecked at Hebron Friday night when the driver fell asleep at the wheel. The truck was said to be a complete wreck, but the driver escaped without injury.

ROAD GROUP HOLD MEETING

AT WILLIAMSTOWN TO ORGANIZE DIXIE HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION—BUSINESS MEN OFFICIALS ATTEND.

A large delegation from Kenton and Boone Counties attended the meeting at Williamstown Wednesday night, for the purpose of organizing the Dixie Highway Association. Plans for improvement of the highways in Kentucky were discussed at this meeting.

Business men and officials from towns and cities along the Dixie Highway were in attendance. The sponsors hope to work out plans for improvement of U. S. 25 from Florence to the Tennessee line, wherever resurfacing, rebuilding, or widening is needed.

The concrete road, which starts six miles north of Georgetown and continues to Florence, was opened to traffic in 1928 after the highway had been closed for a number of years while it was being graded, drained, and surfaced. It carries more traffic than any other highway in the state, it has been pointed out, and at the present time this section of the road is badly in need of repairs.

Three years ago the portion of the highway between Corinth and Walton was patched, and at present additional breaks in the concrete are being repaired.

We are unable to give further details concerning the meeting as it was impossible to to obtain further information, as we go to press.

BURLINGTON LADY DIES WEDNESDAY

Mrs. A. M. Combs, 24, passed away at her home in Burlington, Wednesday afternoon, of last week, after being ill only a few hours.

She is survived by her husband, four children and six step-children.

Funeral services were conducted at the residence Friday afternoon at 1:00, with Rev. Will Smith officiating. Interment was in the Jonesville cemetery, Jonesville, Ky.

Chamber and Grubbs, funeral directors were in charge of the arrangements.

MIDWAY TO MEET VERONA

The Midway ball team will play the Verona nine at the Verona park July 4th. There will be no game at the Midway park on that date.

BELLEVIEW NINE WILL MEET STRONG CARROLLTON TEAM

The Carrollton Richlawn baseball club will play a double header at Belleview July 5th. Carrollton will give our boys some stiff competition as they are the leading club in Western Kentucky. The Richlawners have an outstanding club, combined of ex-professionals and semi-pro players.

Kemper, a young pitcher, who was with the Philadelphia A.'s the early part of the season and Connelly another young pitcher that has played with Durham North Carolina. Several of the other players have either tried out with major or minor league clubs.

The first game will start at 10 a. m. slow time.

Forest Brown, candidate for County Judge will make his opening address on the ball park between the games.

BOONE POST NO. 4 TO GIVE DANCE

AT BEAUTIFUL HARVEST HOME GROUNDS, SATURDAY, JULY 3RD—EXTENSIVE PLANS MADE FOR ENTERTAINMENT.

Those who attend the American Legion dance to be held at the beautiful Harvest Home grounds near Limaburg, are assured of being highly entertained during the evening. The local post has made extensive arrangements for an evening of real entertainment.

These dances are an annual affair and proceeds are used for the benefit of the members and their families; ex-service men; and charitable organizations. The Post gives an annual pice each year for the members and their families.

Music will be furnished by Bob Griffith's swing orchestra and an added attraction will be Miss Audrey Warner, noted radio blues singer. Dancing will be from 9:00 p. m. to 1 a. m. fast time. A fish fry will also be enjoyed.

A nominal fee of 25 cents will be charged for admission to the grounds and 50 cents per couple for those who wish to dance.

A cordial invitation is extended the public. Your presence will be greatly appreciated by members of the organization.

L. C. Scothorn, of Idlewild, one of the county's most prominent business men was a brief caller in Burlington Saturday morning.

OFFICIALS MUST PAY INCOME TAX

The Kentucky income tax is constitutional. So held the special court of appeals. Six of the seven judges concurred in the opinion that the act is valid.

On the question whether the salary of elected public officials is subject to the tax there were a 4 to 3 division of the court as was returned the decision that state, county and city officials shall not enjoy exemption on salaries received for official service.

The law of common sense dictates that there is no justification for relieving a public official from paying income tax. When a governor, lieutenant governor, jailer or mayor is elected to public office and begins drawing compensation from money raised by taxpayers, what common sense reason is there to exempt from income tax the salary received for public duty. Such exemption would be unjustified. It would lower morale of taxpayers from whose contributions those salaries are paid. It would arouse increased resentment among taxpayers because of the group set aside for favored treatment.

The three judges who held that taxing salaries of public officials is unconstitutional were guided to that conclusion by a statement in Kentucky's constitution which specifies that salaries of public officers shall not be changed during the term for which they were elected. These dissenting judges held that taking from a governor or sheriff a portion of his salary for income tax is equivalent to reducing his salary.

But framers of the constitution had no idea that this sentence in the constitution would be used to protect officials from income tax paying. Truth of the matter is, that most any tax levied, especially a sales tax, would have the effect of reducing the net income of a public official. The constitutional convention had in mind setting up of an inhibition which would forbid public officers from getting elected to office and then raising their own salaries.

When the income tax was being debated before the senate the question of exempting public officers from payment was raised. Governor Chandler insisted that they not be exempted. He vigorously expressed the opinion that the governor and every other individual holding office of any kind should pay income tax if total income brought them within the income tax paying group. We regard it as fortunate that the court so held. It would be impossible to convince the average taxpayer that there is either justice or justification in placing on the constitution an interpretation that would absolve elected public officials from making a tax contributions to the treasury from which their salaries are drawn.

TAX COLLECTION COSTS CUT

The administrative cost of collecting state taxes was one cent to the dollar in the year of 1936 as contrasted with a cost of 1.8 cents to each dollar in 1935.

In 1936 the revenue department collected $35,153,181 in taxes and spent only $345,730 in so doing. In 1935 tax collections for the state totaled $33,530,076 and it cost $607,696 to collect that revenue.

That elequently tells the story of the increased efficiency and economy with which the state department of revenue is being administered by Revenue Commissioner James W. Martin.

Kentucky's new revenue program has shifted the burden of taxation to those more able to pay, it is pointed out in a report compiled by Commissoiner Martin. Receipts from all alcohol and license taxes from manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages increased in excess of 100 percent in 1936. Higher inheritance taxes. income tax and consumers of luxury items, such as cigarettes and theatre admissions, are providing revenue with which the state's budget has been balanced and substantial reduction made in the state debt.

The increased efficiency in tax collection is better understood in the light of Commissioner Martin's conception of the duties of his department. The improved administrative record is attributed by him to "Collecting all taxes that any person may be required by law to pay, but no more; recognizing tax administration as a technical task calling for a competent personnel; developing smooth and efficient functioning within the revenue department's organization, and cultivating cordial, helpful relationships with other public agencies and with tarpayers of the commonwealth."

The revenue department has made a record for economical, thrifty public service that is notable indeed. It supplies the outstanding example of the results of efforts made by Governor Chandler to infuse efficiency into state government.

WHAT ARE THE ROWS ALL ABOUT?

The citizens of this country have a perfect right to join as many labor unions, clubs, lodges, societies and political parties as they want to. Labor unions have their own worst enemies in their own ranks. When this hell-raising era through which we are passing is over so that major industries may be secure from the dangers of strikes, then fair minded and sensible employes and employers may hope to again look upon each other through friendly eyes, as they get back to basic American principles and admit that their interests are mutual.

—o—

CLASS AGAINST CLASS

The politicians are always angling for what they call the farm and labor vote. Most elections in the past have usually shown around a 50-50 split in the ranks of labor, farmers and other citizen-voters. Typical Americans may be "fooled part of the time" as Lincoln observed—but when they feel they are "fooled" they act independently the next time they go to the polls. Right now weak political backbones are in a tremble because labor organizations are going to unionize Government and State employes. The danger must be evident to those who remember the famous Boston police strike, which Calvin Coolidge, then Governor of Massachusetts, smashed with a firm hand.

If Government workers are to be organized—and John L. Lewis says they will be—what is to prevent ventually including the army and navy? It is the same thing!

The Civil Service has been "let down" to "let in" political pets in recent years. John L. Lewis is too daring and keen to overlook the advantages of enrolling this vast army of Government employes and make them a part of his political dynasty; and if his program wipes up the Civil Service then organized labor will be strengthened in the purpose back of many of the top-leaders to have their own brand of a New Deal. It will bear no resemblance to the one that is now so famous. Our Republic has always sought to avoid class rule. America's working people, the best and most intelligent in the world, are not apt to fall victims to the schemers who seek to perpetuate the struggles of class-against-class in the United States.

PATHFINDERS OF PROGRESS

A modern bard hit the bull's eye when he observed that "God made the country, man made the town." In the early triumps of town life man boisterously claimed that he had improved upon the work of the Creator. Cumulative contradictory evidence can be piled columns high, adding to the indictment of the "town that man made," by reference to social statistics. On the other hand the chief charge against "the country that God made" is that its inhabitants long complained that "it is too lonesome." And so progress in transportation developed new ways of life, new plans of homes and the best highways on the face of the earth.

The processes of decentralization of industry in the interests of local communities have been expanding rapidly. General Motors that began in Michigan now distributes its employment. Industry purchases raw and manufacturers materials from hundreds of sources and returns the benefits it receives to local neighborhoods everywhere.

THE CONQUESTS OF COTTON

The trend for the use of cotton bags for packaging cement is downward, observes the Agricultural Department. But we observe in the parks and along the avenue cotton slack pants on parade, so what of it if the cement trust uses multi-wall paper to pack its product. We win our wars, blast rocks for highways, tunnel under rivers and through mountains and remove stumps from farm lands with cotton. From it we manufacture rubber tires, and lacquer the bodies and coat the leather-like fabrics of the upholstery of our cars. Among a thousand industrial uses cotton is included in ivory-like toilet articles, airplane wings, parachutes and cotton roads. The chemists, scients and inventors are sticking tight to Southland's cotton, and they are constantly making new and better products out of it. You may bet your bottom-dollar that Cotton will always be King.

OUR DOCTORS READY TO HELP

Interesting is the action of the American Medical Association in adopting a report placing all of the facilities of organized medicine at the disposal of the Government in whatever efforts it may undertake to bring adequate medical care within the reach of the American people.

The House of Delegates endorsed the principle that the health of the people is the direct concern of government and that a national public health policy directed towards all groups of the population should be formulated. While the action of the medical body reflects a passive endorsement of the proposal and leaves the initiative to the Government, it is an encouraging sign. Certainly, it evidences a realization on the part of medical men of the need for some improvement in the present system under which advanced medical care is not available to a large percentage of our population and reaches another large group of people at a cost which is almost prohibitive.

Readers of The Recorder may recall some early discussions in these columns about this subject. We have watched the trend of the medical profession in recent years, during which time the family physician has taken an economic whipping, while specialists reaped relatively high rewards. We believe it to be a fact today that most students of medicine have abandoned any idea of becoming a family physician and that the medical schools are turning out specialists who have been attracted by the higher compensation which comes in their chosen fields.

Doctors who oppose state medicine and wish to retain private control of the medical profession probably realize the danger involved in such a situation. Basically the family physician is the backbone of the private practice of medicine, although the type threatens to disappear because of ill-proportioned distribution of the compensation earned by various practitioners. One reason for this disparity in income, in our opinion, has been the apparent hostility of the profession toward split-fees, which merely means that the family physician sending a patient to a specialist would receive a part of the compensation now going entirely to the expert.

Quick adoption of the "split fee" idea coupled with ready acknowledgement of its justice by medical associations would do much to restore the income of family physicians, thus encouraging medical men to give their life in this field. Without some such indusement, we foresee an increasing scarcity of general practitioners until a point is reached when the Government will have to step in and regulate the entire practice of medicine.

Don't worry so much about the business outlook. The best thing to do now is to keep on the lookout for business.

In earlier days in this county girls used to kiss and make up, but the makeup comes ahead of everything else.

Another bad feature of the divorce evil is that you can't keep a cook now even by marrying her.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS ON THE HIGHWAYS

A recent survey indicates that there are more than 40,000 tourist camps scattered throughout the United States showing an annual revenue of approximately $6,000,000. Owing to the rates charged for accommodations it appears that a successful tourist camp in order to make a profit must provide for the accommodations of about 100 persons. The old-style shanties are gradually passing as clean and comfortable housing succeeds them. Running water, electric lights and radios are part of the new equipment. Tourist camps are products of the automotive industry and so are the tourist houses which line the roads everywhere; likewise road stands and extensive mercantile establishments that formerly were exclusive to cities and towns. Thus millions of dollars a year in income derived from new methods of trade and of employment owes its origin to the automotive industry.

THE FALL GARDEN

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

In June we may plant the fall garden in spaces where earlier vegetables stood. Crops that can mature before frost will be of value, and it is better than letting these spots grow up in weeds. An important fall garden crop is beets. Sowing time for beets to store for the winter is any time in June, still early enough for moisture to be present in amount to sprout the seed. Once up, the seedlings take care of themselves, even in dry, hot weather. It may be that the flea beetles will need fighting, but that is not difficult, needing only spraying with Mordeaux mixture, to which an arsenical should be added to take care of any chewing insects that may be present at the time. Two sprayings are usually enough, the first while the plants are in seedling stage and the second, two weeks after.

The ground should be prepared in the same way as when the spring sowing of beets was made. If it can be had, some manure should be worked into the seed bed, and fertilizer used besides. If the soil is of easily workable texture, the manure may be omitted. Good fertilizer to use is 3-8-6, 4-10-4 or 5-10-5, and the amount should be one pound to 30 feet of row, spread over a band 10 to 12 inches wide. The seed bed should be 6 inches deep, to offer reservoir for any shows that may fall.

The seed should be sown at the rate of one ounce to 50 feet of row, in rows 2 feet apart or from any other crop. When the seedlings are all up, thinning should be done to leave a stand of from 1½ inches to 2 inches. Hand weeding should be done in the rows, to remove all competition for moisture, often scarce at this season. Besides, the middles should be cultivated, shallowly, but to cover them completely. The soil surface should be left level, further to conserve moisture to the beets. No "hills" or ridges should be made.

If seed is sown before July, Detroit Dark Red is the variety to use, for it matures large beets in good storing condition, by the time first frost may be expected. If planting is done later, one of the spring varieties, Crosby's Egyptian or Eclipse should be used, instead. Though not so good in color, size and texture, these sorts can be kept in storage quite acceptably.

Whatever varieties are used, there will be some small beets too immature and tender to store without shriveling, but these may be canned. An excellent by-product, too, is beet-top "greens" to provide a change from a diet that may have become somewhat monotonous by late summer.

Certainly, in many ways, late beets will prove welcome, and their planting should not be overlooked. The time is now.

Wore Prince Alberts

In the "nifty nineties," most United States senators wore Prince Alberts. The frock coat was a symbol of statesmanship and a beard was the mark of a man of maturity and substance.

Used Cave for Glass Work

The first glass maker in Scotland was George Hay (1566-1625). He took advantage of a peculiarly formed cave at Wemyss, on the Fife coast, and set up his furnace therein.

Decrease in Cost of Collecting State Revenue is Reported

Frankfort, Ky., June 24—The Commonwealth of Kentucky collected more revenue at less cost in 1936 than in 1935, and shifted the burden of taxation to those more able to pay Revenue Commissioner James W. Martin disclosed in a report issued today.

The report entitled "Results: Kentucky's New Revenue Program" reveals that, although the total revenues of the state increased in 1936, the administration cost of collecting the taxes declined sharply. In 1936, $345,730 was spent to collect $35,153,181 as compared to an expenditure of $607,696 in 1935 in collecting $33,530,076. During 1936, the administrative cost of collecting each taxpayer's dollar was exactly one cent as compared to 1.8 cents for 1935 and ratios ranging from 1.6 to 3.1 cents in certain other states having comparable revenue systems. The report suggests, however, that administrative expenditures may have been pushed below the point which would make maximum efficiency possible.

The cost of operating the Department of Revenue was cut nearly in half or from $605,026 in 1935 to $323,218 in 1936. Payroll expenditures of the Department of Revenue were reduced from $450,949 in 1935 to $211,581 in 1936, a decrease of more than half.

The report attributed the decrease in payroll expenditures to a reduction in the number of employees from an average of 262 in 1935 to 144 in 1936. A corresponding decrease in Department of Revenue expenses for travel, equipment and supplies, and communications is reported.

Receipts during 1936 from all alcohol taxes and licenses exceeded receipts from the production, sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages in 1935 by more than 100 per cent. This increase was attributed to new taxes, increased production, and more effective administration. The report points out that 1936 legislation also imposed an increased tax burden on the receipients of inheritances and higher than average personal incomes, corporation incomes, and the consumers of luxury items, such as cigarettes and theatre admissions. The burden of these new taxes is contrasted with that of the 3 per cent sales tax, which fell heavily upon those least able to pay taxes.

A noteworthy revelation made in the report is that, in 1936, increases in receipts from alcoholic beverages taxes and licenses, together with the yield of the new selective excises, very nearly compensated for the loss of revenue from repeal of the gross receipts tax. In 1935, receipts from the gross sales tax, constituted the largest single item of revenue, accounting for nearly 30 per cent of the total; in 1936 those from alcoholic beverage taxes and license combined with new excises accounted for over 31 per cent of the total. These changes, the report shows, were not made at the expense of the State's total tax revenue, which increased nearly 5 per cent in 1936 reflecting a gain of more than 15 per cent in General receipts and nearly as large an increase in the Road Fund.

A decrease in tax receipts returned to the counties is noted in the report. The 1934 three per cent sales tax carried the provision that one-third of the proceeds should be returned to the counties. As the 1936 tax measures carry no such provisions less state-collected tax receipts are earmarked for return to the counties. However, the report hastens to add, the State is putting increasing funds directly into the counties to supplement or to take over many functions formerly performed by the county administration. Examples cited are the $2,000,000 annual state appropriations for county roads an increase in state funds to match Federal grants-in-aid to provide for old age benefits and other welfare and health activities.

The net effect of the 1936 changes, the report concludes, has been to give the people of the Commonwealth a more equitable and a more efficient tax system; more equitable in that it falls upon individual taxpayers more closely in proportion to their ability to pay, and more efficient in that a larger part of the taxpayers' dollar is available for productive public purposes.

In transmitting the report to Governor Chandler, James W. Martin, Commissioner of Revenue, acknowledged the assistance of H. Clyde Reeves, Director of Research and Statistic, Harry Lynn, Associate, and Victor Hobday, Statistical Assistant.

In commenting on the report, Commissioner Martin said that improvements which were not attributable to legislation were a result of "Collecting all taxes which any person may be required by law to pay, but no more; recognizing tax administration as a technical task calling for a competent personnel; developing smooth and efficient functioning within the Revenue Department's organization, and cultivating cordal and helpful relationships with other public agencies and with the taxpayers of the Commonwealth.

TITLE OF PICTURE AT GAYETY HOUSE

The tenderest romance of our time lives again on the screen when "Seventh Heaven," the 20th Century-Fox production of Austin Strong's immortal love story will be shown at the Gayety Theater, Sunday and Monday, with Simone Simon and James Stewart in the starring roles.

Adapted from the stage play produced and directed by John Golden, "Seventh Heaven" re-creates for screen audiences that star-crossed pair of Montmartre, Diane and Chico, two lovers who lift your heart to the stars.

As the little street waif, Diane, Simone Simon surpasses all hopes expressed for this sensational French screen find, touching the deepest places of your heart and emerging gloriously as the screen's newest and greatest star. Opposite her is James Stewart—tall, laughing, 2gray-eyed—as Chico of the valiant spirit and the shy, yearning love.

Montmartre, most colorful and exciting of all sections of Paris, serves as the background of "Seventh Heaven," a background rich in picturesque setting and characters. There, in 1914, Chico spends his days working in the huge, subterranean Paris sewer.

The picture is one of the best of the year and deserves much praise. Don't miss it at Gayety Theater, Erlanger, Sunday and Monday.

The Boone County man who gets the most fun out of spending money is the one who has learned there's also fun in earning it.

FLORENCE HOMEMAKERS' CLUB

The Florence Homemaker's Club met at the Town Hall, June 24th. A very interesting and instructive lesson was given by Miss Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent.

After the business of the day was taken care of and the lesson given the members adjourned to the home of Mrs. Mabel Sayre, where Mrs. Virginia Goodridge and Mrs. C. F. Blankenbeker served refreshments of lemonade and ice box cookies and a very enjoyable time was had by all.

It is hoped all members will be able to be present at the next meeting which will be held at the Town Hall at 1 p. m. July 22, as there will be a lot of business to be discussed, also the lesson promises to be very intersting. The roll call will be answered by "My Favorite Working Tool."

MENTAL DEFECTIVES TO BE STUDY TOPIC

Frankfort, Ky., June 25—Gov. A. B. Chandler and Dr. Irvin Abell, president-elect of the American Medical Association, have asked federal and private expert groups to make a study to determine the best methods of treatment of Kentucky mental defectives.

The survey is to be undertaken as a part of the governor's program to bring more enlightened treatment of mentally defectives and to establish a method here that will prove a model for other communities to follow along these lines.

The governor and Dr. Abell, Louisville, have asked Surgeon General W. L. Treadway and the National Mental Hospital Survey Commission to conduct a survey.

FIFTY ATTEND UTOPIA MEETING

Fifty Utopia club members attended the Annual June Utopia Club outdoors meeting held at the farm of Miss Elva Akins, of near Burlington. A splendid program was rendered.

Mr. Wilton Stephens, chairman of the Utopia Club hybrid seed corn project, and Virgil Vice, member, reported that the acre of double crossed hybrid seed corn breeding project was progressing in splendid shape. Wm. Moore, chairman of the Utopia pasture improvement project group, reported that lime and phosphate tests on the fields with a medium supply of organic matter were giving splendid results but in the fields very low in organic matter very little difference was noticed in the treated plots except where a light coat of manure was applied. These demonstrations would indicate that greatest results were secured from the combined pasture treatment of lime, phosphate and a light top dressing of manure.

The club voted to accept the invitations of Mr. Berge to take part in an inspection trip of the Cincinnati Live Stock Yards and Kahn Packing Plant, during the first week in August.

The Burlington Group was host to a most enjoyable marshmallow and weiner roast following the regular business meeting. The next meeting of the club will be an all-day project tour on Thursday, July 22nd.

WITH ROD AND REEL

During the past week many reports have come into this office of fish taken from local streams. The best story of all was told by Edgar Maurer, local angler, who hooked the "grandpa" of the bridge hole on Woolper. Maurer stated that he was fishing with a short pole, with no reel, in the super end of the bridge hole when a large bass struck the spinner which he was dragging very slowly along the bank near the roots of an old tree.

According to the story, Mr. Bass must have been somewhere in the neighborhood of four pounds and was the gamest of them all—he turned twisted, pulled and jerked until he finally broke an 18-pound test line for Mr. Maurer.

The next afternoon there were approximately fifteen plugs in the bridge hole at one time, with very little results.

The writer of this article was very well pleased with his catch at the Walton Reservoir Thursday morning, fishing approximately three hours and catching two large mouth bass, weighing four pound and twelve ounces.

We believe that if the angler will be faithful at this lake he will finally connect with the "big ones," and we know there are big ones there for we have seen them.

Mr. Johnson, who is caretaker of the lake will be glad to show any newcomers where the fish bite the best. This lake is a splendid place to take the family for a picnic and fishing outing.

Lloyd Weaver reported Tuesday morning that Gunpowder was in perfect shape, but that the bronze backs were either not there or were not in a striking mood.

JORDAN-McNEELY

Miss Mary Jeff Jordan and Mr. James Lea McNeely were married at ten o'clock Saturday morning, June 12, 1937. The wedding was solemnized in the flower garden of the bride's home on South Main St. Rev. J. T. Barrow, pastor of the College Street Presbyterian Church officated, using the impressive ring ceremony. Only members of the family and a few friends were present.

The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hendricks.

The bride wore a white sport suit with navy accessories.

Mrs. Hendricks wore a thistle suit with white accessories.

Mrs. McNeely is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Jordan. She was an honor graduate of the Franklin High School, class of '31, being valedictorian of her class. She received her A. B. degree from Western State Teachers College, Bowling Green, in 1935 and since that time has served as librarian of the Franklin High School.

Mr. McNeely is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McNeely, of Grant, and is a graduate of the Burlington High School. He received his A. B. degree from Western State Teachers College in 1936. The past year he has been teaching in the Burlington School.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. McNeely left for a trip to Lookout Mountain and Cumberland Falls and will spend the summer in Grant, Ky.

The above news items was taken from the Franklin Favorite, of Franklin, Ky.

OBITUARY

In the quietude of a long summer day, there came into our midst the Death Angel, and bore away the spirit to the realms beyond, of our dear friend and neighbor, Deborah Louise Highhouse Garnett, born March 17, 1876 in Kenton County, Ky., died June 25, 1937 in her home at Hebron, Boone County, Ky.

She united with the Pt. Pleasant Christian Church in 1890. Was united in marriage to Walter R. Garnett Aug. 31, 1893. To this union were born 7 children, 3 of whom are living, Hazel, Roy and Myron. The husband, six grandchildren, the aged mother, together with 4 brothers and 1 sister, bow their heads in grief, while a host of other relatives and many friends join them in their great sorrow.

Mrs. Garnett was known for her many deeds of kindness and charity. When the call for help came, she was among the first to respond — always seeking where she might render a good deed. Many a life has been made happier and richer because she has reached out to those who needed help. A glad welcome awaited all who sought to enter her home, friend and stranger alike received a warm clasp of the hand and a cheerful smile, and it is with an aching heart that we, her friends, realize her passing, but submit with Christian fortitude to the will of our Heavenly Father, who "doeth all things well."

SOMETHING BETTER IS OFFERED BY MANAGEMENT OF CONEY ISLAND JULY 4

Cincinnati, O., June 29—The management of "new and greater" Coney Island will offer something considerably better than a three-ring circus for its combined dedication and Fourth of July celebration—a veritable twelve-ring circus; for its program and attractions for the double event are probably the most elaborate and diversified ever offered in this section.

Spectacular fireworks displays on four successive nights, Friday, July 2, through Monday, July 5—are among the headlines on the program.

Entertainment units include Dick Stabile and His Orchestra in Moonlite Gardens, Coney's exotic summer ballroom; Smittie and His Gang at the new Clubhouse and Rose Garden; Forrest Bradford and His Orchestra on the steam Island Queen, playing for free dancing on its trips between Cincinnati and Island; and Rose's Parisian Midget Revue on the Mall.

Dick Stabile is a protege of Ben Bernie. He was the ace saxophonist in the dance orchestra of the "Ole Maestro," and displayed such outstanding talent that Bernie urged him to form an orchestra of his own. It proved such a big hit with Coney patrons earlier in the season that Edward L. Schott president and general manager, arranged for a return engagement. Paula Kelly and Burt Shaw are featured vocal soloists. Stabile himself performs frequently on the saxophone and clarinet.

Featured with Smittie's Gang are Dorothy Redmand, soprano, and the Four Islanders, a male quartet composed of Walter Bridge, Russell Coburn, Ed Hodd and Cliff Harvot, Jr.

Rose's Midgets are a troupe of little people who put on a colorful music and dance revue with all the eclat of a Ziegfield production.

The Coney festivities will open with the formal dedication of the new Clubhouse on Thursday evening, July 1, with a public banquet. Official dedication of the park itself, completely rebuilt since the devasting January flood, will be staged Friday, July 2, under the direction of the Federated Civic Associations, with 55 constituent civic associations taking part. A civic dinner in the evening at the new Clubhouse will be a feature.

A three-day Fourth of July holiday will start Saturday, July 3 and continue through Sunday and Monday, July 4 and 5, with special programs appropriate to the occasion.

Other features of the big celebration are the all-white swimming pool—with its white sand beach, white bathhouse, white pool the big picnic grove with its 100 free picnic tables; the numerous rides, featuring The Clipper, new thrill ride; and The Land of Oz, Coney's kiddies' corner.

Experience may be the best teacher, but she seldom finds any apples on her desk.

PEOPLES FOOT COMFORT
828 Madison Ave., Covington, Ky.

Glorious vitality can be thoroughly quenched when feet hurt. Science has discovered many new things about the relation of feet to nerves and blood supply — things every man and women should know.

While you sleep, your body is rebuilding from the wear and tear of the day. But science has proved that when your feet give away, vital nerves and blood supplies are so cramped that soon Nature cannot rebuild fast enough to overcome the damage. Thus the loss of tissue takes its toll. Waste matter collects at the joints. Inflamation and pain follow and the WHOLE BODY SUFFERS.

Those headaches—those backaches—those leg pains—may be coming from your feet. In the interest of your comfort, health and happiness, I urge you to call N. TULCH — who says, "You cannot enjoy good health with unhappy feet." —Adv.

SOUTHERN EMPLOYMENT REMAINS ABOVE LAST YEAR DESPITE STRIKES

Although strikes and labor difficulties are retarding the increase of employment in the South, figures show that the number of industrial employes increased 12.8 per cent in April over the same month a year ago, the Research Department of the Southern States Industrial Council announced today.

The department has just completed a survey of Southern manufacturing plants as to wages, hours and employment. Pointing out that usually there is a seasonal increase in employment between February and April, the council survey showed that the April increase was below that of February, which was 16.8 per cent over the previous February.

"The effect of these disturbances in the South as a whole, however," the survey report stated, "has not been great enough to reduce employment below a year ago; but, in certain communities, where plants, employing large number of workers, are closed. payrolls and employment both are far below normal."

The report also repudiated the claims from certain quarters that wages are unusually low in the South, that hours are longer, and that labor is "being exploited." To offset this widespread "perversion of the truth," the research department secured employment and payroll figures covering one-fifth of all workers employed in all types of manufacturing plants in the South, the report declares. In this survey, reports were received from plants employing as few as five, and from many employing thousands.

The results of this survey for April show that the average hourly rate of pay in the South is 46.3 cents an hour, with the average weekly wage at $18.71 for a 40.4 hour average week.

"Since April a year ago," the report continues, "hourly wages have increased 8.1 per cent, and since the low of the depression in 1933, the increase is 46.5 per cent, or from 31.6 cents to 46.3 cents, as compared with an increase of only 29.0 per cent for the country as a whole.

These figures bespeak the progress among industrial employers in the South and establish the fact that this section in leading in the march for industrial recovery and benefits to workers. Supporting this contention is the fact that the weekly pay envelope of the average worker has increased 13.6 per cent over a year ago. Commenting on this, the research report said:

"This is a much greater increase than the increase in cost of living for over a period of a year, the cost of goods purchased has increased in amounts ranging from a low of 3 per cent in Savannah Ga., to 6.5 per cent in Birmingham. As pointed out above, the average hours per week are only slightly in excess of forty hours, thus the increase in the weekly pay envelope is due to both an increase in the wage per hour and an increase of only two hours in the average work week."

The survey showed that in April there were 33,056 more workers employed than in the same month last year, and payrolls were larger by $1,119,256.

This is the way some of the industries reporting show their increases:

Iron and steel, 19.2 per cent in employment; 3.3 per cent in wages.

Textiles, 11.9 per cent in employment, wages 11.4 per cent.

Paper and pulp, 35.9 per cent in employment, 8.7 per cent in wages.

Chemical, 9 per cent in employment, 12.6 per cent in wages.

Construction, 7 per cent in employment, 6.1 in wages.

Stone and clay, 18 per cent in employment 13.3 per cent in wages.

DALTON'S INSTALL FIRST AIR-CONDITIONING PLANT

Dalton's apparel store, on Madison Avenue, opposite Pike Street, Covington, has installed a modern air-conditioning plant, which washes and cools the air for every department in both the main floor and downstairs stores. The Dalton store is the only air-conditioned store in Northern Kentucky.

It is interesting to note that the daily cooling of the plant is equal to the melting of a block of ice the size of a large three-story building.

This recent improvement is in line with the store's policy of presenting the newest and best in service and merchandise to the women of Northern Kentucky.

KENTUCKY HANDLES 22½ MILLION POUNDS OF FARM SURPLUSES

Approximately 22½ million pounds of surplus farm products, removed from price-depressed markets in order to increase returns to producers, were distributed in Kentucky during 1936 to needy and unemployed persons certified to the relief rolls of that state, the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation announced.

The surplus products were removed from the markets by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration and the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, in cooperation with the various state relief agencies, in connection with programs designed to improve returns to producers, encourage domestic consumption of agricultural commodities, and prevent waste. The products were distributed to state relief agencies by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation.

The commodities distributed in Kentucky included the following: Canned beef, 999,970 pounds; butter, 210, 379 pounds; cheese, 49,-030 pounds; dry skim milk, 1,240,-528 pounds; flour, 9,955,774 lbs.; enriched oat cereal 120,000 pounds; rolled oats, 4,440,000 pounds; fresh apples 1,500,000 pounds; citrus fruit, 2,088,000 pounds; onions, 1,-351,500 pounds; dried peas, 1,080,-180 pounds; dried pruns, 1,800,000 pounds; pears, 13,470 boxes; and grape jam, 137,340 pounds. Also distributed in Kentucky were 77,-670 gallons of syrup, and 1,464,948 pounds of mill feed.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

Gathering 3,000 strong to show their appreciation for electricity on their farms, Henderson county farm men and women held an all-day celebration. Lines are now being built and instruction given on the wiring of houses.

Two tons of alfalfa hay per acre is in prospect in Oldham county, where the crop is making unsual growth. Most of the fields were seeded prior to this year, and top dressed with phosphate.

To raise "hundred bushel corn" on a field that has yielded only 65 bushels to the acre is the purpose of Dr. I. W. Johnson of Powell county. He followed his corn crop with a cover crop of wheat, turned that under and applied superphosphate.

Results of a demonstration conducted by Logan Thomas, of Lee county: an untreated plot of 200 square feet of land yielded 11½ lbs. of green alfalfa; at the same time, an adjoining plot treated with phosphate yielded 48 bushels.

County Agent R. H. Gilbert of Ohio county reports that by June 1, farmers had shipped nine carloads of strawberries. The early berries averaged approximately $5 a crate, with 420 crates making up a carload. He expected about 18 carloads to be sold during the season.

At that, many a back-seat driver has a husband who cooks from the dining room table.

PETERBURG LADY DIES SUDDENLY

AT WELCH, W. VA., WHILE ON MOTOR TRIP—WAS ONE OF COUNTY'S MOST PROMINENT LADIES.

Mrs. Laura Porter Huey, 45, of Petersburg died suddenly last Thursday, at Welch, W. Virginia. Her death was attributed to heart failure.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Helm and Mr. and Mrs. Huey were on a motor trip through Kentucky, Tennessee Virginia and West Virginia. They had stopped for the night and were preparing themselves for the evening meal when Mrs. Huey was stricken. The attack was very sudden, as she had remarked only a short time before of how much she was enjoying the trip and how well she was feeling.

Mrs. Huey was one of Boone County's most prominent ladies. She was well known throughout this district and was held in high esteem by all who had the pleasure of meeting this fine lady.

She was a member of the Petersburg Baptist Church, the Homemakers' Club and was president of the Parent Teachers Association. She was a very active member of each organization and devoted much time to the upbuilding and progress of the community in which she lived. She will be greatly missed throughout the county.

She is survived by her husband, Howard Huey, eight children, Mrs. John Berkshire, William Howard, Harold Porter, Robert Duncan, Sammy, Wilma, Carrie Lou, and Nancy Jane Huey; her father A. C. Porter; two brothers, George Porter and Omer Porter; two sisters, Mrs. G. L. Alford and Mrs. Lawrence White and one grandson.

Funeral services were conducted at the home Sunday evening at 2 o'clock by Rev. Lucas and Rev. Dunaway in the present of a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends. Interment was in Highland cemetery.

Chambers & Grubbs had charge of funeral arrangements.

FUNERAL HOME HAS OPENING

JULY 3, 4, AND 5—ONE OF MOST BEAUTIFUL FUNERAL HOMES IN KENTUCKY—LARGE NUMBER IN ATTENDANCE.

Large crowds attended the opening of the beautiful and commodious funeral home of Chambers & Grubbs on Alta Vista Ave., Walton, July 3rd, 4th, and 5th.

Walton and Boone County citizens should be proud of this new home which has just been finished. Those who attended the opening viewed all departments of the establishment from the chapel to the preparation room. Everyone was delightfully surprised at the elaborately furnished home.

The new home consists of chapel room, family room, music room, reception room, slumber room, display room and preparation room. The chapel room, reception room and family room are covered with burgandy carpet covering of wine color. The chapel is equipped with broadcasting features in the walls. A number of the rooms adjoining the chapel are covered with inlaid linoleum which resembles marble. The windows, both upstairs and down have beautiful venitian blinds.

Mr. Chambers made an extensive study of funeral homes before undertaking to have this home built and was very careful to have every detail featured in the building.

All home tradesmen was employed in its construction and contractors Geo. P. Nicholson & Son superintended the building work; N. S. Blau & Son, the plumbing work; the Conrad Hardware store furnished all the hardware, rugs, linoleum, venitian blinds, etc.

A concrete drive, which was not completed at the time of the opening will encircle the home and will add to the beauty of the new establishment.

Wallace K. Grubbs and family occupy the upper floors which are elaborately furnished and equipped with electrical appliances and city water.

Mr. Chambers has been in business in Boone County for many years, and has done much toward it progress. He has made many donations to worthy causes which will stand as landmarks for years to come.

Speeches were made by Robert Blaine, Grant County; Judge Rankin, Gallatin County and Barker, of Pendleton County, and Best.

KITE-PURDY CALF WINS FIRST PLACE

AT ANNUAL KENTUCKY JERSEY CATTLE CLUB, HELD AT LEXINGTON, TUESDAY, JUNE 29—$90.00 RECEIVED FOR CALF.

At the recent annual Kentucky Jersey Cattle Club sale held Tuesday, June 29 at Forward Farm, Lexington, one of Kite-Purdy's calves took first prize, bringing $90.00.

Kite and Purdy consigned four heifers, two Junior yearlings and two Senior yearlings, all of Design breeding. One of the Junior yearlings, Design Baby Doll 1141513 topped the class for both Junior and Senior Yearlings.

This heifer was dropped Sept. 2, 1936. She is out of a Sybil cow, bred by Kite and Purdy and by a Design Bull bred by Herbert Farrell, of Nashville, Tenn.

There were eighteen Junior and Senior yearlings entered at the sale from some of the best Jersey herds in Kentucky. We are very glad that first prize was brought back to Boone County.

LIME AND PHOSPHATE BRING LARGE RETURNS

An experiment on the use of lime and phosphate carried out by S. B. Scott, of near Grant, showed a marked increase in alfalfa hay by using lime and phosphate, according to David Colville, Assistant County Agent. Check plots were left in the field on which application of (1) lime, (2) phosphate, and lime and (3) no applications were made.

The alfalfa from these plots was cut from a representative section of each test plot. This alfalfa was immediately weighed. The largest amount of hay was taken from the plot which had received both lime and phosphate. The results were as follows: Untreated 3.22 tons per acre; lime 4.84 tons per acre; and lime and phosphate 5.38 tons per acre. This hay was not cured but was weighed immediately after cutting.

The hay on the ground treated with lime only was apparently the heaviest but when weighed, the plot treated with lime and phosphate produced at a rate of .54 tons more to the acre than the plot treated with lime only, and an increase of 2.16 tons more to the acre than the untreated ground.

This data is the first gathered this year. Forty-one farmers last year who received T. V. A. phosphate agreed to leave check plots of lime and phosphate and these results will be published later.

FORMER BOONE LADY SUCCUMBS

AT INDIANAPOLIS—WAS WIFE OF LOUIS CONNER YAGER, MEMBER OF INDIANAPOLIS REAL ESTATE BOARD.

Friends in Boone county learned Tuesday of the death at her home in Indianapolis of Mrs. Margaretta Kirtley Herndon Yager, for many years a resident of Boone County, wife of Louis Conner Yaeger, member of the Indianapolis Real Estate Board.

Mrs. Yager, who was 72 years old was decended from a long line of Northern Kentucky pioneers. She was a daughter of Elijah and Margaretta Herndon, and a cousin of William Herndon, one time law partner of President Abraham Lincoln, who was responsible for collecting much of the existing biographical material on the President's early political life.

Mrs. Yager was born at the old Herndon homestead, six miles south of Covington on the Dixie Highway. Later she moved to Covington. She remained there until she moved to Indianapolis, 20 years ago.

Besides her husband, she is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Albert Riggs, Covington, Mrs. Raymond Cain, Norwood, and Mrs. Walter Foreman and Mrs. Grace Yager, both of Indianapolis, and three sisters, Mrs. Ida H. Hall, Cincinnati, Mrs. Joseph Drexelius, Covington and Mrs. J. W. Leathers, Chicago.

Services will be held at 10:30 today (Thursday) at the Swetman funeral home Covington. Burial will be in the famous "Stringtown-on-the-Pike" cemetery, Florence.

Hempfling - Muenchenback

Miss Hannah Hempfling, daughter of Mrs. Emma Hempfling, Constance, and Mr. Lee Muenchenback, of Hamilton, Ohio, were married at Lawrenceburg, Ind., June 30 at 12 o'clock noon.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of Alice blue taffeta and white lace with white accessories. Her attendant, Miss Dolly Shearer was dressed like the bride excepting that her dress was of American beauty shade.

Mr. William F. Heinz was best man.

After the ceremony the bridal party motored to Hamilton, Ohio, for dinner, then returned to the Hemfling residence at Constance, where a family reception was held.

Following the reception the happy couple left for a short honeymoon, after which they will reside at Constance.

SHOWS THIS WEEK

At the Gayety Theater, Erlanger, there are two feature attractions, Sunday and Monday, Joe E. Brown in "When's Your Birthday," with Marion Marsh, Fred Keating and Edgar Kennedy.

Next week, brings two of the screen's most noted stars, Jean Harlow and Robert Taylor in "Personal Property." Watch next week's paper for details.

FAIR GROUNDS WILL BE SOLD

AT AUCTION FRIDAY AND SATURDAY OF THIS WEEK—SIXTY FIVE BEAUTIFUL BUILDING LOTS OFFERED.

Sixty-five beautiful building lots, a five-room frame house and a large recreation hall will be sold at auction Friday and Saturday, July 9th and 10th by the R. G. Kinman Realty Auction. Co., of Covington, through A. D. Yelton, Master Commissioner of Boone County.

The old Florence fair grounds have been subdivided into 65 lots, and will be sold individually, and then as a whole. The highest figure obtained will be the selling price. For many years this property has been the scene of many happy gatherings, most outstanding, being the annual Florence Fair which was conducted, for many years, but which has been discontinued in the past few years.

With the increasing demand for suburban homes, it is expected that this sale will attract many bidders as there are lots for both business houses and residents.

This property is bordered on both sides by U. S. Highways 25 and 42, and is only eight miles from Covington.

No doubt within the next few years many beautiful residents will dot the lots which will be sold at this auction Friday and Saturday. Possibly two or three business houes will also be contructed there.

The property will be sold at absolute auction on Friday at 2 p. m. and Saturday at 1 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

SPORTMEN TO HOLD SHOOT SUN.

At a meeting of the Boone County Fish and Game Protective Association last Thursday night, plans were made for another clay pigeon shoot to be held at Burlington Sunday afternoon, July 11th.

In order to participate in the shoot you must be a member of the association in good standing. Many sportsmen from all sections of the County are expected at this shoot. The club will furnish both shells and pigeons.

All club members urged to attend, as money derived from the shoot will be used toward paying bounties on crows and hawks.

JONES-HILL

Miss Bessie Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jones and Ray Hill, son of Mrs. Minnie Sellers were quietly married by Rev. Noble Lucas, of Petersburg, Saturday evening, June 26. The bride and groom are residents of the Bullittsville neighborhood.

The bride wore a lovely white lace gown over white taffeta. She wore a corsage of pink roses intermingled with blue delphi nium.

Miss Dorothy Burns, the bride's attendant wore a pink lace gown, over pink taffeta. She was a corsage of pink roses.

Gene Jones, brother of the bride was best man.

Following the ceremony the couple left for a short honeymoon.

Their many friends wish them much happiness and prosperity.

REL C. WAYMAN SELLS FARM

Mrs. Nannie Pope sold her 75-acre farm last Friday. The farm is located two miles southwest of Burlington, near the East Bend Road. The purchaser was Mrs. John J. Strader, who will specialize in the raising of high-bred show horses. The sale, which was private, was made by Rel C. Wayman, 623 Washington Street, Covington.

Mrs. Lloyd Weaver is improving, after suffering from an attack of appendicitis.

WIDOW ENDS LIFE IN LAKE

BODY OF VICTIM, 44, FOUND FLOATING NEAR SHORE FOLLOWING DISAPPEARANCE—IS SEOND FAMILY TRAGEDY.

The body of Mrs. Rachel Dennady, clad only in her underwear, was found early Wednesday, June 30, floating face downward in Silver Lake, Erlanger.

Mrs. Dennady had been in ill health for more than a year relatives with whom she lived, said.

Tuesday night she was taken to Dr. Otis E. Senour, Erlanger physician, for treatment, by her nephew, Elmo Powers, who, along with Mrs. Dennady's sister, Mrs. J. C. Powers and her father, J. W. Conner, lives at 315 Erlanger road.

After returning home, the nephew said his aunt went to bed around 11 p. m. Wednesday morning, when the family arose, Mrs. Dennady was missing.

Believing that she might have taken her life, the nephew went to the home of a relative, H. W. Garr, 22 Commonwealth avenue, and together they went to the lake, where they saw the body floating about 10 feet from the bank. Mrs. Dennady's spectacles were still in place.

Hanging from a post near the spot where he body was found, the men discovered her house dress and a sweater in which they found a barely legible note scrawled on a small picee of newspaper.

The note said: "I am so miserable. Don't worry or feel sorry for me. It is best this way. I am going to the lake."

After finding her body, relatives recalled how her brother, Ruben Conner, took his life about five years ago by shooting himself. At the time he was cashier of the Erlanger Savings Bank.

The body was taken to the Chambers and Grubbs funeral home, where arrangements for burial was made.

ERLANGER MAN SUFFERS INJURIES

SATURDAY NIGHT AT SERVICE STATION—LEG IS SEVERED WHEN PINNED BETWEEN TWO CARS.

Charles Vagades, 35 years old, of Clay Street, Erlanger, was severely injured Saturday night when his left leg was severed. He was servicing an automobile on the Dixie Highway at Erlanger.

Rudolph Gates, 45 Akron, O., owner of the automobile which Vagades was serving, also was in the hospital, his right leg fractured.

Vagades was putting gasoline into Gate's car when it was hit by a machine driven by Thomas Hubbard, 44, Louisville. Hubbard will be arraigned before Judge John B. Read on charges of reckless driving and operating an automobile without a driver's license.

Mr. Vagades was an employee of Joseph A. Kuchle who operates the garage and service station at Erlanger. Reports from the St. Elizabeth Hospital stated that Vagades condition was fair.

Hubbard was arrested by E. C. Antrobus, Chief of Erlanger police.

PETERSBURG WINS DOUBLE HEADER FROM BURLINGTON

ERLANGER WILL GET CITY WATER

REVELATION OF PROGRESS MADE BY VICTOR IN ANSWERING COURT LITIGATION—INTEREST WILL BE PAID.

Russell N. Victor, Erlanger city attorney, announced last week that the city is making plans to take care of the interest sought in the suit filed by Charles A. Hinsch & Co., Cincinnati bonding house, and at the same time revealed plans for the construction of the Erlanger municipal water works had been practically completed.

Mr. Victor pointed out that the money that would have gone to pay the interest on the $40,000 sewer-project bonds, had been used to proceed with construction of the sewer lines, in an effort to derive some income from that source. He plans to obtain a loan in order to pay the interest due the Hinsch Co.

J. M. Hillman, Louisville representative of the Reynolds Bonding Co., N. Y., who has been in Erlanger for the past several months, said his company would go ahead with plans to take over the $150,000 issue of revenue bonds to be levied against proposed waterworks.

Wells for the municipal waterworks have already been dug, and plans for the set-up now are being drawn. They should be completed within two weeks, it was announced, and then bids will be accepted for the construction job.

More than 600 subscribers already have contracted to take water from the municipal plant, and those who do not now have "tap" lines may have them installed for a $15 charge during the period of construction.

HOW TIMES HAVE CHANGED

A few years ago banks were soliciting time and savings deposits at 4 percent interest. County funds were eagerly sought by banks and deposits were made of these funds in various bank at the rate paid on other time deposits.

In the last few years the rate paid on County funds has been 2½ percent and just recently some of the banks have notified the County Treasurer of their desire to return to the County the deposits held by them, stating that they do not care to continue as a depository for County funds any longer on account of being unable to employ these funds profitably.

This places the local depository on the spot, it being required to accept these unwanted deposits and pay 2½ per cent interest, even though a profit can not be made on same.

Who would have ever dreamed that the time would come when banks would not be anxious to retain a good deposit at the current rate paid on time and savings deposits?

COUNTY AGENTS ARE OKEH

Nearly 300 county agents from about 30 states congregated in Washington recently. Their national association was organized in 1916 and it has done splendid work in its chief objectives to raise the standards of the farmers and America. The Department of Agriculture has found that it can lean heavily, and with full reliance upon the county agents.

WHO KNOWS?

The complications of Government are so tremendous that the wisest observers and the newspaper men of the Capital cannot keep track of what it's all about. Even most members of Congress admit that they are lost in the wilderness of events.

TAX EVASION

In an editorial dated May 29, the New York Times said: "Ever since March 15, when the tax returns were considerably below what the Treasury had expected, there has been a great deal of concern in Washington regarding 'tax avoidance.' The President has finally spoken about the matter and cited examples of it. On all this the comment of Senator Wheeler seems sensible. If there have been evasions, he remarks, civil suits should be brought by the Treasury to recover the money. If fraud has been perpetrated, criminal prosecution should be started. If the law needs strengthening, the Treasury should work out specific legislation to cover the abuses and recommend action by Congress.

"Loopholes in existing tax laws should, of course, be plugged up as soon as they become evident. One enormous loophole has been evident for years—tax exempt bonds. Yet the present administration, like its predecessors, has done nothing about it. As for other 'loopholes' it is the Treasury's function to determine, first, whether these are really justifiable exemptions and, second, whether a rule can be drawn to close them without placing and unjust burden on honest taxpayers.

"Meanwhile, one may be permitted to doubt whether Representative Doughton is correct in asserting that the recent failure of tax revenues to meet the Treasury estimates was due to 'evasion by the big taxpayers.' No doubt there is a certain percentage of evasion but this is not something that appears suddenly in one year. And if there has been a growth in 'tax avoidance,' it should be instructive to inquire into its probable causes.

"It is fair to ask whether one of these has not been the attitude toward the income tax of the Administration itself. As Professor R. M. Haig, a leading tax authority, has pointed out, the income tax is essentially a 'self-assessed' tax resting upon a detailed declaration of the taxpayer which the Treasury can hope to check only to a minor extent Successful administration requires the active assistance of the taxpayer. When levy that is dependent upon self assessment comes to be generally regarded as inequitable, its administration tends to crumble.

"The revenue acts . . . have inflicted serious damage upon the income tax by numerous modifications that do violence to the taxpayer's sense of fair play, thus impairing his spirit of cooperation. This is wholly apart from the question of tax rates—though when Federal income tax rates alone mount to 79 per cent on the highest brackets, not counting what the individual state in which the taxpayer lives may have taken in addition, it is hardly surprising if taxpayers here and there cease to trouble to earn this amount for the sake of turning it over to the Government, and if in consequence revenues decline.

"What are we to say of the fairness of a law which taxes capital gains but refuses to allow deductions for capital losses? What are we to say of a law which refuses to allow either the individual or corporation to carry forward losses as a deduction from the taxable income of subsequent years? What are we to say of laws which refuse to permit consolidated returns for corporations; which place heavy penalty taxes on corporations for putting aside funds into contingency reserves or into productive plants instead of recklessly paying them out in dividends?

"It is desirable to plug up loopholes in the income tax laws, but it is no less desirable to re-examine those laws, and our present methods of auditing tax returns, to make sure that they are not sometimes calculated to transform honest men into bitter opponents of the income tax."

REFUGE IN A STORM

In his annual address, the president of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, said: "The sound record of the capital stock fire insurance companies through the recent depression is one which I feel confident in saying is without parallel. In the face of the most dismaying financial conditions the companies as a body have stood firm, without the slightest failure on their part in maintaining their service of insurance protection for all classes and all interests throughout the land. No property-owner, large or small, in any part of the country, however remote, has had his anxieties increased under depression conditions by inability to obtain from the stock fire insurance companies coverage for his factory his store, his goods, his home and its contents, or any other property he possessed, against the hazard of destruction by fire or other kindred causes. No bank, insurance institution, loan association, or personal investor relying upon such property as collateral for a loan to its owner has had to face the possibility of the destruction of the collateral without indemnification because the stock fire insurance companies were timorously seeking to contract the area of their operations or to lessen the burden of risk they were carrying. Thus in the depth of the depression the American public has found our companies prepared to give the full measure of their accustomed service; it has found them meeting every obligation to the letter, and it has seen in them a haven of refuge in a terrifying storm."

Fire insurance is the foundation of all credit. Without insurance no man could afford to build a factory, to buy stocks of goods, to loan money for productive undertakings, to send merchant ships out upon the seas. In every endeavor, a fire insurance policy stands between an industry or an individual and a ruinous loss. If, even for a brief time, insurance failed to provide this essential protection, commercial chaos would reign. The channels of credit would dry upand paralysis would encompass all business.

No industry has done more to serve the people—the wealthy man and the poor man, the great corporation and the little busniess—than stock fire insurance.

NOBODY PAYS BUT FINLAND

The nations that the United States saved for democracy's sake owe this country many billions of dollars of which $1,500,000,000 recently fell due. Little Finland came across with $163,143. All the rest defaulted.

It is getting so that no one expects the war debts to be paid or even adjusted.

GOOD BRAKES

By J. M. Crawford Chief Engineer Chevrolet Division, General Motors Corporation

Not long ago, a party of tourists narrowly escaped mishap when a battered old car coming toward them on the highway suddenly cut across their path into a farm drive. Good brakes on their car and a wide apron on the road, enabled them to miss it by a hair, and as they backed onto the road again, they remonstrated with its driver, who was just beginning to realize how close to trouble he had been.

"Why in the world didn't you signal that you were going to turn?" one of the party demanded.

"Why, Mister," the other driver answered, "I thought everybody knowed I live here."

Whoever remarked that the average car was better than the average driver probably meant that operating technique, as observable on our streets and highways, has not kept pace with the evolution of the motor car itself. Certainly a little heavier stress on the niceties of driving would enable the motoring public to secure a greater measure of the comfort, safety, and general satisfaction that are built into ever car today.

In my opinion, that motorist is the most competent who keeps in mind, at all times, the fact that there are other besides himself on the road, and drives in a manner consistent with that realization. The good driver never assumes that others know what he intends to do. He signals every move—not only his stops and turns, but also his intention to pull away from a curb. He is equally careful to give notice, with his horn, when about to pass. Observance of proper signal procedure will automatically do away with one of the most dangerous driving hazards—the sudden, unexpected move.

And if he hopes to qualify among the really topnotch drivers, he will go one step further, and keep his eyes open for the other fellow's signals, so that his own starts, stops and turns may be based on information more reliable than a guess or a "hunch" of what others are about to do.

SEES GREAT NEED FOR CONTOUR CULTIVATION

The amount of erosion in fields of corn, tobacco and other cultivated crops this spring, as a result of heavy rainfall, emphasizes the need of more contour farming in Kentucky, says a statement by Earl G. Welch, agricultural engineering specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. About everywhere in the state, including the Bluegrass region, fields can be seen with numerous small gullies cut in them.

Contour cultivation of slopes would do much to stop such washing, says Mr. Welch. In contour cultivation, rows are run level across the slope as a man would travel if he walked from one side of a rolling field to the other without going up or down hill. If exact contour cultivating can not be practiced, corn and tobacco rows should be run across the slope rather than with the slope, since ridges created by machinery during cultivation tend to retard the flow of water down the slope and reduce soil losses.

In tests conducted during the growing season, contour cultivation reduced soil losses by approximately 50 percent on all slopes varying from those with slight slopes to those with a fall of 20 feet in 100 feet.

Contour cultivation is generally practiced in Kentucky on slopes so steep that it is difficult to plow directly up or down hill, but it should be practiced on much gentler slopes as well.

SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for July 11

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 3:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come now therefore, and I will send thee.—Exodus 3:10.
PRIMARY TOPIC—How God Answered His People's Prayer.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Leader in the Making.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Get Ready to Work for God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How God Provides Leaders Today.

God calls men, commissions and uses them to carry out his plans and purposes in the earth. What a great truth that is and how it glorifies the destiny of man to know that it is divinely appointed. As Joseph Parker beautifully points out, the experience of Moses in Midian was a direct dealing with God, whereas we who may not be able to "see the fountain" must "be content to drink at the stream," but should always remember that the stream flows from that same fountain.

"Every man should put to himself the questions—What is my destiny? What does God mean me to be and to do in the world? . . . It is a most pitiful thing that a man should read of Moses being divinely called . . . to a special work" and fail to realize "that God has a special work for every man to do." Let us have a care that we do not "so pervert and misinterpret circumstances as to press them into a justification of self-will," rather than recognize them as "destiny which is beckoning us to duty."

For our instruction and guidance we consider then the story of the call of this outstanding leader of Israel. It presents him as a true servant of God—one who was

I. Personally Equipped.

While it is a blessed truth that God will use any man who surrenders himself to his control and guidance no matter how limited that man's ability and training may be, it is also true that, other things being equal, the man with the best equipment will be the most useful servant.

God gave Moses a unique preparation. He was first of all a Hebrew, born among the people that he was to lead. He knew the luxury and all the cultural advantages of the Egyptian court (Acts 7:22), with the safeguard of training by his own mother as his nurse. He observed at first hand the oppression of his people and made a self-willed and impulsive effort to deal with the problem. The result was that he had a "postgraduate" course of instruction and discipline in the wilderness where he spent forty years in the school of experience.

The leaders of God in our day need training. Some best receive it in schools, in Christian colleges, seminaries, and Bible schools true to the faith. Others prepare in the home, the church, and in the "university of hard knocks"—as someone has called the school of experience. Perhaps the best preparation is a balanced combination of the two, school and experience. But the important thing is to be prepared for God's call.

II. Spiritually Qualified.

Moses was a man who knew God. Had he been a worldly man he would have been but curious of the phenomenon of the burning bush. But note how alert and reverent he was and how immediately responsive to the instructions and the call of God.

All the training and preparation in the world is worse than useless in God's service apart from that spiritual qualification that comes from true regeneration and dedication to him. There is no more pathetic sight than a spiritually powerless church worker "going through the motions" of servibe for Christ. If we are in that condition we may be sure that we deceive no one but ourselves. Let us seek God in confession and in glad acceptance of his provision for both our redemption and our sanctification.

III. Divinely Called.

Moses was called (v. 4), commissioned (vv.6-10), and clad with divine authority (vv. 11-12) for his great task.

God calls his servants to different responsibilities and in different ways, but the important thing is that we should know that we are in his will and that we are answering his call.

No man or woman has any right to choose full-time Christian service simply as a desirable vocation, for it is a divine calling. Quite unscriptural was the attitude of the man who said that in a quiet woodland nook he had faced life's realities and had decided "to bet his life" on the preaching of the gospel.

On Giving of Alms

In giving of thy alms, inquire not so much into the person, as his necessity. God looks not so much upon the merits of him that requires, as into the manner of him that relieves; if the man deserve not, thou has given it to humanity.

Sense of Humor

A sense of humor enables us not so much to laugh at the people who provoke us, as to laugh at ourselves for being so easily provoked. —Robert Power.

OHIO TO AGAIN BE AIR CENTER OF WORLD

For four full days, Sept. 3 to 6 inclusive, Ohio again becomes the air center of the world. Cleveland's big airport, greatly enlarged for the event will present to thousands of thrilled spectators the National Air Races of 1937.

The big names of the air, Roscoe Turner, Seversky, Detroyat, Louise Thaden, will again jump into the headlines from Cleveland. Speed, action, thrills will be daily and hourly events, providing for the spectators a true Roman Holiday of the air.

Clifford W. Henderson, managing director and L. W. Greve, president of National Air Races of Cleveland, have announced a schedule for 1937 which includes not only the well established national competitions for speed, endurance and skill, but some new air thrillers which will keep the spectators continuously on the edges of their seats. A total of $78,000 in prize money, which may be supplemented later, is a lure which is bound to bring zooming to Cleveland the top ranking air talent of this and foreign countries.

The international flavor is stronger than ever for 1937. Last year at Los Angeles Frances Michel Detroyat, airmaster and flying genuis, took both the Thompson and Louis W. Grove trophies and all that went with them back with him to France.

In spite of Detroyat's air sportsmanship American airmen didn't like to see those speed classics won right under their wing tips by the talented Frenchman. He'll have determined competition this year.

Great Britain, Germany and Italy too are aroused by France's success in 1936. One or all of them may be represented, and if so, by super-speed both in ships and pilots.

The Army, Navy and Marine Corps are expected as usual, with their crack squadrons, formation flying and intricate group maneuvers.

In between the twelve main events with their major cash awards there is a continuous program of individual and mass parachute jumping and brilliant aerobatics. There will be speed and thrills aplenty for the spectators, fame, fortune, gold and glory for the performers.

From the hour the contestants streak into the port from Los Angeles in the Vincent Bendix Trophy Race, with its $25,000 in prize money to shoot at, until the last pylon is rounded in the 200 mile Charles E. Thompson closed course speed championship there is promised an eye-filling air thrill every hour of the entire four days.

Anticipating increased attendance and an expanded program of events the Cleveland Airport has been enlarged accordingly both as to space and facilities. Ample parking provisions will accommodate 30,000 cars. New four-lane traffic arteries lead in and out which will keep cars moving without confusion or delay. The seating capacity has been increased by 10,000. Many new comfort and rest rooms have been added at convenient locations. Every effort has been made to bring facilities for the comfort and convenience of spectators on a par with the spectacular program of entertainment.

KNOWS HER

"I won't be home tonight, John, until late—if there are any telephone calls, please take the messages like a good hubby."

"Don't worry, dear, I always have the receiver down when you're out."

NO DOUBT NOW

"Then you don't go in for this ultra-radical stuff?"

"Nope. For years I tried to get something for nothing. I'm convinced now that it can't be done."

IN THE UNION

"Have you a permanent cook?"

"Yes, she said she would stay till we could get another."

HAD TO PROVE IT

Jim—So you kissed Bess when she wasn't looking. Was she annoyed?

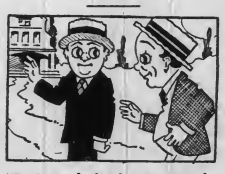
Bob—Oh, quite a bit; in fact I had to do it over again when she was looking.

OFF NIGHTS

First Clubman—After all, there's no place like home.

Second Clubman—Perhaps you're right—this club life has gotten dumb.

HER ASSIGNMENT



Noah—I wish you would do one thing.

Mrs. Noah—O. K., what?

Noah—Show some of our friends where the ladies' entrance is.

"I planned the house out of my own head."

"Yes, I was sure it would be a wooden house."

UNEMPLOYMENT FUND IS GROWING RAPIDLY

Frankfort, Ky., June 23—Kentucky's Unemployment Compensation Fund as of April 30th totaled more than $4,160,000.00, V. E. Barnes Director of Unemployment Compensation, revealed today in announcing transfer of $1,450,000.00 of employer-employee contributions to the Federal Treasury to be earmarked for payment of benefits to eligible Kentucky Workers.

This amount, Barnes said, represents contributions from employers for 1936 and from both employers and employees for the first four months of this year. More than 6,000 employers have qualified under the Act with 350,000 workers covered under the Unemployment Compensation plan.

Barnes estimated that by the date benefits are payable, January 1st, 1939, more than $20,000,000.00 will be available for payment of unemployment benefits to eligible workers who are deprived of employment through no fault of their own.

More than 350,000 Kentucky workers are paying contributions for Unemployment Compensation.

No employer-employee contributions paid into the Kentucky Unemployment Compensation Fund can be used for the up-keep of government. It is set aside in a separate fund and draws interest.

IN MEMORY

Of my dear darling beloved wife, Beulah D. Combs, who departed this life June 23, 1937.

Just a few days have past
Since we laid her to rest,
With her lovely white hands,,
Folded on her still, cold breast.
Oh Beulah, mother darling, how we miss you,
Oh how sad to see you die,
But some day I shall meet you,
In that sweet bye and bye.
God only knows how I think of you dear Beulah darling,
And often my eyes are wet with tears,
Oh how can I do without you darling Beulah
These coming years.
In that cold ground laid away,
I have kissed thy lovely brow,
And in my heart I know,
I have no dear darling wife now.
I think of you dear darling Beulah when alone,
And my heart is filled with pain
Oh this would be Heaven
If I could only see your sweet face again,
In life I loved you dearly,
In death I love you still ,
There's a place vacant in my heart
That never can be filled.
God knows how I long for you
How lonesome I ever am
Oh how I miss your kinds words
And your sweet smiling face
God only knows how I loved you,
No human tongue can tell,
Oh why did he take you from me?
The one I loved so well.
By the help of God I expect to meet you dear darling on that bright golden shore.

Her loving husband,

1t-c A. M. Combs.

BUSINESS SHOWS EFFECT OF LABOR DISTURBANCES

That labor disturbances definitely have begun to take their toll of trade in many sections of the country was indicated by Department of Commerce reports from 37 key cities for the past week just received by its Louisville District Office. Seasonal influences also proved an adverse factor and the general trade picture throughout the country was not a very pleasing one. On the other hand, there were many encouraging factors. Reports from agricultural areas continued in optimistic vein; building activities proceeded with alacrity; the demand for finished industrial products was well sustained; and prospects for a fine Fall and early Winter business were predicted by responsible authorities. Retail trade in Boston dropped 9 percent behind the same week last year due largely, it was reported, to heavy rains. Business in New York also turned definitely downward. An entirely different tone seemed to pervade the Chicago situation where retail business was extremely active.

Louisville reported that summer wearing apparel orders led in retail sales which were up 17 to 22 percent over this time year ago. Flood relief orders declining.

Wholesalers see continuation of upswing in buying power of district; groceries and dry goods orders up 10 to 20 percent with hardware and electrical supplies as 40 percent.

Six hundred employes at Colgate-Palmolive-Peet plant, Jeffersonville, Ind., given pay raises from 4½ to 6 cents per hour with 40-hour week.

Hosiery mill at Princeton, Ky., employing 600 closed; AFL strike closed Inman furniture manufactory, Louisville, with 150 employes steel manufacturing plant at Evansville, Ind., with 100 employes closed "definitely' by management; Minton woodworking plant at Barbourville, Ky., resumed operations after 3-weeks' lay-off; Wald manufacturing company, Maysville, Ky., closed by CIO strike 175 affected.

Kentucky's quota of WPA workers as of July 1, 38,105, reduction of 4,000 from June 15. National Reemployment Service reported 1,249 placements during week.

Bank clearing increased 11.8 per cent over year ago.

Clark county, Ky., farmers complete harvesting 6,000 acres of best wheat crop in years; blue grass seed crop of 400,000 bushels near record.

With prepitious weather, all farm crops are showing excellent condition.

Construction started on $500,000 four-lane highway between Louisville and Middletown.

St. Mary's College, Marion County, Ky., cost $60,000 to be dedicated July 10.

Construction starts on new water works system at Charlestown, Ind., cost $72,000.

Paducah, Ky., proceeding on school building project to cost $330,000.

Wagon factory at Corydon, Ind., reports production heavier than ever before; now branching out into furniture manufacturing.

Thirty-two of Kentucky's 59 distilleries have close for indefinite period; though seasonal, unusually high price of corn is held responsible by majority.

Two hundred employed in building new pipe line to gas field in Martin county, Ky.

Department store sales in Jefferson, Ind., in May were 15 per cent above May, 1936.

Visitors and business at Mammoth Cave national park, Ky., is running 20 percent ahead of this period year ago.

TRIPLE-FEATURE PROGRAM ON THEME OF STEPHEN COLLINS FOSTER MUSIC

Western State Teachers College, Bowling Green, Ky., will inaugurate a series of annual Kentucky Days on July 14 with a triple-feature program on the theme of Stephen Collins Foster music.

A dramatization of the story of "My Old Kentucky Home" at Bardstown, with an episode concerning Foster's visit to this famed home of the Rowan family, will be presented as the highlight feature of the day a 8 p. m. on the terrace of the Kentucky Building on Western's campus.

Dr. Robert McElroy, former head of the department of history and politics at Princeton University and author of "Kentucky in the Nation's History," will deliver the principal address of the day at 9:15 a. m. in Van Meter Auditorium on College Heights. At 3 p. m. in Van Meter Auditorium a concert of Foster music will be given by the college quartet, the glee clubs, and the chorus.

Throughout the day yan exhibit of Foster's work from the Kentucky Library of the college will be on display in the foyer of the Administration Building.

Twelve Western students have been assigned to the roles of principal characters in the dramatized story of Federal Hill. In addition to the twelve principals, about two hundred students will take part in the production.

The dramatization, written by Miss Frances Richards with the collaboration of Dr. Earl A. Moore, both of the Western English department, contains eight episodes connected with the history of Federal. The story running through the eight episodes connected with the eight episodes is the story of Judge John Rowan, whose home is the "Old Kentucky Home" about which Stephen Collins Foster sings.

A narrator will tell a part of this story, linking the parts which are dramatized. The acts of the drama and the narration will be interspersed with Foster music played by the college orchestra.

The first episode is a tavern scene concerning an argument between John Rowan and Dr. James Chambers. A duel growing out of this argument is the second incident depicted. Dr. Chambers is mortally wounded by Rowan.

From this incident the story is carried along by the narrator until the time of the great cholera epidemic which swept Kentucky over a century ago. The suffering of the Rowan family in this epidemic is the theme of the third episode. The story of Rowan's daughter, Eliza, who married John Milton Harney, Kentucky's first poet of wide reputation, is depicted in episode four; and the fifth is centered around some eccentricities of Judge Rowan which he insists on writing into his will.

The sixth episode deals with "Federal Hill" after it came into the possession of John Rowan, Jr. Stephen Collins Foster is a visitor at Federal Hill when, under the spell of the Southland, he writes the song, "My Old Kentucky Home."

A ball, indicating the atmosphere of time and place in which Foster did much of his most famous composing, forms the seventh of the divisions of the dramatization. In the eighth episode Federal Hill is transferred to the state and becomes a shrine of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Admission is free.

OPERATOR'S LICENSE NOW AVAILABLE AT CLERKS' OFFICE

Frankfort, Ky., July 6—It was announced today by James W. Martin, Commissioner of Revenue, that motor vehicle operators would be able to secure licenses at all circuit court clerk's offices. The licenses were in hands of the clerks July 7. The license costs $1.00 and must be secured before August 1, he said.

Martin emphasized the fact that securing the licenses before Aug. 1 did not relieve automobile drivers of the necessity of carrying their present licenses until August 1. He urged, however that licenses be secured early in order to avoid the last minute rush.

Lee McClain, Adjutant General, said that he expected to cooperate with the Department of Revenue in enforcing the operators license requirement by extensive road control early in August.

FOUR-DAY SHOWING OR RADIO MODELS

A four-day private showing for dealers in the Cincinnati territory marked the introduction of the 1938 line of Fairbanks-Morse radios by Appliance, Inc. The display was held at the headquarters of the distributing firm, 523 Eggleston avenue.

Under the direction of Guy Flaig sales manager, the entire line was available for inspection and demonstration. A feature of the line is automatic manual tuning, which enables the listener to tune preferred stations accurately and instantly.

Announcement was made by Flaig of the appointment of A. J. Valentine, widely known in the local electrical appliance field, to the sales staff of the distributor. For several years Valentine was manager of the appliance department of the Sears-Roebuck company in northern Kentucky, and prior to that time he had been with the sales promotion department of the Philco Radio & Television Corporation. Mr. Valentine is a resident of Boone County, and resides on the Burlington and Florence pike near Florence.

DISCUSSION ON NYA SCHEDULED FOR JULY 12 AT UNIVERSITY OF KY.

Louisville, Ky., July6—A discussion of the National Youth Administration student aid program and a conference on vocational guidance are scheduled for Monday, July 12, at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, Robert K. Salyers, State NYA Director, announced today. School executives and teachers throughout the state are invited to attend these meetings which will be held in Memorial Hall.

Orin W. Kaye, Washington, D. C. NYA Regional Director, will discuss the student aid program for the 1937-38 school year at the student aid meeting, scheduled for 2:00 p. m. Other speakers on the afternoon program are N. O. Kimbler, President of the Kentucky Education Association, and Otis C. Amis, NYA Supervisor of Educational Aid. Mr. Salyers will preside and introduce the speakers.

The guidance conference, which is to be called to order at 10:00 a. m. by Mr. Amis, will include talks by Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, President of the Kentucky Branch of the National Vocational Guidance Association; Dr. J. B. Miner, Chairman of the Guidance Committee, Kentucky Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools; Dr. R. E. Jaggers Director of Teacher Training and Certification, State Department of Education; and Mrs. Marie R. Turner, Superintendent of Breathitt County Schools. A group discussion of guidance and projected guidance activity in Kentucky will close the morning program.

The National Youth Administration student aid program, which during the past school year provided part-time employment for 17,321 boys and girls attending Kentucky high schools and colleges, is administered by school and college officials. Administration procedures for the 1937-38 school year and recommendations for improvement of NYA student aid projects will be discussed at the conference.

In addition to the student aid program, NYA sponsors a work project program for out-of-school youth and cooperates with schools, colleges and youth agencies in encouraging and furthering vocational guidance.

THE FALL GARDEN

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

Last week there was begun a discussion of vegetables to raise, in order to stretch the garden's effectiveness to the very last of the growing weather, and several suggestions were offered to that end. There are some more.

Beans—It is presumed that a bean planting schedule has been made, and is being maintained to assure plenty of fresh beans and an adequate canning-supply besides. However, a few more beans will not com amiss, especially of the "green-shell" sorts, sometimes called "fall beans," for although they are merely beans, their flavor is distinct and different. "Horticultural" is the variety to use, either Pole or Dwarf (bush type). They take 80 days to mature.

Cabbage—Although it may not be part of the gardener's plan to provide cabbage to store for the winter, he can well arrange to have cabbage coming in at frost time, and have good fresh cabbage for long after. Any early variety such as Golden Acre, Copenhagen market or Charleston Wakefield may be started even in early July, to result in just such cabbage. It is best to sow the seed in groups where the heads are finally to stand, to escape the hazard of transplanting. Careful watch should be kept to take care of the seedlings against the flea-beetle; spraying with Bordeaux is suggested. Later, there may come the cabbage worms, but assiduous application of arsenicals is the control.

Sweet Corn—Sweet corn in October, even after moderate frost, is decidedly a delicacy. It may be had by starting it in early July. The best varieties are those of the Golden Bantam type, the hybrids Golden Cross Bantam and Kingscrost Bantam. Spanish Gold is another, excellent for home gardeners to use, who will not mind its extreme variability in size of ear as there is none in favor.

Tomatoes—Although apparently there will be enough tomatoes to fill the budget, a few more to pick just before frost and to ripen indoors may be welcome. Set in June or early in July, quite small seedlings of early varieties, Bonny Best, Chalk's Early Jewel or Earliana, should produce fruit of usable size by October 1.

The tomato seedlings should be "spotted" where heads of early cabbage are now being removed. The "fall beans" could follow peas whose harvesting is to be completed soon. The corn could be put part in early potato ground, the potato hills being dug with that end in view, and part where early greens stoods, or it could conceivably follow the first beans, soon to be abandoned for later plantings.

The object of close-cropping is manyfold and manifest. In small gardens, efficiency is enormously improved; the extra vegetables certainly are pleasing to have, and themselves repay any trouble their raising entails. Too, they make profitable the continued cultivating of the garden, thus preventing the weeds from maturing crops of seed to give trouble in seasons to follow.

Other fall garden vegetables are Chinese cabbage, turnips, endive and greens. As it is too early to start them now, their raising will be discussed in a later article when the subject will be more timely.

THE FARM AND HOME

(Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station)

A little cream improves the taste of cottage cheese, although it is not necessary. Salt may be added to suit the taste, either when it is worked or when it is eaten. Usually about a level teaspoonful to the pound is enough.

A 16-pound young turkey tom has eaten approximately 64 pounds of feed, and an 8-pound capon about the same amount. Hence it is more profitable to produce turkeys than capons if the death rate is low in both cases.

Lespedeza is perhaps the most productive legume that can be grown in Kentucky without soil treatment, and yet applications of lime and phosphate usually increase hay and pasture sufficiently to pay the cost of treatment in a short time.

Estimating acreage by the number of plants set where tobacco is checked, as in western Kentucky, is considered satisfactory, provided the correct number of plants per acre is used in the calculation.

The child's daily ration should include at least a pint of milk and preferably a quart; butter at every meal; cereal, bread or potato at every meal; at least two vegetables other than potatoes; fruit, eggs or meat or both, and a little sweets at end of meal.

If washing in cold water does not remove grass stains from clothing, moisten the spots with kerosene, let stand a short time and then wash with soap and water. Alcohol or ether will dissolve the green coloring matter when the material cannot be washed.

HOMEMAKER'S CLUB SELECT PROJECTS

Programs of work for homemakers' clubs during 1937-38 have been formed in many counties by local leaders in cooperation with home demonstration agents and state supervisors, according to Miss Myrtle Weldon of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, state leader of home demonstration agents. These programs will be launched in September.

Thirteen counties selected some phase of clothing as a major project, Miss Weldon reports. Foods and nutrition will receive the primary interest of club members in 20 counties including subjects such as improving the health of the family through better nutrition meal planning, feeding the family from the farm, etc. Thirteen counties asked for special projects in child care and training and in parent education, while 28 counties selected home improvement work.

More than 40 counties have requested fall and spring meetings on style trends, as a means of bringing last year's wardrobe up-to-date and as a guide to better selection of clothing. Other special meetings will deal with landscape gardening, meat curing and cutting, gardens, home accounts, canning and similar subjects.

ADVOCATES PASTURE CHANGES FOR STOCK

Animal rotation is as essential as crop rotation; that is, animals should not be raised year after year on the same land, any more than the same crop should be grown continuously, is an idea advanced by Dr. F. E. Hull, animal pathologist at the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky.

To help hold diseases and pests in check, Dr. Hull would change pasture, lots and ranges at least every two years. The land should either be cultivated for two years or other kinds of stock run on it, he says. Few diseases and parasites of animals pass from one species to another. This makes it feasible to follow cattle with sheep hogs or horses, or so to rotate the kind of stock that none remains on the same land more than two years at a time.

Especially is it wise to have clean pasture for young animals, it is pointed out. Mares, sows and ewes should be treated for parasites in the fall. As soon as the foals, pigs or lambs are born the young and their mothers should be placed in fields that have not been used by the same species of animal for the past two years.

Manure is the principal carrier of the eggs and larvae of internal parasites. Where manure is spread in fields used by stock, it should be plowed under promptly to destroy eggs and larvae according to this Kentucky scientist.

FARM IS RESTORED BY STRIP CROPPING

Adoption of soil conservation practices has increased the potential value of his 190-acre Grant county farm by $5,000, R. H. Stephenson, of Dry Ridge, Ky., believes. The farm, once run-down and badly gullide, is now productive and modern. Field rearrangement to permit strip cropping and an increase in pasture acreage, is chiefly responsible for the improvement, according to Stephenson. His new farm plan includes liming and fertilizing, crop rotations, contour furrowing of pastures, and gully control. Stephenson inaugurated many of the changes himself, with a portion of the work being done under the supervision of the Soil Conservation Service demonstration area near Falmouth.

If Garnish Is Edible, Go Ahead and Eat It

DEAR Mrs. Post: I am a teacher of home economics and recently one of my students called attention to the fact that one does not eat the slice of tomato or the radish or whatever may be used to garnish a platter. We would like to have your opinion.

Answer: You may help yourself to whatever is your portion of the dish proffered, even to the decoration, if it is edible. Most people would not consider a trimming made of raw beet or turnip edible, but if you like one of these vegetables, there is no reason in the world why you should not eat even such garnishing if you want to.

• • •

Informal Lace Cover.

DEAR Mrs. Post: Is a lace table cover at a six o'clock informal dinner proper table covering?

Answer: Yes, entirely so, if it is becoming to your room and to the things with which you set your table.

• • •

Reception Rhythm.

DEAR Mrs. Post: When there is to be no dancing at the reception, what type of music does the orchestra play? I wish we could have dance music but I suppose this would be unsuitable under the circumstances.

Answer: They play popular music of the day. This can perfectly well include dance music even though no one dances.

• • •

Telling the Newspapers.

DEAR Mrs. Post: May I announce my engagement in the newspapers, as I have no parents and am not especially attached to any relative whom I would like to have announce it for me?

Answer: According to best taste, you should write notes to all your friends, and that is all. At least it is not considered proper that a girl send an announcement to the newspapers in her own name. It would be quite proper, however, to have your nearest relative send a notice for you saying the engagement of Miss Mary Smith, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, has been announced.

RED CROSS SPENDING ALMOST $9,000,000

Eighty-eight percent of the more than eighty thousand families in Kentucky who have sought Red Cross assistant to rehabilitate themselves following last winter's flood have received help to the sum of $8,625,995, or a little more than one-third of the total flood relief fund of $25,208,253 given by the American people for this purpose.

Red Cross work has been completed in all of the fifty-eight affected counties in Kentucky with the exception of Jefferson and McCracken Counties. Work in the latter will be completed within a few days and in Jefferson County, which had nearly a fourth of the total registered cases in the State by July 15, said Richard F. Allen, Director of Red Cross Relief in Kentucky, in a statement recently.

"The types of Red Cross assistance have been varied as the needs which our family case workers found in the affected counties," declared Mr. Allen. "Chief among the types of rehabilitation assistance given in substantial amounts have been awards for the rebuilding and repair of flood damaged homes, the replacement of ruined household furniture, agricultural relief for farm families, occupational rehabilitation for craftsmen and the small one-man business, and medical nursing care in addition to that which was given during the emergency period at refugee centers and field hospitals."

To date awards have been given to more than 12,000 families for the replacement or repair of their homes which were destroyed or damaged by the rising water.

Household goods awards have been made to 26,000 families in order that they might replace necessary furniture lost in the flood.

The Red Cross has assisted more than 3,000 flood affected farmers in Kentucky by awards for the replacement of flood-lost farm implements, horses, pigs, cows, chickens, feed and other equipment necessary for their livelihood. In addition to this specialized help many farm families, just as urban families, have received building and repair and household goods awards.

TRAINING CAMP BEING HELD AT FT. HARRISON

Ft. Ben. Harrison, Ind.—The thirteenth Citizens' Military training Camp, opened at Fort Harrison July 2nd, when approximately 200 young men from the states of Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia "trekked" into camp for a thirty day course of training.

The young trainees are under the direct supervision of Colonel George V. Strong, 11th Infantry, who will be the immediate camp commander. Assisting Colonel Strong will be a staff of Regular Army officers.

The courses of this camp consist of Artillery, Signal Corps and Infantry Subjects, and will continue until July 31st. On August 3rd, the second camp of the season will open with the same officers in command. The second camp will consist of Infantry subjects only and will be devoted to the many phases of this branch.

During the last two weeks the Regular Army personnel of the post has been busy preparing for the candidates who will be the guest of "Uncle Sam" for the duration of their period of training.

While the training of the boys will consist chiefly of military subjects, the recreational side of the boy has not been overlooked. Sports and athletics have been arranged, baseball teams will be formed and vie for the camp supremacy. Tennis and volley ball enthusiasts will have their teams and play on good courts arranged for them. For those who care to do so, a regular course in Life Saving and swimming will be given by an authorized member of the American Red Cross.

The program of instruction has been arranged to give the boys the maximum benefit of their stay in camp. Each boy should return to his home after the thirty day stay derived lasting benefit from his trip to the CMT Camp.

OUTLINES CONTROL OF LIVESTOCK TROUBLES

The care, feeding and management of farm animals, points out Dr. F. T. Hull, of the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky, should be planned with the idea of controlling diseases and parasites either by eradication or prevention. The following precautions, he says, will aid in preventing the introduction of diseases or parasites into flocks or herds:

1. Keep animals health by providing clean and sanitary barns, sheds, houses, lots, pastures and ranges.

2. Feed them enough of the proper feed and supply plenty of clean water, common salt and fresh air.

3. Clean the barns, sheds, house and small lots or ranges at regular intervals.

4. In infected areas, keep livestock protected against certain diseases, such as hog cholera, chickenpox and blackleg, by means of vaccination.

5. Do not visit farms when disease is known to exist.

6. Place herds under supervision of qualified practicing veterinarians or state or federal livestock sanitary officials for the eradication of such diseases as tuberculosis, Bang's disease, pullorum disease and foot-and-mouth disease.

7. Make every effort to maintain disease-free stock for breeding and feeding purposes.

8. When making additions to herds or flocks, place new animals in quarantine for two to six weeks, before placing them with the other animals on the farm.

The purpose of the Unemployment Compensation Act is to provide the wage earner, who is thrown out of a job through no fault of his own, with a portion of his former wages for a time ordinarily sufficient to enable him to find other employment.

Employers who hire four or more workers during any part of as many as twenty different days, each day being in a separate calendar week of a year, are subject to the Kentucky Unemployment Compensation Act.

WITH ROD AND REEL

F. H. Rouse, one of our local anglers reports that Michigan fishing is the "tops.' He recently made a trip to Houghton Lake, north of Harrison Mich., where he spent three days. He reports that fishing was excellent and he and his friends brought in some nice strings during their visit. Mr. Rouse says that pike and rock bass are plentiful. The rock bass is the same fish we call "goggle eye" in this State, and are one of the gamest species of bass. Several pike were taken which weighed six pounds, Mr. Rouse reported.

Lloyd Kelly reported that he took two nice bass from the waters of South Fork Creek Sunday afternoon. Mr. Kelly claims that this stream is well stocked with both large and smallmouth bass.

The two fish taken by Mr. Kelly weighed approximately three and one-half pounds.

Last week the writer of this column and William Jarrell, a Recorder employee spent Thursday afternoon at the Walton Reservoir where we were successful in taking two bass which weighed six pounds and five ounces.

The lure used was a "plunker" which looked more like a fishing cork than a bait. We had operated the plunker for about two hours without success, fishing the lily pads, cattails and shore line. We then started casting far out in the lake, and one cast of approximately 100 feet brought results, when a bass weighing three pounds and four ounces boiled up taking the plug. He was a very game one and took several minutes of hard fighting before he decided that he could be mastered.

At about dark, we were fishing the shore line when we hooked another, which weighed three pounds and one ounce, but were unable to really enjoy the fight on account of darkness. However, there was plenty of fight in this gentleman of the finny tribe.

The Walton Reservoir is like many other lakes in this part of the State, fish are plentiful but it takes plenty of work to draw the attention of the big ones. We are confident that the Walton Reservoir contains bass weighing at least six pounds.

Most fishermen are easily disgusted with lake fishing, and really don't give them a fair trial. We have fished so much without any results that we are surprised when we really catch a big one. The man who has the time and will fish consistently is the one who will catch the fish. We haven't the time, but we have plenty of patience.

The cost of administering the Unemployment Compensation Law is borne entirely by the Federal Government.

There is a penalty of one per centum (1%) per month on all delinquent contributions to the Unemployment Compensation fund

FARM PROGRAM BIG LIFT TO STOCKMEN

Inquiries for cows and breeding stock continue to indicate a steadily growing interest in dairying in Kentucky, according to a statement from the College of Agriculture at Lexington. Farmers are not only milking more cows but are demanding better cows, says Prof. Fordyce Ely.

Beginning July 1, there will be eight dairy herd improvement associations in the state, containing about 170 herds and 3,700 cows. Each association employs a tester who ferrets out the poor producing cows, which are sold and replaced with better stock. He also is given association members in problems of feeding, breeding and management and in the care and handling of milk, cream and other dairy products.

Prof. Ely calls attention to the value of the national farm program to cow owners. Through the great increase in the production of home feeds, as a result of the farm program, dairy men will find cows more profitable than ever, he believes. Vast acreages of alfalfa, clovers, lespedeza and other hay and pasture crops are being sown in every county in the state.

In growing these hay and pasture crops, farmers improve their land, provide much-needed home feed supplies, and at the same time put themselves in position to receive payments from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Sheep breeders and beef cattle raisers also are finding that the farm program fits in with their plans to increase livestock production and diversify their farming operations.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

E. E. Evans, Knox county, sold 200 broilers for a $40 profit, which paid for a model brooder house.

Many Rowan county farmers took advantage of low prices on lespedeza seed to make late seedings.

Crittenden county farmers shipped 2,500 crates of U. S. No. 1 berries that brought premium prices.

Dr. L. S. Hays and Jay Fraley spread two darloads of limestone on their Lawrence county farms.

Approximately 7,500 pounds of wool were pooled by Meade county farmers, 2,000 pounds more than the 1936 figure.

L. F. Cole, Menifee county, bought 400 chickens in March. He recently sold his cockerels for enough to pay the feed bill for the whole flock.

Eight to 15 different vegetables were planted in most Lincoln county home gardens.

The potato crop in Breathitt county has made the best growth of any crop in several years.

Luther Dodd, Rockcastle county, sold 275 chickens clearing enough to pay initial cost and feed bill for 126 chickens he kept.

Jefferson county fruit growers received $4 a crate for their first strawberries.

Montgomery county 4-H club members are fattening their baby beeves on pasture to avoid grain costs at present.

Good alfalfa hay yields this spring have caused many Marshall county farmers to plan fall seedings.

Here's Lavish Finale of Billy Rose's Aquacade at Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland

SPECTACULAR AND COLORFUL are all the scenes of Billy Rose's Aquacade, but the grand finale, seen here, presents vividly the gorgeous costuming and unusual staging typical of the gigantic dancing, singing, swimming production which has won unstinted praise of the critics and the applause of the large crowds visiting the Exposition. The specially created train worn by the central figure in the scene cost $7,000 and its unusual size is evident in comparison with the 160 foot floating stage of Aquacade. Typical of Billy Rose are the miniature battleships seen here plying the waters of Lake Erie, Yes, Canada is the backdrop. The Exposition continues open in Cleveland through Sept. 6. Stars of the Aquacade include Johnny Weismuller, Eleanor Holm and 500 singing, dancing, swimming beauties, and music for dancing by the audience is played by nine famous orchestras.

200,000 VISITORS EXPECTED AT MAMMOTH CAVE PARK

Mammoth Cave National Park, the 26th in the Nation's Chain of Parks expects to have approximately 200,000 visitors this year, while the cave itself is expected to have in excess of 100,000 visitors. Four camps of CCC enrolees have landscaped the entire hotel ground. They have also built 54 miles of truck trails, and at the present time they are finishing a system of trails near the Mammoth Cave Hotel.

Last year the list of visitors exceeded 65,000. They represented all of the states, District of Columbia, and 30 foreign countries. Officials state that this year business has already shown a 20 per cent increase over the corresponding period of last year.

In the program of landscaping was the plans for a parking lot suitable for parking 200 cars and an emergency lot ample for 300 more. It also boasts of a 50,000 gallon water system, ten new deluxe cabins, and a completely redecorated hotel with a modern coffee shop.

Mr. Charles E. Mohr, member of the Staff of the Public Museum and Art Gallery, Reading, Pennsylvania, while here collecting specimens of cave life, said, "This field is almost untouched from the scientific standpoint. I have been here three different times and each time I realize that one could easily make a life time study of the life in the cave. I am an amateur photographer and no where have I found such interesting settings as I find here. Yesterday while in the cave I discovered a very rare formation near Crystal Lake, and as far as I was able to determine it has no counterpart in any cave. It resembled a huge bed of mushrooms which had been splashed with every color of the rainbow. The supper surface of them was smooth while the under surface was fringed, with a delicate air formation. This find was a choice one for my color photography, and the thrill of finding something in Mammoth Cave was indeed a thrill."

One writer has said that Mammoth Cave is indescribable. True it is among the Nation's oldest show-places. It has been shown for almost a century and a half. The undergroundworld of eternal darkness has well over a hundred charted avenues and the total of these it is claimd is in excess of 152 miles. It has a master system of air-conditioning, a constant temperature of 54 degrees. It has played a part in the history of our country in the manufacture of gunpowder for the war of 1812 by furnishing large amounts of salt peter. Indeed the things which have transpired here have been sufficient for the writing of a large number of books and countless newspaper and magazine articles.

Officials state that approximately sixty school parties have visited the area this year. Some of them come for the scenic attraction alone, but many of them come to study the geological aspects of because it is one of the Seven the cave. Some come to see it Wonders of the New World. From educational points it is studied for history, archaeology, biology, zoology, and other specialized studies.

It is near the center of the Nation's population and is bounded on every side by other attractions which may be seen by the visitors without additional mileage. Those coming from Cleveland, Cincinnati Dayton, Detroit, and other cities of the north and east can visit the Blue Grass, Cumberland Falls, Ft. Harrod, My Old Kentucky Home, Lincoln's Birthplace while enroute to Cammonth Cave. Those coming from Nashville, Knoxville, Memphis, New Orleans, Fort Worth, and other points of the south and west will want to see Lookout Mountain, Great Smoky Mountains National Park, Jefferson Davises Home and Birthplace, Lost River and other such points.

ATTENTION CALLED TO TREASURY FORM SS-1

Collector of Internal Revenue S. R. Glenn today called attention to the fact that business and office managers of firms or corporations are not allowed to sign Treasury form SS-1, which accompanies payment of taxes under Title VIII of the Social Securtiy Act. Only an owner, president, partner or firm member may sign that form, or one with a properly executed power of attorney.

Taxing provisions under Title VIII call for an income tax on the wages of every taxable individual and an excise tax on the pay roll of every employer of one or more persons. The employer collects the employee's tax when the regular weekly or semi-monthly wages are paid. Such deducations from the employee must be noted by the employer in a comment separate and apart from any explanation of any other deductions.

Treasury form SS-1 must be submitted monthly accompanied by the employee-employer tax, which is one per cent of the wages paid and received.

Teachers and students who find occupation in camps and hotels this summer come under the taxing provisions of the Social Security Act and must pay their tax to the Collector of Internal Revenue in the district in which they they are employed, Collector Glenn warned today.

"Ordinarily, persons in the teaching profession are exempt from participation in the tax, but when they engage in private industry their income from that source is taxable," Mr. Glenn explained.

WITNESS

The men were swapping stories.

"When I was logging up in Oregon," said one of them, "I saw a wildcat come right up to the skidder one day. It was a fierce beast, but with great presence of mind, I threw a bucket of water in its face and it slunk away."

"Boys," said a man sitting in the corner, "I can vouch for the truth of that story. A few minutes after that happened, I was coming down the side of the hill. I met this wildcat and, as is my habit, stopped to stroke its whiskers. Boys, those whiskers were wet!"—Wall Street Journal.

Cheaper, Anyway

"Dad," said young Charles, "do you think they will ever find a substitute for gasoline?"

"They have one now," replied his father.

"Huh!" retorted Charles. "I've never heard of it. What is it, anyway?"

"Shoe leather," was the reply.

Taking No Chances

Marilyn—What's the idea of the suitcase, Mr. Morrison? Going away?

Morrison—No, I heard you talking about the church giving a rummage sale and I'm taking all my clothes down to the office until it's over.—Janesville Gazette.

No Ladies Present

Mother—Well, Johnny, did you enjoy yourself at your father's club last night?

Johnny—Yes, mother; but the men kept saying "Aunty, Aunty," all the time, and I couldn't see any ladies there at all.

Just Room for Necktie

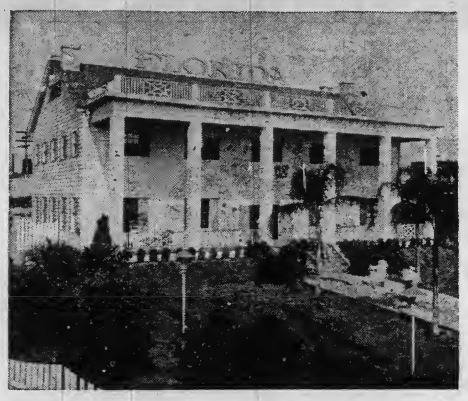
Junior—Daddy, what's a matrimonial bureau?

Daddy—It's a bureau, son, with six drawers packed full of women's fixings and one man's necktie.

So That's It?

"Who is that fellow with the long hair?"

"He's a fellow from Yale."



"Oh, I've often heard of those Yale locks,"

The main trouble with quite a few people around Burlington is to make their earning power keep up with their yearning power.

It's always a good idea to sidestep the fellow who wants to make you rich but who is broke himself.

Old-time Boone County citizens were not dumb. They could tell the difference between red flannel underwear and the itch.

So long as a man has a friend, or can be a friend, his life is not in vain though he do nothing but live.

The world is full of anxiety, most of which is revealed in the five little words: "What will the neighbors say?"

One of the very first symptoms of old age is when you begin to realize that nights were made for sleep.

RIVARD ENTERS RACE FOR JUDGE

EDUCATED IN BOONE AND KENTON COUNTY SCHOOLS, AND GRADUATE OF INDIANA LAW SCHOOL.

E. R. Rivard, of the Walton precinct makes his official announcement for County Judge in this week's issue of the Recorder.

Mr. Rivard received his education in the schools of Boone and Kenton Counties, and is a graduate of the Indiana University, Indiana Law School and Northwestern University.

He is well known in Boone County, and has practiced law for several years. He is a World War veteran and served in the fourth division of the regular army.

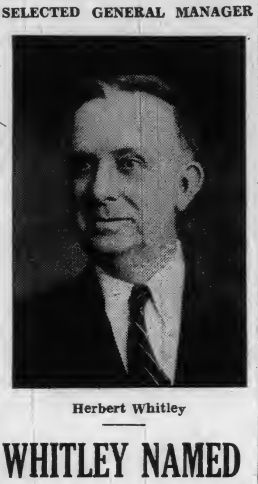
Mr. Rivard stated, that if nominated and elected he will perform his duties earnestly and fearlessly.

CANDIDATE WITHDRAWS

FROM COUNTY JUDGE'S RACE—BROWN SAYS PHYSCIAL CONDITION WILL NOT PERMIT AN ACTIVE CAMPAIGN.

Forest Brown, democratic candidate for County Judge announced Monday night that he would withdraw from the race due to his physical condition.

Mr. Brown was a candidate for the same office four years ago, but was defeated by Judge N. E. Riddell present incumbent.



Withdraw of Brown, leaves only Riddell and Rivard to battle it out for the nomination.

Mr. Brown's notice of withdrawal follows:

"My physical condition not permitting me to make an active campaign, I withdraw as Democratic candidate for County Judge of Boone County, and I thank all the people for their loyal support that they have, up to this time, bestowed upon me, and those who supported me the last time I ran for office.

F. H. BROWN."

SELECTED GENERAL MANAGER

Herbert Whitley

WHITLEY NAMED GEN. MANAGER

OF KENTON LOOSE LEAF TOBACCO WAREHOUSE, INC., OF COVINGTON—IS WELL KNOWN IN TOBACCO CIRCLES.

E. L. Becker, Vice-President of the Kenton Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse, Inc., Covington, Ky., announced the election of Herbert B. Whitley to be General Manager of their properties, effective last Thursday, July 1st..

Whitley is well-known in tobacco circles throughout northern Kentucky, southern Ohio, and southern Indiana. He was born in Claysville, Ky., Harrison County, in 1883, where, as a boy, he worked in the tobacco warehouses at Claysville under Dick Batte. In 1902 he moved from the old home to Ripley, Ohio, where he entered the Clothing and Furnishing business and in 1905 operated his own establishment. In Ripley, Ohio, he also operated as a tobacco dealer in the old Ripley Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse under the management of Luther Kirkpatrick. In 1918 he became associated with the Union Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse in Ripley, and in 1922, with some other interested parties, he built the Independent Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse in Ripley.

In 1928 he gave up his interests in the Independent Tobacco Warehouse, retired from the clothing business also, and moved his family to Cincinnati to give his daughters a musical education in the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. He has been a tobacco dealer on the Covington market since 1930. Whitley's principal tobacco experience was had in the neighborhood of Higginsport, where the first White Burley Tobbacco was ever grown.

In 1905 he married Sarah Kendall of Ripley, Ohio and they have three daughters; Catherine and Mary being twins who have had considerable experience on the radio as vocalist and instrumentalist, appearing as the "Whitley Twins." The youngest daughter, Herberta, is residing with her parents. His daughter Mary is married to William Hillis, Civil Engineer, formerly with the Big Four Railroad, now located in Pittsburgh, Penn., on government work.

Whiley will be in complete charge of the Kenton Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse, Inc., and his background of experience should prove an asset to the Covington market.

ROAD SUPERVISOR VISITS BOONE CO.

Hon. Cecil Williams, Supervisor of Rural Highways, Frankfort, Ky., accompanied by Hon. George Lyons, District Engineer and Assistant Engineer William Crause, were in Burlington Tuesday inspecting the Rural Highways in Boone County and with a view of completing as many of the roads in the county as can be done this fall.

The improvements contemplated call for the use of a tar binder and making the rural highways a higher type that can be maintained by the county. Materials have been ordered and work will be started within a short time.

BURLINGTON NINE DROP TWO GAMES

ONE TO PETERSBURG IN TENTH INNING AND ONE TO WHITE VILLA — PETERSBURG WINS OVER BELLEVIEW.

The Burlington baseball team lost two games and first place in the Boone County Baseball league last week. On Saturday afternoon the local nine lost to the now-leading Petersburg team by a 15-8 count. The game was marked by hard hitting on both sides, Petersburg getting 23 hits and Burlington obtaining 16. The contest was close, however, until the Petersburg half of the tenth inning when they scored seven runs on six hits, five of which were clean singles going for four-base knocks due to lost balls.

"Bink" Shinkle, youthful Petersburg pitcher, was on the mound for the visitors and Don "Mose" Kirk twirled for the losers. The victory made Shinkle's eleventh victory against one defeat for the season. It was Kirk's second setback against four wins.

Burlington's second loss of the week came at the hands of the rejuvenated White Villa team by a score of 10 to 6. Burlington, however, played the contest minus the services of several of their regulars.

Joe Brady and "Britch" Stephens formed the winning battery and Akins and Clore tossed-up and received for the losers.

Petersburg added another game to their win column on Sunday afternoon at the expense of the third place Belleview aggregation on the former's grounds by a 7-4 score. The Deck brothers (Henry and "Hebby") formed the Petersburg battery while Bob Hayden Wilson and Bob Denniston pitched and caught for Belleview. Boyd Mahan, hard-hitting outfield, and Shinkle lead the Petersburg offensive while W. Rogers and Wilson accounted for five of the losers hits.

In order to help realize the wish, members of the board meeting last week in Covington, named Sidney Taylor, Erlanger, to represent the board in the recently formed organization which has for its aim the widening of U. S. Highway 25 from Erlanger to Lexington.

The Real Estate Board indorsed the widening movement and pledged its cooperation.

DEMONSTRATES CANNING

Miss Frances Shewmaker

NEW METHODS OF CANNING

TO BE DEMONSTRATED BY MISS FRANCES SHEWMAKER AT BURLINGTON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 28TH.

Miss Frances Shewmaker will present a canning demonstration Wednesday, July 28th, 1:30 p. m. (slow time) at the Burlington high school. The Boone County Homemakers will sponsor the demonstration, according to Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent.

Miss Shewmaker will show the methods used in canning fruits and vegetables. The pressure cooker and water bath methods will be demonstrated to those present. Miss Shewmaker has had wide experience in giving canning demonstrations. She was Foods and Nutrition Specialist in Extension Service at Kansas State College.

Home canning is a large item on the Homemakers' schedule for this summer, according to Miss Gillaspie. The following fruits and vegetables have already been canned this summer: Cherries, rhubarb, strawberries, dewberries, raspberries, blackberries, asparagus, beans, beets and carrots.

FORMER BOONE LADY DIES IN NEWPORT, KY.

Services for Julia Smith were held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Belleview Baptist Church, Boone County. Burial was in Belleview cemetery. Chambers & Grubbs, Walton funeral directors were in charge of arrangements.

Miss Smith was 76. She was the daughter of the late Capt. John Smith, owner of Laugherty Island, and former river steamboat captain. She was living with her niece and nephew at 228 E. 10th street, Newport, when her death occurred Friday.

AGED RESIDENT DIES AT WALTON SUNDAY

Mrs. Florence Winston, a resident of Kenton County for 64 years, died Sunday at the home of her daugter, Mrs. Dawson Chambers, Nicholson Pike, near Walton, after a short illness. She was 80 years old.

Only Mrs. Chambers survives her.

Services were held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, interment was in Independence cemetery.

Don't fail to see the Burlington-Belleview baseball game at the local park Saturday. This game between the second and third place teams promises to be a good exhibition.

FEW CANDIDATES FILE DURING PAST WEEK

Walton For Suveyor, Only New Candidate In County Race—No Republican Candidates in Boone

There was no last minute rush of candidates to file their declarations for local county offices last Wednesday, which under an opinion of the Attorney General, was absolutely the last day for candidates to file. Most laymen and lawyers alike considered Wednesday, July 7th, the last day, and only one candidate filed.

Noel Gaines Walton, of Union precinct, filed his declaration for the office of County Surveyor of Boone on the last day and will make his public announcement in the near future.

Five of the county officers will have no opposition this year, something very unusual in a Democratic primary in Boone County. The offices of County Attorney, Tax Commissioner, Jailer, County Clerk and Justice of the Peace in District No. 1 will not have opposition. Most of these men were elected to office last term, except the County Attorney, who was elected last August to fill the unexpired term caused by the death of Hon. B. H. Riley.

The candidates who have filed declaration for the various offices are as follows:

County Judge—N. E. Riddell, Burlington; E. R. Rivard, Walton.

County Attorney—Chas. W. Riley Hebron.

Sheriff—F. M. Walton, Burlington; J. W. Grant, Burlington.

County Clerk—C. D. Benson, Burlington.

Jailer—Elmer Kirkpatrick, Burlington.

Tax Commissioner—Wilton Stephens, Burlington.

County Surveyor—J. W. Conley, Beaver Lick; Noel Gaines Walton, Union.

Justice of the Peace, District 1—J. H. Huey, Petersburg.

Justice of the Peace, District 2—H. E. White, Burlington; R. S. Houston, Florence.

Justice of the Peace, District No. 3—Tom Carr, Verona; Everett Jones, Big Bone.

There will be no Republican ballot printed for the August primary as no candidates have filed for any office. It is very doubtful that any Republican will seek office in the general election which will be held in November.

LOUIS C. BEEMON IMPROVING NICELY

L. C. Beemon,, assistant Cashier of the Peoples Deposit Bank, Burlington, underwent an operation at Christ Hospital Tuesday for goitre. Dr. M. A. FAIR SCHEDULED FOR AUGUST 21

PLANS UNDER WAY FOR BEST 4-H AND UTOPIA CLUB FAIR AND PICNIC IN HISTORY—PREMIUM LIST TO BE LARGER

The 4-H and Utopia Club Council is making plans for the largest and best 4-H and Utopia Club Fair and County Picnic in the history of the event, according to Prof. D. H. Norris, president of the council.

This year the premium list will be practically double that of any previous year. The club also have the largest active enrollment on record.

Our 4-H and Utopia Clubs represent our young virulent youth who are interested in greater farm, home and community improvement. They are our leaders of tomorrow and are deserving of your most worth support toward their training of today. They have displayed both the courage and ability to successfully put on this event of interest to all people of the county. May we urge that everyone do their part and cooperate to make the 1937 event the greatest success possible. This is your fair and picnic.

BURLINGTON DRIVER DISMISSED BY READ

Duluth Garrison, 32, Burlington was dismissed Tuesday when arraigned before Judge John B. Read in Kenton County Court on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Margie Mullins in an auto accident last June 27.

Garrison's car upset when it hit a culvert on the Richardson pike, Kenton County. He had been assisting a stalled car to get a start.

Mrs. Mullins was pinned under the car.

R. S. HOUSTON ANNOUNCES

FOR MAGISTRATE FROM SECOND DISTRICT—IS QUALIFIED TO FILL THE OFFICE WHICH HE SEEKS.

In this issue of the Recorder will be found the announcement of R. S. (Bob) Houston, Florence, as a Democratic candidate for Magistrate from Second Magisterial District subject to the Democratic primary election, Saturday, August 7, 1937.

Mr. Houston is a gentleman of considerable experience and well qualified to fill this responsible position. He is a native of the Fifth District, where he was born and reared, and has many friends who will rally to his support.

For many years he held a responsible position in the service of Uncle Sam, in the engineering department in the Canal Zone, Panama.

KINMAN SALE SUCCESSFUL

FLORENCE FAIR GROUNDS SOLD IN TOTAL OF 59 INDIVIDUAL SALES—SALE EXCEEDED $15,000.00 MARK.

A. D. Yelton, Master Commissioner of Boone County, reports that the sale of the old Florence Fair Grounds, Florence, Ky., was attended by a large crowd of bidders and that the lots all sold for good prices. The sale was conducted for the Master Commissioner by the R. G. Kinman Realty Auction Co., of Covington, Ky.

There was a total of 59 individual sales of the entire grounds, bringing a total of over $15,000.00. So far as is known, all buyers are entirely satisfied, and a majority of them bought with the intention of erecting private homes. Quite a few of the purchasers were residents of other counties, and who are desirous to become citizens of Boone County.

The Master Commissioner speaks well of the Kinman Realty Auction Co., and recommends them and their service to the citizens of this county for complete satisfaction.

Operator's License Law Explained

We are informed by A. D. Yelton, Circuit Court Clerk that the 1937-38 Operator's License (Driver's License) are now on sale for the year beginning on the 1st day of August 1937 and running until July 31, 1938.

The license will be the same price as they were last year, $1.00, and the same rules will apply as did last year. Clerk Yelton said that the Director of the Division of Motor Vehicles, in Frankfort, in replying to a letter from him inquiring as to whether or not a person could send for his or her license, without having filled out and subscribed to one of the approved application blanks, and whether or not all persons should have the Operator's License even though they have the State Driver's License, made the following statement:

"We wish to further advise that no one can obtain an Operator's License for 1937-38 unless he applies for said License in person and makes the affidavit provided for on Revenue form 251 which we have forwarded to you under separate cover.

"We wish to further advise that every operator of a motor vehicle is required to have an operator's License before he is permitted to operator a motor vehicle on the highways of this State. This is true even though the operator has the State Driver's License."

In addition to the above information Clerk Yelton says that no person under the age of sixteen years can get a license and that those persons between the ages of sixteen and eighteen must have their parents with them to sign for them.

These license may be obtained at the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court in the courthouse in Burlington, at any time from now until the first of August, after this time the license can still be obtained, but persons driving after that date without new license will be violating the law.

as a Democratic candidate for Magistrate from the First District of Boone County. Subject to the action of the Democratic primary, Saturday, August 7, 1937.

The Recorder is authorized to announce of Hamilton, as a candidate for Magistrate from the Third District, composed of Walton, Verona, Hamilton and Carlton precincts. Subject to the action of the Democratic primary, Saturday, August 7, 1937.

EVERETT JONES

KEEPING COOL

For several weeks to come Boone County citizens may expect to hear the familiar old summer question: "Is it hot enough for you?" While hoping, of course, that the weather man doesn't go to extremes, as he did last summer, they realize there is no possible way to escape a certain amount of torird weather, but as usual are unprepared to meet it in the most comfortable way.

Along this line the advice of a famous Chicago physician recently broadcast over the radio should be of particular interest. He says the best thirst-quencher is cool water with a small amount of salt dissolved in it, because perspiration lowers the water-lever of the body and produces symptoms of thirst, also carrying away a certain amount of saline solution from the body tissues. Eat lightly, he advises, and avoid fats and fried foods. Plenty of of green vegetables and fruits are recommended, along with salads and ice cream. But he warns against too much pie and cake.

Close the doors and draw the blinds in the house during the day, he says, and that will help to beat the heat. Then at sundown when blinds are raised the temperature in the room should be several degrees cooler than if they had not been drawn. But possibly the best suggestion of all he saves for the last, though for a great many people it will be the hardes to observe. Here it is—take it for what it is worth:

"Take it easy! Dont' hurry! And try to forget there are such things as thermometers."

—o—

DODGING TAXES

To the average Boone County citizen, who pays his taxes even though it means a tremendous sacrifice, the action of many of the nation's wealthy men is abominable, to say the least. They know it is sort of second nature with some people to try to beat the government, but they can't understand in this connection how lawyers, supposedly "officers of the court' 'and sworn to uphold the laws of the land can lend themselves to the practice of aiding and abetting tax-dodging, as many of them are actually doing. Today scores of lawyers are accepting pay for seeking ways and means whereby rich clients can beat the law by legal technicalities. In the eyes of the average man such lawyers are as despicable as the tax-dodgers themselves. It might not be a bad idea for the bar associations of the country to do a little house-cleaning within their own ranks. It would at least help to put a little higher premium on honest.

—o—

DANGEROUS BLONDES

If she drives an automobile at night a blonde is not as safe a driver as is a brunette. So says a distinguished New York optician. It has been ascertained that when the lights of an oncoming car hit a driver's eyes, he drives blind for a number of feet. It takes from one-fifth to one and one-fifth seconds to recover natural night-driving vision. Now the blonde, says the eye expert, with light eyes takes far longer than the brunette with dark eyes to recover from a glaring light and should, therefore, drive much slower. This is not an argument so much for the elimination of blondes as night drivers as it is for rigid laws and efficient enforcement against glaring headlights on automobiles being driven over the thoroughfares of the country at night.

—o—

HAVE A CARE!

When one person is killed it may be an accident, but when 43 persons were killed in automobile tragedies in the National Capital of the United States in the first 22 weeks of 1937 as compared with 33 for the same period last year, it is a challenge to those who have charge of law-enforcement.

Eighty-nine cities show increases in traffic fatalities. Only 38 reported a decrease. New York has had 383 traffic deaths in 1937 period against 330 last year. Chicago's record this year is 305, as compared with 276 last year.

The new automobiles are the easiest machines to drive that ever came out of factories. They go just where the drivers direct them, and they obey commands for either low or high speed. The streets and roads are marked with signs, cautions and commands. The traffic authorities offer plenty of help, and their rules for speed and manner of driving provide for every condition that the driver has to meet. Still certain drivers kill people needlessly.

"We Drivers" is an invaluable booklet distributed everywhere by General Motors that tell how accidents happen and the ways to avoid them. Here are some of the causes:

Twenty-nine per cent of the accidents reported involved pedestrians; 53 per cent collisions with other cars; 18 per cent involves other collisions, running off the roadway and so on. Pedestrians meet with 60 percent of their accidents wholly or partly owing to lack of care on their own part. Exceeding the speed limits and driving on the wrong side of the road contribute to many accidents. About 6 per cent of the drivers and from 7 to 8 per cent of the pedestrians in accidents are reported as intoxicated, or "had been drinking." About 15 per cent of the serious accidents are caused by the failure of the driver or owner of the car to maintain safe brakes, headlights and other features of the machinery for which he alone is responsible.

THREE MILLION DEAD ELMS

More than three million elm trees have died since the Dutch elm disease came into the United States about 1925, on burl elm logs shipped from Europe to cabinet makers in the Middle West. It is spread by insects, particularly the small European bark beetle and te American elm beetle, which lay their eggs in shallow tunnels beneath the bark. The young beetle grubs feed on the wood around them, mature, and emerge to fly off to other elms, carrying with them disease spores, if the wood on which they fed was infected. No cure has been found for the Dutch elm disease. In consequence, the Federal eradication campaign, now in its fifth year, is aimed at the discovery and removal of every disease tree as soon as possible after the first symtoms of infection—yellowing and wilting leaves and dying branches, which show up well in June and July. Flying autogiros are being used to locate areas where the elms are to be destroyed.

The Cave City Utopia club in Barren county has made a survey of four communities in regard to the water supply and sewage disposal in farm homes. They intend to hold demonstrations later of improved systems.

OBSERVATIONS

Several weeks ago, you may remember, this column stated that the real game of the C. I. O. drive was going to be the A. F. of L.

It has been recently revealed that the A. F. of L. membership is now about one-half million greater than it was when the ten former A. F. of L. unions withdrew to form the Committee for Industrial Organization.

C. I. O. apperently has been stopped dead in its tracks. Altho they have failed in their objectives, labor has gained by this drive.

Labor has gained in membership. A. F. of L. has discovered that their fatuous inactivety was nearly treason to the cause of Unions; that they can do much more than they have. The rank and file of Labor, particularly those just being unionized for the first time, have discovered that they are too much a product of our democratic principles of majority rule to put up with tyranny and terrorism done in the name of idealistic expediency. Labor has discovered itself to be much less radical than it thought it was. All sides to controversy, the public, management, and labor too, found that they all wanted the same thing, responsibility in the leadership and membership of Organized Labor.

It is evident once again that there are no classes in America. Labor members are functioning units in this democracy. As such their place in democratic society checks any crystalization of interests into an economic group or cast. Each labor union member is a capitalist of exactly the same kind, differing only in degree, as is his boss. American Labor knows these things and is not apt to long follow the siren song of subversive influences.

Communism?

There have been many charges of communism hurled at the C. I. O. movement. Where there is so much smoke there must be some fire. Altho no A. F. of L. leader that this observed has talked to is willing to say anything about John L. Lewis except to praise his sincerity and patriotism even tho he might deplore his methods.

One cannot doubt, however, but that some of the foreign dominated New York City garment workers' Unions had hopes in those directions. Poor deluded fools, if they would leave their ghettoes and really know what America outside of that city of rabbit warrens is, they would find existing right here in America now—with all its abuses and exceptions—a freedom much finer than the Marxian nightmare they would foist upon us.

It is questionable whether certain tactics of violence practiced by C. I. O. and the violation of contracts were due to the influence of Communists with the C. I. O. movement. Certain it is that such is their technique. Certain it is also that one might believe, that the C. I. O. movement suffered from the same weakness as did the ill-fated N. R. A.—trying to accomplish too much too quickly with an inadequate and poorly trained organization.

The reader can take his choice as to what has stopped C. I. O., excesses or weak organization. Probably the answer is both—plus that force which in these United States has more power than law—opinion.

Fantastic Futility

Those two words sums up the plight of Amelia Earheart to the observer.

Perhaps he should have enough chivalry to say some kind words about her courage. He cannot. The phrase that keeps running through his mind is "she asked for it." She wasn't particularly brave, merely spectacular. Any woman, "Judy O'Grady as the Colonel's Lady" is braver than she, when she goes to keep a rendevous with Creation, childbirth.

It's hard to see anything but the restlessness of modern women in that flight—Headline Hunters—Adulation—Lecture Tours—Another worthless book published. Totally unnecessary from the standpoint of science.

The Pan American Clippers, China bound can get more scientific data from day to day routine operation under pay load conditions than all the round-the-world flight. Be it observed also, that airports were built, radio stations set up, U. S. Navy cooperation secured, everything was ready to go and the first clipper almost on its way before the newspapers broke with the news.

Perhaps the scientfic fact to be demonstrated was that women are as capable as men; she has often voiced such sentiments, as a belligerent feminist—as if that wasn't demonstrated in the Garden of Eden—as if the creation, childbirth, the producing of men is not greater than anything men can do.

That's all for this time.

H. T. Bugg, Carlisle county, has a plant bed partly devoted to locust seed. Three years ago he followed the same practice and planted an acre without locust seedlings. Results have been excellent, as the trees are sturdy and fast-growing.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for July 18

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 3:13-16; 4:10-16; 5:1.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord will give strength unto his people.—Psalm 29:11.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Moses Was Afraid.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Moses Made Ambassador.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—God Stands by His Workers.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Strong in the Strength of God.

Never in a hurry! Who? God. He needed a human leader to bring his chosen people up out of the bondage of Egypt and he spent 80 years getting him ready—40 years learning all the wisdom of Egypt, and 40 years learning the lessons of God, patience and humility, on the back side of the desert.

Infinite and omnipotent is God, and he may move with faster-than-lightning speed. But usually we find him working out his blessed purposes, normally, quietly, but always "on time."

Our lesson brings before us the meeting with God which preceded the appearance of Moses as the head of the nation of Israel in its mighty conflict with Pharaoh. We find him first proceeding with commendable care but then going on in unfortunate humility which amounted almost to unbelief and which resulted in the substitution of his brother Aaron as his spokesman, but eventually we do see him going about his difficult task with resolution and courage.

I. Justifiable Caution (Exod. 3:13-16).

Neither God nor man dare entrust a high and difficult commission to a foolish man who brusquely "rushes in where angels fear to tread." The fact that one feels fully and unhesitatingly qualified to take over such a responsibility is almost a certain indication that he is not the man to assume it.

The ambassador must have credentials. God's representative has them. When "they shall say"—what an important and difficult situation that creates. The one who speaks for God must expect not only the scornful bitterness of God's enemies, but also the unbelieving questions of those he seeks to serve.

"What shall I say?" asks Moses, and God answers that he may say that "I AM" had sent him. This name of God reveals him as the eternal, independent, self-sufficient, self-existent, immutable, personal being. Consider, Christian brethren, whose we are and whom we serve. Here indeed is "inspiration in excess of duty," real equipment for Christian life and service.

But Moses seems to be unable to see beyond his own human infirmity even in the light of such a glorious revelation, supplemented as it was by miraculous powers, and we find him showing an

II. Unjustified Humility (Exod. 4: 10-12).

When God calls a man he knows his limitations—why then should one plead them as an excuse for not serving? The excuse of Moses that he was not a fluent speaker has been the stand-by of unwilling workers all through the ages. When asked to lead a prayer meeting, teach a Sunday School class, conduct a young people's meeting, thousands have lamely thus excused themselves and missed a blessing.

The perfect answer of God in v.11 merits attention. God made your mouth and mine. He gives us the power of speech. He asks not the eloquence of polished rhetorical periods, or the flights of man's imagination. He wants but the incomparable eloquence of his own words on our lips. Dr. Richard Ellsworth Day in "Bush Aglow" rightly points out that this was the secret of the power of D. L. Moody.

III. Unnecessary Substitution (Exod. 4:13-16).

Loving and patient is our God, but there is a boundary line to that patience. Moses went too far in his humility and reflected on the ability of God, who promptly substituted Aaron as the spokesman.

Gracious was He in thus providing a helper for Moses. But one wonders what Moses missed of blessing and power because of his slowness of heart.

IV. "And Afterward" (Exod. 5:1).

Commissioned, bearing credentials from the infinite and eternal "I AM," and with a strong and eloquent brother by his side, Moses stands before Pharaoh to say in God's name, "Let my people go."

Preparation and the holy privilege of fellowship with God are to make us ready for service. While it is folly to go unprepared, it is double folly to prepare and then fail to go when God commands.

GARDEN GUIDELETS

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

The Mexican Bean Beetle—Fortunately, for Kentucky as a whole there is less bean beetle trouble than in other years, though there are spots here and there where only most ruthless warfare against this insect will bring the beans through. It becomes tiresome to say it, but present seriousness of bean beetle infestation would have been eased if not so much optimism had prevailed concerning the wintered-over "hard shells," for the Mexican bean beetle is a prolific breeder. One dare not wait until the damage has become general, but control of even the few beetles at the beginning of the season must be carried through in systematic fashion, beginning when clusters of eggs are seen.

Starting late as this, some advantage has been lost by the gardener, but he need not despair, for, if the means and the materials described in Kentucky Circular 262 are employed, this pest can be stopped.

Besides dusting or spraying, as described in the circular, sanitation should be practiced, burning and removing the vines of any planting, just as soon as there are new beans to use. The writer uses a half-inch gas pipe, 6 feet long, to the end of which is wired a wad of oil-soaked rags, as a torch which is passed along the rows, to destroy any adults, larvae or even eggs that may be present.

The vines should be put on the pile of lawn clipping and garden debris to rot down into compost, valuable as bed soil for the family's flowers.

Cultivation—This is a matter close to the heart of the writer for the behavior of the garden so much depends on how it is done. During wet weather, such as the state has been generally enjoying, it may matter less than if the season were dry, whether the garden is ridged and hilled or its surface kept level, the soil merely shaved. If dry weather comes, wise gardeners will be glad to have prepared for it by having their crops "on the level" rather than in ridges or hills. Certainly, when the soil is excessively wet it is of benefit to plant in ridges the low spots of the garden, but even then, the less ridge, the better.

Beans—Bean plantings made during July should be twice the size of those in the earlier months, for these beans will be those from which the canning supply is taken. An exceptionally good variety to use now is Thousand to One, Refugee, the stringless strain, for it is most prolific and of superior quality and flavor. Planted earlier, as it was in the garden program of a few years ago, it yields poorly, earning quite properly the nickname "ever-blooming, never-bearing' given it by disappointed gardeners, at that time.

Tomato Wilt—Letters keep coming in that tell of tomato plants dying, entire, the leaves still attached. Without doubt, the trouble is wilt, and its control is to use these wift-resistant strains, named in their order of earliness: Break O'Day, Pritchard, Marglobe. Even now, it is not too late to procure Marglobe plants and set them where plants of the ordinary sorts have just died.

Late Cabbage—Gardeners who wish to have cabbage to use far into the winter, and possibly to store, may have it by starting cabbage seed now, the seed planted in clusters where the heads are finally to stand. Good sorts are Succession, All-Seasons and Copenhagen, where no trouble with cabbage Yellows is anticipated; otherwise, use the Wisconsin All-Seasons, resistant to this disease.

LARGER FARM MILK CHECKS

Announcement from Washington that farm milk income reached $602,000,000 for the first five mos., of 1937 . . . $33,000,000 ahead of the same period in 1936. 64 percent higher than the 1933 low and the largest first five month return since 1930 . . . further emphasizes agriculture's succe'ssful climb toward pre-depression levels. While bottled milk and cream, butter, cheese and evaporated milk still are the major contributors to dairy farmers' milk checks, steadily widening industrial uses for milk by-products have also helped boost farmers' income, as was recently pointed out by Thos. H. McInnerney, President of National Dairy Products Corporation.

Milk, long the largest single source of farm income, proved a bulwark to agricultural buying power during the depression. By 1932 all other crops and livestock commodities were bringing farmers considerably less than half as much as their yearly average during the last five years of the "20's" whereas farm milk income, on a comparable basis, declined no more than 35 per cent. Expressed another way, if milk returns had decreased proportionately as much as all other cash farm income during 1930, 1931 and 1932 dairy farmers would have received only $2,531,000,000 instead of the $3,879,000,000 they actually did obtain during these three years.

Large sales volume of bottled milk and of the major dairy products, and higher farm prices have both contributed to the consistent advance in dairy farmers' income in the last five years. But a contributing factor to larger farm milk checks, and one almost unnoticed, has been milk's entry into the industrial field. The pharmaceutical, plastic, chemical, baking and confectionery industries are using increasing amounts of skim milk products. This development clearly indicates the vlaue of the industry's commercial laboratory research efforts.

Mr. McInnerney points out that milk product manufacture leaves around fifty-five billion pounds of skim milk each year, compared with a total annual production of about one hundred billions pounds of whole milk. He states:

"As recently as 1920 all but 3 or 4 per cent of this skim milk never left the farm, or was carted back to the farm, after separating, to be used as animal feed. Today about 12 percent of this skim milk —about seven billion pounds—is being converted into different types of dairy products. Although there is considerable opportunity for further expansion in skim milk product consumption, a 300 percent increase in commercial utilization of skim milk within 15 years is notable. It has meant a better market and better prices for dairy farmers."

CMT CAMP TRAINEES STUDY CITIZENSHIP

Thirty days training in the thirteenth CMT Camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., may not make a perfect soldier of any of the 2,000 candidates, but it can make him a better citizen, if he is a good soldier and a diligent student of the citizenship course being offered the candidates at the two camps held here this year.

During the camp the cadets attend classes taught by excellent instructors. They study the constitution of the United States, duties and rights of citizens, governmental organizations and institutions in municipal, state and national spheres and the American theory of democracy as compared to other governments.

The classes, directed as officers, are conducted by reserve officers who have been carefully instructed to teach this vital subject.

At the close of the course a written test is given to all cadets and oral tests determine outstanding candidates in each organization who receive awards.

SIMPLE TREATMENT BRINGS FIELD BACK

Terracing, coupled with applications of lime and superphosphate, turned a 50-acre field in Logan county, Ky., from a liability into an asset in one year. The field is on the Roy Gorrell farm, and the work was planned by the Russellville CCC camp, under the supervision of Superintendent R. H. Money.

The field had a poor stand of grass, and no return was being realized. After signing a cooperative agreement with the Soil Conservation Service, Mr. Gorrell terraced the field and applied two tons of lime and 200 pounds of superphosphate per acre.

The terracing prevented further soil erosion, and the first year's crop of soy beans produced 75 tons of good legume hay, Money reports. Furthermore, the field has been placed in a regular rotation which will build up additional resistance against soil losses.

Archie Jewell, Hart county, has found that using both limestone and phosphate on fields to be seeded to red clover and orchard grass brings better results than when only limestone is used. However, on limestone-treated fields growth exceeded that on untreated fields.

URGES FURTHER USE OF SOIL-BUILDING PRACTICES ON FARM

Kentucky farmers who are cooperating in the 1937 Agricultural Conservation program are urged by O. M. Farrington, state director of the program, to consider additional soil-building practices which may be carried out prior to October 31.

Last year 120,000 Kentucky farmers who cooperated in the 1936 program carried out soil-building practices on 2,650,000 acres, and many of these farmers did not utilize all of the soil-building allowance for their farms. "It is desired that each farmer cooperating in the 1937 program take advantage of the opportunity offered for soil conservation by making full use of the soil-building allowance for his farm,' said Mr. Farrington.

Soil-building practices which still may be used, before October 31, and for which payments may be received, include the sowing of alfalfa, perennial grasses, green manure crops, the application of limestone and phosphate, terracing and the planting of forest trees.

In Kentucky approved soil-building practices were carried out on 2,650,200 acres last year as follows: Legumes seeded, 1,461,000 acres; perennial grasses seeded, 561,500 acres; green manure crops grown, 135,000 acres; application of ground limestone, 333,500 acres; application of superphosphate, 150,000 acres; terracing, 8,600 acres and forest trees planted, 300 acres.

PIG CROP REPORT

A total of 100,000 sows farrowed on Kentucky farms this spring as compared with 106,000 farrowing in the spring of 1936, a decrease of 6 percent. Pigs saved were 638,000 or 98 per cent of the 653,000 saved from last year's spring litters, as losses of spring pigs this year were light.

For the United States as a whole a considerably smaller pig crop this year than in 1936 was indicated by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in its June report on the pig crop, issued through the Louisville office.

The spring pig crop is estimated at 7.3 percent smaller this year than in 1936; the number of sows to farrow in the fall season of 1937 is indicated as 3.4 percent smaller than the number farrowed in the fall of 1936; total 1937 farrowings, spring and fall, are indicated as about 8.5 percent below the total of 1936; and the number of hogs over 6 months of age on June 1 was about 4 percent smaller than on June 1, 1936. The reduction in the number of litters in 1937 from the number in 1936 will not bring the total to quite so low a level in 1934 or 1935, but it will be 30 percent smaller than the average of 1932 and 1933.

The June Pig Crop report is based upon information obtained in cooperation with the Post Office Department through the rural mail carriers.

The number of pigs saved in the spring season of 1937 (December 1, 1936 to June 1, 1937) for the United States is estimated at 38,779,000 head, a decrease of 3,057,000 head or 7.3 percent from the number saved in the spring season of 1936. The number saved in the spring of 1935 was 32,438,000 head and in 1934 was 39,698,000 head; the average for 1932-33 was 52,243,000. There was a wide variation among different regions in the percentage change this year compared with last, ranging from a reduction of 15.7 percent in the West North Central States to an increase of 21.2 percent in the North Atlantic States. For the East North Central there was an increase of 0.6 percent, for the South Atlantic an increase of 12.6 per cent, for the South Central a reduction of 7.0 percent and for the Western a reduction of 1.2 percent.

The decrease in the number of sows farrows in the spring season of 1937 from 1936 was greater than in the number of pigs saved, being 11.4 percent for the United States and 15.0 percent for the North Central (Corn Belt) States. These reductions are somewhat larger than those indicated in the December 1936 pig crop report of 5 percent for the United States and 9 percent for the Corn Belt, based upon breeding intentions as reported by farmers at that time. Marked reduction from the December report are shown for the States where the 1936 drouth was most severe. In other areas there is fairly close agreement between the December indications and the present estimates.

The average numbers of pigs saved per litter of 6.23 for the United States and 6.40 for the Corn Belt States are much the largest ever shown in the 14 years of record and compare with 5.96 and 6.06, respectively, in 1936. This high average reflects generally favorable weather conditions during the principal farrowing months and also probably better than usual care because of the smaller number of sows and the relatively high prices of both hogs and feed. There was little change from 1936 in the proportions of sows farrowed in different months, and the proportion in May was almost identical for the two years, both for the United States and the Corn Belt. In 1935 the May proportion of farrowings was much above this year and average. The percentage of gilts in the total number of sows and gilts farrowing this spring was a little larger than in 1936 and 1935 and was considerably above average.

The number of sows to farrow in the fall season of 1937 (June 1 to December 1) is indicated as 3,746,000 head, a reduction of 133,000 head or 3.4 percent from the number farrowed in the fall of 1936. Reductions are indicated for all areas except the South Atlantic States where a 3.5 percent increase is shown. The reductions by areas East North Central 7.4 percent, Western 5.8 percent. These changes are based upon breeding intentions reported about June 1 and the assumption that the relationship between breeding intentions and subsequent farrowing will be similar to the relationship in other years except in the 1936 drouth States, where allowance was made for the market decline in fall farrowings in 1936 from the intentions reported in June 1936. In this group of States, farrowings this fall may be larger than now indicated, if present favorable prospects for feed grain production continue, and hog prices remain at a high level.

If the number of sows that farrow in the fall season of 1937 should be about as now indicated the total number of spring and fall litters for the United States would be about 9,966,000 compared with 10,899,000 in 1936, 9,152,000 in 1935, 9,761,000 in 1934 and 14,162,000, the 1932-33 average. Assuming the same average number of pigs per litter in the fall of 1937 as the record high average in the fall of 1936, the combined spring and fall pig crop of 1937 would be about 4,000,000 head or about 6 per cent smaller than the combined crop of 1936.

The number of hogs over 6 months of age on farms June 1 according to the survey was somewhat smaller this year than a year earlier. The indicated decreases from last year are about 4 percent for the United States or about 900,000 head and 12 percent for the Corn Belt States, or about 1,500,000 head. The actual number on farms in the Corn Belt was not greatly different from the number on June 1, 1935.

FASHION ITEM IN CLOTHES BUDGET

Women not only spend approximately half of the family's income, in many cases, they spend more of it than they realize for something that can't be measured, that doesn't add to warmth, energy or provide shelter, and that soon becomes worthless. In other words, a big item in the clothes budget is fashion. This is the opinion of Miss Frances Seeds who teaches classes in clothing and design in the home economics department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

A fashion is an interest of the moment, perhaps even a fad, but it may grow into a set style, says Miss Seeds. The modern fashion world goes back to Louis XV in France for its beginning, and it has been going strong ever since. Designers don't just launch a new fashion for no rhyme or reason, but rather after study of the temper of the times; for instance, inexpensive cottons held sway during the depression, a popular novel of the War of 1865 has given an interest in clothes along 19th century lines, etc.

By the time people become tired of a fashion, designers have launched something that seems fresh and new to us. As an illustration, the nubby, rough woolens for dress coats for the past several winters probably will give way to "new" old-fashioned twills and serges for the winter of 1937-38.

Is fashion worthwhile? Questioned on this point, Miss Seeds declares that rapidly changing fashion may be trivial and costly, and many of the changes are not improvements. Nonetheless, there is some satisfaction and at least a chance for progress when we are looking for new ideas and ways of expressing our interests. Conservative buyers should not hastily adopt fads, but should try to buy with the future as well as the present in mind, so as to be well-dressed and also economical. In other words, don't become fashion's victim, but make it a servant.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Berry Dumplings—2 cups flour; 4 teaspoons baking powder; 1-4 teaspoon salt; 4 tablespoons fat; 2-3 cup cold water. Mix flour with baking powder and salt. Cut in fat with knife. Slowly add water until soft dough forms. Pat it out until one-eighth inch thick and cut into eight pieces. Then add cooked berries of any variety you choose.

IN THE KITCHEN

If the doughnut cutter is dipped in hot water before cutting out the doughnuts it will not stick . . . Remove any of the yolk which gets into the whites when separating eggs with a piece of eggshell. The edges are sharper than a spoon . . . When making fruit pieces dampen the edge of the pastry with milk instead of water. It holds better and the juice is not so likely to boil over.

RECREATION AT CMT CAMP

There's never a dull evening for the 2,000 boys at the thirteenth CMT Camp during the training season held here this year. Col. George V. Strong, Camp Commander has seen to it that each nick shall be filled with music dramatics, story telling, boxing, wrestling and special features.

How to keep the boys from getting homesick, or into any mischief after the drills and athletics of the day are done, is in the hands of Chaplain John Hall, Maj. U. S. Army, and his assistants, Mrs. Helen B. Moore, Camp Hostess, and Reserve Army Chaplains.

Plenty of music is on the program of special entertainment. A band is being formed, composed entirely of members of the CMTC, which with a little practice will develop into an excellent musical unit. The Chaplain has provided a large tent equipped with magazines and other reading material. Writing tables are available for the use of the boys when they wish to write home. A large radio is available for the use of the boys, and ping-pong tables also serve as a diversion from the day's duties. Throughout the camp, music will be a feature of each evenings entertainment and every effort will be made to encourage group singing which will bring out some husky songbirds. Organizations interested in young America will contribute to the pleasure of the boys. The Women's Overseas League, composed of those who served to entertain the Army, Navy and Marines during the World War, will stage several programs which will add materially to the entertainment of the camp.

The Chaplain not only serves as a religious guide but also as a morale and character builder, taking part in all the activities of the boys after drill hours.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

Potatoes are oustanding in weight and quality in Wolfe county, where many farmers have grown potatoes weighing 1 pound. Planting from one-half to two acres for market, many report as many as six U. S. No. 1 potatoes to the hill. Certified seed was used.

High praise on the quality of their eggs has been received by Grayson county farmers, who shipped a case to New York to see how they would grade. The eggs brought 25½ cents a dozen, top price for the day.

The ton-litter swine project has attracted many Metcalfe county farmers, most of whom apparently will reach or even exceed the goal. Several farmers are grinding small grain for feed.

WORTH KNOWING

When windows, doors or cabinet drawers stick, rub a piece of laundry soap at the point of friction. If the point where it sticks cannot be reached, as in a sticking window, pour a little hot lard into the casing . . . To remove varnish, make a solution of one part caustic soda and three parts lukewarm water. Apply with brush or sponge. Let stand a moment and then scrape off.

GIANT REGISTER WILL BE BUILT

Dayton Ohio—When millions of visitors stream through the gates of 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition at San Francisco, the largest cash register in the world will record the total admissions.

This was announced by the National Cash Register Company of Dayton, which signed a contract for 8,000 feet of outside space on the Exposition grounds on which the firm will erect its own building in the form of a cash register.

At the top of the huge cash register, 60 feet high and 50 feet square, giant numerals will display the total admittance. The tabulation will be changed every thirty minutes.

The mammoth register building will be situated on the Exposition's main promenade, between the Lake of All Nations and the Amusement Zone. In its lower levels will be beautiful display windows, showing the various products of the firm. At night, the entire building will be lighted with a spectacular illumination system.

Negotiations on the contract were carried out by Frank Y. McLaughlin, Exposition director of exhibits and concessions, and F. M. Sandusky, head of the exhibits division.

Sky riders, with a flare for acrobatics, will vie for premir honors in stunt flying in one of the almost endless features being planned for the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

WORK BEGINS ON 1937 ACP PERFORMANCE

Work on checking 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program performance on 1138 farms in Boone County began on Wednesday of this week, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent, Approximately two months will be required to complete the performance check.

A supervisor's training school was held at Burlington, Wednesday. Supervisors received a full day's training on work required this year. Supervisors have been carefully selected for their ability and the work is expected to show marked improvement over previous years.

The responsibility of correct performance reports rests wholly on the farmer himself. The supervisor in making all measurements and certificies to the accuracy and truth of all statements contained in the report. Farmers have rendered splendid cooperation in the past and the same cooperative spirit is expected to prevail this year. The county association has to bear the expense of checking performance and all cooperation rendered on the part of the farmer will mean a saving to the association as a whole. Seed bills and other items of expense in earning soil building practice payments should be where the farmer can easily locate them when the supervisor arrives for performance checking.

A list of supervisors approved by the State Office to assist farmers in checking performance are: Virgil S. Vice, Walton Smith, Wm. Moore, Chester Goodridge, Vernon Goodridge, Vernon Stephens, Jos. Rouse, Rickman Powers, Joe Ryan, R. L. Smith and Jos. H. Jones; Alternates, Harold K. Clore, Carroll C. Rice and Ralph Maurer.

MR. AND MRS. B. H. BERKSHIRE ENTERTAIN AT FAMILY REUNION

FORMER BOONE COUNTY LADY SUCCUMBS IN LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

Miss Sallie Vaughn, daughter of the late Johnson and Mary Vaughn died July 6th in Los Angeles, Calif. and was interred in that city.

She was born and reared in Boone County near Burlington.

Two sisters survive, Miss Lucy Vaughn, of Los Angeles and Mrs. Nellie Borders, of Florence.

FLORENCE 4-H CLUB

On June 29th the Florence X-L-All Club held their annual tour. Those who went on the tour were: Miss Gillaspie, Mr. Colville, Mr. Forkner, Mrs. Carl Anderson and eight members including officers and captains. They were, Jane Alkins, Mary Carpenter, Betty Carpenter, Mary Butts, Bill Tupman, Marvin Lutes, Glenn Stevens, and Roy Brooks. We have a very large club and it took all day for our tour.

It was about 9:30 when we left the school building to start visiting our members. Most all projects were found in a splendid condition and the record books were fair.

At the noon hour a picnic lunch was prepared and everyone enjoyed it together. Our next meeting for the club will be July 30th, which is our picnic.

Mary H. Butts, Reporter.

"IT WON'T BE LONG NOW"

No, it won't be long now to the big Dearborn County Fair, Lawrenceburg, Indiana, July 26-31 inclusive with an outstanding racing program, a thrilling, smashing Rodeo and other attractions; Saddle Show, Dog Show, Stallion Show, 4-H exhibits; big Children's Day Program with free gate. Boys' Hobby exhibit, 6 rides; 6 shows; numerous other exhibits and attractions. So big—so cheap—you can't afford to miss. Plan now to attend. Adv.

HOME COMING AT EAST BEND CHURCH

The Methodist Church here will have the Fourth Quarterly Conference of the Burlington charge and all-day meeting July 18th. Dr. O. B. Crockett will bring the morning message at 11:00 a. m.

After lunch there will be a brief session of business and preaching following. Everyone is invited to come and bring their basket lunch and enjoy the day.

Most Burlington girls prefer a promising young man but everybody else prefer those who pay cash.

There are said to be twenty millian bachelors in the U. S. and few of them have anybody but themselves to blame.

EMIL HILLENBRAND JR.

Emil Hillenbrand, Jr., aged 8 months, passed away Tuesday afternoon at Children's Hospital, Cincinnati, O., after several weeks' illness. The remains were removed to the Taliaferro Funeral Home for preparation.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hillenbrand, two brothers and other relatives.

Funeral was from the home of his parents on Stevenson Rd., Erlanger, Thursday at 1:30 p. m., with Blessing at St. Henry's Church at 2 P. M., by the Rev. Edw. Corby, interment following in Mother of God cemetery. Funeral Director Philip Taliaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

You can tell when youth ends and decay begins. You begin to notice how noisy the world is.

Mild, mellow, old Southern tobacco tamped in your companionable pipe—a careful lighting—and you settle back to mull over a knotty problem, count your blessings—or just dream.

Deep, satisfying pleasure, isn't it, neighbor? But look into the curling smoke again. See those long lines of freight cars gliding through space on gleaming steel—through blistering heat or numbing cold—storm or fair weather? That's the L & N, my friend, bringing from all sections of the South the choice tobacco you enjoy so much.

Perhaps it has never occurred to you what an important part the L & N plays in keeping your pipe filled, your home warm in the winter, your corner grocer stocked with meats and garden-fresh vegetables. But 28,000 loyal L & N employees know, and they constantly strive to make the service you receive safe, dependable and satisfactory.

Supplying the needs of your daily life is just one of the hundreds of ways in which the L & N tries to be of friendly service—a good neighbor in all that the term implies.

Foot Comfort Specialist
People's Foot Comfort, 828 Madison Avenue, Covington, Ky.

Oft times people ask themselves:

1. Can that severe headache be coming from my feet?

2. That backache is almost killing me . . . I wonder if my feet have anything to do with it?

3. My feet are calloused very heavy under the ball of the foot . . . when I step on a pebble with that part of the foot I get a pain almost up to my head . . . How can that be corrected?

4. My ankles puff out almost over the shoe tops . . . They are not that bad when I get up in the morning . . . Now if being off my feet reduces the swelling there must be a shoe to displace weight even when I'm on my feet . . .then there would be no swelling—

CRAMPED NERVES and CRAMPED BLOOD VESSELS interfere with normal functioning and we suffer—

Don't suffer any longer . . . Our foot comfort specialists will help you. N. Tulch at People's Foot Comfort, 928 Madison Ave., Covington, Kentucky.—Adv.

8 EXTRA POUNDS OF RUBBER

Another Reason Why

FIRESTONE GIVES YOU SO MUCH

Extra Value at No Extra Cost

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS—eight extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES—because under the tread are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING—because the tread is scientifically designed.

YOU GET LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE because of the extra tough, long-wearing tread.

DON'T RISK YOUR LIFE ON THIN WORN TIRES

DO YOU KNOW

THAT last year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 38,000 men, women and children?

That a million more were injured?

THAT more than 40,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding due to unsafe tires?

At right is a section cut from a smooth, worn tire, with non-skid protection worn off. Tires in this condition are liable to punctures, blowouts and skidding.

At left is section cut from a new Firestone Tire. Note the thick, non-skid protection against skidding, blowouts and punctures. Come in and see by actual demonstration.

136 RECEIVE ASSISTANCE

IN BOONE COUNTY TOTALING $1,383.00 DURING MONTH OF JUNE — 5,508 APPLICATIONS DISPOSED OF IN STATE.

According to the report from the office of Dr. A. Y. Lloyd, director of Public Assistance, 136 recipients in Boone County received $1,383.00 during the month of June.

Over the entire state 5,508 pending applications were disposed of by the Division of Public Assistance during June. Of this number ,336 were approved for new grants, 890 were denied as being ineligible under the law, and 282 were disposed of for other reasons. A total of 35,649 eligible Kentuckians received $354,722.35 in actual assistance during this month.

The Division of Public Assistance is exerting every effort to clear all pending applications within the near future. In this connection Dr. Lloyd stated, "few people over the state have realized the tremendous difficulties involved in securing documentary proof of age, citizenship, and residence of applicants in order to prove legal eligibility in accordance to both state and federal laws. If the applicants that have not yet been investigated would collect any family records in the way of Bibles, marriage certificates insurance policies, licenses or baptismal certificates it would facilitate matters a great deal when the home visit is made by the Field Worker. The Division appreciates the fine cooperation that our workers have received from the many thousands of people that have been given as references, postmasters, bankers, merchants and other respected citizens of the various communities."

A noteworthy development in the program of Old Age Assistance in Kentucky during the past few months, has been the tremendous increase in the number of denials. This has been due to the fact that the most needy cases were selected and given preference, during the early months of this program, thereby preventing actual starvation in many instances. The proportion of denials is expected to increase during the next few months. It is the policy of the Division to investigate each applicant thoroughly and to make grants only to those persons legally eligible for such assistance, thereby preventing an unfair burden on the tax payers of the state.

IN THE SEWING ROOM

To keep crochet work from raveling when laying aside, pull the last loop out long enough to pass the ball through. This fastens it securely and it may easily be opened in the same way when resuming the work. . . A thimble pushed up into the finger of a glove makes it much easier to mend . . . Sew carpet rags on the bias to avoid a bulky seam.

AN INSPIRATION

"It isn't his ability to KICK but to PULL that makes the mule a high-priced animal."

COURTESY

By J. M. Crawford, Chief Engineer Chevrolet Division General Motors Corp.

It is strange, but nevertheless true, that many persons who wouldn't think of plowing thru a drawing room with cries of "Gangway! Here I come!" climb into their cars every day of the week and commit, on the streets and highways, the exact parallel of that social offense.

This fact lends point to the slogan of so many safety campaigns, to the effect that courtesy and safety go hand in hands. It's a long time since Alphonse and Gaston disappeared from the comic pages; but the spirit of "You first, my dear Alphonse!" would go a long way, today, to remedy traffic ills.

One of the most glaring instances of discourtesy is to be seen on almost any busy artery, during the rush hour. Traffic on the through street will pile up solidly blocking intersecting streets, so that it is only by matching rudeness, and forcing their way thru, that drivers on the latter can cross busy thoroughfares.

A moment's reflecting would convince any motorist that he would really lose no time at all by leaving a gap ahead, when approaching a cross street. As soon as cross-traffic has cleared, he will be on his way again, with no net loss whatever. And the fellow whom he let through will be merrily on his way.

I know one driver who always makes it a point, when driving in heavy traffice, to pause for cross-traffic to go through. He does it even when there is a car-length or so which would permit him to clear the intersection himself. "The point is,' he explains, "that only about one driver in a dozen will give these other fellows a break. If I don't stop the procession long enough to let them cross, the line may start and stop a half dozen times before someone takes pity on them and does it."

Cars today embody comfort approaching that of the drawing room. There doesn't seem to be any good reason why motorists should not take their drawing room manners when they climb in behind the wheel. If enough drivers will do it, they will not only serve the ends of safety but facilitate the movement of traffic as well.

A LETTER

The following letter was received from W. H. Davis, of Fork, N. C.:

Fork, N. C.

Dear Mr. Editor:

Tobacco should be harvested when fullest of oil in order for it to cure easily and be rich and superior in quality. Oil does not evaporate in the process of curing like the sap does and remains to give wealth to the weed. Oil and sap (water) do not mix, but come and go, at intervals during the life of the plant. When the sap rises it runs the oil out (oil being lighter) through the pores of the leaf to the surface, where it forms a "gum" well known to all tobacco growers. Tobacco harvested in this condition will cure badly and be light and inferior in quality.

My father grew tobacco for about 70 years. He found that there are better times than others for harvesting tobacco to secure best results. I shall be pleased to answer any correspondence from tobacco growers, provided postage is sent for reply.

Yours truly,
W. H. Davis.

THIEVES MAKE ANOTHER RAID

MAKING A TOTAL OF TWO IN THE UNION AND BIG BONE COMMUNITY IN THE PAST TWO WEEKS.

Thieves made a raid in the Union community last Sunday night at farmhouse of Mr. H. J. Stephens, being the second in that community in the past two weeks.

Apparently the prowlers used a truck to haul their loot, as truck tracks were located near the home.

Mr. Stephens reported that the robberts relieved him of over 100 pounds of cured meat, 25 chickens and a new plow which had only been used once. Almost all the meat was taken from the meathouse, with the exception of a piece that had already been cut and was being used. All the chickens were taken from the barn, including two setting hens that were removed from the nests, and a new three-shovel cultivator plow that had been purchased on the previous day, and had only been used about two hours.

Several dogs guarded the house and outbuildings, and all members of the family were at home, but no one was awakened, and no disturbance was noticed during the night.

Last week the home of Jos. Huey Union, was robbed of approximately $1000 in jewelery. No arrests have been made but police are still actively searching for the culprits.

BEST SPEAKING WELL ATTENDED

Hoyt B. Best, Falmouth, Ky., democratic candidate for State Senator from the 26th Senatorial district spoke to the voters of this community at the courthouse in Burlingon Saturday night in behalf of his campaign.

There was a very large crowd in attendance, and everyone present seemed to enjoy the address, as it was clean and to the point all the way through. Many who attended expressed themselves that it was as good a political speech as they had heard in several years. This was the last public address to be given by Best in this county. However, he expects to contact many more voters here before the primary on August 7th.

At the conclusion of the main address, Hon. O. M. Rogers, Highway Commissioner from this district, also gave a short talk to the voters here.

The 26th Senatorial District is composed of Boone, Gallatin, Grant, Owen and Pendleton counties.

SIDEBOTTOM TO SPEAK HERE SAT.

P. L. Sidebottom, democratic caindidate for State Senator will address the voters of Burlington, Saturday night at 8:00 p. m. at the courthouse in the interest of his campaign.

RECORD CROWD AT OPENING

OF NEW FUNERAL HOME—OVER 700 PEOPLE REGISTER AS VISITORS FROM EARLY SUNDAY UNTIL LATE EVENING.

From early Sunday until late in the evening, many visitors stopped to view the new Tharp & Stith Funeral Home on the Dixie Highway at Florence, Ky.

Over 700 people registered as visitors, among them Mr. A. G. Spillman, President of the Kentucky Funeral Director's Association, who stated the appointments contained in the new funeral home equal any in the State.

This firm has spared no expense in putting in everything for the convenience of those in grief. Their location is ideal, at the Junction of State Route 42 and the Dixie Highway, at the South End of Florence, Ky.

Mr. Ralph Stith will make his residence above the funeral parlors and will be in constant personal attendance. Mrs. Stith will be associated with him as Lady Attendant for women and children's cases.

Any of those who were unable to attend the opening are welcome to stop and view the accommodations at their first opportunity, Mr. Stith said.

RUSH EXPECTED

Very few people have purchased operator's license so far, only about 100 having been sold to date. There are 2500 operators license sold each year in this county.

The Clerk says he expects a rush the latter part of the month and those who wait to obtain their license will no doubt have to stand in line to await their turn at the Clerks office. He advises that people come early and avoid the expected rush.

Extra help has been provided in order to wait on the applicants as fast as possible.

LOCAL BOY ATTENDS CAMP AT FT. BENJAMIN HARRISON, INDIANA

Francis Keene Souther writes home from C. M. T. C., Ft. Benjamin, Harrison, that he is having the time of his life, learning many new and interesting things.

He is member of Company G., which has won two firsts, two seconds out of four parades and he says they have kept the clean street banner and the cleaner street banner almost continuously since camp opened. He says it's a great life, if you don't weaken.

Miss Nancy Jane Dempsey, of Erlanger is spending several days this week with her grandmother, Mrs. M. L. Riddell.

COLLEGE OPENS 73RD TERM

BRYANT & STRATTIN IN LOUISVILLE IS ONE OF PIONEER COMMERCIAL SCHOOLS IN COUNTRY.

One of the oldest private commercial schools in the South, the Bryant & Stratton Business College, located in the Speed Building, Fourth and Guthrie Streets, will enter this fall on its 73rd consecutive year of service to the youth of the city and surrounding territory, offering them complete training in all commercial banches. The President of the school, Mr. G. A. Bergen, has been associated with the school for the past thirty years.

With more than 35,000 graduates the college has sent its former students into practically all branches of the business world where they almost uniformly attained success in their various positions. The thorough grounding given the students in the college has contributed largely to their individual success.

The school is a fully accredited member of the National Association of Accredited Commercial Schools and is constantly strengthening its curriculum by the edition of new textbooks and advanced methods of teaching. During the past year the school has added another classroom and an additional teacher to its already well qualified faculty. New equipment has been installed and all of the classrooms, which cover 15,000 square feet, have been redecorated for the fall opening.

A Free Employment Service is maintained for the benefit of the graduates. Business firms of Louisville and vicinity have come to look upon the Bryant & Stratton Business College as a dependable source of supply for office employees. At no time during the past ten years have the opportunities for young people been as bright as they are today. Calls are being received every day for trained young men and women.

The curriculum of the school includes Gregg Shorthand, 20th Century Bookkeeping, Accounting, Touch Typing, and Comptometry, with Allied Subjects. Special classes are arranged for review students and for high school school students who have had commercial courses. A copy of their new catalogue is available on request.

INTERST POINTS VISITED BY FORMER UNION CITIZENS

Rev. and Mrs. Victor L. Stephenson, formerly of Union are enjoying a vacation trip which take them to Washington, New York and other points of interest in the East. Rev. Stephenson is pastor of the Baptist Church at New Richmond, O., and a guest speaker will occupy the pulpit during his absence. They will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Houze and son William, of Ludlow.

PROMINENT MAN DIES SUDDENLY

FROM HEART ATTACK—WAS A STOCKHOLDER AND DIRECTOR OF HARVEST HOME ASSOCIATION.

W. Edward Anderson, aged 73 years, passed away suddenly Friday at his home near Limaburg, from heart trouble.

Mr. Anderson was one of Boone County's most prominent men. He was a director and stockholders of the Harvest Home Association and was well known and respected by the citizens of this county.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ella Anderson, two sons, Carl and Clyde Anderson; two daughters, Mrs. Elijah Stephens and Mrs. Leslie Sorrell; three brothers, Charles, James and Harvey Anderson, three sisters, Mrs. Nannie Hellebush, Mrs. Lucy Moore and Mrs. Pearl Byland.

Services were conducted Sunday afternoon at 2:30 oclock by the Rev. Harold Beemon at the Hebron Lutheran Church, interment following in the nearby cemetery.

The pallbears were O. T. Edwards, George Helle, A. G. Beemon, Teddy Heinhart, Cecil L. Gaines and Israel Rouse.

Funeral Director Philip Taliaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

FIDDLERS WILL ENTERTAIN WALTON CITIZENS JULY 29TH

The Callahan and Bert Lane Mountain Fiddlers of WCKY will be seen in person at the Walton auditorium, July 29th. Admission will be 15 and 25 cents.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

On July 14th, 1937, I received the following notice, addressed to Jesse Delahunty, Union, Ky., Boone County:

"You are hereby notified that we do not expect to have our dogs killed while crossing your place, without you suffering some consequences for so doing. The fox-hunters of this County are not going to permit you to kill their dogs with retaliating against you in some way."

In fairness to all, we publish this to inform all concerned; for we know all fox hunters would not tolerate such action. The dogs have killed and wounded 25 sheep and my whole flock of 176 is COMPLETELY ruined from fright and being overheated.

I hereby give the following notice: That all fox hunting is forbidden and all dogs founds on my place will be killed.

Signed Jesse Delahunty.

CROSBY COMEDY TELLS OF LOVE IN SOUTH SEAS

A comedy of love and music in romantic Waikiki brings Bing Crosby, Bob Burns, Martha Raye and Shirley Ross to the screen of the Gayety Theatre, Erlanger next Monday and Tuesday, July 26th and 27th in "Waikiki Wedding."

The story deals with romance of a contest winner, played by Miss Ross, who wins a trip to Waikiki with a pineapple recipe. Miss Ross dosn't like Waikiki and is about to walk out on the whole business when Crosby who is press agent for the pinapple concern and who conceived the contest as a publicity stunt, is prevailed upon to take Miss Ross in hand.

He proceeds to make Waikiki romantic and glamorous for Miss Ross. So much so that he falls under the spell himself. The climax comes when reality clases with fantasy and Bing has to produce a Waikiki which doesn't exist. Being a resourceful press agent, he produces it.

HOMEMAKERS TO CONDUCT CANNING DEMONSTRATION

A canning demonstration for all homemakers of Boone County will be conducted Wednesday, July 28, 1:30 p. m. (slow time) at the Burlington high school. Miss Frances Shewmaker, a nutrition specialist, will conduct the demonstration on practical methods of home canning. Women from eleven communities are expected to attend, according to Mary Hood Gillaspie, Home Demonstration Agent.

Two women from each of the eleven clubs will assist in getting women to the demonstration. The following women have been selected: Mrs. Walter Pennington and Mrs. Mary L. Huey, New Haven Homemakers; Mrs. Orin Edwards and Mrs. John L. Jones, Hamilton Homemakers; Mrs. Zora Scott and Mrs. J. E. Rogers, Grant Homemakers; Mrs. J. B. Respess and Mrs. Carl E. Roberts, Verona Homemakers and Mrs. C. H. Sullivan and Mrs. Beatrice Huey, Burlington Homemakers.

FORMER BOONE COUNTY BOY WEDS CLEVLAND, O., GIRL

Joseph Bullock, soy of Mrs. W. A. Bullock, of Ludlow, was united in marriage to Miss Emilie Woide, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Woide, of Cleveland, O., Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, July 11.

Mr. Bullock, born and reared at Hebron, was an honor graduate of Wittenburg College, of Springfield, Ohio, in 1928. He received his degree from Cincinnati University June 1932, after studying law at Michigan State University and Cornell College at Itcha, New York. He was admitted to the Ohio bar the following January, and since October 1933 has been employed by the law firm of Nichols, Morrill, Wood, Marks and Ginter, having offices in Cincinnati and Detroit.

Miss Woide was also an honor graduate of Wittenburg College in '35 and has since continued her studies at Cleveland University.

The wedding ceremony was performed at Grace Lutheran Church in Cleveland Heights in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends, after which refreshments were served to fifty guests at the home of the bride's parents, where many beautiful gifts were received.

The bride wore a dress and long veil of white organza and carried a bouquet of roses and lillies of the valley. The bridesmaids wore dresses of blue and yellow lace and carried flowers of the same shade.

The groom and groomsman wore white, as also did the ushers, Daniel and Marion Bullock, brothers of the groom, Mr. John Wolde, brother of the bride and Robert Young of Springfield.

The young couple motored to Asheville North Carolina for a short honeymoon vacation, returning Thursday of this week to Ludlow, where he has made his home with his mother and brothers during the past six months. Mr. and Mrs. Bullock will be "at home" in Ft. Thomas, Ky., after August 15th.

HENSLEY-LIGON

Miss Gypsy Hensley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hensley and Mr. Richard Ligon, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ligon were quietly married Sunday at the home of the bride's parents by her grandfather of Texas, a former resident of Grant.

This young couple have the best wishes of the Recorder.

14 FARMERS KEEP RECORD

ONLY WAY TO RECEIVE PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL BUSINESS ANALYSIS, SAYS COUNTY AGENT.

Fourteen Boone County farmers are keeping 1937 complete farm account business analysis records in cooperation with the College, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. They are W. A. Brown, S. B. Sleet, Walter Ferguson, Noel Walton, O. Y. Kelly, B. C. Stephens Wilton Stephens, Sterling Rouse, Grant Maddox, Wm. Moore, Wm. Ryle, Jack Purdy, Albert Parker and Henry Siekman.

Farmers cooperating in this project receive a personal and confidential business analysis designed to increase the farm income and efficiency. The College in return uses the composite business analysis to advise other farmers on those practices that are most profitable in the various type of farm organization set ups.

Thirty-six Boone, Kenton, and Campbell County farmers were included in the 1936 analysis. The farms were divided into two classes the specialty or dairy, poultry, truck and fruit farms and the general or tobacco and livestock type farms. The most efficient farm made a net income above taxes, insurance and 5 per cent interest on investment of $2,738. The last profitable farm showed a net loss of $763.00 on the same basis, while the average farm gave a net income of $712.00.

Factors affecting greater profit per farm included.

1. Dairy—Higher production per cow. The most profitable farms averaged 7340 pounds milk per cow, the least profitable 4473 pounds milk per cow.

2. Higher production per hen—171 eggs compared with the average of 143.

3. Higher crop returns per tillable acre.

4. Higher livestock receipts per tillable acre.

5. Larger total receipts per $1.00 expense—the most efficient farms took in $1.73 for each $1.00 spent while the average took in $1.37 per $1.00 spent.

A general summary of recommended practices for 1937 improvement includes the following: 1936 is the eleventh year of intensive farm management work in Boone, Kenton and Campbell Counties with the Kentucky Farm Account Book. The significant factors for farm profits have been established by the most successful farmers during this period. The following points are significant in profitable farm management in this area:

1. Hay and pasture are economical feeds. Land producing them should be so improved as to maintain high productivity. Lime, phosphate, manure and good seeding mixtures are important in this respect.

2. Having idle or fallow crop land is wasteful. Each acre should be producing either a cash crop, a feed crop, or a soil building crop at all times.

3. Bare land losses fertility. Fall seeded small grain following cultivated crops will prevent considerable loss of fertility and at the same time provide excellent pasture the following spring.

4. Much fertility is wasted by poor care of farm manure. It should be protected from the weather until it is spread on the land.

5. Dairy cattle are well suited to most farms in this area. Greater interest should be taken in their selection and care if higher profits are to be obtained.

Jesse Delahunty, one of the County's most prominent farmers, was a business visitor here Monday. While here he called at the Recorder office.

DEMOCRATS POSTPONE DANCE SCHEDULED FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

The dance to have been given by the Young Men's Democratic Club of Boone County last Saturday night was postponed, due to the death of Ed Anderson, one of the stockholders and directors of the Harvest Home Grounds, at which place the dance was to have been held. Mr. Anderson's home adjoins the entrance to the Fair Grounds. The deceased had always rendered valuable service to the Young Men's Democratic Club at the dances formerly given at Harvest Home Grounds.

The next dance will be sponsored jointly by the Young Men's Democratic Club of Boone County and the Florence Volunteer Fire Department at the same grounds on Saturday, August 21st.

ICE CREAM SUPPER

An ice cream supper will be given at the Big Bone Baptist Church Friday evening, August 6th, sponsored by the Y. W. A. Everyone cordially invited.

DON'T FORGET

All those who enjoy eating fish and having a big time, are requested not to forget the big fish fry at the Big Bone Baptist Church, Saturday, July 24th.

This affair is held annually in the beautiful grove at the church, and all those who attend are assured a delightful day.

COMPLETE FIVE YEAR PROGRAM

IN BOONE COUNTY JERSEY BULL ASSOCIATION — MUCH INTEREST HAS BEEN STIMULATED BY ORGANIZATION.

The Boone County Jersey Bull Association has completed five successful years of progress, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. The Association was organized in 1932 to furnish each member with a high quality purebred dairy bull at the lowest possible cost, to stimulate interest in breeding better dairy cattle thru the proving of club bulls and to establish herds in the county that successfully compete with the best dairymen in other sections.

The club block in the present set up consists of four members: Robert Youell, Ben Nichting, O. R. Russ and R. B. Huey and Son, who cooperatively own four excellent dairy sires Private's Oxford Majesty, No. 348918; Private's Ace, No. 348917; Ada's Tormentor, No. 345855 and a son of a proven sire, Golden's Glow Meadow Lad, No. 260720.

The association members now have 43 splendid heifers that are coming into production. Members are planing to use Dairy Herd Improvement Association records to secure daughter and dam comparison in order to test the inherent production ability of the herd sires used. Thru this work the blood of the outstanding animals may be intensified in the herds. The average cost of the bull replacement to date for the members who have been in the association five years is a total of $5.33 per member.

The Bull Association plan for breeders who are interested in long time dairy improvement thru sound breeding practices represents the most practical set up. Instead of one asociation in the county there should be twenty. The County Agent will be glad to advise with all dairymen interested in this work.

FLORENCE A. TANNER

Mrs. Florence A. Tanner, aged 62 years, passed away Wednesday at her home near Florence, Ky.

She is survived by her husband, C. H. Tanner, three sons, Harry R. and Clifford and the Rev. C. Cecil Tanner, of Hillsboro, Ky.; five daughters, Mable V., and Evelyn Tanner, Mrs. S. R. Aylor, Mrs. A. H. Dringenburg, and Mrs. Shelby Beemon; one sister, Mrs. Cora Blankenbeker and a number of grandchildren.

Services were held at the Hopeful Lutheran Church, of which she was a member, Friday at 2:30 by her pastor, the Rev. H. M. Hauter, after which she was laid to rest in the nearby cemetery.

The pallbearers were Albert Dringenburg, Clem Kendall, August Dringenburg, A. G. Beemon, M. G. Martin and Roy Lutes.

Funeral Director Philip Taliaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

SHERIFF LOCATES STOLEN JEWELRY

IN LOUISVILLE PAWNSHOP—LOUISVILLE POLICE RENDER VALUABLE SERVICE—CULPRIT STILL AT LARGE.

Sheriff Cotton, with Mr. and Mrs. Jos. A. Huey, of Union spent Friday in Louisville, Ky., where they located in pawnshops, the diamond rings and part of the jewelery which was stolen from the Huey home last week. The total loss was estimated at approximately $1000 in jewelery and money. One ring was stolen which was valued at $500.

The police of Louisville rendered valuable service in locating the stolen jewelry.

According to reports received here, the people pawning the jewelery gave addresses which were fictitious. However, from the description obtained from the pawnbroken, the police were optimistic in their belief that the perpetrators of this crime would be brought to justice.

MAR-LU BEAUTY PARLOR OPENS IN FLORENCE

Misses Marguerite and Mary Lucille Tanner, the attractive daughters of Mrs. Ora E. Tanner, Florence, have announced their opening of a new beauty parlor in Florence. Their location being in the apartment building owned by Dr. Gladys Rouse, directly opposite Dr. Castleman's office.

These young ladies have had several years of experience in beauty cultur, having operated a shop of this kind in St. Petersburg, Fla., for some time. They are natives of Boone County, although they have been in Florida for a short while.

The Mar-Lu beauty shop, located on the second floor, will be open for business every week-day until 8:00 p. m. fast time. The exact location can be designated by the green and gold sign, and for appointments, refer to their advertisement which will be carried in every issue of this paper for some time.

WORK DELAYED ON RURAL HIGHWAYS IN BOONE COUNTY

Due to delay in a shipment of road oil for the Rural Highway Department, road work in Boone County has been at a stand still so far as tar-surfacing is concerned. According to county officials, the shipment is expected at any moment, and work will be commenced immediately after shipment of the oil.

Jos. Feltman, president of the Citizens National Bank, of Covington and Cashier Linnaman, of the same bank were business visitors here Tuesday. Mr. Feltman is one of the oldest bank presidents in Covington.

NOEL WALTON ANNOUNCES

FOR COUNTY SURVEYOR—IS SON OF J. H. WALTON, AND A RESIDENT OF EAST BEND BOTTOM.

In this weeks' issue of the Recorder will be found the announcement of Noel Gaines Walton, of Carlton precinct for the office of County Surveyor.

He is the son of J. H. and Maud Ryle Walton, of Burlington R. F. D., and makes his home in the East Bend bottoms. He is a young married man and has one child.

Mr. Walton received his early training in the schools of Boone County and completed his education with engineering at the University of Pittsburgh and the University of Kentucky.

He has served the County Agricultural Production Control Association for three years as Supervisor, and has a thorough understanding of all the prbolems of land measurement and surveying.

In placing his announcement he made the following statement:

"While I have the greatest regard for my opponent, who has held the office for five terms, it is my belief that the voters of Boone County should have an opportunity of voting for a young man. I believe that I possess all the necessary qualifications for the office and promise, if elected, to serve in an honest and impartial manner."

Farmers Urged To Aid Supervisors

The checking of 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program performance on 1138 Boone County farms started Monday of this week. It will take approximately 2 months to complete this work, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. Nine supervisors took to the field to assist farmers in completing their reports for 1937 benefits.

The job of the supervisors is to assist farmers in completing their reports. All soil depleting crops must be measured unless they are 68 percent below the base in general soil depleting crops and tobacco unless it is 60 percent below the tobacco base. Soil conserving crops will be measured unless the farmers and supervisors can agree on an estimate acreage.

It is very important that the farmer, or an authorized agent, be present when performance is checked to certify the supervisor's report. The supervisor is not a detective or an inspector, but an assistant employed by the farmer, thru his association, to help the farmers complete the necessary reports on performance in order to establish benefit payments to be made under the program. In this work every farmer is urged to give all cooperation possible and report all questions on irregularities to the County office immediately.

The supervisors assisting in the various communities at the present time are: Virgil Vice, Petersburg; Walton Smith, Grant; Wm. Moore and Chester Goodridge, Hebron and Constance; Carroll Rice, Burlington; Joseph Rouse, Florence; Jos. H. Jones, Union and Beaver; Vernon Stephens, Hamilton and Carlton; and Joe Ryan, Walton and Verona.

They will continue their work until every eligible farm in the county has been checked.

HEADING WEST

A little over a hundred years ago courageous and intrepid pioneers in covered wagons were blazing a trail from the Mississippi river into the great northwest territory, a route today familiar to most everyone around Boone County as the Oregon Trail. Just now, according to government reports, a new trek is under way. This time the fortune seekers are using autos and trailers instead of covered wagons, but their object is the same. They are home hunting.

Today the going is easy. Modern bridges span turbulent streams that exacted a heavy toll of life and property in the early days of pioneering. Perfectly paved roads shorten the distance to hours instead of weeks. In three years, it is carefully estimated, 25,000 families have arrived in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, most of them from the drouth-plagued states. Some are able to purchase land erect buildings and buy farm machinery. Others, however, arrive in broken-down old cars and are penniless. They must rely upon state or government agencies not only for their existence but also for a chance to develop a new home.

Few realize better than residents of the northwest themselves the problems arising from the influx and already organized effort is under way to discourage the migration of those who are not able to finance themselves and pay their own way. It is a matter worthy of serious study by anyone contemplating a change of location.

LOOKING AHEAD

It hasn't been so very many years ago, as most Boone County citizens will recall, when the easiest way to get an argument out of a man was to mention "good roads." The auto was just beginning to become popular, though sentiment was about evenly divided as to whether it would prove a permanent method of transportation or a passing fad. The good roads question was a national issue, and it was possible to find whole families divided as to the wisdom of building any better roads than those in use for horse-drawn vehicles.

Today there is no argument about it. Everyone from coast-to-coast, and lakes-to-gulf is agreed that the auto will always be this nation's leading mode of transportation and that the welfare and prosperity of every community, large or small, hinges on the condition of the roads leading to it. Today the nation would practically collapse if it were forced to return to gravel roads and horse-drawn vehicles. Realizing this, those who are farseeing are insisting that every new road that is built be made wide enough to carry twice the traffic now operating over it, and that old roads, as they are repaired, be made correspondingly wide. The day is not far distant when about 80 percent of the roads now in use in this country will be unable to carry safely and speedily the amount of traffic that will be seeking to use them.

It is a good point for our road-builders to keep in mind. It will be to the interest of the taxpayers, in the long run, to build wide roads from now on, and to make the old ones winder as quickly as convenient. Then the job won't have to be done twice, at twice the cost.

COURTESY PAYS

When a Connecticut man died a few weeks ago and his will was read it was found that he had left a tidy sum to a lad who once retrieved the old gentleman's hat and refused to accept the ten-cent reward that was offered. Of course there are not many instances in which courtesy is thus rewarded, but the instance is of value to local parents in impressing their children with the fact that even though they may never be mentioned in somebody's will, courtesy always pays. Elderly people are always quick to notice and appreciate courtesy on the part of the young. It reflects favorably, too, upon the parents of those boys and girls who are thoughtful and polite, and who gladly assist those about them with no thought of compensation. There are times when it seems courtesy on the part of the young has suffered a slump in this country. Maybe the case of the old gentleman who remembered the boy who retrieved his hat will serve in a small way to impress a few youngsters with the age-old fact that "courtesy always pays."

WATCH THE WATER

While some states now carefully mark the source of drinking water along their main highways, as to its purity, it would be a good idea for every Boone County motorist who plans a drive into strange territory to keep in mind the importance of such information. Drinking any kind of water that is handy when one is thirsty is extremely dangerous, and it is much better to continue on a little further until a source of supply that is known to be pure can be obtained. Rather than take a chance on being forced to drink impure water many motorists carry a bottle or jug in their car, refilling it at each stop where fresh, wholesome water is obtainable. Typhoid and kindred ailments most frequently spring from the drinking of contaminated water, and the seriousness of such ailments are too well known to be ignored. There is good and bad drinking water in every community. Don't take a chance on your own or your family's health by guessing which is which.

TOO MUCH MUSH

Without taking a survey or sending out a questionnaire we'll warrant the predictio that about 99 percent of the American people are so disgusted with the Duke of Windsor-Wally Simpson affair that they don't care if they never hear any more of it. Speaking for this community, nobody really gives a whoop whether they "live happy ever after" or get a divorce tomorrow. The affair hasn't helped in the least to boost the the sacred institution of marriage, and if it hasn't glorified divorce and caused many to look more lightly upon it, then nothing ever will. Now it's over, from all appearances, and the American people can see just how foolish they were in working themselves up over it in the first place, when it couldn't have added anything to their happiness no matter how it turned out. Let's forget it, and turn our thoughts to other and more helpful things. The whole world has had enough of this sort of mush to last it for a long, long time.

Coed School Should Educate in Courtesy

DEAR Mrs. Post: This is a co-educational college and in the dining hall the girls and boys sit together, an equal number at each table. Do you think it would be a good idea for the boys to seat the girls? And what about when the girls turn up for meals late?

Answer: Certainly the men should seat the girls. After all, college should be a training ground for manners as well as for minds. The girls should be on time, but when being late is unavoidable, a girl should take her place as quickly as possible so that she will not throw her table into confusion by making it necessary for all the men to rise.

Better Send Flowers.

DEAR Mrs. Post: When my sister died some friends of another sister sent flowers to the funeral. The flowers were very beautiful and were addressed to Mother, but neither she nor I know them at all, and now someone in their family has died. So will you kindly tell me what, if anything, is Mother's obligation to these people?

Answer: I take it for granted that your sister who is their friend will go to see them and send flowers, and unless she is away from home there is no "obligation" that you need meet. But it would be kind certainly to send a note of sympathy, or flowers to the funeral from all of you.

Making It Official.

DEAR Mrs. Post: Soon I expect to announce my engagement to a man whom I have been expected to marry for years, so the news can not possibly surprise anyone. Under these circumstances, don't you think it would be silly to invite people without explaining at the time that we are announcing our engagement at this party? Please tell me frankly what you would suggest.

Answer: It would be best, I think, to write or telephone invitations to a party celebrating your engagement, and also notify the papers the evening before the party so that the announcement will appear on that day.

DECENTRALIZATION

Thirty years ago the "skyscrapers" were 20 story buildings. Electricity made it possible to go four and five times higher. 'Soon we will be sending the power across the country," Charles A. Coffin wrote. Know his name? Well, he made General Electric a reality. "If we persist in getting power from coal, we shall at least burn the coal where it is mined, converting it into electricity and not use up a big fraction of the power, as we do today, in the process of transporting it," he added. Coffin foresaw the possibilities of cutting down the high cost of city life by transferring large sections of our industrial workers to the country where people could have their own real homes, and raise their children. General Motors is doing wonders in decentralizing its huge motor activities throughout the different States.

Coffin was a wise pioneer and he thought deeply and profoundly. He said that 'the city has almost destroyed the home, but it has provided other advantages which the modern man can hardly do without." To which he added. "If only these advantages could be brought to the country, village and farm—well, watch what electricity is going to do next."

Haven't we been watching these changes during recent years? Tremendous quantities of cotton cloth are being manufactured where cotton is grown; shoes made near to where cattle roam prairies and pastures.

Country life is not dull any more, with automobiles and good roads joining cities, towns and the country. There are new processes of living—we are each a part of this. California and New York are very close to one another. Airplanes span the gaps over night. It used to take three months or more to go from one of these States to the other.

DIESEL

"Diesel' has been somewhat of a mystic word. The public has been told over and over that the Diesel is the most efficient type of engine ever manufactured. But why? The answer is that it gives the most power for the least fuel; it converts several times as much energy in a fuel into work as does the steam engine or turbine engine, and it is recognized as inherently somewhat better than the most highly developed gasoline automobile or airplane engines. A gallon of fuel in a Diesel has pulled a train almost three miles and cut down the cost of the haul nearly seventy-five per cent. No wonder the Diesel engine is emerging from the shadows of mystery to serve modern progress. Time marches on!

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for July 25

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 12:21-28.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord thy God hath chosen thee to be a special people unto himself.—Deuteronomy 7:6.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Ready for the Journey.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Ready to Start Home.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How God Prepares a People.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Equipped for a New Era.

"Let my people go"—such was the word of the Lord to Pharaoh through Moses and Aaron. "Who is the Lord, that I should obey his voice to let Israel go? I know not the Lord, neither will I let Israel go" — thus hardened Pharaoh his heart. The issue was so drawn for one of the great struggles of history. On one side was a bold and mighty monarch with all the resources of the empire of Egypt, and on the other an unorganized multitude of slaves. No, wait, on the other side was Almighty God! The outcome was never in doubt and through the unspeakable horror of the plagues we come to consider the last of the ten, the death of the first-born, with which is joined the establishment of the Passover.

The Passover is of sufficient importance to justify careful study simply as the perpetual feast of Jews, but to the Christian it is also a most blessed and instructive type of Christ who is, according to Paul, "our passover" (I Cor. 5:7). Let no one who studies or teaches this lesson fail to point to "the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world" (John 1:29).

I. A Lamb Slain (v. 21).

The sacrifice appears, a gentle, submissive lamb, a male without blemish, which is separated for the giving of its life that the first-born in Israel might be saved.

Notice that God's instructions were explicit, and were to be obeyed if there was to be redemption. There are those in our day who would substitute any and every other method of salvation for God's revealed plan. They talk about character development, the redemption of the social order, peace and politics, and forget the Lamb of God.

II. A Blood Salvation (vv. 22, 23).

The act of faith in marking the lintel and the doorposts with the blood, brought salvation to the families of Israel. Had they waited until they could reason out the philosophy of their promised redemption, or had they shrunk from the blood as their covering, their first-born would have been slain. It was when the destroying angel saw the blood that he passed over them.

Many there are in our time who speak disparagingly of the blood of Jesus Christ, but it is still the only way of redemption. "Without shedding of blood there is no remission."

It ill befits an age that is so blase and sophisticated as ours to attempt to cover its dislike for God's way of redemption by suddenly becoming too cultured and sensitive to hear of the blood of the Lamb of God shed on Calvary's tree for our cleansing from sin.

III. A Perpetual Memorial (vv. 24-28).

God wants his people to remember. We, like Israel, are to remember the bondage from which we were delivered. Down through the ages the Jews have kept the Passover. Our Hebrew neighbors do it today. Let us honor them for their obedience to God's command and at the same time seek to point them to the One who is the true Passover, Jesus Christ.

IV. Christ Our Passover (I Cor. 5:7).

Let us add to the assigned lesson text this New Testament passage which speaks of our Lord Jesus Christ as "our passover . . . sacrificed for us."

The bondage in Egypt was terrible in its afflictions and sorrows, but far more serious is the bondage in which men find themselves under sin and the rule of Satan. Surely there is need of divine redemption, and there is none to bring it to us but the Lamb of God. He was the One who without spot or blemish (I Pet. 1:19) was able to offer himself in our behalf that in him we might find "redemption through his blood" (Eph. 1:7, Col. 1:14).

"Is the blood upon the house of my life? Is the blood upon the doorpost of my dwelling place? Have I put up against the divine judgment some hand of self-protection? Verily, it will be swallowed up in the great visitation. In that time nothing will stand but the blood which God himself has chosen as a token and a memorial. 'The blood of Jesus Christ, his Son, cleanseth us from all sin'" (Joseph Parker).

LATE POTATOES

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

Even though there may appear to be enough potatoes to serve the family for the year, there may be so they may all be used, because disappointed in their keeping sc they may all be used, because spring potatoes such as Irish Cobblers, Bliss Triumph and Early Ohio sometimes sprout before they are dug and become worthless before Christmas. Those persons whose aim it is to provide potatoes for the year should plant a late crop, in July.

Several varieties offer. There is, first, that class of "July" potatoes that includes McCormick, French, Peachblow and Giant, all of which, sprouting slowly, can be kept in quite ordinary storage, with no trouble. Another variety is Irish Cobbler, whose seed must have been kept in cold storage. Still others are Russet Rural and Green Mountain, direct from the cool cellars of northern growers.

The best preparation for late potato land would have been to have it broken 6 weeks or two months ago and harrowed and dragged several times to kill weeds as they started. If planting late potatoes could not have been anticipated, however, the land may be broken just before the crop is to go in, for there has been an abundance of moisture in most parts of Kentaucky. Ordinary, it would be proper to turn under whatever growth there is. Late as this, though, it is best to remove whatever weeds and garden debris there are before breaking, because of the uncertainty of rains adequate to rot down this material. Early greens land, or cabbage land, or that portion where grew the early peas or even the first planting of beans, may be used.

Inasmuch as a deep seedbed is desirable, the surface should be cut deeply with a heavy hoe or with a disc harrow, before breaking. In a deep seedbed, the potatoes' requirements as to moisture and as to coolness are met. This, inadvertently, helps the scab situation.

As with spring potatoes, the seed should be treated to avoid bringing in any new infection of scab and black scurf. The treatment is described in Kentucky Extension Circular 202, free for the asking. As on spring potatoes, commercial fertilizer should be used, but because of warm temperatures having released fertility already in the soil, as in a manured garden, less fertilizer nitrogen is needed; 4-10-4 may be used instead of 5-10-5 or 6-10-6, and the amount may be smaller. One pound to 35 feet of row, under the seed, and worked in, is enough.

Planting depth for a late crop should be greater than for the potatoes planted in the spring, when here was assurance of moisture, and when there was, in fact, likelihood of too much. Five inches, or even 6 inches, is not too deep. The furrow should not be filled immediately, but only an inch or two of soil drawn over the seed, and the rest when the tops are tall enough.

Cultivation for late potatoes should be designed to save to the crop all possible moisture. The surface should be kept level and the soil should be stirred shallowly, merely enough to kill weeds, as they start. In fact, good late potatoe crops have been produced with no cultivating whatsoever when the year's weeds were destroyed in fitting the land for the crop.

Late potato pests are the fleabeetles and the leafhoppers, and sometimes, the remnants of the spring brood of the Colorado beetle. A control for all three is to spray with Bordeaux mixture to which calcium arsenate has been added (for the Colorado beetle) and Black Leaf 40 (for the hopper). Generally, two sprayings are sufficient, the first when the potatoes are all up, and the second two weeks later.

COLLECTING LIQUID RUBBER ON FIRESTONE PLANTATIONS IN LIBERIA

An ever-increasing supply of rubber comes from these plantations. Savings made by controlling raw materials and by more efficient manufacturing and distribution make extra values possible at no extra cost.

BECAUSE in Firestone Standard Tires —

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS — eight extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process. By this process every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber. This counteracts internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES—because under the tread are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING—because the tread is scientifically designed.

YOU GET LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE because of the extra tough, long-wearing tread.

Before leaving on your vacation trip, join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Standard Tires—today's top tire value.

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB NEWS

Campbell County boys and girls will have a chance to win two purebred Holtein heifers and one Jersey heifer at the county fair in September. The animals will be awarded to the club members who are the best judges of stock.

A 11-year-old girl who lives at Blue Springs, Rockcastle county, has made "big money" from her poultry flock. She sold 40 roosters for $91, and still has 65 chickens left, with total expenses to date of only $15.

Conservation means many things Livingston county members believe and so they specialize in conservation not only of soil, but also of wild game, forest trees, fish, etc. Six boys are making this their major project.

Two newly constructed barracks, built at a cost of $2,000, were recently dedicated to 4-H club work in Bell county. The Rev. H. M. Frakes, club leader, his assistants and others were active in preparing the program.

Two baby beeves that Ida Mae Alexander, Pulaski county, is fattening, made outstanding gains between May 15 and June 17. Fed the regulation rations for the project, one gained 100 pounds and one 110 pounds.

Battleships from the nations of the world will anchor off Treasure Island, site of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition, during the World's Fair of the West.

JULIA ANN SMITH

Julia Ann Smith, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, of Belleview was born Sept. 13, 1860, departed this life July 9, 1937 at the home of her niece, Miss Julia Buckner, Newport, Ky., with whom she has lived since March 1921.

Miss Julia, the title she was so well known by, was born and reared at Belleview and when quite young she confessed Jesus and took im as her guide and Savior, and became a member of Belleview Christian Chruch and remained a faithful member there until her death.

She had many friends in this county, also in Newport and they, with the nieces and nephew and other relatives lament a loss in which they can only be reconciled by our nipotent power.

Her cheerful and happy temperament shed happiness over all whom she met and her presence was always welcome for the beautiful attribute. Life was sweet to her, but when the death angel called she was ready to make the journey to that better land to be reunited with her loved ones, gone before.

May we so live when the call comes for us, we shall meet again, how sweet the time will be, when in that happy land each othefs face we'll see, the dear ones that have gone, we'll meet them over there around the great White Throne and Jesus will be there.

Funeral services were conducted at Belleview Baptist Church and the large crowd present was a testimony of host of friends she had. The floral pieces were many and beautiful. The remains were interred in the Belleview cemetery.

WCKY TO DEDICATE NEW TRANSMITTER

Station WCKY, Cincinnati, (149 on the dial) will officially dedicate its new 10,000-watt transmitter on Tuesday night, July 27, at 8:27 E. S. T. The ceremony, at WCKY's studios in the Netherland Plaza Hotel, will devoid of frills and superlatives.

L. B. Wilson, president and general manager of WCKY, will make a brief address and then the switch will be thrown, stepping up the station's power 100 per cent.

WCKY, an associate station of the National Broadcasting Company, is owned and operated by L. B. Wilson, Inc. It first went on the air in September, 1929, and has been operating since then on 5,000 watts power. The new 10,000-watt RCA transmitted embraces a number of features never before built into transmitting apparatus. It is expected to provide more reliable reception, finer tone quality and a great increase in WCKY's primary area.

Engineers estimate that the station will now have a one-millivolt signal north of Dayton, O., and Richmond, Ind.; east of Hillsboro, O., and Flemingsburg, Ky.; west of Rushville, Greensburg and Vernon, Ind., and south of Frankfort, Lexington and Winchester, Ky. This is twice the strength which is the engineering standard for good reception day and night.

NEW HAVEN BOOSTERS HOLD TOUR JULY 13TH

The New Haven Booster 4-H Club held their annual club tour and picnic on Tuesday, July 13. In spite of the disagreeable weather this proved to be quite a successful event in every respect. Unfortunately, we were unable to visit a few members because of impassible roads, due to the heavy rainfall.

In all there were about 16 members in attendance, besides the officers and adult leaders.

Projects and record books were found to be up in excellent condition. We saw some fine crops of tobacco and other crops in general were good. According to an authority, who had conducted every club tour thus far, two of our boys, namely, Tom Parker and Brooke Ransom had two of the best record books he had seen in the county.

Through the courtesy of Mrs. Jake Cleek, our adult leader, we enjoyed our picnic lunch on her porch, as the weather would not permit our dining in the open.

Our next meeting date will be August 21, at the County Fair.

Lucian Bradford, Reporter.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our heartfelt appreciation and thanks to the neighbors and friends, for their kindness and sympathy extended to us in our bereavement, in the loss of our dearly beloved aunt

Julia Smith

We especially desire to thank Rev. Raymond Smith and Rev. A. Brewer and W. M. Smith for their words of consolation and prayers, the pallbearers and Chambers and Grubbs and Mrs. Mary Grubbs funeral directors, for their competent management of the funeral.

BASEBALL NOTES

Last Saturday afternoon the Burlington nine defeated the Belleview club by a score of 8 to 5. Akins was on the mound for the winners with "Britch" Stephens on the receiving end, while Bill Rogers and Bob Dennison formed the battery for the losers.

Both teams showed good form until the last half of the game, when both clubs made several errors.

The Big Bone baseball team gave the Burlington nine a trouncing last Sunday by a score of 10 to 4. Cliff Afterkirk twirled one of the best games of his career on the mound. Cliff was able to hold the losers to 6 hits of which Voshell accounted for three.

Next Saturday Burlington meets Bob & Gene at the local grounds, and on Sunday Petersburg at the same place. These two games promise to be good exhibitions. Let us all come out and see these two good ball games.

On Friday night a meeting will be held in Burlington of the various managers of the Boone County Baseball Association, at which time the drawing for elimination will be made. All managers are requested to be present.

COSTS OF OPERATING A BANK

Among the many items of costs in operating a bank is the item of taxes. This bank paid over $22.00 per day taxes during the past twelve months. By reducing this item to daily working hours we find that our taxes for the past twelve months averaged over $3.00 an hour for every hour our doors were open for business

Just recently other taxes have been imposed upon us in the form of Old Age Pensions and Unemployment Insurance taxes.

(Next week we will call attention to other costs of operating a bank).

BINS FOR GRAIN MAY NEED CLEANING AND FUMIGATING

Bins for storing grain should be thoroughly cleaned before a new crop is harvested and housed, as many insects may have survived in neglected corners, according to the entomology department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

The granary should be swept with a broom, and the sweepings burned. After sweeping, scrubbing with lye water is advised, using one pound of lye to one gallon of hot water and working this down into the cracks and crevices of the floor. As an additional precaution kerosene may be sprayed on the sides and floor, but this involves danger from fire. If old bags are to be used, they should be turned wrong side out, shaken well or brushed or dipped in boiling water.

If grain is infested and it is necessary to fumigate, the first thing to do is to make the crib or bin air-tight on the bottom and up the sides as far as the grain extends. This may be done by lining or covering the bin with heavy wrapping paper, gluing together the overlapping ends. Fumigating gas is liable to pass out any crevice before the insects have been killed.

One pound of commercial carbon disulfid is sufficient for 100 cubic feet of space in the bin. This fluid evaporates into a gas that is highly combustible and may even explode, so fire in any form should be kept away. As the gas is heavier than air and settles to the bottom of the bin, the liquid is best applied in pans on top of the grain or else poured out on gunny sacks. A blanket, carpet or similar covering should be thrown over the grain, and fumigation permitted to go on for 24 hours. If the grain is to be used for food, 48 hours of fumigation is desirable. Afterwards, thorough ventilation is necessary, especially if the grain is to be used for planting. If barrels were used for fumigation of peas, beans or small amounts of grain, a piece of burlap may be tied over the top and the barrel inverted to permit the gas to escape. Best results with carbon disulfid may be obtained at temperatures of 75 to 90 degrees; when the temperature is lower than 60, fumigation should not be atempted.

BIG WHEAT YIELD

The nation's wheat crop is now at a stage where it is possible for experts to make pretty accurate forecasts of its size, and their announcement that it will be the largest since 1932 should be cheering news to all American citizens who relaize that the country's prosperity largely hinges on this cereal. Even the most conservative grain experts place the probable total yield this year at more than 650,000,000 bushels of winter and 150,000,000 bushels of spring wheat. That, they point out, will be enough for the country's own domestic needs, with enough left over to fill the empty grain elevators of Europe. Always in the past when America had grain enough for her own use and some for export times were relatively good. So in that old rule one finds time for rejoicing at this time. With a bumper wheat crop, and all other grain crops in proportion as now appears to be the case, the sun of prosperity rises higher in the sky. May nothing interfere to check its acendancy.

at PEOPLES FOOT COMFORT
828 Madison Ave., Covington, Ky.

A prominent "Foot Specialist" stated that it may be a far cry from a case of headache or backache or indigestion to a pair of bad feet; but the sooner the sufferer realized that the pain in the back of the head CAN be related to the pain in the bottom of his feet—the sooner he is going to get relief.

When you cramp blood vessels and shut off the blood supply to any part of the foot, you only deprive it of the food it should have to keep healthy, but the slower blood stream cannot clear away waste matter as it should. We find chemical deposits form at the joints of the feet and legs and then inflamation developes leading to pain and discomfort that makes you miserable all over. These symptoms are often mistaken for arthritis, rheumatism, or some other serious ailment.

Don't suffer any longer! SEE OUR FOOT ANALYST. He will analyze your foot comfort problems. —Adv.

SENATOR JOS. T. ROBINSON DIES

Joseph T. Robinson, indomitable leader of the Senator's Democrats, died on the fighting line Wednesday of last week, leaving to his colleagues a political situation troubled and portentious.

Stunned with the grief of a personal loss, his associates could give little thought to the future, but they foresaw difficulties plied upon difficulties through the loss of his energetic, driving leadership.

The battle over the Roosevelt court reorganization bill and the already arising struggle over the reorganization of the executive branches of the government were vitally affected. For every administration proposal, Robinson was a tower of strength.

Senator Pittman, Nevada, after a visit to the White House, declared that there would be no change in the court situation except a brief armistice.

Later a group of the bill's supporters met informally and agreed to go ahead with the fight for the measure.

Those at the conference included Senators Barkley of Kentucky, Minton of Indiana, Schwellenbach of Washington, Black of Alabama, and Pepper of Florida.

Barkley May Be Temporary Chief

Inasmuch as Barkley was Robinson's assistant leader, Senator Pittman predicted the Kentucky man probably would carry on the dead chieftain's duties until the next session of Congress, when the formal selection of a new leader would be made.

Robinson's death left the field clear for aspirants for appointment to the Supreme Court vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Justice Van DeVanter. It was common talk in Washington that President Roosevelt had intended to give the post to Robinson.

Senator Robinson died unexpectedly of a heart attack some time Tuesday night at the age of 64. A maid found his body sprawled on the bathroom floor in the Robinson apartment near the Capitol.

A state funeral was held in the Senate chamber Friday, a brief simple service with a little music and an eulogy by the Senate chaplain, the Rev. ZeBarney T. Phillipi. President Roosevelt attended.

Then, accompanied by large delegations from the ouse and the Senate, the body was placed aboard a special train bound for little Rock. There a second service was conducted Sunday, followed by interment.

Senator Robinson was engaged at the time of his death in one of the most intense and far-reaching conflicts of his long career, that over the court bill.

"Soldier Fallen"—Roosevelt

"A pillor of strength is gone," said President Roosevelt. "A soldier has fallen with face to the battle. I personally mourn the passing of a greatly beloved friend whose fidelty through the long years never wavered."

One after another, those who have worked for years with and against Senator Robinson rose and briefly, sometimes emotionally, praised the dead Senate leader as a statesman, as an opponent, as a leader and as a friend.

Barkley's Tribute

"N o man ever bore the responsibilities of leadership with greater courage, fortitude, patience, foresight and wisdom," said Senator Barkler of Kentucky. "May God rest his militant soul."

MRS. J. J. TANNER INJURED IN FALL

Mrs. J. J. Tanner, Burlington and Florence pike received a serious injury last Friday afternoon as she attempted to get up from bed. She fell near the center of the room and fractured her right leg.. She was alone at the time of the accident and laid on the floor helpless almost an hour.

Dr. M. A. Yelton was called and she was rushed to the Christ Hospital for examination. Her condition at this writing is much improved and she will return home soon.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS GROW LOCUST TREES

W. C. Johnstone of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture reports the distribution of 100 pounds of black locust seed to 4-H club members in 27 counties to start nurseries to provide trees for reforesting eroded land. The seed was obtained from the Kentucky State Division of Forestry, K. G. McConnell, director. Much of it was planted in tobacco beds after the plants were removed. It is estimated that a pound of seed will produce 5,000 seedlings, which will be distributed among farmers next year to set on steep land. Most of the counties are in western Kentucky, where there is much interest in using trees in the agricultural conservation program, according to Mr. Johnstone.

Thomas Owen and William Botkin of Rockcastle county averaged 50 percent production from their poultry flocks last month.

Dress For Comfort Says Medical Man

"The clothes that women can purchase today for hot weather wear are both cool to look at and actually cool to wear," Dr. Robert A. Fraser, Chief Medical Director of the New York Life Insurance Company declared in pointing out the importance of suitable clothing for maintaining hot weather comfort and health.

"The light pastel shades that one sees so much in the summer time," Dr. Fraser continued, "not only look cooler but are cooler. Light colors and white reflect light and absorb less heat, as well as appearing cool to the eye."

If you are going on a vacation or staying at home through the hot months, Dr. Fraser advises everyone, men and women, boys and girls to wear clothes that do not fit too snugly around the wait or neck, especially when exercising. Loose fitting clothing, that permits complete freedom of circulation, is by far the best, as well as being much more comfortable.

To the men, Dr. Fraser points out that, in general, suspenders are preferable to a belt, since the weight of clothing is best carried by the shoulders.

Women would do well to dispense with foundation garments of heavy materials, especially the type of garment that is excessively boned, unless a physician advises to the contrary. Lightweight, two-way stretch materials permit much greater freedom and are not so apt to impede circulation while exercising.

If you are going away on a vacation, Dr. Fraser suggests that a sweater be included for use after vigorous exercise and as a safeguard against the sudden chill of evening air common in many places.

Comfortable shoes and hose are extremely important, Dr. Faser reminds vacationists, "If you would escape being one of those unhappy individuals one sees nursing a blistered foot. Sneakers, while usually required for tennis, should not be worn continuously, particularly by adults. The arches get little support and the whole foot has a tendency to spread.

"If you swim several times a day, having two bathing suits will eliminate that cold, clammy, uncomfortable feeling that everyone experiences when they put on a damp suit, and, with a dry suit ready, the possibility of catching cold or becoming chilled is eliminated.

Dr. Fraser recommends a First Aid kit as a good investment to take on a vacation. This may be purchased complete, or made at home, using a white enamelled tin box with a tight fitting cover and equipping it with:

2 triangular bandages.
2 roller bandages
½ oz. fresh tincture of iodine, (rubber stopper in bottle)
1 small roll absorbent cotton
1 oz. aromatic spirits of ammonia (rubber sopper)
A few safety pins
Small Scissors
First Aid Text Book
Paste a list of contents on the inside of the lid of the box and be sure that the kit is always fully stocked.

Consult Your Physician

Inoculation against typhoid fever and diphtheria and vaccination against smallpox are advisable for members of the family, particularly if an extended tour or a visit to foreign countries is planned, and Dr. Faser advises consulting your physician about them. It is best to do this well in advance of the date your vacation begins, so that there will be ample time for whatever treatments are decided upon.

"A knowledge of First Aid may well prove helpful to a vacationist," Dr. Fraser says. "Numerous text books on the subject are available in public libraries and book stores. The American Red Cross offers courses for those who would become expert, and information about such instruction can be secured at your local Red Cross headquarters.

"Everyone, however, should know and remember the four cardinal First Aid rules, in order to be prepared for emergencies.

"They are: first, send for a doctor; second, keep calm; third, keep the crowd away from the patient; fourth, keep the patient quiet.

"The presence of mind to follow these rules," Dr. Fraser points out, "is frequently all that is necessary when an accident occurs."

U. S. Crop Report

Crops are off to about an average start according to the July estimates of the Crop Reporting Board of the United States Department of Agriculture. About the usual acreage of crops is expected to be harvested and moderately favorable growing conditions now prevail over most of the country except portions of the Great Plains area. where rain is urgently needed. Unless forecasts are upset by unusual weather conditions during the remainder of the growing season, the production of the principal crops will be much greater than in the recent drouth years, 1933, 1934 and 1936, and about equal to the average production during the 1928-32 period preceding. On the whole, the production of most crops may now be expected to meet prospective needs, so far as needs can be calculated when allowance has to be made for population growth, increasing industrial requirements, changing export outlets, reduced number of grain consuming livestock on hand and depleted reserves in grain bins, corn cribs and haymows.

The Winter wheat being harvested and spring wheat production stil lvery uncertain because of the threat of serious loss from rust the total wheat crop is estimated at 882,000,000 bus. This would be the largest wheat crop since 1931, but reserves are low and some wheat will be needed for feeding livestock until new corn can be harvested.

The corn crop is urgently in need of rain in the Great Plains area, has been hurt by dry weather in parts of the South and was planted late in some northern areas, but it is growing well in the central and eastern portions of the Corn Belt and production in the United States is expected to be around 2,572,000,000 bus. This would be the third largest corn crop since 1928 but less than the average production during the 10 previous years. A corn crop of the size now estimated, plus the about-average crops of oats, barley and grain sorghums expected, the low record carry-over of feed grain on farms, and a rough allowance for wheat to be fed, would give slightly more than the usual supply of feed grain per head of livestock to be wintered.

Current reports on Hay show prospects for about the usual acreage and yield this season but a light supply of old hay on hand, indicating a total hay supply of about the usual tonnage and about the usual quantity per head of hay consuming livestock. However, the feeding value of the hay produced is likely to be below average due to wet weather during the haying season and extensive loss of new clover seedings during the drouth last year.

Pastures are excellent in all States from Minnesota and Missouri eastward and also in most of the area west of the Rockies, but they are still distressingly poor along a wide belt extending from central Montana into western North Dakota and down to south Texas. In the country as a whole, the condition of pastures averaged 79.4 which represents a great improvement over the 58.1 average of a year ago and is higher than the condition on the same date in six of the last seven years, but below the usual July 1 conditions prior to 1930.

The indications for the food crops, other than wheat, show rather large supplies in prospect, for when the figures for 1937 are compared with the 1928 to 1932 average, a number of crops show increases considerably exceeding the estimated increase in population. The estimated increases for potatoes and beans are about 8 percent, sweet potatoes and sugar beets about 10 percent, and rye and rice 32 and 14 percent respectively. A rather large acreage of peanuts has also been planted. The fruit crops are expected to be good. Apples, pears, grapes, cherries and apricots are each showing production greater than the 1928-32 average by 14 percent or more, and although peaches and prunes are expected to be only about average, the estimated total tonnage of all these fruits combined shows an increase of nearly 14 percent over the 5-year (1928-32) average, and an increase of 16 percent over production last year. The citrus and nut industries are also expanding. Due to last winter's freezes in California, only a moderate supply of oranges will be available this summer, but after fruit from this year's bloom comes on the market next fall the supply of citrus fruits is expected to be fully up to the large production of the last 12 months. An increase in orange production is expected to offset moderate decreases in grapefruit and lemons. Record crops of walnuts and almonds are expected. Vegetable crops are expected to show rather irregular increases due to the planting of larger acreages and to rather favorable growing conditions up to July 1. The weather has been particularly favorable for fall cabbage, but the heavy rains of the last half of June caused some change to the celery and onion crop of the North Central States.

The acreage of Tobacco is nearly 18 percent larger than the rather low acreage last year, but even though yield prospects are rather favorable, the indicated production is not above production during the 1928 to 1932 period. With the increasing demand and moderate stocks, supplies of most types are not expected to be excessive.

The acreages of Soy Beans and Cow Peas show further expansion of 7 and 8 percent this year. Excluding the large acreages interplanted with corn in the South, soy beans are being grown on more than 6,000,000 acres, and cow peas on more than 3,500,000, the acreage in each case being about double the 1928-32 average.

High feed costs this season have led to sharp culling of hens and to an abnormally small hatching of chicks, but the hens were laying unsually well on July 1 and daily egg production in the United States was about 2 percent heavier than at the same season last year.

Milk production on July 1 represented about the usual per capita supply for the season but was around 3 percent higher than on the same date last year when drouth and hot weather were reducing the milk flow. Excellent pastures have maintained milk production in important dairysections and good prices for dairy products have encouraged early weaning of calves in areas where many cows of beef and dual purpose type are milked.

Nurmi, the famed Finnish long distance runner, is now the owner of an automobile agency in his native country, according to Finnish officials negotiating with the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition for a possible exhibit at the San Francisco fair.

HEART ATTACK CLAIMS FARMER

CAL ABDON FOUND DEAD AT HOME NEAR PETERSBURG—HAD BEEN DEAD SINCE THURSDAY.

Cal Abdon, 51, of near Petersburg was found dead last Saturday morning at his home. According to reports received here it was thought that he had been dead since Thursday.

Tom Setters, bother-in-law of Mr. Abdon reported that he went to the Abdon home and found Mr. Abdon dead. He lived alone and had not been seen since Thursday.

His death was attributed to heart attack.

Mr. Abdon was a member of the Big Bone Baptist Church, and was well known and respected in the community in which he lived.

He is survived by two brothers and one sister and a host of other relatives.

Interment was in the Petersburg cemetery. Chambers and Grubbs, funeral directors had charge of the arrangements.

BUYS BULL FROM OUTSTANDING HERD

Robert Youell, O. R. Russ, Franklin Huey, Ben Nichting and County Agent, H. R. Forkner, purchasing committee for the Boone County Jersey Bull Association, purchased a good yearling Jersey bull from the herd of Senator Perry B. Gaines of Carrollton on Monday of this week.

The bull is sired by Improved Right Royal Design P6669-H. C. and out of an outstanding dairy cow that has produced more than 10,000 pounds of milk and 545 pounds of butterfat in each of the last two years.

Senator Gaines, president of the American Jersey Cattle Club, has a world record production herd for its size. The herd also combines outstanding type with production.

The Right Royal Design bull will be used in the association breeding program to replace one of the Primate of Oakland bulls used the past five years. The Association at the present time has more than fifty daughters of the club bulls. Thru the new Northern Kentucky Dairy Herd Improvement Testing Association work the members expect to prove each bull used as to his productivity index.

MECHANIC SUCCUMBS

AFTER LOSING LEG IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH—WAS EMPLOYE OF JOSEPH A. KUCKLE, ERLANGER GARAGEMAN.

Carl Vagades, 35, Erlanger. died at St. Elizabeth hospital Thursday night of injuries received July 3rd in an automobile accident. He was reported to be improving, and death followed a sudden change for the worse.

Mr. Vagades was employed at Jos. A. Kuckle's garage, Erlanger, at the time of the accident. He was filling a car with gas, when another automobile driven by Rudolph Hubbard, of Louisville, crashed into the parked auto.

After the death of Vagades, charges of assault and battery with an atuomobile and driving an automobile while intoxicated were placed against the Louisville driver.

He is survived by his widow, Bertha Vagades; four sons, Joseph, Fred, Raymond and Robert Vagades and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Merkle, Norwood, O.

Funeral services were held at the funeral home of John Middendorf Sons, Monday, with Requiem High Mass being sung at St. Henry Church, Erlanger at 9 a. m. Burial was in St. John cemetery.

J. W. CONLEY ANNOUNCES FOR CO. SURVEYOR

In this issue of the Recorder J. W. Conley makes his official announcement for the office of County Surveyor, subject to the action of the Democratic primary Saturday August 7th, 1937.

Mr. Conley is a resident of the Walton neighborhood and is well known throughout the county. He has held this position for the past several years.

He stated that if elected he will make every effort to fill the office efficiently, and will appreciate your support.

SIDEBOTTOM ADDRESSES VOTERS OF BURLINGTON

Last Saturday night, P. L. Sidebottom, democratic candidate for State Senator addressed the voters of Burlington at the courthouse..

Mr. Sidebottom is a very fluent speaker and kept the crowd very attentive throughout the address.

He will address the voters of Florence Saturday night at 7:30 p. m.

EARNINGS SHORT ACP ALLOWANCE

ONLY 41 PERCENT HAS BEEN EARNED BY LOCAL FARMERS SAYS COUNTY AGENT, H. R. FORKNER.

Boone County farmers cooperating in the Agricultural Conservation Program are advised that the average farmer to date has earned only 41 percent of his allowance, according to H. R. Forkner, County Agent. This means that Boone County will lose approximately $26,550.00 in ACP earnings unless additional practices are carried out.

The above figures are based on supervisors reports of performance on those farms checked to date. While a few farmers have already earned their full allowance many have earned only a very small amount.

Our best farmers are over-earning their allowance. The farmer who needs to improve his farm most is the man who is falling down. When all seedings possible have been made the next important step is the use of limestone and phosphate. These two important soil builders are still the lowest priced in history. The price will likely advance before the close of the ACP year. Get your lime and phosphate now. You have until October 31 to earn your allowance. Call the County Agent's office, plan now to prepare your land for clovers, grass and greater profits while you are being paid for the work. Opportunity may not knock again.

DOLWICK FAMILY HOLD REUNION

HOLMES INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

GEORGE HOLMES, A BROTHER IS KILLED—ACCIDENT OCCURED THURSDAY NIGHT ON HIGHWAY 22.

William Holmes, Florence was injured Thursday night in an automobile accident on State Highway 22, seven miles east of Falmouth, and his brother George Holmes, of Cincinnati was killed.

It was reported that the car driven by William, suddenly began weaving from side to side on the road and then apparently got out of control and overturned.

Fishing tackle and other equipment in the car indicated that the brothers had been on a fishing trip. An oil station attendant reported that the men were headed for Brooksville.

The body of George was removed to a Falmouth funeral home, and William was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital. He suffered three broken ribs and numerous cuts and bruises. He is reported to be improving rapidly.

YOUNG PEOPLE ARE ENTERTAINED

Miss Rebecca Stephenson and Miss Barbara Edwards entertained a number of young friends at the home of the latter last Saturday night. All present enjoyed games of various kinds, and singing with Jack Turner and Henry Dye furnishing the music.

Those present to enjoy the occasion were, Jack Turner, Thelma Goodrich, George Casper, Virginia Reimer, Willard Stephens, Evelyn Miller, James Edward Stephens, Helen Binker, Chester Edwards, Katie Casper, Benny Goodrich, Margaret Huffman, Ray King, Lucille Edwards, Henry Dye and Wood Edwards.

Delicious refreshments were served after the games, and all left expressing their thanks for a very enjoyable evening.

TWO SINGERS TO ENTERTAIN

AT FLORENCE METHODIST CHURCH THURSDAY NIGHT, AUGUST 29—BOTH NOTED SINGERS.

Ruth Best, soprana and radio artist, and Homer Bernhardt, tenor, will sing at the Florence Methodist Church, Florence, Kentucky at 7:30 p. m. (slow time) on Thursday night (tonight). Mrs. J. B. Johnson, Walton, Ky., will be the accompanist at the paino. The program is to be sacred in nature for the most part.

Both Miss Best and Mr. Bernhardt are noted singers from Cincinnati, Ohio. They recently rendered a program in the Walton Methodist Church which was highly complimented by those who heard it.

Their singing is characterized by clearness of tone, melodious and beautiful in quality; yet every word is easily understood and the messages of songs are brought effectively to the hearts of those in the audience.

No admission fee will be charged but a free-will offering is to be taken.

QUALIFIES WITH ARMY RIFLE

LOCAL CHURCH TO GIVE PICNIC SAT.

The Burlington Baptist Sunday School will give a picnic Saturday July 31 at the Earl Smith woods at 10:00 a. m.

Extensive plans have been made by the committee for an enjoyable day for those who attend. Games for both old and young will be enjoyed.

Everyone cordially invited to attend this picnic.

BASEBALL NOTES

The Burlington baseball team dropped another game last Saturday to the strong Bob & Gene club by a 12-10 count. Ryle, Benson, and Kirk were on the mound for the local boys, while Petty and York twirled for the winners.

At a meeting of the Boone County Baseball Association held in Burlington last Friday night, drawings were made for the elimination series which will start Sunday. According to the rules, when a club loses five games they are eliminated. The following is how they will play:

Sunday August 1—Burlington at White Villa; Big Bone at Hebron; Bob and Gene at Belleview; Petersburg drew a bye.

Saturday Aug. 7—Big Bone drew a bye; Bob & Gene at Petersburg; Burlington at White Villa; Belleview at Hebron.

Sunday, Aug. 8—Belleview drew a bye; White Villa at Big Bone; Hebron at Burlington; Petersburg at Bob & Gene.

Saturday, Aug. 14—Hebron drew a bye; Belleview at Big Bone; Bob & Gene at Burlington; White Villa at Petersburg.

Sunday, Aug. 15—Bob & Gene drew a bye; Big Bone at White Villa; Burlington at Hebron; Petersburg at Belleview.

ONLY THREE MORE DAYS TO SECURE OPERATOR'S LICENSE

Circuit Court Clerk A. D. Yelton today called attention to the fact that motor vehicle operators have only three more days to secure licenses. Mr. Yelton emphasized that every person operating a Kentucky licensed motor vehicle upon the highways after July 31, 1937 must have a 1937-38 operators' license and said the license may be secured from his office for a fee of $1.

The Department of Revenue advised the Circuit Court Clerk that arrangements had been made for cooperation with the State Highway Patrol in the enforcement of the license law.

Colonel E. O. Huey, superintendent of the State Highway Patrol, said that he planned to establish check stations in several places in each of the police districts of the State during the month of August for the purpose of stopping all motorists to see if they have secured their licenses.

The law provides a penalty of not less than $25 or more than $500 or imprisonment of not more than six months or both fine and imprisonment for conviction upon the charge of operating a motor vehicle without having secured the operators' license.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

The engagement is announced of Miss Lula Cayton, Florence, Ky., to Rev. Ira Paternoster of Carrollton, Ky. The wedding will be solemnized September 6 at 4 p. m. at the Christian Church, Florence. Rev. Jack Ervin, Walton, Ky., will officiate.

CHANDLER WILL ANSWER BROWN

IN BROADCAST OVER SIX RADIO STATIONS SATURDAY—WILL REVIEW ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF ADMINISTRATION.

Frankfort, Ky., July 28—Governor A. B. Chandler will answer the attack of John Y. Brown on his administration Saturday night July 31 in a speech which will be broadcast from Owenton over six radio stations.

Governor Chandler will be on the radio from 8:45 to 9:45 Central Standard Time. It was announced that he would review the accomplishments of his administration and reply to charges which were made by Brown in a radio speech at Owen last Saturday.

Governor Chandler said when questioned concerning his forthcoming speech, "I am charged with the responsibility of government in Frankfort and am olathe to let the bitterness of disappointed politicians becloud the issues in this campaign. John Young Brown is making common cause with the old sales tax convention crew and I will answer his campaign in kind at Owenton."

Governor Chandler's speech will be broadcast over the following radio stations: WHAS, Louisville; WLAP, Lexington; WPAD, Paducah; WGBF, Evansville; WCKY, Covington; and WNOX, Knoxville.

CATALOGUES FOR 4-H FAIR

TO BE IN HANDS OF PATRONS BY AUGUST 5TH—PREMIUM LIST HAS BEEN INCREASED CONSIDERABLY.

Catalogues for Boone County Annual 4-H and Utopia Club Free Fair and County Picnic are expected to be in the hands of patrons by August 5th. according to John E. Crigler, Secretary of the 4-H and Utopia Club Council. The annual event will be held at the Harvest Home Fair grounds Saturday, August 21st.

Prof. R. V. Lents, chairman of the advertising committee, and John L. Conner report splendid progress on the advertising and that the work will be completed by the press in the next few days. Special music and free prizes during the day have been arranged.

The premium list has been increased and is expected to bring out a larger percent of exhibits this year, according to the County and Home Agents. Judges from the College of Agriculture are being secured for most exhibits.

The fair and picnic is sponsored by our 4-H and Utopia Club boys and girls. We urge every support in helping make the event a success.

ALUMNI PLAN FOR MEETING

TO BE HELD AT SCHOOL IN BURLNGTON—WELL KNOWN SPEAKER WILL GIVE ADDRESS AT EVENING SESSION.

The Alumni Association of the Burlington High School will hold its annual summer meeting and picnic at the school grounds in Burlington on the second Saturday of August, according to a report of the president and various committees.

The program will begin at 2:00 P. M. (central standard time) with a number of outdoor sports and various entertainment for everyone. The outdoor activities will be followed by a business meeting for all members and a basket lunch for everyone. The evening program will consist mainly of a very prominent speaker whose name is not known as yet.

The entire program this year is under the management of persons who are qualified to serve in the capacities to which they have been assigned. Much time and labor has been devoted to the program, and everyone who attends will not only meet old schoolmates who they have not seen for years, but will also be well entertained. All graduates, teachers and principals of the Burlington School and their families are invited to attend.

Watch next week's paper for complete details of the meeting.

CALIFORNIA ATHLETE VISITS BOONE COUNTY

Elroy Robinson, of Frensno, Calif., recently was calling on Keene Souther and other Boone County friends and relatives. Robinson, who is a California school teacher is a graduate of California University, where he made a national reputation as a track man.

The following account is quoted from the Cincinnati Enquirer of date July 18:

"The gangling University of Pittsburg Negro, who sent 23,000 Pan American games (at Dallas Texas) spectators into a frenzy last night with his 1:47.8 running of the 800 meters event never thinks much about records. Only five men had bettered the 1:50 mark for this distance before the ebony flier set out to settle his score with Elroy Robinson the California school teacher.

"The Californian set a terrific pace in the first 400 meters that shot Woodruff into position for smashing the record. He was only a pace behind Robinson for the first lap which was run in 52.5 sec. Down the back stretch the Negro made his move. He crept past Robinson and then opened up at the stretch curve. His legs(bobbing up almost under his chin were pumping tremendous strides, as he ran the final 100 meters like a fresh dash man. Officials estimated Robinson, who finished 8 yards behind Woodruff was better than 1:49. Robinson only a week ago traveled 880 yards (½ mile) in 1:49.6. This is 6 yards farther than 800 meters."

Robinson's father, Frank Robinson and his grandfather Cory Robinson formerly conducted a general store at Constance, this county and were widely known in Boone.

BARKLEY WILL LEAD SENATE

KENTUCKY MAN CHOSEN AS MAJORITY LEADER — FIRST ENTERED POLITICS IN 1905—IS RESIDENT OF PADUCAH.

Senator Alben W. Barkley, Kentucky's senior Senator stepped into the most prominent position of his career, when he was chosen as majority leader of the Senate to succeed the late Joseph T. Robinson, deceased Senate leader.

Senator Barkley entered politics in 1905 when he made the race for county attorney and was elected. He prosecuted one of his fellow officers and sent to prison, and later became county judge.

Taking the place of Ollie M. James in the House, after he moved up to the Senate, young Barkley on President Wilson's inaugural address, March 1913, imbibed much of the Wilson liberalism which made him a new dealer ahead of the new deal.

Senator Barkley received approximately 100 votes for the vice presidential nomination at the democratic national convention held in Houstin in 1928. The nomination was given Joe Robinson, as running mate for Al Smith. Barkley has been spoken of as presidential timber and no doubt is well qualified to fill the highest office of this land.

In his early struggle for education, Mr. Barkley entered Marvin College and worked as janitor to pay his expenses. He later sold kitchen utensils to pay, his way through Emory College, Atlanta, Ga. He also attended the University of Virginia law school.

Senator Barkley has made many speeches to the people of Boone County and only recently addressed local citizens at the courthouse in Burlington in behalf of the campaign of President Roosevelt. He has always been popular in this section and whenever scheduled for an address has been greeted by a large crowd of attentive citizens.

STEPHENS-BAGBY

Miss Zophee Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Stephens and Jesse Lee Bagby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Bagby, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon by Rev. Will Smith at his home.

The bride's attendant was Miss Louella Cason the best man was Clayton Clore.

After the ceremony they were entertained at dinner at the home of the bride's parents, after which they left for a short trip. After their honeymoon they will return to the Locust Grove community, where they plan to make their home.

Their many friends wish them much happiness and success.

Rev. James left last Thursday on a business trip and was accompanied by his daughter Elizabeth Ann and Geraldine Yelton. He motored through Eastern Kentucky and West Virginia, returning home Saturday.

LEE IS NAMED LEGION CHIEF

ERLANGER MAN IS CHOSEN BY UNANIMOUS VOTE AS STATE COMMANDER AT PARIS CONVENTION HELD LAST WEEK.

B. C. Ted Lee, Erlanger of the Simon-Kenton Post No. 20, was chosen as state commander for the coming year at the Paris convention held last week by the Kentucky American Legion posts. Lee was elected unanimously when Mike Sullivan, Frankfort, his opponent, withdrew before the balloting was half completed.

The new commander had piled up better than a 2-to-1 lead over Sullivan, when the roll-call was stopped to permit Mr. Sullivan to take the floor. He made a motion that Mr. Lee be elected unanimously. The motion was carried amid enthusiasm.

Lee, previous to the election, had been state vice commander. His section gives the Sixth District of the state legion the first commander it ever has had. It also gives the Simon-Kenton Post, Erlanger, the distinction of being the smallest post ever to produce a state commander.

The new commander was one of the first to enter the air service from Kentucky. He served with the Sixth Aerial Squad.

YOUR DOG

After all, the most unselfish, patient and forgiving thing in the world is your dog. Humans usually lack the virtue of forgiveness. Most of them carry a grudge for years. But your dog carries no grudges against you, no matter how often you may punish him. When it comes to loyalty, you haven't a human friend who will stick to you as closely as your dog. Whether you have lost your last penny or made a million dollars; whether you are in rags or dressed in the height of fashion, it's all the same to your dog.

With these facts generally admitted, a suggestion as to the proper treatment of your dog during the heated season is most timely. From now until cooler weather arrives around the first of September dogs need and must have a constant supply of drinking water. Lack of it in hot weather, it is generally agreed, produces rabies and causes dogs to "go mad." When in that condition their bite is exceedingly dangerous. Infections arising from the bite of a dog suffering with rabies is difficult to combat and, especially with children, often proves fatal.

During these hot days every dog owner around Boone County should see to it that water is kept constantly where their dogs can get it when they want it. It is your best protection against losing your dog, and also against the serious results that may arise if he is seized with an attack of rabies.

PASSING OUT

It isn't hard for older citizens of Boone County to recall the predictions made about the time the auto appeared that the new method of transportation spelled the doom of the horse. Happily that prediction did not come true. For a good many years the horse remained in demand as a beast of burden, and the price of horseflesh showed no decline.

Now, however, comes a horse and mule census that throws new light on the subject. It shows the number of farm animals is rapidly decreasing and reveals that if this continues it will be but a few years until the horse and mule have passed almost completely out of the picture. The number of horses in the U. S., the census shows, dropped from 16,401,000 in 1925 to 11,858,000 in 1935, a brief ten-year period. The cause is attributed not to the passenger auto, as old-timers predicted, but to the motorized machinery that is constantly finding its way to the farming sections of every state in the union.

As time goes on this will become more noticeable. Whether it will be economical or not, and whether it is cause for regret or satisfaction is not easily said, without fear of starting an argument. But the fact remains, all arguments to the contrary that horses and mules are passing out of the picture in this country and that the trend toward motorization of all kinds of farm machinery is fast pushing the noble old animals closed to the soap factories and the fertilizer plants.

USING SIGNALS

National safety experts in convention at Chicago recently expressed the belief that a large proportion of auto accidents could be prevented if drivers would adhere more strictly to the use of hand-signals. The system of hand-signaling is no doubt familiar to every motorist in this county. If he is not acquainted with their use and meaning then has no business driving a car. The same holds true with those who are familiar with hand signals but who still refuse to use them. The man behind can't read your mind. He has no means of knowing what you intend to do unless you signal that intention. If you make a turn or sudden stop without first indicating your intention by a hand signal, then you are to blame for the serious results that are likely to follow. Use hand signals all the time, wherever you are driving. It is, the safety experts say, your greatest protection.

WORTHLESS BONDS

With money circulation more freely than for a half-dozen years and many Americans again seeking methods of investing their savings, the foreign securities markets are said to be once more attracting attention. Evidently there is no truth in the old assertion that "a burned child dreads the fire," for there were certainly plenty of people in this country burned on foreign securities a few years previous to 1929. Obviously there is nothing that can be done to prevent people from buying foreign bonds if they wish to do so. It is their money they are investing, and if they want to risk losing it, that's their lookout. Insofar as the people of this County and surrounding territory are concerned, however, money is not yet plentiful enough to chance a single dollar of it on foreign securities. Uncle Sam's securities are still good, and the man who isn't satisfied with the interest they pay deserves to be stung.

THE GOSPEL TRUTH

Speaking before an audience in New York City recently Clayton Rand, famous advertising expert, uttered these words of truth and wisdom:

"There is nothing in print that has fireside appeal, influence or pulling power like the home-town newspaper. In the aggregate it is the greatest power in America. The first line of American defense is our army of 14,000 home-town newspapers, and if the nation endures it will be because these home-town papers were kept strong, and because in any hour of peril they can be depended upon to carry the word of warning to the people that the enemy is within our gates. While the metropolitan press is still the greatest reflector of public thought and opinion, the cross-roads press of American is still the motor of it, and still America's greatest safeguard against enemies both within and without her boundary lines."

Total carloadings on the L. & N. Railroad in June registered 83 per cent of normal, a gain of 4.7 points over June, 1936, according to the July L. & N. Employes' Magazine. Better business conditions is given as the primary reason for the improvement. June loadings, however, fell 3.4 points under May 1937.

Total L. & N. Carloadings in the first half of 1937 registered 82.5 percent of normal, as compared with 74.1 percent over the same period of 1936.

When Do You Start Calling a Boy "Mr."?

DEAR Mrs. Post: (1) At exactly what age should young people be introduced as "Miss" and "Mr." to their elders, and (2) Does your same answer to No. 1 also apply to introductions between contemporaries?

Answer: Girls are not introduced as "Miss" nor boys as "Mr." until they seem grown—this "seems" determined according to appearance and mental qualifications. But usually a girl would be introduced as "Miss" at about seventeen and a boy at nineteen or twenty. (2) No, they are given a title at a much younger age when introduced by persons whom they know slightly. On the other hand, when introduced by one of their intimate friends to another who is also an intimate friend of the one introducing them, they are called by their whole name without any titles. "Sally Green—Bill Neighbor."

Taste Governs Mourning.

DEAR Mrs. Post: I am just twenty-one and have lost my mother. What will others expect of me in the matter of mourning, both as to behavior and dress? I feel my loss deeply and I don't want others to think I don't, and yet I don't want to carry my grief so plainly that others will be depressed, nor do I want to make things worse for myself. May I go to a local athletic club to which my family belongs to use the gymnasium and to swim and play games?

Answer: How you behave indicates much more the depth of your mourning than what you wear or where you go. This does not mean to let yourself cry, or sit wrapped in your own sadness, but merely that you should behave with quiet inconspicuousness. No one expects you not to go to the houses of your friends, either when they are alone or when they are having a very few others who are also your friends. Naturally you would not go to dances or to big parties. You can, however, go to the movies with a member of your family or a friend alone. And of course you need not give up sports that can be considered exercise and are therefore necessary to your health.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By REV. HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

© Western Newspaper Union

Lesson for August 1

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 13:17-22; 14:10-15.

GOLDEN TEXT—And the Lord shall guide thee continually.—Isaiah 58:11.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Shining Cloud.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Forward March!

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How God Leads Today.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Nation Following God's Leadership.

The destinies of the nations are in the hands of God. Mighty are the warriors, learned are the advisors, clever are the diplomats, and when they have exercised all their human ingenuity and have only brought themselves and their nations to "Wits' End Corner," God must lay hold and bring order out of chaos. Happy is that people where rulers recognize God and seek his guidance.

Israel through the human instrumentality of Moses was ruled by God. He had prepared for them a leader and had prepared the people to follow that leader. Now he brings them forth out of their bondage.

I. "God Led Them" (Exod. 13:17-22).

It is significant that he did not lead them by the easy way to Canaan, by the short route through Philistia but rather led them south into the wilderness.

How often it seems to us that we could improve on God's ways. Suffering, sorrow, affliction, we would shun and would go the quick easy road, where all is bright and happy. But God's way is the best way, even though it leads through the wilderness.

His purpose for Israel was that they might not be disheartened by the warlike Philistines (v. 17). Thus it was really his loving-kindness that sent them the long way. See Prov. 14:12, and Prov. 10:29.

Another and equally important purpose of God was that the undisciplined multitude might in the trials and responsibilities of their journey through the wilderness be prepared to enter the promised land.

The miraculous pillar of cloud and fire was God's constant assurance of his presence with them.

Hardly had Israel withdrawn, and the wail over the death of the first-born in Egypt ceased when Pharaoh regretted that he had permitted his slaves to escape, and set out in pursuit. He represents the world, the flesh, and the Devil in their relentless efforts to hold back those who would follow the Lord. Making a decision for Christ, and experiencing his redemptive power does not mean that the enemy has given up. Temptations, doubts, trials, will come. When you come up out of Egypt do not be surprised if Pharaoh pursues you.

The situation could not have been more difficult. Hemmed in by the flower of Egypt's army, with the Red sea before them—a group of men not trained in warfare—with women and children to care for, and God forgotten in their disbelief and discouragement.

Moses, who was their great leader in the hour of triumph, tastes the bitterness of their hatred and unbelief in the hour of trial. A leader of men for God must know that God has called him and have faith in his almighty power, for in the time of crises he will find those whom he leads ready to condemn him. What is the solution?

III. "Stand Still" (vv. 13,14).

Sublime in his confidence in God, Moses bids the people to cease their petty complaining, to abandon their plans for saving themselves. "Stand still, and see the salvation of the Lord" (v. 13).

Perhaps these lines will be read by some Christian who is fretting and fussing, bearing all the burdens of the universe on his shoulders. Be still, my friend. God is able to care for you, and for all the burdens which you are needlessly trying to bear. Trusting God will result in real spiritual progress.

IV. "Go Forward" (v. 15).

Humanly it was impossible, but "with God all things are possible" (Mark 10:27). When every circumstance says "Stop," when the counsel of men is against attempting anything, when human leadership seems to be lacking—just at that hour God may say, "go forward."

If every true Christian who reads these words will respond to the Lord's command, "Go forward," hundreds of locked church doors will be opened, new Sunday schools will gather children to hear God's Word, men and women will be won for Christ. Let us "go forward." The God who brought Israel dry-shod through the Red sea is just the same today!

Enjoyments and Troubles

I make the most of my enjoyments. As for my troubles, I pack them in as little compass as I can for myself and never let them annoy others.—Southey.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

Homer Morgan, a Metcalfe county farmer, reports threshing 85 bushels of winter barley from four acres. The best acre produced 35 bushels. Considerable barley will be sown as a cover crop in the county.

Sol Carnes, of Boyle county, harvested 30 acres of wheat by turning 25 cattle and 146 hogs into the field. Records were kept of gains made. To balanre the ration, the cattle were fed rottonseed meal and the hogs tankage.

Mammoth clover has made remarkable growth on the Lee county farm of S. L. Spencer. Some of the plants are 6 feet high. A plot treated with superphosphate has made more than double the growth on the untreated part of the field.

Two fleming county farmers are going together to buy a carload of Ramboulette ewes, following a county-wide meeting in which advantages to the flock of these ewes were pointed out. Only one farmer in the county now has this breed.

B. F. Holbrook, a Letcher county farmer, is starting a herd of purebred Herefords. He recently bought several cows, two 2-year-old heifers, two heifer calves and a bull. "I've tried purebred stock before ,and I know they're profitable," Holbrook says.

F. D. Martin, Mercer county, reports an estimated average return of $20 for every ewe in his flock. The year's wool clip came to 10 pounds for each ewe, and he averaged a lamb and a half for every ewe.

KENTUCKY TESTS SHOW HIGH VALUE OF MANURE

The value of manure is strikingly shown in an experiment on the Mayfield, Graves County, soil experiment field which was begun in 1913, points out Prof. George Roberts, head of the agronomy department of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

Two sets of plots treated with sufficient limestone and superphosphate throughout the period were used for the tests. No manure or crop residues were returned to either set for the first three years. Beginning with 1916, manure has been used on each corn crop, in quantities practical on farms, on one set of plots. On the other set of four plots the cornstalks and wheat straw were returned from 1916 to 1921, after which they were left off. No manure was used on this set of plots at any time. A four-year rotation of corn, soybeans, wheat and hay (mixed grass and legumes) was used until 1931. Since then a four-year rotation of corn, wheat and two years of hay has been used.

Dividing the 24 years of the test into three periods of eight years each, the average acre yields for each period are: Corn and manure, first period, 32 bushels; second period, 44 bushels, and third period 37 bushels. Soybean hay, first period, 3,292 pounds the first period and 3,721 pounds the second period, on unmanured land. Wheat on manured land, first period, 17 bushels; second period, 21 bushels, and third period, 23 bushels. Wheat on unmanured land, first period, 16 bushels; second period, 16 bus., and third period, 20 bushels. Hay on manured land, first period, 3,173 pounds; sceond period, 4,332 pounds, and third period, 5,326 lbs. Hay on unmanured land, first period, 2,903 pounds; second period, 3,834 pounds, and third period, 3,924 pounds.

To put it another way, notes Prof. Roberts, whereas the yields were almost identical on the two sets of plots in the first period, in the last period the manured land was ahead by a yearly average of 16 bushels of corn, three bushels of wheat and 1,400 pounds of first-year hay. There were few crop failures in the first 24 years. The average yields are for the number of crops in each period.

On the plots where no manure was used, symptoms of serious potash deficiency in crops have shown up. In 1936 the yields of corn on manured and unmanured land were 43 bushels and 19 bushels. Increasing crop yields by treating the soil with limestone and phosphate hastens the depletion of potash, unless manure is carefully saved and returned to the soil. About 09 per cent of the potash in feed is returned in animal excrements, but about two-thirds of it is in the liquid manure. Unless this is saved by bedding, there is a serious loss. Also, about three-fourths of the nitrogen and phosphorus in feed are recovered in the manure, more than a third of the nitrogen being in the liquid manure.

The conservation and use of manure is one of the most important practices in soil conservation, for by returning plant nutrients to the soil more vigorous crops are produced which better hold the soil against washing and other losses. The loss through careless handling of manure in Kentucky is easily ten million dollars a year.

The average yields of second-year hay for four years after the changed rotation was established were 5,615 pounds on manured land, and 4,922 pounds on unmanured land.

LIME-PHOSPHATE GIVE BIG YIELD OF ALFALFA HAY

Results gathered by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station indicate that farmers are getting big yields of alfalfa hay from the application of lime and triple superphosphate.

In a demonstration made by R. S. Hite on bottom land in Trigg county, the application of lime and triple superphosphate brought 12,240 pounds of green alfalfa hay to the acre at the first cutting; compared to 3,520 pounds where neither lime nor phosphate was used; 4,800 pounds where lime alone was applied and 3,760 pounds where only phosphate was put on the land.

A demonstration on bottom land on the farm of Ed C. Ray in Graves county resulted in the production of 4,440 pounds of dry alfalfa hay at the first cutting. where lime and superphosphate had been applied; 2,520 pounds of dry hay where phosphate alone was used; 1,440 pounds where only lime was applied, and 1,040 pounds where there was no treatment.

In Caldwell county, C. K. McNeeley obtained nearly five and a half tons of green hay at the first cutting, and only half of a ton where no lime or phosphate had been applied.

Lime and triple superphosphate produced 10,545 pounds of green alfalfa hay to the acre in a demonstration in Lee county, compared to 2,505 pounds where lime alone was used.

MILLET AND BARLEY BEST FOR ORCHARDS

Seven years of tests made by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station indicates that millet and barley are the best cover crops for orchards. Tests also were made with lespedesa, sweet clover, soybeans and bluegrass.

Trees grew faster where millet and barley were grown than where legumes were used. This was determined by measuring the gain in tree trunk circumference. Second largest tree growth was where lespedesa was used as a cover crop, third with sweet clover or soybeans, and growth was the least where the orchard was kept in bluegrass sod.

"YOU SHALL KNOW THE TRUTH AND THE TRUTH SHALL MAKE YOU FREE"

From Grant County News, Williamstown

I depend upon the farmers of this community for my livelihood. It is true that I also gain sustenance from the business and professional men of this town, but they too, are dependent upon the farmer; so after all, the source of all wealth is the soil. When they are prosperous, they take care of me—and by and by when hard times come knocking at the door, I help to take care of them. So it would seem that our destinies are ONE and they both begin and end in our main crop, which is tobacco.

Paul Sidebottom, whose status is exactly the same as mine, and realizing that fact when in 1932 there were only low grades and plenty of them, and you had to take a couple of chickens along to help pay the floor expenses on your tobacco; unwilling to accept such conditions, and in that fighting spirit that characterizes him, he decided to do something about it.—He headed a delegation to Washington and contacted both United States Senators in the hope of having the parity price of tobacco raised. The drouth and the AAA then raised tobacco prices to where the sun again shone in My Old Kentucky Home and we enjoyed a couple of years of real prosperity, which could have been continued by intelligent leadership of the state administration.

The good Lord broke the drouth and the Supreme Court smashed the A A A, leaving us at the mercy of the Big Four Tobacco Companies and the tobacco warehousemen.

Paul Sidebottom entered the House of Representatives and when this crisis arrived, determined to throw the state into the breach to save tobacco prices. The tobacco control bill was drafted, a fair grading bill was drafted and placed upon the board for passage.

After interviewing his friends back home, he voted for the nuisance taxes, that is—the cigarette tax, the ice cream tax and the automobile tax, in turn for which, the administration was going to bring out for passage the tobacco control bill and the whiskey tax. On the last days of the legislature I asked Paul what about the whiskey tax and the tobacco control bill and he said, "I'm going to see the governor today." A delegation from the House of Representatives headed by Paul and Mr. Jones of Owen County waited on the governor and asked about his promise. The governor's face became red and he rose and went into the other room, saying, "You are trying to ruin my administration," and closed the door in their faces, and when he did that, he closed the door in the face of you and me. A picture I have here, spread over the front page of the Cincinnati Enquirer, depicts Rasty Wright, wealthy warehouseman from Lexington and Governor Chandler at the Netherland Plaza, in Cincinnati, having a big time, which explains where our tobacco control bill went to. Warehousemen are interested in pounds, not in prices. And the very day that the tobacco control act was killed in the legislature, the bottom fell out of the tobacco market. AND IT'S STILL OUT. And the whole state is planted in tobacco.

What are you going to do about it?—

There is no middle ground, you must either go forward or back. ARE YOU GOING TO VOTE FOR A MAN, PLEDGED TO THE ADMINISTRATION, WHICH HAS BETRAYED YOU AT EVERY TURN,—OR ARE YOU GOING TO VOTE FOR PAUL SIDEBOTTOM WHOSE HONESTY IS AS MUCH A PART OF HIM, AS THE ROCK FOUNDATIONS ARE TO THE HILLS FROM WHICH HE SPRUNG,—AND WHOSE ELECTION WILL BE A STEP TOWARD A BIGGER AND BRIGHTER ERA FOR THE FARMER AND THE SMALL BUSINESS MAN IN KENTUCKY?

Baseball Prospects To Be Tried Out

Columbus, O.—Budding baseball prospects of this section are soon to be given an opportunity to discover whether or not they have a future in professional baseball, according to an announcement by Donald E. Beach, president of the Columbus club of the Ameridan Association.

The Columbus Club, a subsidiary of the St. Louis Cardinals, will offer boys this opportunity in a try-out camp conducted here at Red Bird Stadium, starting Monday, Aug. 2, Beach stated. The camp will last approximately one week.

Competent scouts of the Cardinal organization will be on hand to pass judgment on the players, Beach said, adding that the scouting personnel will be announced. In the meantime, Harold Roettger a field representative of the Columbus club, is in the territory contacting newspaper men and managers of amateur and semi-pro clubs, seeking prospects for the camp.

The Columbus club conducted a similar camp last year and contracts were given a number of boys. Boys thus signed here will be offered contracts with minor league clubs in circuits which will afford them the best opportunity to develop their ability to the point where they may eventually go to the St. Louis club or some other major league team.

Boys between the ages of 17 and 23 who believe they have the ability to play baseball professionally are eligible to attend the camp in Columbus, Beach said. Boys need no recommendations to attend. All they have to do is present themselves at Red Bird stadium at 9:00 o'clock the morning of Monday, Aug. 2. The only requirements are that out-of-town boys finance their own trips to Columbus and their living expenses while here. Boys must bring their own shoes, gloves and uniforms. No fee is charged boys who attend, and, at the same time, Beach emphasized that the camp will not be conducted as a school and that instruction will not be given.

Try-outs in the camp will probably entail a stay in Columbus of three or four days for out-of-town boys. Boys who are signed to contracts will be refunded their expenses incident to attending the camp.

Facts Concerning Our County Government

If the voters of Boone County were acquainted with all the facts concerning the financial affairs of Boone County there would be no need of the following facts concerning Judge N. E. Riddell, who is a candidate for re-election.

No better endorsement of the administration of Judge Riddell should be necessary than to quote the words of Hon Nat B. Sewell, State Inspector and Examiner of the State of Kentucky, in his report of the last examination of the fiscal affairs of the County and the office of Judge Riddell, which says:

"I am enclosing a copy of my report upon a recent examination of the records, accounts and affairs of public officers of Boone County and in the yearly examination of the Counties of the State it is very seldom that we find as little to criticize and as much to commend as is revealed through our investigation of your County. I sincerely feel that the fiscal affairs of Boone County are exceptionally managed, the records show that your County has operated strictly upon a cash basis and has also lived within its income. I therefore consider your accomplishment in this connection an outstanding one.

"I want to express appreciation from this Department for the excellent cooperation that we have had in our work from Boone County Officials. The fine administration record that is being made by these officials is an encouragement and should be a helpful example for many other Counties to follow."

"Sincerely yours,

"Nat B. Sewell,

"Director of Post Audits."

A few years ago a Road Bond issue was voted by the people of Boone County in the sum of $400,000.00. There is $320,000.00 of this Bond issue outstanding and being retired at the rate of $15,000.00 every year as the Bonds mature. There remains unexpended in cash from the sale of this Bond issue the sum of $109,000.00, which sum is on deposit in various banks in Boone County, drawing interest. Judge Riddell has been trying to buy in some of the outstanding bonds for several years and retire them but the bonds being non-callable, serial bonds, only $15,000.00 a year can be retired, as the private investors holding the bonds will not sell them, and the County has no way of calling in the bonds until they mature.

Those coming before Judge Riddell's court for trial we believe will agree that he is fair, just and impartial in his rulings. Hundreds of the citizens of Boone County seek his advice on legal matters and he has the first time to make a fee charge for this advice, for which most attorneys make a charge.

No paper soliciting assistance for some widow, orphan child, or unfortunate man of this county was ever refused a generous donation from his private funds. He is always ready to be the first to subscribe to any civic improvement of the County and to put his shoulder to the wheel when State and Federal aid are possible.

Judge Riddell has one fault that probably works against him in a campaign. He would rather do something for a friend than ask that friend to do something for him. It is doubtful if he has really asked a person to vote for him or passed out a dozen cards. He does not practice deceit in any form and no one can truthfully say but what he is the same after an election as before it.

He is a dyed in the wool Democrat, never scratching a ticket, or guilty of saying unkind things of an opponent, or holding an ill feeling against a voter who saw fit to vote against him.

His qualifications for the office of County Judge are well known to every voter and need no comment along this line. His many friends are largely responsible for his offering himself for re-election, believing that the affairs of Boone County are safe in his hands for another four years. The remuneration of the office of County Judge is not large and in many instances causes Judge Riddell a personal loss by reason of being prohibited in accepting employment in many legal cases on account of holding the office of County Judge.

The books of the County are wide open to any one desiring to know how the taxpayers' money is spent and when any statement is made concerning the affairs of this County it would be well to investigate and ascertain the exact figures from official sources before any conclusions are drawn.

We believe the taxpayers and voters of Boone County want to see the County continue as an outstanding County of the State, free of indebtedness, and to have every effort put forth toward the construction and maintenance of roads throughout the County, and believe this can best be accomplished by casting your vote for Judge N. E. Riddell on August 7th, 1937.

Adv. —FRIENDS OF JUDGE RIDDELL.

137-ACRE FARM YIELDS $1,770

Returns of $1,770 from an 137-acre farm is the record made last year by Ed C. King, Orangeburg community, Mason county, Ky. according to County Agent Jesse L. Collins, who calls Mr. King "a shining example of a man who keeps his farm in grass and yet receives a satisfactory income." He had only an acre and a half in cultivated crops.

A flock of 61 ewes, three registered rams, five cows and some feeder cattle comprised the livestock on the farm. Lambs and wool returned $735; cattle, $415; calves, $70; whole milk, $300 and turkeys, $50. Eggs and vegetables also were sold.

Mr. King's principal crop was nine acres of alfalfa. For the last three years he has averaged only three and a third acres in cultivated crops. He does not grow tobacco, although he has a five-acre barn, in which he prefers to keep livestock and hay.

PLACEMENTS OF WORKERS SHOWS GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

Total replacements of workers in private industry and with private employers in June, while a decline of 19 percent as compared to May, showed a decided gain over June of last year, W. H. Fraysure, state director of the combined Kentucky State Employment and National Reemployment Services reported. During the month, 2,588 private placements were effected, a 165 percent increase over the June 1936 figure.

Of the total, 710, or 27 percent were made by the Kentucky State Service offices in Louisville and Frankfort. The balance, 1878, were effected by the ten National Reemployment Service districts.

Placements of all types numbered 5207 in June. Besides the private placements, 2598 placements on public works jobs and 21 WPA placements were made. All placements were divided among 4170 men and 1037 women.

Other activities for the statewide Service included the registering of 6484 new applicants; 5012 renewals of applications; and 15,963 reinterviews of former applicants. The file of those actively seeking work through the Employment Service in Kentucky numbered 137,066 as of June 30.

Industrial breakdown of the 2588 private placements shows 933 domestic and personal service workers; 332 building and construction workers; 332 manufacturing workers; 295 agricultural and mining workers; 279 workers in wholesale and retail trade; 249 professional workers; 125 commercial service workers and 43 workers in transportation and communication.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Farmers of the Bald Knob district in Franklin county are buying bluegrass seed cooperatively.

Preliminary reports on use of limestone and phosphate in Bracken county show increases in crop yields as high as 50 per cent.

Many farmers on Lost Creek in Breathitt county have signed to receive electricity when the line is laid.

In Knott county, acreages of grasses and clovers were doubled this year over previous totals.

At the Kentucky Jersey Cattle Club sale, held in Fayette county, 48 purebred heifers, cows and bulls were sold.

Johnson county farmers sold strawberries cooperatively at $2.40 per crate.

Low prices on feed for poultry have been received by Jackson county farmers who pooled their orders.

The Carlisle County Wool Growers' Association sold 29,682 pounds of wool, serving most of the counties in the Purchase.

Boyd county homemakers have put new seats made of Hong Kong grass in 9 walnut and cherry stools and chairs.

HUBERT MEREDITH

An acknowledged leader in his profession, Attorney General Hubert Meredith of Greenville is seeking the Democratic nomination for the office which he now holds. General Meredith, during the short time that he has served, has further established a reputation as an excellent lawyer.

General Meredith was appointed to succeed Beverly Vincent, who resigned to become Congressman from the 2nd Congressional District.

General Meredith has been a practicing attorney for thirty-three years. He was born in Warren county in 1880. He attended the Bowling Green city schools and later studied at the Western Kentucky State Normal School. He was admitted to the bar May, 1904.

He began the practice of law in Paintsville, Johnson County, where he remained one year. He then moved to Greenville, Muhlenberg County, which is now his home. In 1922, he was elected Commonwealths' Attorney in the 7th Judicial District. He served in this capacity until 1928. He established a reputation as one of the most vigorous prosecutors in the State.

General Meredith is a member of the Christian Church. He is a member of the Democratic State Central and Executive Committee from the 2nd District. He is also a member of the Kentucky Bar Association.

He was appointed Attorney General by Governor A. B. Chandler March 12, 1937. If nominated and elected, he will serve until December 31, 1939.

42 CAMPS OF CCC TO BE OPERATED IN STATE

Washington, D. C.—The Civilian Conservation Corps program for the first quarter of the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1937, provides for operation of forty-two camps in Kentucky, it was announced by Robert Fechner, director of the CCC.

Of this number, fourteen camps have been assigned to soil erosion control projects, eight to improvement and protection of nation forests, eight to private forest projects, four to state park projects, four to Mammoth Cave National Park, two to drainage projects, and one each to a state forest and a military reservation.

All of these camps are now in operation, and the conservation work which they will carry on under the three-year extension legislation approved by Congress June 24 will follow much the same lines as at present.

Approximately 800 enrollees will be working in Kentucky during the quarter beginning July, Mr. Fechner said.

WESTERN FARMERS TO MEET AT PRINCETON

Western Kentucky farmers have been invited by Supt. S. J. Lowry to inspect the work at the Agricultural Experiment Substation at Princeton on July 29. Grass, hay, tobacco, corn and other crops can be seen at that time and the results of soil treatments noted, including the application of limestone and phosphate. The orchard and vineyard also will be in bearing.

Short programs will include discussions of subjects relating to the farm and the home. Speakers include Mrs. T. M. Johnson, president of the Kentucky Federation of Homemakers, and Prof. George Roberts, Prof. A. J. Olney and other members of the Agricultural Experiment Station staff.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

In cases of heat prostration, send for a physician immediately. Be sure to loosen clothing and have patient lie down in a comfortable position and in a cool place. Sips of cold water may be given as well as stimulants, but no external cold applications should be applied.

IN THE SEWING ROOM

To mend lace curtains, baste tissue paper under the worn places in the curtain and darn or stitch back and forth on sewing machine, later removing the paper. Or cut a patch in an irregular shape, matching the pattern of curtain as nearly as possible and moisten in cold starch. Lay over hole in curtain and press. It will hold itself in place until curtain is again laundered.

4-H COUNCIL PLANS FOR FAIR

The Boone County 4-H and Utopia Club Council met at the Burlington courthouse, Tuesday evening to work out plans for the Fifth Annual 4-H and Utopia Free Fair and County Picnic to be held Saturday, August 21st.

The executive committee of the council consists of Prof. D. H. Norris, Chairman; John E. Crigler, Hebron 4-H delegate, Secretary; John Conner, Utopia Club delegate, Treasurer; Mrs. Vernon Pope Burlington 4-H club delegate; Mrs. Eunice Pettit, Florence 4-H club delegate; and Prof. R. V. Lents, Advertising Manager.

The general Council delegates are Mrs. E. E. Newman, Grant; Mrs. John L. Jones, Jr., Hamilton; Prof. Raymond Beverly, Walton; Miss Lana Lamn, Verona; Mr. J. F. Cleek, New Haven; George Cook, Petersburg and Mrs. Stella Z. Nichols, Taylorsport. The council is assisted by the County and Home Demonstration Agents and scores of adult leaders, officers, members and cooperators.

THE FARM AND HOME

(Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station)

In reorganizing farms, it is often found necessary to re-locate roads and lanes, especially where gullying has occurred in them. Private drivers should be located where they will result in the least damage to the farm.

Many women prefer day-old bread for making sandwiches. In preparing them for picnic lunches they should be wrapped in wax paper, packed away from other food, and covered with a slightly damp cloth if they are to be kept out-doors for some time.

In building, or in remodeling houses, give attention to closet space. Fewer and larger closets, carefully placed, with a window and artificial light, are now preferred by most homemakers. Some should contain cupboards and shelves.

Water and shade for livestock of all kinds are receiving attention by more farmers every year. Concrete tanks are appearing on many farms. Clean containers filled at least every day are considered essential for poultry.

Selling or penning up the roosters, gatherings eggs two or three times a day and then keeping them in cellars, caves or other cool places help to improve the quality of eggs. They should be taken to town at least twice a week.

Refrigerator don'ts: Don't put hot foods into the refrigerator; don't crowd the shelves and hinder free air circulation; don't open the door unnecessarily, and don't store things in the refrigerator that do not need refrigerating such as potatoes, canned goods and bananas.

HELP FOR THE COOK

When making baking powder biscuits you will find their flavor improved by the addition of a teaspoonful of sugar . . . Bacon will not shrink so much if dipped in cornmeal or flour before frying . . . Just sprinkle a little salt over food which has run over in the oven or on the stove and it will not smoke.

The Fleming County Strawberry Association sold 1,352 crates of berries for $3,374 gross.

CONSTANCE CLUB TO GIVE PICNIC AUG. 4

Everyone is invited to the Constance Homemakers' picnic Wednesday, Aug. 4th at Geo. Kottmyer's lawn. There will be plenty of games for both old and young.

Miss Mary Hood Gillaspie Home Demonstration Agent will give a talk. Bring your supper and enjoy the evening with this club.

DEVON

Mr. and Mrs. George Martin and Mrs. Maggie Glacken attended the home-coming at the Big Bone Christian Church.

Billy Gehring, of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, is spending his vacation with his uncle, Harry Dinn and family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Martin are entertaining their granddaughter, of Muncie, Ind.

Kenneth Stamper and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. James Pettit.

Miss Mary Butts and Ruby Mae Dinn and Mrs. Jessie Lee McCardle spent a very pleasant day at Coney Island Tuesday.

THE FLOWER GROWER

ATTEND TRUCK CROP MARKETING MEETING

J. H. Huey and H. R. Forkner, County Agent, attended a meeting to study truck crops marketing problems in Cincinnati called by the College of Agriculture on last Wednesday. Representatives of the College, leading farmers and County Agents of Northern Kentucky took part in the meeting.

It was generally agreed by those present that some progress in the market had been made during the past few years. The Cincinnati market was pointed out as having both advantages and disadvantages over other terminal markets. It is believed that much progress can be made thru improved practices in packing, delivering and selling on the market. A study will be made of these possibilities.

Leading Boone County growers seen on 12th Street Market, Wednesday night were John P. Dolwick, Alfred Dolwick and Earl McGlasson, all of Constance. All had full loads of fruits and vegetables that were skillfully and expertly prepared to bring top market prices.

MAUD WALTON

Mrs. Maud Walton, (nee Littrell) aged 50, wife of Marion Walton, died in their home on Friday morning, July 23, following a long illness from Carcimonia of the breast.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Littrell, of Florence and the wife of Marion Walton.

She leaves her father, mother, husband, two sons and 1 daughter and two brothers besides a number of relatives to mourn her passing.

Funeral services were conducted from the Beaver Baptist Church on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m. by her pastor, Roy Johnson in the presence of a concourse of relatives and friends. Burial in Hughes Chapel cemetery.

Chambers & Grubbs, Walton funeral directors had charge of the arrangements.

LATE LAMBS NEED WORM TREATMENT

Stomach worms in sheep are particularly severe this year. Thousands of Kentucky farmers who neglected to treat their flocks regularly with a reliable vermifuge have lambs that are already retarded in growth and development. When such lambs are sent to market they not only weigh less than they should for their age, but must go into the lower grades, with the result that the farmer gets less pounds and less money per pound. The unusually mild winter, together with much more rain during late spring and early summer than normally, made ideal conditions for heavy infestation of worms.

Most farmers can still grow their lambs out to profitable market weight and condition if they will begin treatment immediately. Treatment should be administered to the entire flock, both lambs and ewes. This treatment should be repeated in about 10 days, and monthly thereafter. Unless sheepmen generally begin treatment of their flocks, including the lambs, and continue such practice at regular intervals, the number of low grade and tail-end lambs this year will be abnormally large.

Sheepmen who are not familiar with methods of treating sheep for worms should consult their county farm agent or write to the Kentucky College of Agriculture for Extension Circular 152.

TYPEWRITER CONCERN HAS GUESSING CONTEST

In the window of the Covington Typewriter Sales & Service Co., 430 Madison avenue, is a jar filled with assorted beans. To the person guessing the nearest to the correct number of beans in the jar the company will give a new Corona Standard Portable Typewriter. The next five will each receive a $10 down payment order on typewriter, the next five each a $5 order and the next five a $2.50 order.

The jar was filled and sealed Friday by Miss Lorraine Ott, secretary to City Manager, Theodore Klumper, and Miss Ruth Nolan, member of the staff of Sam Furste, County Clerk, all of Covington.

Any person 14 years of age and over is eligible to be a contestant. There is nothing to do but look at the jar, make a guess and leave it at the store or mail it in. The contest will close Aug. 22.

ERLANGER FIREMEN'S PICNIC IS PLANNED

Chief Andy Scheben of the Erlanger Fire Department has announced that plans were being completed for the sixth annual been set for Saturday, Aug. 14.

The usual features are to be arranged, and refreshments will be served. The event will take place at the end of Bartlett avenue, near Lloyd High School, Erlanger.

Chief Scheben's announcement followed a meeting of the Volunteer Fireman at the City Building.

He said proceeds from the affair would be used to buy additional equipment for the department.

Another exciting game is to be riding at night, meet another car and guess which headlight is out.

MRS. ANNA HUMBLE

Mrs. Anna Humble passed away early Thursday morning at her home 57 Forest Ave., Erlanger, Ky., after a long illness. The remains were removed to the Taliaferro Funeral Home for preparation.

She is survived by her husband, Joseph H. Humble, one sister, Miss Flora Mette, and a number of other relatives and friends.

The pallbearers were Harry Lynch, C. W. Nagel, Robert Marston and Wm. Cronin.

Services were conducted Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by the Rev. J. N. Erwin, of Dayton, Ky., at the Taliaferro Funeral Home, interment following in Highland cemetery.

GARDEN GUIDELETS

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

Tomatoes—Letters have been coming in complaining about tomato fruit worm injury, and about the prevalence of mis-shapen fruit. As to the insect, the condition is due to improve, now that corn is silking out. The tomato fruit worm and the corn ear worm are the same, and fortunately for tomato producers, particularly those who grow the late crop, the insect seems to prefer corn. Knowing that the tomato fruit worm situation is about to be eased is small comfort for the men who have seen their early tomato profits dwindle, in fact, almost vanish, but they may take that much heart.

The mis-shapen fruit condition will also improve, as any gardener can see if he will examine the clusters now ripening. The improvement is being brought about by the weather. While the earlier fruits were being set, the season was rainy and the nights were cool. This interfered with pollenization. However, now that temperatures are more to the tomato's liking, symetrical fruit is resulting.

The Mexican Bean Beetle—At the risk of seeming to repeat, may it be said that the Mexican Bean Beetle is quite too well established for comfort, and for the likelihood of the later plantings of beans behaving satisfactorily. The insect crept up on us in rather more insidious fashion than usual, but it is nevertheless quite firmly established now, and, in some portions of the state will call on the very best efforts of the gardener to control it. Plantings protected now will produce beans in September; certainly, the pleasure of having beans then should not be foregone.

Fall Greens—August is coming apace, and with it the sowing of the late greens, kale and Seven Top turnip. One need not wait until August, however, but begin now to cover any vacant garden spots or rows that offer. While it is true that the risk of dry hot weather, and that of severe infestation of flea beetles and plant lice attend, it is also true that the showers with which much of Kentucky has been blessed all summer may continue, to drive the greens past danger of injury from these insects. Anyhow, the seed is inexpensive, and even though resowing may have to be done, there always remains the benefit from having cleaned up the garden debris, and the crab grass and the fox-tail that may have started after active cultivation of the garden crop was no longer necessary.

The kale variety is Dwarf Siberian. One ounce of seed of either kale and turnips will cover 600 square feet of space, 15 feet by 40, for example. Only the merest seed-bed preparation will suffice.

Gardeners who feel that the green chance is too wild to take, may clean up the harvested portions of the garden and in part set tomatoes, plants that were discarded when the main crop was set, and which, having stood stunted in the plantbed, are still small enough to bear setting. If they have grown tall and rangy, they should be set lying down in furrows 3 to 4 inches deep, just the growing tip exposed, and watered a time or two.

The tomatoes that result will certainly prove welcome, as gardeners know who must be satisfied with the under-sized and tart fruits that early-set plants produce toward the tend of the season. Another way to set overgrown tomato plants is to cut them back to the firs suck, to become the main stem.

Table Turnips—The late greens suggestion applies also to table turnips; late-July sowing have often made the best turnips. Too, seed of both the late greens and of turnips may lie in completely dry soil, until rains fall to sprout it. Purple Top Globe is the variety.
